JAPS IN ROUT AT SALAMAUA; ABANDON GUNS

Foe's Line Broken, Says MacArthur.

ALLIED HDQ. IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 12 [Sunday] (AP).—The Japanese at Salamaua, New Guinea, are withdrawing into that town, Gen. MacArthur announced today. The enemy abandoned hundreds of dead and also equipment, headquarters said.

Allied forces pursued the fleeing Japanese and the fall of Salamaua was regarded as imminent.

"Our southern forces have broken the enemy's line," the bulletin said.

"His troops are in full retreat, abandoning many hundreds of dead and much equipment, including artillery. His defenses in this area consisted of a series of strongly prepared positions on precipitous spurs and knolls.

U. S. Losses Light.

"Our losses in the attack, which was made after heavy artillery preparation, and during the entire Salamaua operation were light, amounting to only a small fraction of those inflicted upon the enemy. Our forces are pressing after the fleeing enemy."

Salamaua is on an isthmus two miles from the airdrome which the Japanese have been defending to the southwest of it. American and Australians have been within firing range of the airdrome for many weeks, one group even advancing to the field's southwestern edge.

While other forces have been closing in fast on Lae, 18 miles northwest of Salamaua, the reports from Salamaua heretofore have been briefly to the effect that pressure was being increased there.

Closing in on Lae.

At Lae, Australians who crossed the rain swollen Busu river, northeast of the air base and within two miles of the Malahang airdrome, have held the bridgehead against enemy counter-attacks, headquarters said today. The plight of the Japanese at Lae has been described as desperate.

Today's bulletin said the paratroop led forces which are moving down the Markham valley behind Lae and the seaborne forces which landed above it now are developing contact with main enemy defense positions. Previously, the reports have made only scant mention of opposition.

Avenger torpedo bombers and Dauntless dive bombers, escorted by fighters, delivered two heavy attacks on supplies and defenses at Vila, in the Solomons.

Start Fires at Kahili.

Three Japanese coastal guns were destroyed and many of the gun crews killed. Heavy damage was caused to Vila's airdrome, one of five still in Japanese hands in the Solomons.

At the biggest enemy airdrome in that section, Kahili on Bougainville, bombers set fuel dumps ablaze and started fires among grounded aircraft, while escorting fighters drove off 30 intercepting Japanese planes. Three of the interceptors were shot down and the Americans also lost three, but two pilots were saved.

Below Vila, within artillery range of that enemy garrison, the Japanese tried to check American occupation of Arundel Island by landing a force from barges at night, but were driven off.

VATICAN RADIO REPORTS POPE HAS AUDIENCES

New York, Sept. 11 [Special].—The Vatican radio said today, in a broadcast to Germany, that Vatican offices had continued their regular work and that the pope continued to give audiences but that precautions have been taken for stricter control of entry into Vatican City. The German language broadcast, as reported by the federal communications commission, said: "St. Peter's cathedral was closed during the last three days to avoid a possible rush of the panic-stricken population. It will be reopened tomorrow, Sunday."

HINT ASIA FRONT PUTS M'ARTHUR IN SECOND PLACE

BY JACK TURCOTT.

[Correspondent of the New York News.]

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Sept. 11.—Broad hints that Washington strategy anticipates subordinating Gen. MacArthur's Southwest Pacific command to give Adm. Mountbatten, supreme allied commander in southeast Asia, priority in the battle toward Tokio by way of India and Burma were dropped here today as the American senate subcommittee inspecting the war zones wound up a two day tour of New Guinea.

The most significant words came from Sen. James M. Mead of New York, normally regarded as echoing White House views.

Altho Senators Richard B. Russell of Georgia and Ralph O. Brewster of Maine disavowed knowledge of war strategy, Mead said "Now is the time to strike from India against Japan. Now is the moment, not tomorrow but today, to smash Japan from Asia."

Talks to Mountbatten.

Questioned about the possibility of building up MacArthur's comparatively small naval, air, and ground forces, Mead added:

"Italy's collapse opens up the Mediterranean and makes available added seaborne transportation for some additional supplies and men to this area."

Mead unwittingly stressed the word "some," evidencing that he does not expect either a decisive increase of material or a major role for MacArthur.

The New York senator made it plain that the committee had discussed war strategy with Mountbatten, then conferred with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek as well as Gen. Archibald Wavell, viceroy of India, both of whom are the most ardent advocates of giving first priority to India for the creation of a second front against Japan.

Republican Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts said: "I am not particularly impressed with the Burma road strategy. The opening of the Burma road in order to build up China's strength for an offensive against Japan appears to be faulty. I consider the Burma road unable to support sufficient forces inside China for a large scale operation."

MacArthur Once Supreme.

Sen. A. B. Chandler [D., Ky.] favors the building up of both China and MacArthur fronts. Lodge, however, thinks victory is achievable easiest by concentric blows against Japan from the Pacific. He cited the importance of the Philippines, once in American hands again, which is the focal point of MacArthur's strategy for conquering the Nipponese.

The Roosevelt-Churchill creation of Mountbatten's southeast Asia command caused considerable surprise in American Pacific military quarters because of Roosevelt's order in July, 1941, when MacArthur returned from retirement, appointing him commander of "United States forces in the far east" with the rank of lieutenant general. Roosevelt later promoted MacArthur to the rank of full general.

Repeats Nimitz Plan.

The far east obviously includes China, Thailand, French Indo-China, and Malaya, all of which have been described as part of Mountbatten's command, with Lt. Gen. Joseph Stilwell and Brig. Gen. Claire M. Chennault as probably as subcommanders.

Such a move apparently repeats the emasculation of MacArthur's jurisdiction which occurred when Adm. Chester W. Nimitz obtained operational control of the Solomons, New Caledonia, New Hebrides, and New Zealand.

Yanking New Zealand from MacArthur surprised even New Zealand Prime Minister Peter Nash, who sent a cable to the American general telling him that New Zealand's happiness was within an island federation under MacArthur.

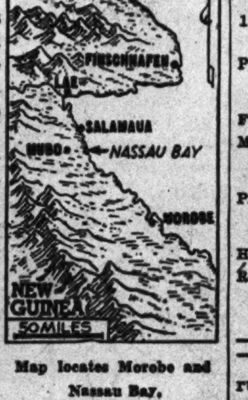
Gives His Life Taking Plasma to Wounded

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Sept. 8 [Delayed].—One of his friends told me about him.



Map locates Morobe and Nassau Bay.

"He was a wonderful piano player," he said. "He used to sit there with a cigaret drooping from one corner of his lip and pound away. He was one of the most popular guys in the outfit."

His general told me about him, too.

"They lost a lot of medical supplies at the Nassau bay landing," the general said. "So the next day we got an urgent message of a critical need for blood plasma and other things.

"2d Lt. Charles C. Keele of Detroit, Mich., and a couple of enlisted men volunteered to take a small boat at daylight and run from Morobe to Nassau bay. You must remember the Japs still considered it their air in that region then. They were about two hours out of Morobe when the Japs found them."

Gets Five Bullets.

Four Jap planes, the general went on, came screaming down with their guns blazing within 10 to 12 feet of the tiny boat, whose single machine gun chattered in a brief and useless defiance. Then the planes roared away, leaving Lt. Keele sprawled on the deck with five bullets in his stomach.

"He used to sail small boats back in Detroit," his friend said. "I think he worked in an insurance office."

So there he was, this man who used to fool around in the river with small boats on sunny weekends. The sun was shining now and he was still in a small boat. But this time there were five bullets inside of him and he was two hours away from medical aid at Morobe.

Refuses to Turn Back.

"His crew wanted to turn back to Morobe," the general said. "It was a four hour journey to Nassau bay from where they were. But Keele said no. He ordered them to proceed to Nassau 'because they need these medical supplies'."

So the crew made him as comfortable as it could. Then they made the run to Nassau as fast as the engines would turn.

The medical supplies, speedily unloaded, were used to treat the wounded at Nassau.

Keele was given emergency first aid treatment, and then the tiny boat began its long journey back, Keele still uncomplaining.

"We had an oxygen tent flown in," the general said. "We put him in it as soon as he arrived. But he died. The doctors said they might have saved his life if he had turned around as soon as he was hit."

No one said anything for a moment.

"We buried him at Morobe," the general said. "I wrote a letter to his wife, Eunice, telling her how he died. And I've recommended him for a distinguished service cross."

SWAMP YIELDS 50 TONS OF IRON BURIED 22 YEARS

Glenbeulah, Wis., Sept. 11 (AP).—One hundred thousand pounds of "swamp iron" which has been buried in a bog near here for 22 years, is on its way to the smelting furnaces to become guns or tanks.

In 1921 two cars of a Chicago and North Western railway freight train loaded with pig iron rolled over a branch line when the roadbed over the bogs, soaked by heavy rains, gave way.

At the time engineers figured the salvage cost would be prohibitive, but with the nation's war industries crying for iron, R. L. Williams, chief executive officer of the railway, recently directed that salvage be attempted. It required only two days.

Tribune Joins U.S. Treasury in Navy Show

Plans have been completed for a "Back the Attack" United States navy show to be presented in Tribune Square by the treasury department in coöperation with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The opening date will be announced soon.

A great variety of navy, marine, and coast guard equipment—some of it recently removed from the secret list and never before seen by the public—will be displayed in Nathan Hale court between Tribune Tower and the W-G-N building, in the lobby of the Tower, and in the two parking lots between the Tower and the river.

925,000 at 2 Earlier Shows.

With the tremendously successful ordnance and air shows as examples of the people's interest in the equipment with which their sons and husbands and brothers are winning the war, and with the known enthusiasm of the midwest for everything naval, every effort is being made to make the navy show a worthy successor to the two earlier ones. Together, these two shows attracted more than 925,000 persons and made Tribune Square one of the busiest summer gathering places in the city.

The navy exhibit will include late model navy planes and plane engines, a coast guard surf boat and other life saving equipment, the "Y" gun for depth charges and other guns of various sizes, torpedoes and torpedo tubes, mines and shells, medical and emergency equipment, a diver's suit, a breeches buoy and a host of other items.

Plan Combat Ships in River.

Also, plans are being worked out for an actual exhibit of modern combat ships in the Chicago river adjacent to Tribune Square.

The navy exhibit will be free to the public and will be staffed by uniformed experts capable of demonstrating the equipment.

On display will be Japanese trophies from Guadalcanal. The type of combat uniform which the marines wore in that battle will be on exhibit. Also types of carbines, machine guns, and other arms they used.

Italy Surrender Terms Protect Greeks' Rights

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AP).—Prime Minister Emmanuel Tsouderos of the Greek government in exile said today that his government was consulted on terms for Italy's surrender and was represented at the signing of the pact. "Greek interests are protected," he said in a broadcast to Greece.

GENERAL HAILS BIG ADDITION TO ALLIES' POWER

Now We'll Hit Japs, Says Briton.

BY CLARK LEE.

[Representing the combined United States press; distributed by the Associated Press.]

ABOARD BRITISH DESTROYER HAMBLETON IN THE MEDITERRANEAN, Sept. 11 (AP).—A dramatic climax to Britain's four year battle for control of the Mediterranean was staged yesterday aboard this ship when Adm. Andrew Browne Cunningham, who commanded the British fleet thru the long struggle, watched a strong battle unit of the Italian navy pass in review formation.

Adm. Cunningham.

At Adm. Cunningham's side on the destroyer's bridge was Gen. Eisenhower, allied commander in chief in the Mediterranean theater.

Their mighty guns silenced and a black pennant, the agreed on sign of surrender, flying from their masts, two Italian battleships, five cruisers, and four destroyers slid into Malta in the wake of British escort vessels.

"Ike" Elated Over Surrender.

Both Adm. Cunningham and Gen. Eisenhower were elated at the tremendous addition to the allied fleet, which cleared the Mediterranean of hostile naval forces and altered the global balance of seapower by freeing British and American ships to fight Japan.

On a smaller scale the surrender scene was repeated in several parts of the Mediterranean yesterday.

Adm. Cunningham said Italian submarines were "popping up all over the place to surrender."

The admiral later issued the following message:

"The Italian battle fleet is now anchored under the guns of Malta."

Eisenhower Hails Admiral.

Gen. Eisenhower, after giving the admiral a hearty handshake, said:

"My congratulations to you and all the forces under your command on the happy and conclusive ending of your four-year campaign against the Italian navy."

There was a majestic and triumphant and yet somber quality about the scene unequaled since the German fleet was scuttled at Scapa Flow, but even more portentous.

Scapa Flow came at the end of one war. The Italian surrender ends only one battle, but signals the beginning of a new phase in the Pacific war where these ships undoubtedly will play key roles.

Ships in First Class Shape.

You gathered that Cunningham would have admired the Italians more if their navy had fought it out with the British instead of surrendering, but he made no attempt to hide his joy as he said:

"This is a great day for us. This cleans up the Mediterranean. The Italian ships are in good order, absolutely first class, especially the battleships and new cruisers."

"Can you use them, Admiral?" I asked.

"You bet we can," Gen. Eisenhower put in, and Adm. Cunningham added:

"The armistice provides we can do what we like with them."

Heavy Ships to Hit Japan.

"Will this enable our heavy ships to turn their attention to Japan?" he was asked.

"Definitely, yes," he answered.

A signalman flashed a message from Adm. Cunningham giving the Italian officers news of the other ships—two battleships, two cruisers, and two destroyers—which had just surrendered at Malta.

When I asked Cunningham if he were not afraid the Italians might start shooting, he said he had a captain "aboard the lead cruiser to see that they don't take a wrong turn."

Expect More of Italy's Ships to Join Allies

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 11—Italy's powerful battle fleet has surrendered virtually intact. Four battleships, seven cruisers and six destroyers already are safely buttoned up at Malta, while the balance of the Italian warships are expected any moment at other allied ports.

Joy over this latest addition to the United States and British naval forces in the Mediterranean was tempered somewhat, because at least one of Italy's most modern battlewagons, the 35,000 ton Roma, was sunk by a powerful German bomber force Thursday.

[London heard reports that two more cruisers, six destroyers, and two auxiliary aircraft carriers had reached allied ports, making a total of 27 ships in allied hands. The allied radio at Palermo, Sicily, put the total at 35. A dispatch from Palma de Mallorca said seven additional Italian warships stopped at Spain's Balearic Islands to land survivors of the Roma, most of whose crew of 1,600 was reported lost. The ships, said to be en route to surrender at Gibraltar, were given 24 hours to leave but may ask an extension to make repairs. The German radio identified the vessels as a cruiser and six destroyers. It said they were interned.]

Flyers See Battleship Sunk.

Destruction of the Italian battleship, which sank in a very few minutes, was witnessed by the crew of an R. A. F. reconnaissance plane which was keeping the fleet under observation as it steamed down the west coast of Corsica.

The ability with which the German bombers, despite the intense anti-aircraft fire from the entire Italian formation, were able to sink this newest type battleship was taken here as further evidence supporting the theory that bombers have greatly reduced the effective-

BADOGLIO AND KING TELL ITALIANS TO WAR ON GERMANS

New York, Sept. 11 (AP).—Marshal Pietro Badoglio and King Victor Emmanuel tonight urged the Italian people to abide by the terms of the armistice and to defend the nation against German attacks.

The appeals were made in proclamations read over an unidentified radio station and reported by the United States foreign broadcast intelligence service.

Badoglio recalled his orders of Sept. 8 and continued:

"Now the German armed forces immediately after the armistice have by violence occupied towns and ports and are carrying out acts of aggression against us on land, on the sea, and in the air.

"Italians! The moment is very grave and only virile decisions can save Italy. You thus will have the certainty of having done your duty toward your country."

The king's proclamation said:

"For the safety of the capital, so as fully to be able to do my duties as king, I have moved with the government and high military authorities to another point of the national territory.

"Italians! I am counting on you in all circumstances just as you can count on the utmost sacrifice by your king. May God help Italy in this grave hour of her history."

The proclamations, according to the broadcast, were signed by the premier and monarch and dated today, indicating the two leaders had reached safety, possibly an allied camp.

AGREES TO FULL SURRENDER OF ARMY AND NAVY

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 11 (AP).—Italy has agreed to surrender immediately French Corsica, transfer its naval and air units to allied territory, hand over all allied nations prisoners, and allow its merchantmen to be used in the war against Germany under the terms of the armistice, disclosed here tonight.

The armistice, signed by representatives of Gen. Eisenhower and Marshal Pietro Badoglio on Sept. 3 and announced Sept. 8, provides:

1. Immediate cessation of all hostile activity by Italian armed forces.

2. Italy will use its best endeavors to deny to the Germans facilities that might be used against the allied nations.

3. All prisoners or internees of the allied nations to be immediately turned over to the allied commander in chief and none of these may now or at any time be evacuated to Germany.

Transfer All Ships.

4. Immediate transfer of the Italian fleet and Italian aircraft to such points as may be designated by the allied commander in chief, with details of disarmament to be prescribed by him.

5. Italian merchant shipping may be requisitioned by the allied commander in chief to meet the need of a military-naval program.

6. Immediate surrender of Corsica and all Italian territory, both islands and the mainland, to the allies, for such use as operational bases and other purposes as the allies may see fit.

7. Immediate guarantee of free use by the allies of all air fields and naval ports in Italian territory, regardless of the rate of evacuation of Italian territory by the German armet forces. These ports and fields are to be protected by Italian armed forces until this function is taken over by the allies.

Withdraw All Forces.

8. Immediate withdrawal to Italy of Italian armed forces from all participation in the current war from whatever area wherein they may now be engaged.

9. A guarantee by the Italian government that if necessary it will employ all available armed forces to insure the prompt and exact compliance with all provisions of this armistice.

10. The commander in chief of the allied forces reserves to himself the right to take any gesture which in his opinion may be necessary for the protection of interests of the allied forces for prosecution of the war, and the Italian government binds itself to take such administrative or other agencies as the commander in chief may require. In particular, the commander in chief will establish an allied military government over such parts of Italian territory as he may deem necessary in the military interests of the allied nations.

Other Conditions to Follow.

11. The commander in chief of the allied forces will have the full right to impose means for disarmament, demobilization, and demilitarization.

12. Other conditions of a political, economic, and financial nature with which Italy will be bound to comply will be transmitted at a later date.

13. The conditions of the present armistice will not be made public without prior approval of the allied commander in chief. The English will be considered the official text.

YANKS TAKE SALERNO

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 11 (AP).—American 5th army forces, hurling back German armored untis to expand their holdings around Naples in the heightening battle of Italy, have captured the port of Salerno, allied headquarters announced today.

HELD IN BRITISH PRISON 2 YEARS, SAYS AMERICAN

No Charge Filed; Tricked Into Joining Army.

New York, Sept. 11 [Special].—This is the strange story of Dr. Andrew R. Ingrao, an Italo-American physician who has just revealed for the first time how he was held a prisoner for almost 2 years by the secret military machinery of Great Britain without a formal charge being filed against him.

Dr. A. R. Ingrao.

Freed at last after 23 months of what he describes as harrowing experience in prisons in England, Dr. Ingrao today is living in New York City at the home of a sister, Mrs. Diana Ingrao Rizzo, at 2415 Creston avenue.

Dr. Ingrao now is 48 years old. He received his degree of M. D. from the University of Naples in 1924. Because of his anti-Fascist activities he was forced to flee for his life from Italy in 1929. He came to America that year and, in this country on Dec. 13, 1937, he became an American citizen, as is attested by naturalization certificate 4219909 on file in the state department's offices in Washington, D. C.

Agrees to Help British.

In February, 1941, according to his account, an agreement was reached between the Mazzini society and the British war office, thru British representatives in New York, to send 12 members of the society, including Ingrao, to India to propagandize and recruit among Italian war prisoners there. The purpose of this, he says, was to form a legion of free Italians to fight on the side of the allies.

"Subsequent events, however, proved that in making the agreement the British authorities were not sincere," says Dr. Ingrao. "They had a scheme which consisted in luring a number of Americans into Britain with the mirage of a Free Italian legion, rob them, if necessary, of their American nationality and consular protection, and then compel them to undertake another mission."

Ingrao went to England by the way of Canada. He and his companions reached the British Isles on April 18, 1941, aboard a British troopship. There, says the doctor, he was asked if he and his companions would be willing to take an assignment other than the one originally agreed upon.

Told to Join Army.

"I answered," says Ingrao, "that we would never give up the mission entrusted to us by the anti-Fascists in America. We were then deceived thru an act of trickery. We were told officially that we would be sent to India to carry out our mission, but that to do so it would be necessary for us to enlist in the British army because we could not go among war prisoners as civilians. I replied that we would not enlist because most of us were American citizens; that we intended to return to America if our mission failed, and that we were not prepared to undertake military service.

"At this point I was assured that our enlistment would be a 'mere formality,' which would not affect our American nationality, our privilege to quit the army at any time we desired, or our determination to do only the work agreed upon in America."

This same assurance, Ingrao says, was given formally and officially by a colonel of the British war office. Taking this as sufficient guarantee, the members of the mission from America, according to the doctor, enlisted in the British army on April 22.

Taken to Military Camp.

"We were uniformed and taken to a military camp, where we were treated as prisoners," continues Ingrao. "My companions were subjected to interviews, persuasion, and pressure by the British to make them consent to go on another mission. As they stood firm in their refusal it was decided to get rid of me, in the belief that if they were deprived of my leadership they would yield. I was shown a faked cablegram supposed to be from the secretary of the Mazzini society. It read: 'Please return Dr. Ingrao to America because he is needed here owing to the arrival of Pacciardi.'"

Pacciardi, Dr. Igrao explains, had been designated as the commander of the legion of free Italians. He was in Algeria when the doctor left America, the latter says, and did not reach the United States until about a year later.

After this Ingrao was separated from his companions, according to his account, and made to believe that he was to be returned to America.

Removed to Prison.

"Instead," he says, "I was taken to a prison in England as an 'alien' and served with an order of detention, signed by the home secretary and stating that my return to America 'would be prejudicial to the efficient prosecution of the war.' I still possess the original order. I was stripped of everything but my suit and eyeglasses and locked in a cell for 23 hours of each day. This imprisonment began June 10, 1941.

"At once I started writing to the American consulate in London and to my friends and relatives in America. I even wrote to a local lawyer in an effort to engage his services. When my letters remained unanswered I realized that I was cut off from the outside world.

"In the meantime I was transferred to another prison, where I was subjected to cruelty. On the slightest pretext I was put on bread and water rations—three slices of bread a day for several days at a time. Once, upon remarking that I was entitled to be treated less brutally, if only because of my being an American, I was told: 'America is cowardly, selfish, and parasitic because she has Britain and Russia doing the fighting for her.' When America entered the war, however, my treatment did not improve.

Visited by Officer.

"A colonel visited me in the September following my imprisonment and told me in a round-about manner that my former companions from America had stood firm and would be sent to India after being discharged from the British army.

"I asked permission to rejoin them, but this was refused. The British authorities, however, the colonel told me, had decided to treat me 'like a human being' and intern me in an Italian concentration camp on the condition that I conceal my American nationality and anti-Fascist views. I was supposed to tell those in camp that I had been an Italian living in France; that I had joined, as an auxiliary M. D., the French army for humanitarian reasons; that I had come to England with the Free French forces and had remained for two years, but that now I had been discharged because of my Italian nationality and was being held in camp pending a decision in my case by the British authorities.

"This story which I told in the camp aroused the suspicions of the Fascist elements there. They decided to attack me when night came. Fortunately, however, some one informed the camp authorities and I was locked up in a cell for my own protection. The next day the Fascist prisoners paraded before my cell, calling me spy, traitor, and informer. That day I was returned to the prison from which I had come.

Suffers in Prison Cell.

"The winter of 1941 broke the record for cold. I was the only prisoner occupying a cell on the mountain side. Asking to be transferred to the sea side, where it was warmer, I was refused, altho there were 18 empty cells on the sea side. The exposure seriously affected my health. My mental agony, however, was worse than my physical suffering. I was refused permission to send Christmas and New Year's cablegrams to my relatives."

It was upon Jan. 26, 1942, that Dr. Ingrao, according to his account, finally succeeded in having a letter smuggled to the American consul in London. The letter related the circumstances of the doctor's imprisonment.

The consul, the doctor relates, applied to the British authorities for his release, but was told that the prisoner, having taken the oath of allegiance to Great Britain, no longer was an American citizen.

The letter in the end brought results that led to the prisoner's release. Thru the smuggler of the letter Ingrao, according to his account, was informed by the consul later that his case had been before the American state department since March 11, 1942. On the following May 7 the consul wrote, at Ingrao's request, to the secretary of the Mazzini society to inform his relatives of his detention in prison and his inability to write.

Informed of New Law.

"At the end of June," Ingrao continues, "the consul, replying to another smuggled letter, informed me that 'a new law had been passed, providing that people who had lost their citizenship in circumstances similar to yours can regain it by taking a new oath of allegiance to the American constitution before a consular officer.'

"On Sept. 9 I smuggled another letter out, requesting the consul to apply to the British authorities for permission to have me escorted by him to take the oath of allegiance. Back came this reply thru the hands of the letter smuggler: 'Your letter has been referred for action to the consulate at Cardiff, because you are in the Cardiff consular district.'

"I was transferred on Oct. 23 to still another prison. On the same day I wrote directly to the consul and, to my relief, got an answer. On Nov. 24 I was escorted to the consul and took the oath of repatriation. The papers then were sent to Washington, along with my application for a passport. In February, 1943, a reply came from America and the consul immediately applied to the British authorities for my return to the United States.

Leaves Prison as a Wreck.

"It was as a physical wreck that I left prison on April 24, after 23 months of suffering. The British inflicted a final outrage upon me by transferring me handcuffed from the prison to the ship in a British port. They also refused to pay me $3,058 which they owed me, according to the agreement made in America. They had promised to give me the pay of a Canadian lieutenant—$4.35 a day.

"When I arrived in America, after a 22 day trip at sea, I found that my relatives had been told by the British authorities that I had been unable to write to them because I was on a secret mission. After they had been informed thru the American consul of my detention they had been told by the British authorities that I was being held because of my possession of important military secrets. Both explanations were false. I actually had been detained for fear that I would tell how unfair Great Britain had been to me and my companions."

Ingrao says his original companions on the mission were sent to India, but were not given an opportunity to carry out their work. After America entered the war they were requested, he adds, either to reënlist or to go to work at 10 annas [20 cents] a day. Those who refused, he relates, were interned in a concentration camp.

"Much Improved"

HELEN HAYES.

New York, Sept. 11 (AP).—Actress Helen Hayes was reported in "much improved" condition at Doctors' hospital today, 24 hours after undergoing an operation there. Sponsors of the play "Harriet," in which Miss Hayes was starred, announced the play, suspended last Monday because of her illness, would be resumed Oct. 4.

PLOT TO OVERTHROW MEXICO GOVERNMENT NIPPED; 7 ARRESTED

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 11.—A plot to overthrow the Avila Camacho government was said by today's press to have been discovered by police and military authorities. Jose A. Inclan, asserted leader of the movement, and six other would-be revolutionaries were arrested.

The conspirators are said to have admitted under questioning by the federal general attorney that they were part of a small group which had ramifications in some states and that orders already had been given to start the revolt on Sept. 16, when Mexico celebrates the 133d anniversary of her independence.

One of the leaders was said to be a self-appointed general called Magdaleno Contreras, who was killed a few days ago in a fight with federal troops near Chinameca, State of Morelos. Contreras was succeeded by Inclan who assumed title of "President of the Mexican froces of liberty and of the nationalistics party." This group, led by Contreras, organized a highway robbery on Aug. 15, when they held up about 50 autoists between Guernavaca and Cuautla to obtain money with which to finance the rebellion.

ARMY UNIFORM, $350 TAKEN.

Army Lt. George H. Lintemuth, 14 West Elm street, asked police yesterday to look for an army staff sergeant to whom he offered a night's lodging and who then walked out with an officer's uniform and $350.

drove steadily inland to widen the Naples wedge, and headquarters declared that the bridgehead was firmly established.

Crack German armored units unleashed several more fierce counterattacks against Gen. Clark's troops at Salerno, but these were beaten back by the allies, who pushed on with the assistance of smashing aerial fleets and of big guns of naval vessels lying offshore.

Wipe Out Nazi Pockets.

Headquarters said several pockets of enemy resistance had been wiped out around Salerno, and that the prisoners taken, all of them Germans, now total several hundred.

[A Berlin broadcast recorded in London said American troops had made a new landing on the Sorrento peninsula, south of Naples, which separates Salerno bay from the bay of Naples. Another German broadcast admitted the capture of Salerno by the Americans and said their landing was made north of Paestum, which is 23 miles south of Salerno. The Germans said some ground had been regained in fierce counter-attacks and that a heavy cruiser, a 9,000 ton transport and six large landing boats were sunk at Salerno by Nazi planes.]

American 5th army units were said officially to have borne the brunt of German resistance during the Salerno landings. British units, which landed with little opposition some distance away, were attacked later by German tanks, but these enemy forces were repulsed.

Take Island Off Naples.

A small allied force landed on the Island of Ventotene off Naples, where the Germans surrendered after a stiff fight. Ninety-one Germans were captured. The Italians offered no opposition.

Official reports said the allied aerial assaults have prevented "the enemy from getting reënforcements over badly battered highways and railroads" to the Naples area.

In addition to knocking out German reënforcement lines in a 60 mile arc around Naples, the allied air forces attacked Nazi land convoys moving northward toward the Naples-Salerno area, headquarters said. This would indicate that the Germans may be withdrawing from areas farther south to escape being cut off and perhaps to hurl more weight against the 5th army bridgehead.

The British 8th army in the south met scant opposition and plunged forward at a faster pace in spite of demolitions. Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery's forces now hold virtually all of the territory south of the bottleneck formed by the Gulf of Squillace and the Gulf of Santa Eufemia—the entire lower section of the Italian toe.

In this area they reached a line thru the town of Maida, 70 miles from Italy's southern tip and only about 15 miles from the rail and road center of Catanzaro.

At Taranto, inside the heel, British troops completed their occupation of the town and naval base.

[Radio France at Algiers said the British were moving ahead from Taranto in three directions.]

American A-36 Invader dive bombers attacking northbound enemy land convoys were credited officially with destroying at least 100 trucks and damaging 200 more on the road between Lagonegro and Auletta, north of Sapri.

Allied planes of the North African air forces downed a total of 18 enemy planes in 24 hours against a loss of 10 of their own.

American Liberators from middle east bases struck for the second consecutive day at satellite airdromes at Foggia, across the Italian peninsula from Naples, a Cairo bulletin disclosed. The four engined bombers shot down one of several enemy fighters which attacked them and all returned safely to their base.

American Flying Fortresses from North Africa, splitting into smaller formations than usual, pounded a dozen key road and rail centers near the Naples-Salerno battlefields and blasted the Ariano region astride the main rail line connecting two principal coastal systems 50 miles north of Naples.

Still other Fortresses ripped up highways in the area east of Benevento, Rochetta San Antonio, Montelcone Di Puglia, and between Grottaminardo and Ariano Irpino. They also scored damaging hits on the rail bridge near Cancello and on bridges at Boiano and one over the Tiber river.

Encounter No Opposition.

The Fortress crews reported that they encountered no enemy fighter opposition and little anti-aircraft fire.

The only allied planes to run into enemy resistance during yesterday's widespread daylight sweeps were Mitchell medium bombers which were attacked by 10 to 12 Messerschmitt 109s while bombing a truck convoy near Casanuova. The Mitchell gunners shot down five of the formation and the others fled.

Over the Salerno battle area, however, allied pilots counted 127 enemy planes, only a small number of which gave fight. Allied Spitfires shot down eight of these.

ALBANIA GIVEN TO BULGARIA BY NAZIS FOR AID, SAYS SOFIA

BERNE, Switzerland, Sept. 11 (AP).—Germany has offered Albania to Bulgaria in exchange for fuller collaboration and the services of the Bulgarian army in the Balkans, and Bulgarian troops are already crossing the Albanian border, a Sofia dispatch to the Gazette De Lausanne said today. German troops were reported disarming Italian garrisons in Albania, which Italy seized in 1939.

The dispatch said Bulgarian Premier Bogdan Philov's announcement of the Nazi offer to the national assembly Thursday provoked a stormy session in which the opposition accused Philov's party of ignoring the wishes of the people.

A Budapest dispatch to the Neue Zuercher Zeitung said Croatia was drawing closer to Germany. Rightist Chetniks in northern Dalmatia as well as leftist partisans, who always were anti-Italian, participated in action in the Jugo-Slavian coastal areas against the Italians. Approximately 7,000 Italian troops in and near Karlovac were disarmed.

ESCAPED RAPIST IN CUSTODY OF ARMY OFFICIALS

Los Angeles, Calif., Sept. 11 [Special].—Pvt. George P. Rimke, who escaped from March field Thursday night to consult a civil attorney for help in appealing his life imprisonment sentence on a charge of attacking Lina Basquette, former film actress, was back in military custody today after surrendering to army authorities, but his case was the subject of an extensive military inquiry.

S. S. Hahn, from whim Rimke sought legal aid, conferred at March field today with Capt. Albert H. Lewis, provost marshal. Hahn maintained the private is entitled to a review of his case by an army board. He says Rimke denies attacking Miss Basquette, tho he stole her car and robbed her of $10.

Miss Basquette has said that she believes the life term given Rimke after a one day court martial is "just what he deservies." Rimke, however, called it "too stiff a rap."

ARRESTED ON CHECK CHARGE.

HIGH SPEEDS CUT TRIB-BUNA TIRE'S LIFE 45 PER CENT

50 M.P.H. Test Shows Greater Wear.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 11.—An increase of speed from 35 to 50 miles an hour cut 45 per cent from the life expectancy of Trib-buna treads in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE tire test. At the faster pace, the synthetic casings would become bald at 55 per cent of the mileage which would wear them smooth at the slower rate of travel.

At 50 miles an hour the Trib-buna, chemically identical to the government's standard buna S synethic, can be expected to retain a nonskid design for 15,027 miles. At 35 miles an hour, the expectation is 27,280 miles.

These figures were calculated today from tread measurements after a thousand miles of 50 mile an hour driving and a thousand miles of 35 mile an hour driving on smooth highways of Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan, and Iowa in a Buick passenger car.

Results Are No Discredit.

The technique of recording was one taught THE TRIBUNE'S road crew by Don C. Waugh, veteran of Goodyear Tire and Rubber company research.

The results, showing the high rubber cost of speed, had been anticipated. They are no discredit to America's new synthetic industry in which 800 million dollars of your income tax and war bond money are invested. The rate of wear on natural rubber likewise jumps when speeds are stepped up.

With pre-war tires the mileage at 50 is approximately 61 per cent of the mileage at 35. This is a loss of 39 per cent in the life of the tread charged to fast driving. In peace time motorists paid this price for rapid travel.

With either natural or synthetic rubber, the higher speed increases the impacts. A more important factor, however, is that, as flexes become more rapid, there is a rise in heat from friction internal and external.

Heat Softens Rubber.

The higher temperature softens rubber, reducing resistance to road shocks and abrasion. Synthetic develops heat faster and radiates it more slowly than natural rubber. This explains why an increase from 35 to 50 miles an hour on synthetics costs 45 per cent of the tread life, whereas the same acceleration with natural rubber takes only 39 per cent of the tread life.

The reckoned life expectancy of 15,000 miles for a Trib-buna tread doing 50 is about three years of average usage under gasoline rationing.

SEE GERMANS TRYING TO WIN ITALIANS' AID

Nazis Indicate Nation Balks at Rule.

BY P. E. BRIQUET.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERNE, Switzerland, Sept. 11.—Germany is making an effort to capture Italy's support as well as its territory. That is the situation as it appeared to observers at this observation point today.

News reaching here indicated, however, that the military situation is developing more slowly than Germany claims. For instance, there was no confirmation of Nazi reports that Turin and the Franco-Italian Alps are in German hands, nor was there any indication that the Italians are not the masters south of the Swiss border in the Varese and Como regions. These Italian forces are small, however, and Nazi forces are expected to reach the Swiss frontier at any time.

A Swiss telegraphic agency report from Chiasso said that British, French, and Greek prisoners who had escaped from prison camps passed thru Como where they were cheered by the population.

Italian Forces Still Strong.

The Basle newspaper, Nationalzeitung, said that Italian forces are still strong in central Italy between Florence and Naples and outside of Rome "had some chance to establish contact with the allies."

Under such conditions the political stand taken by the Italians was said to have assumed unmistakable importance. The Berlin correspondent of the Basle Nachrichten said that the "Mass of the Italian army is not entirely behind Premier Pietro Badoglio."

Other German efforts to arouse Italian feeling nationally in favor of the axis were noticeable in the rumors spread by the official German news agency, DNB, that Badoglio, King Victor Emmanuel, and Crown Prince Humbert had fled to Sicily and that Mussolini had been turned over to the allies in Africa.

Nazis Threaten Force.

On the other hand the Germans also have threatened to use an iron fist in Italy. Another dispatch to the Basle Nachrichten from Berlin quoted "a Wilhelmstrasse mouthpiece" as saying that the "Italian masses will feel the consequences of their treason next winter. Where traitors are found we shall be hard."

The correspondent assumed that this was an economic threat directed at offsetting the moral effect of allied food and relief.

He also stated that Germany does not consider the time yet ripe to unveil the membership of the new Fascist government.

Well informed Italian sources in Switzerland said they doubted that Germany would "actually introduce a new Fascist government, but rather prefers to take the whole situation into its own hands. This is most probable in the event that Italian troops do not join the Germans in great numbers."

Winant's Son Promoted to First Lieutenancy

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AP).—John G. Winant Jr., 21 year old son of the American ambassador to England, has been promoted to first lieutenant. The former Princeton freshman, a Flying Fortress pilot, has been on six raids.

Bulletins on War in Italy

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 11 (AP).—An allied war bulletin said today:

The 5th army continued to establish itself on the Italian mainland, beating off several German counter-attacks.

The port of Salerno has been captured and steady progress inland is being made.

The 8th army maintained its rate of advance.

British forces continued their occupation of Taranto.

During the night of Sept. 9-10 and during yesterday heavy, medium, and light bombers and fighter bombers of the northwest African air force have attacked railway and road junctions, bridges, and air fields around the Naples area. Fighter bombers destroyed a large number of motor vehicles on the road north of Lagonegro.

Battle Nazi Planes.

Fighters had a number of engagements with enemy aircraft in the Naples area.

The attack was continued last night by night bombers which bombed the road junction of Formia in the Naples area.

In all these operations and during patrols and reconnaissance, 18 enemy aircraft were destroyed. Ten of our aircraft are missing.

It is now confirmed that in the attack of Sept. 7 on the landing grounds at Foggia, a further 27 enemy aircraft were destroyed in combat by heavy bombers.

GERMAN.

The German war bulletin as broadcast from Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press follows:

German measures against the treason committed by the Badoglio government almost everywhere in the Balkans, upper Italy and southern France yielded planned results.

The majority of the Italian armed forces in these areas have already laid down their arms and handed them over to German troops. At all those places where Italian commanders previously informed of the Badoglio treason were ordered to fight against German troops and even started fighting, the resistance was energetically and rapidly overcome.

At some places struggles with minor formations are still going on. Many Italian formations joined the German troops in order to continue the fight against the enemy the same as before.

An Italian naval formation intending to join the enemy side was spotted by German bomber and torpedo-carrying planes in the western Mediterranean. German air formations sank one battleship and scored such serious hits upon a cruiser and destroyer that these ships also can be considered lost.

Early Sept. 9, strong British and American contingents landed in the bight of Salerno. They were immediately attacked by German troops. The battle is in full swing. The Germans inflicted most serious losses in men, material and ships to these landing formations.

According to incomplete reports, many transports having a total tonnage of more than 200,000 tons, and numerous men-of-war as well as large quantities of landing craft were partly and devastatingly hit.

One heavy cruiser, a 9,000-ton transport and six large size landing vessels sank immediately after receiving direct bomb hits.

Report Rhodes Seized.

The disarmament of the Italian Badoglio army will shortly be concluded. At all those points where resistance is being offered, our troops proceed in an energetic manner. Italian troops of occupation on the island of Rhodes capitulated after an attack carried out by Stukas.

Royal Italian formations stationed around Rome in the strength of two tank and five infantry divisions as disclosed in a special announcement laid down their arms deeply impressed by the energetic German measures. Our troops occupied Milan, Turin and Padua. The naval fortress of Pola was handed over.

German troops in the area of Salerno waged a violent battle against strong British and North American formations. The heights east of the coastal depression are in the hands of our troops. The enemy suffered serious losses in men and material.

The luftwaffe [air force], carrying out raids against naval targets and landed enemy troops in the gulf of Salerno, sank several transports and landing vessels. Numerous ships were seriously damaged.

Some few enemy planes penetrated into the coastal area of occupied western zones yesterday [Friday]. One enemy aircraft was downed.

MRS. ROOSEVELT SEES YANKS IN LANDING TESTS

IN AUSTRALIA, Sept. 11 (AP).—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt today watched grim faced soldiers from Iowa, Minnesota, and other states drive onto the beach in waves from boxlike boats in landing practice.

Some carried rifles and bayonets, other were dragging steel wire matting for roadways, and still others were splashing thru the water in jeeps and bulldozers.

Mrs. Roosevelt was so interested that she asked to see the actual positions as ultimately established by the men who raced inland from the beach.

Ex-Soldier Cleared in Girl Worker's Death

Lie detector tests yesterday cleared Bennie J. Berlinski, 33 years old, of all suspicion in connection with the murder of Miss Phyllis Blair, 23, a war plant worker, who was fatally slugged near her home at 4937 North Hoyne avenue, nearly two months ago. Berlinski, an ex-soldier, who gave his address as 4459 Woodlawn avenue, is being held for an attempted attack on a young woman.

KING, PREMIER, CROWN PRINCE IN SICILY, SAY NAZIS

Report Most of Italy in German Hands.

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AP).—The Germans claimed today to have consolidated their position in upper Italy, the Balkans, and southern France, and asserted that more than 200,000 men of the Italian army had surrendered their arms to Nazi troops.

They also reported that King Victor Emanuel, Premier Pietro Badoglio, and Crown Prince Humbert had fled from captured Rome into allied held Sicily.

Dispatches from allied headquarters, however, said that the Italian king still was in Rome and still was reigning.

[A Stockholm dispatch reported Queen Elena arrived in Switzerland on Friday.]

Italy's king and queen fled from Rome Wednesday by motor car, said a Berlin broadcast of a dispatch by the German news agency Transocean.

Without further explanation the broadcast declared that "it is as yet uncertain" whether the king, queen and crown prince "were able to save their lives."

Admit Italian Resistance.

In official and special war bulletins datelined from Hitler's headquarters and subsequent broadcasts from the Berlin radio, the Germans admitted that they encountered resistance at some points from their erstwhile Italian allies, but declared that Nazi troops are proceeding "in an energetic manner" to put down this opposition where it still is being offered. The German Transocean news agency claimed "the major part of the Italian peninsula" was under German control.

The number of Italians disarmed, Berlin said, "does not include garrisons at Rome and Milan, which, as previously reported, also capitulated."

Claim Big Cities Seized.

The Nazis said that they took undestroyed railway lines and roads leading from Carinthia and Tyrol to upper Italy, occupied the Ligurian coast from Genoa to La Spezia, cleared the Etch valley and towns in the area of Bologna, Verona, and Cremona and took Trieste after a short struggle. They claimed to have disarmed more than 90,000 Italians in Trieste alone.

Nazi troops also stormed into Milan, Turin and Padua, northern Italian industrial cities, Berlin reported, but added that at Milan and Turin the German divisions had been forced to fight "rioting by Communists."

Occupy Riviera.

Gen. Calvi Di Bergolo, the Italian king's son-in-law, has been named Italian commander of Rome with a single division of Italian troops placed at his disposal to maintain order, the Germans said.

Referring to the situation in southern France, the German special bulletin said that the Italian 4th army had surrendered its weapons without incident to Field Marshal Gerd von Runstedt. The Germans occupied the coast from Toulon to Menton, they said.

It declared further that "Italian warships and merchantmen in the Aegean sea have been taken over by the German navy" and that German units had occupied former Italian air fields and the most important harbors on the Adriatic coast.

Consolidating their positions in the face of the southern invasion of the allies, German troops also were reported to have captured the Italian naval base of Pola on the Jugo-Slav side of the Adriatic and the island of Rhodes in the Dodecanese group.

There were reports that the Italian forces stranded in Jugo-Slavia were in a tight spot. The Zagreb radio said that Croat troops are fighting hard against Italians on the Dalmatian coast from Sibenik, a Jugo-Slav seacoast city across the Adriatic from the Italian port of Ancona, to Kotor, 35 miles north of the Jugo-Slav-Albanian border. German and Croat troops occupied Split and the Italian garrison at Zara capitulated, the radio added.

Reuters [British news agency] quoted a Transocean dispatch as declaring that Albania and Montenegro had proclaimed their independence from Italy.

Still in Rome?

IRISH CENSORS BAN CRITICAL LONDON PAPER

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Sept. 11.—Irish censorship, regarded as unduly rigorous for a country that is not at war and which is particularly touchy about printed matter containing adverse criticisms of the government in southern Ireland, clamped down today on the London Sunday Dispatch.

President Eamon de Valera, acting thru his chief censor in Dublin, has forbidden further sales of the newspaper in Ireland, where its weekly Sunday circulation formerly amounted to about 70,000 copies because last Sunday's issue contained a condemnatory article and because the newspaper's editor refused to suppress another article along the same lines to be published tomorrow.

A woman contributor just returned to London after visiting Ireland, wrote in a severely critical vein about Ireland's neutrality, De Valera's administration, the country's economic situation, and the asserted harboring of German and Italian agents in Dublin. In an article to be published in tomorrow's issue, the woman writer goes into the question of Ireland's refusal to allow the Brtish navy to use southern Ireland ports as bases for the Atlantic U-boat war.

17 ITALIAN SHIPS FLEE TO MALTA; MORE EXPECTED

Flyer Tells How Germans Sank One Battleship.

ness of these vulnerable floating fortresses.

Arrival of the four battleships at Malta and the sinking of the fifth is believed to account for all the Italian battlewagons able to put to sea. According to the British navy, the sixth is under repair and the seventh is under construction.

Remainder of Italy's Fleet.

Other known elements of the fleet which have not been disabled by allied air and naval attacks included two heavy cruisers, nine light cruisers, 25 destroyers, 60 submarines, and numerous small craft.

In occupying the naval base at Taranto, the crews of the American and British warships which escorted the landing party passed a majestic sight as they neared the base. It was a procession of Italian warships blinking new recognition signals as they sailed to honorable surrender.

But it was another portion of the fleet, that based at Spezia, Italy's principal naval base far up the west coast, which bore the brunt of the German attack. Reconnaissance planes had seen it with full steam up preparing to depart.

On Thursday morning a photographic plane spotted this fleet steaming down the west coast of Corsica. Squadron Leader Wing Comdr. Hubert Law-Wright of Bowden, England, took over observation in the afternoon as the fleet turned east into the Strait of Bonifacio between Corsica and Sardinia.

When Law-Wright's gunners reported heavy anti-aircraft fire from the ships, the pilot took evasive action until he realized the ships wre shooting at a German bomber formation and not at him. He scampered out of range while the warships scattered to escape the attack.

"The fleet was a beautiful sight," Law-Wright said. "Their modern light cruisers are the most beautiful ships I have ever seen.

Blast Rips Battleship.

"We saw an enormous explosion on one of the battleships. Smoke poured up about 3,000 or 4,000 feet. We saw a stick of bombs aimed at a destroyer, but they missed. The smoke from the battleship subsided and it looked as if it were getting under way again. Thruout the attack the ships had taken excellent evasive action and their anti-aircraft fire was accurate.

"We flew over the ships and took a look at the damaged one. We arrived just as it was sinking. Under a thick pall of smoke we saw the stern under water and the bow sticking up. The ship appeared to break in two."

Law-Wright said he watched the rescue operations as the fleet regained formation. His aircraft then drove away a German reconnaissance plane.

The rest of the Italian formation reached an allied port safely under the escort of British warships summoned by an R. A. F. pilot.

The battleships which arrived safely at Malta were the Italia and the Vittorio Veneto, both 35,000 tons, and the Andrea Doria and the Caio Duilio, both 24,000 tons.

Additional Italian fleet units are expected to reach Malta soon, marking a major bloodless naval victory for the allies.

Tells of Surrender at Sea.

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 11 (AP).—A majestic spectacle as Italian warships, sending up clouds of white steam, surrendered at sea to the British fleet forming a "V" to escort them to Malta was described today by an R. A. F. squadron leader who arranged the rendezvous.

The airman, R. H. Plumb, gave this dramatic eyewitness account of the surrender:

He first sighted two Italian destroyers which had become separated from the main part of the fleet during or after the battle in which German bombers sank the battleship Roma.

Then he found other vessels which signalled to him that they wanted a pilot to escort them to port. Plumb flew in search of British vessels, finding them 50 miles away. He returned to the Italian ships and told them the British were coming.

Put Up "White Flag" of Steam.

"It was not long before the two leets met. At the same time the two straggling Italian destroyers ejoined the main body.

"The Italian vessels began to put up large clouds of white steam, which I presume was the equivalent of the white flag.

"The ships were flying huge Italian ensigns, red, white, and green. Their speed was reduced almost to a standstill. One British battleship began to send out signals by lamp.

"After receiving acknowledgement from the Italian ships, the British swung around.

"The Italians took up their stations and the British battleships and destroyers sailed in a 'V' formation. They presented a majestic spectacle as they sailed east."

300 ARMY CHIEFS VOW LOYALTY TO ARGENTINE HEAD

But Chile Hears He Has Been Ousted.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Sept. 11 (AP).—Gen. Pedro Ramirez issued a proclamation tonight saying the government's line of conduct would be maintained "with a firmness which corresponds to the dignity of the Argentine nation."

Ramirez issued his proclamation after a two hour closed cabinet session described as "unusually delicate" because of the situation resulting from Argentina's neutral policy and failure to break off relations with the axis. Ramirez also had conferred with 300 army and navy officers who called upon him, and were said to have expressed their confidence in his administration.

[The Buenos Aires radio denied last night reports from Santiago, Chile, that the regime of Gen. Pedro Ramirez was threatened by a military coup. Lt. Col. Alvo Castro, press spokesman for Ramirez, said there was no truth to the report, but on the contrary the Argentine armed forces "have reiterated of their own free will their absolute solidarity with the national government."]

Hull Note Brings Crisis.

Troubles for President Ramirez' cabinet over neutrality broke earlier in the week with the resignation of Adm. Segundo Storni as foreign minister after his failure to obtain lend-lease aid from the United States.

Report Ramirez "Dismissed."

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Radio Agricultura at Santiago, Chile, said last night in a recorded broadcast that "the best sources of information in Santiago report that there is a new military revolutionary movement in Argentina."

It added that Gen. Arturo Rawson "has dismissed" Gen. Pedro Ramirez, head of the military regime established after the overthrow of President Ramon Castillo June 4. Rawson had aided Ramirez in that coup d'etat.

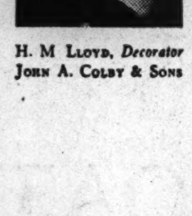
THE Charm OF THAT LIVED-IN LOOK



H. M Lloyd, Decorator
John A. Colby & Sons

Rooms do not become personalities, and so are not beloved, until they have been lived in. Until they have absorbed life and living, they lack that responsiveness, ease and poise so pleasurable to both owners and visitors.

But by the use of old furnishings, much of the richness and comfort of rooms in old houses in England, which have stood mellowing in their beauty for centuries, may be captured at will.

Come and see this done, in a small living room of ours here. Enter and share the illusion that voices of family conversation still hang upon the air. That traces of presences remain.

On the enormous old mahogany breakfront which almost covers the north wall, ruby-red lights dance jovially. The mirroring mahogany catches up bits of jewel colors in the faded Chinese rug and tosses them about. It reflects a pair of very old English chairs near the hearth, nodding at each other over memories of the centuries.

Bits of old Lowestoft, old prints, a painting, offer their friendship. The east wall is lined with books and a mirror, above a sofa. The sofa is wide, soft, slightly rumpled. Lights and tables flank it, and a wide refreshment table is at hand. They invite you: Sit down, rest; people will be coming soon.

A room in Colby's Town House, which you are cordially invited to view. Third Floor.

YANK AIR BLOWS CUT NAZI MOTOR CONVOY IN HALF

Blast Re-enforcements on Way to Naples Area.

AN ADVANCED AMERICAN AIR BASE IN SICILY, Sept. 11 (AP).—Using with brilliant success the tactics perfected during the Sicilian campaign, American fighter-bombers yesterday dealt a telling blow to the German effort to switch reënforcements and supplies from the 8th army front in Italy to where the American 5th army is pushing inland at Naples.

During the day a great convoy of 200 to 250 vehicles of all types, escorted by tanks and mobile anti-aircraft batteries, was literally cut in half as it crawled 50 miles along the valley of the Tanagro river southeast of Naples.

Trucks and armored cars were attacked during the morning in the vicinity of Lagonegro, 10 miles inland from the coastal city of Sapri. At dusk the remnants were no farther northward than Auletta, normally a two hour drive down the valley.

Try to Fight Yanks.

The vehicles frequently converted themselves into veritable fortresses and attempted to ambush strafing planes. When they did this they broke into groups interspersed with tanks and anti-aircraft batteries. They waited in such formations until the coast seemed clear. Then they started up again. In almost every case, they hardly had gotten under way before the Yank airmen swooped in again to execute lightning hit-run assaults.

The brunt of this daring action was carried by P-38 Lightnings, A-36 Invaders, and Spitfire groups patrolling the allies' beachheads at low, medium and high altitudes to safeguard the landing of additional men and material against German planes. They were in constant radio communication with the control center which was able to switch them in a few seconds against enemy targets.

A group of 12 Lightnings dived on a motor convoy within five minutes after it got orders to attack.

Describes Attack.

A description of one assault was given by Capt. Donald L. Perry of Hawthorne, Cal., a great-great grandson of Adm. Oliver H. Perry. He was in a formation of Lightnings which caught a column strung out south of Sala Consilina shortly before noon.

"We got them by surprise," the 22 year old airman said, "and it looked like every plane hit where it was aiming. I got two trucks and could see men scrambling out. We also shot up an armored truck and a reconnaissance car before we finished. I looked back and saw a large number burning. We were very well satisfied with the day's work."

Other effective raids were made on a column in the neighborhood of Brienza and Auletta where rugged terrain, intense machine gun and small arms fire made operation unusually dangerous. At the day's end, a compilation of reports indicated that at least 100 vehicles had been demolished.

9 NAZI PLANES FELLED IN RAIDS ON FRENCH AREA

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AP).—United States Marauders and R. A. F. medium bombers and fighter bombers attacked targets in northern France today, a British and American joint statement said tonight.

The air field at Beaumont-le-Roger was bombed by a formation of Marauders and royal Netherlands squadron of Mitchells. Another formation of Marauders bombed the shipbuilding yards at Le Trait. R. A. F., dominion and allied Spitfires, which escorted and covered the operations, had several combats with enemy fighters, nine of which were destroyed.

CHILD INJURED IN FALL.

Mary Parish, 4 years old, 6137 South Carpenter street, was taken to St. Bernard's hospital yesterday with a possible skull fracture after she fell 15 feet from a second floor porch of her home, where she was playing.

D.F.C. for Chennault

[Acme Photo.]

Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault.

KUNMING, China, Sept. 10 [Delayed]—(AP).—In recognition of his services as commander of the former "Flying Tigers" and of the 14th United States air force in China, Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault was awarded the distinguished flying cross today. The medal, "for extraordinary achievement in aerial flight," was pinned on the 53 year old air tactician by Maj. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, commander of American air forces in India and Burma.

BELIEVE NAZIS READY FOR NEW SUB CAMPAIGN

Battleships in Norway Waters Watched.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 11 (AP).—Germany was believed tonight to be preparing for a vigorous renewal of her U-boat campaign, and competent naval authorities here expressed the opinion that a strong portion of her battle fleet lies in northern Norway fjords ready for action in defense of northern Europe. The German battle fleet, naval experts say, will be thrown into the fight only when an all-out invasion starts.

Extensive German naval training activities have been noted all summer at the ports of Danzig and Gdynia with new submarine crews being trained. As the nights grow longer, naval men believe, submarine activity will be intensified.

New Protection Expected.

What success the Germans have had developing new devices to combat allied anti-submarine devices, which drove the U-boats from the Atlantic in June, are still military secrets, but there are indications that new ones have been perfected—such as new methods of spotting allied planes before they see U-boats, and improvements on the electrically driven torpedo.

Camouflaged and heavily protected against both air and sea attack, Hitler's mightiest warships, the Tirpitz and the Scharnhorst, are reported to be hidden in the Alt fjord, which is sheltered by a series of heavily fortified islands at the northern tip of Norway. The Germans also have numerous destroyers and other warships in this area. Norwegian reports yesterday said some of this flotilla participated in Wednesday's raid on Spitsbergen.

Ships in Good Anchorage.

The narrow fjords in which the ships are anchored make it almost impossible for torpedo bombers to come in from more than on direction. The rugged coastal hills are dotted with heavy concentrations of anti-aircraft guns which could lay a blanket of fire across any approach by carrier based planes. Elaborate anti-submarine nets blockade all inlets.

Concentration of the German fleet in northern waters ties up a large part of the British home fleet at Scapa Flow. Any move by German warships would send British battleships steaming into the North sea to give battle.

The British would have the advantage of numerous aircraft carriers, as the Germans are known to have only one—the new Graf Zeppelin, reported to have been on trial cruises in the Baltic recently. With the Graf Zeppelin in the Baltic are three of Germany's first line cruisers—the Prinz Eugen, the Admiral Scheer, and the Koeln.

MECHANICS' SKIN DRAG ON WOMEN IN WAR INDUSTRY

Dish pan hands were consigned to the limbo of forgotten Americana as beauticians from 30 states assembled yesterday in the Morrison hotel in 24th annual convention to consider the problem of "mechanics' hands."

The characteristics of the latest "beware" for women who have moved from the kitchen sink to the assembly line are rough, harsh skin marked with deeply imbedded grime, slight cuts and abrasions, dry, jagged cuticle, and broken, stained fingernails.

At today's session the 2,000 delegates will study ways of combating skin diseases and occupational dermatitis by means of the new protective hand creams which are being introduced this year.

"More time is lost from work because of occupational dermatitis than from any other occupational disease," Mrs. Ellyn Sible of Tulsa, Okla., president of the American Cosmeticians National asociation, declared.

Ex-Correspondent for U.S. Magazines Freed in London

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AP). — Erland Echlin, Canadian born former correspondent of the American magazines, Time and Newsweek, was released from custody today after having been held since March, 1941, under defense regulations. Grounds for Echlin's detention were that he had violated censorship and that his personal attitude had not been satisfactory. He will be required to remain in London.

WATCHES ALLIES WIN TARANTO IN A QUIET 'ATTACK'

They Just Walk in; Fire 3 Shots at a Nazi.

BY DAVE DRISCOLL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ABOARD U. S. CRUISER OFF TARANTO, Sept. 10 [Delayed].—The first allied warship to tie up in Italy—at the naval base at Taranto—was an American cruiser, a hero of the Pacific war with six Jap flags painted on her bridge. Under the command of Capt. Leo Hewlett Thebaud she entered the harbor the evening of Sept. 9.

On board were British units. Astern were British warships loaded with British troops and supplies.

As the task force stood off shore awaiting a pilot to guide us in, the shore line along the edge of the mountains south and west of Taranto shook with heavy explosions as American bombers apparently attacked the rear guard of the German division which had left Taranto the day before.

Ships Leave to Surrender.

An hour later two Italian battleships, two cruisers, and a destroyer headed out of Taranto for an allied port as the British and American task force approached the city.

Altho the tension mounted, as no one knew what we would encounter in the harbor or ashore, tea was served in the traditional manner at 4 p. m.

The troops re-checked their gear, jeep motors were started, machine gun belts gone over, and side arms buckled on. Then a boatload of marines and sailors moved in to the jetty. In a moment we tied up.

In Taranto proper, except for one street car and a few people standing on the roofs of buildings, there was no sign of life. Some aboard the ship thought it might be a German trap.

Troops Meet No Foe.

Before the gangway had been swung into place for the anxious Tommies, a German bomber suddenly took off northwest of the town and two Italian anti-aircraft batteries opened fire on it. Then one of the British ships let go with three shells, but the plane escaped.

The ship's three shells constituted the only allied action of the landing.

A few minutes before 8 p. m. the first Tommies scrambled ashore Commando style near a customs office, but saw no opposition. Then they kicked in the office door and set up headquarters. As Briton met Italian on the jetty not a word was exchanged.

I went in with the next group. Armed to the teeth, it started up the railway leading west out of the city at a terrific pace, despite 100 pound packs.

Their colonel called: "Keep moving, men. We've got at least 15 miles to go before daylight." At their pace they must have made it by midnight. Their mission was to catch up with the fleeing Germans.

Soon the first group of British fanned out and had control of intersections and bridges along with the Italian guards.

Now and then I met a sailor or a civilian. They said nothing. I learned from policemen that the city had been pretty well evacuated of women and children, apparently in fear of a bombardment from the sea before the armistice.

Among the Italian officers, all seemed to be confusion. There was a great deal of phoning and excitement. At times the Italian naval officers reminded me of so many Henry Armettas of movie fame. They were trying to be calm, but their efforts only made them excited.

Nazi Asks if He May Go!

Obviously the little people of Italy know practically nothing of what is taking place. Perhaps that explains their attitude, which is so much different than that of the Sicilians who welcomed the allies with open arms. It was apparent the Italians have been taking orders from the Germans so long that they have no confidence in handling problems alone. It was a great moment in history when a German commander asked permission of an Italian general to evacuate his division the day before.

Whether an Italian was responsible for the one tragedy of Taranto is not known, but after I had returned to the ship about 12:30 a. m. it was shaken by an explosion. We all dashed on deck expecting an air raid, but there was none.

Thus the British and Americans occupied the great naval base of Taranto. We fired three anti-aircraft shells at a German plane that escaped. Some one else set off one underwater explosion.

20 NEW CASES OF POLIO IN CITY; FIVE IN COUNTY

Five new cases of infantile paralysis in the county outside Chicago and one more death were reported yesterday, increasing the toll for the area to 151 cases and 15 deaths since the first victims were stricken in the suburbs on July 30. Up to 2 p. m. yesterday, the total county cases for the week stood at 19, a drop of 10 from the 29 recorded in each of the two previous weeks, and fewer than half of the 39 during the county's record week of Aug. 15. Three of the new cases are in Riverdale and one each in Oak Park and Evanston.

In the city, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, said there were 20 new cases and four persons under observation in the 24 hours ending yesterday morning, bringing the city total up to 577 while the death toll remained at 56. Five of the new cases are of persons more than 15 years old.

Cicero pupils, who gained an extra week's holiday when school openings were postponed because of the polio outbreak, will return to classes tomorrow, Dr. Edward Z. Piscczek, Cook county health director, said. The suburb's public and parochial schools and J. Sterling Morton High school will reopen. In Berwyn, however, the schools will remain closed another week, the health director said.

U. OF I. MICROSCOPE STOLEN.

A microscope worth $185 was stolen yesterday from a classroom of the medical school of the University of Illinois, 721 South Wood street, the supervising engineer, Frank Hostettler, reported to police.

HIGHLAND PARK PILOT AWARDED FLYING CROSS

Lt. William E. Peters was awarded the distinguished flying cross recently, after his 13th bombing mission over northwest Germany, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Peters, and his wife, Mercy, of Highland Park, learned yesterday.

His Flying Fortress, the Snow Ball, was shot down in the North sea after completion of a mission in Germany. It took 22 Nazi fighter planes to down his ship, the citation indicated. He was the pilot.

Lt. Peters has been in the army since January, 1942. He was commissioned a lieutenant in the air forces at Lubbock field, Tex., in October, 1942, and left for overseas action last April. He is the father of a daughter, Suzanne, 6 weeks old, whom he has never seen.

Veteran of Sea Battles Home to Visit Parents

Donald M. Ryan, 21 year old veteran of sea battles, returned home yesterday to spend a brief leave with his father, George Ryan Sr., 5055 Fletcher street, retired city fireman. Ryan, a seaman 1st class, was aboard the Chicago when the ship was sunk. He was wounded by shrapnel in the battle for Tulagi. Other battles in which he took part were those of the Coral sea, Guadalcanal, and two at Kula gulf.

ARMY UNCOVERS A BATTLEFIELD IN 27 COUNTIES

Land Owners Are Asked to Help Play War.

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Field Headquarters, 2d Army, Somewhere in Tennessee, Sept. 11.—With more than 90,000 men arriving for two months' of maneuvers that begin Monday, getting a battlefield, even for a mock war, is a big job.

Months before maneuvers were to start, army officers blanketed 27 counties in eastern Tennessee and southeastern Kentucky, asking 47,000 land owners for permission to play war on some 5 million acres. The army wanted permission to trespass, to camp and to use water. It offered no pay, giving up only the government's right not to be sued without permission. The response was almost unanimous. Only a few scattered farms are posted with keep-out signs. The army call the farms lakes, explaining thus why troops may not enter.

Doesn't Need Permission.

"Of course, if a commanding officer thought it necessary to use the land, he could do so despite the fact that permission had not been granted by the landowner," said Lt. Col. H. B. Cornwell, chief of the rents and claims section for the 4th service command. "The army is just being gentlemanly in asking permission."

Maintaining the battlefield in its farming-as-usual condition or restoring it is another big job, for even mock warfare leaves its traces. The 90,000 men drove some 10,000 trucks, cars, tanks, motorcycles and other vehicles. Since battles aren't confined to highways—even mock battles—the treads and wheels churn up crops, crash thru fences, bowl over trees, flatten bridges, and even scare the cows into giving less milk—for all of which the army pays.

Col. Cornwell revealed today that as a result of maneuvers last spring and summer in this area civilians have filed 1,979 claims for mock war damages. During the spring, the damages totaled $50,451.05. Summer's toll was $119,227.60.

198 Miles of Fence.

Lt. Col. F. J. Gunther of the 2d army engineers, assigned to repairing damaged facilities in lieu of cash, said that during the spring and summer his 800 men built more than 198 miles of fence repairs—the breaks totaled more than 5,000. They built 151 bridges and repaired 543 more. They graded and repaired almost a thousand miles of roads.

It is the strange occurrences of a mock war laid upon civilian life that make life interesting for the rents-claims division. Cows follow tanks into sorghum fields and eat themselves to death. The army pays. The pastures are damaged so the lambs don't eat properly and thus don't put on enough weight. The army pays. An airplane attempting to land on a highway settles down on a jeep, then careens into a fillling station. The army pays.

"Sometimes," says Col. Cornwell, who came into the army with National Guard, "I wish I was back in Charleston, W. Va., running the Elks' club.

THOUSANDS SAY...
"I'M GLAD I BOUGHT LEE DE LUXE TIRES!"

Today . . . many motorists have satisfying proof of the excellent forethought they displayed when they bought LEE DeLuxe Tires. They congratulate themselves as their speedometers record tire mileage they never before thought possible.

Thousands more say . . .

"I'M GLAD I LEARNED TO DRIVE AT 25!"

Back in January, 1942, LEE advertising urged: "Learn to drive at 25 miles per hour! . . . If you are a 65 mile per hour driver and have 10,000 miles left in your tires, you can stretch that mileage to 40,000 by slowing down to 25 miles per hour. SLOW DOWN AND SAVE RUBBER."

That was LEE's advice when the war started. Today . . . that advice is backed up by the results of a 2,000,000 mile test made by the Engineering Experiment Station of Iowa State College and the Public Roads Administration. This test proves:

1. The rate of tire wear on concrete pavements at a nominal speed of 65 m.p.h. is four times that at a nominal speed of 25 m.p.h.

2. Wheels out of line create a continuous braking effect which in extreme cases will cause tires to wear at ten times the normal rate.

3. The switching of all tires, including that on the spare wheel, every 2,000 miles, is recommended as a means of equalizing tire wear.

4. Tests of tires with recapped treads made of 95 per cent reclaimed rubber, indicate a life after recapping of 14,000 miles if speed is restricted to 35 m.p.h.

5. Strict compliance with the tire conservation program is necessary to keep the wheels of essential traffic rolling. The major items in this program include a national speed limit of 35 m.p.h., recapping of tires at the proper time, mileage rationing for essential travel, and periodic inspection of tires. Other measures recommended are: Start and stop slowly, reduce speed on sharp curves and steep hills, check tire inflation each week, and keep loads within the rated capacities of the tires.

LEE DeLuxe Tires and LEE advice have both been proved good. The vacation season is over for most people. Driving from now on will tend to fall more and more into the essential classification. See the LEE dealer! Get his advice and assistance in making the tires you now have last as long as possible!

When buying new tires your first choice, of course, will be LEE DeLuxe!

LEE tires are sold and serviced nationally . . . from Coast to Coast . . . and locally at PHILLIPS "66" Service Stations. Here competent well-trained experts will gladly check and inflate your tires and help you in every way possible to make your present tires last longer. Call on your PHILLIPS "66" Dealer.

WATCHES GIANT BARRAGE PAVE INVADER'S PATH

So Huge It Shakes Big Ships 5 Miles Away.

BY DON WHITEHEAD.

WITH U. S. INVASION FORCE, Sept. 9 [Delayed] — (AP). — American and British troops fought onto Italy south of Salerno before dawn today behind a barrage so heavy that ships five miles back at sea shook with the concussions.

As I write this in the first light of day the guns still are thundering and troops hold the bridgehead onto which are pouring more troops, guns, and armor from a mighty allied armada.

Altho the message from Adm. Andrew Browne Cunningham, commander of the allied Mediterranean fleet, saying the armistice with Italy had been declared, was received around midnight, fighting is bitter and destroyers are engaging the coastal batteries. Either the Italians here have not been advised of the armistice or the guns are manned by Germans.

Down Three Enemy Bombers.

The storm broke shortly before midnight, after the invasion convoys had steamed across a placid sea with little to remind the troops they were participating in a great invasion to crack Hitler's European fortress.

Enemy planes dropped bombs near our ship, but the ship's guns shot down three of them. These bombs had missed us and the great fleet steamed slowly into the Gulf of Salerno with the Isle of Capri on our left.

We could see gun flashes on the mainland and knew the enemy had not been surprised. Then came the electrifying armistice news. It injected an almost gay note into this solemn business of invasion.

Don't Fight Italians, Unless—

The message said:

"An armistice with Italy has been declared. Operations now in progress are to proceed as ordered, but Italian armed forces, including aircraft, should be treated as friendly unless they take hostile action or threaten hostile action. Plans for the covering fire on the beaches are to proceed as ordered, but coastal batteries should not be engaged unless they open fire."

There was speculation that the troops might get ashore without having to fight.

We discussed the armistice as the zero hour drew near. But then there were flashes from the shore and shells whined across the ship.

"Order the destroyers to return the fire," snapped the rear admiral commanding our force.

The Firing Begins.

Our ship began to lay a smoke screen. A great fire blazed up ahead and there were explosions in Salerno. Our guns had not fired, so obviously the enemy was carrying out demolitions.

Flashes of gunfire rippled along the coast and sounds of explosions and gunfire rolled across the water. Our destroyers moved into position and began hammering the coastal batteries. A British monitor hurled steel at the enemy as 22 colored flares looped across e sky.

At 2:17 the admiral ordered his assault boats to "go ahead with the landings as planned." Signal lamps flashed the word to the troop carrying vessels.

The fires in Salerno blazed fiercely at times, outlining the dark shadows of the boats.

And then the barrage against the beaches opened up.

Never have I witnessed anything like it either in Tunisia or on Sicily. Neither had the British officers or American naval men on board.

"Hell" Breaks Loose.

Lt. Robert M. Wiley of Ballston Spa, N. Y., gazed at the display in awe.

"They unloaded hell, death, and destruction," he said, and that is what it was—hell, death, and destruction.

At first it fell on the beach near Salerno, then to the south. Rocket shells fell by the hundreds.

Nothing could have lived thru that barrage, and at 3:40 a. m. the first wave of British troops landed on the northernmost beach, and waves piled into other barges to the south.

The enemy had mined some of the beaches, and machine guns and batteries not caught in the barrage also opened fire.

British Commandos and American Rangers swarmed ashore and fought their way to their objectives.

500 TAKE PART IN MANEUVERS OF ILLINOIS CAP

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 11 (AP). — More than 150 planes and 500 members participated today in the opening of two days of maneuvers by the Illinois wing of the civil air patrol.

The wing members gave demonstrations of formation flying, gas attack, target bombing, and crash procedures. Tomorrow they will demonstrate techniques of message pickup, panel reading, and dropping supplies and will stage a mock raid on Peoria.

The CAP was formed shortly after Pearl Harbor to afford courier service, coastal observation, and other flying aid to the war program.

YANKS MAKE OUT CHRISTMAS LIST; SANTA HAS JOB!

Want Milk, Beer, Mail, and Girls, Girls, Girls!

New York, Sept. 11 (AP).—There are 35 Jersey boys in India who want the mayor of Bayonne to send them a keg of beer for Christmas. It's hot out there.

They would also appreciate a 5 foot 2 blonde. Others thruout the world want brunets and redheads. There's more than a little indication that just any white girl would get a big reception.

In Australia an army MP just said wearily he wants some house slippers and permission to sit down for two solid months.

In the Solomons, Sgt. William A. Chester of Cincinnati, O., must have troubles. He wants a book on how to play poker.

Time to Think of Gifts,

It's still some four months to the sleigh bell season, but, what with mailing troubles, it's time to think of the soldiers, sailors, marines, the WAVES, and the WACs. They have been polled in the various theaters of war by Associated Press men on what they'd like to find in their holiday box.

Their wishes show up some pretty general needs that the folks back home evidently failed to imagine when they sent off gift boxes.

Here are some of the individual requests by Chicagoland area men and women:

Sgt. Wayne Meirhofer, Drummond, Wis.—"Sure could use camera, some film, and maybe tennis shoes, don't want anything to eat."

Pvt. Julius Wilts, Steamboat Rock, Ia.—"Like some books, magazines, and maybe camera."

Pvt. Raymond Rutkoski, Detroit, Mich.—Civilian shoes.

Gordon Nestman, Cadillac, Mich.—Good venison steak, and white Christmas.

"Real Milk Shakes."

Cpl. Paul G. Lamb, 328 South Austin boulevard, Oak Park, Ill.—"Best of all I'd like a couple of real milk shakes or an ice cream sundae, but that's reaching for the moon. Cigarets are always appreciated."

Sgt. D. N. Canada, Newcastle, Ind.—"Would greatly appreciate a personal radio."

Sgt. Frank B. Wilcox Jr., Whitewater, Wis.—"This is hopeless, but it's what I want—to be able on Christmas morning to call at 201 Tyler avenue, Highland Park, Mich. Would I be glad to see her!"

Cpl. Kenneth Ferguson, Pontiac, Mich.—"I'd like to drop in at 75 Home street, in Pontiac. Then there would really be a Santa Claus."

Pvt. Edward Sigler, Bulpitt, Ill.—A month's vacation in the states, in a new Oldsmobile.

Pvt. Raymond Walenches, 6614 South Sacramento, Chicago—Mail.

Staff Sgt. Joseph Turke, Dearborn, Mich.—Wants—"To take a little holiday, because this will be my second Christmas over here. I've got everything else."

A Brunet—5 Feet 7.

Pvt. Roger Henson, Sigourney, Ia.—"A brunet—height 5 feet 7".

Fireman 2d Class James William Bone, Richmond, Ind.—Watch and lighter.

Sgt. Harry Kater, Franklin Park, Ill.—Cigars.

Staff Sgt. Gerald Denzin, Milwaukee, Wis.—A bottle of Milwaukee beer.

Lt. B. J. O'Callaghan, U. S. N. R., 2458 Estes avenue, Chicago—A 20 page letter from my wife and a quart of ice cream.

Corp. John Keller, 2618 North Lakewood avenue, Chicago—A white Christmas and a good milk shake made with real milk.

Wants Wife Wrapped Up.

Corp. John Fillipp, 1125 Wellington avenue, Chicago—Have my wife, Barbara wrapped up and sent out here.

Pvt. Edward R. Formella, 2706 North Wayne avenue, Chicago—A barrel of beer—but cold.

Lt. Thomas G. Einhaus, 797½ Maine street, Quincy, Ill.—A cabinet portrait of my wife, and a wallet.

Actress in City

Film Actress Marguerite Chapman alights from train here en route to west coast.

Miss Marguerite Chapman, rising young movie star, arrived yesterday for a brief visit in Chicago en route to Hollywood from New York. Miss Chapman recently completed starring roles in "Destroyer," "My Kingdom for a Cook," and "Appointment in Berlin."

HEROES STICK TO POSTS ON BEACH UNDER JAP FIRE

Allied Base Near Lae 'Province of Hell.'

BY OLEN W. CLEMENTS.

OUTSIDE LAE, New Guinea, Sept. 9 [Delayed]—(AP).—They call it bloody beach, partly because bloody is a favorite by-word of the Australians and partly because, well—

Bloody beach was just like any other beach in the South Pacific until last Saturday morning when the Australians and Americans came ashore. Since then it has been a minor province of hell.

It is the eastern base of the allied troops attacking the enemy defenders of Lae's two air fields. Australians moving from here are less than two miles from one airdrome.

The Japanese air force has hit this beach with everything it has. Its sands are pockmarked by craters and ack ack gun emplacements. The shoreline is dotted with wreckage and debris.

Heroes Stick to Posts.

Bloody beach has many heroes—men who have stuck by their posts when the atmosphere was full of steel. There are men like Lt. William Dibble, Orange Bay, S. C., and a boy they call Mary because some of his companions imagined he looked effeminate.

They haven't missed a raid and none has been injured.

"The oddest thing happened," drawled Dibble. "It was the second day we were here. The Japanese bombers came tearing over the mountain popping bombs right and left.

"A captain and a lieutenant jumped in my foxhole, and I had to beat it down the beach and find another. They had just jumped in it when down tumbled a bomb on top of them. It blew them 12 feet in the air and they landed back where the foxhole was. It had become a bomb crater by then. Neither of them got a scratch."

Bomb Buries Him in Sand.

Then there was Corp. Donald W. Smith of West Fairview, Pa., ack-ack gunner on the beach. He was blazing away at a Japanese dive bomber which nosed over in his direction. The corporal stood by his gun and the Japanese let go at 300 feet. The bomb hit 6 feet from Smith and covered him with sand, but he was unharmed.

Perhaps the real heroes of the beach are Sgt. C. S. Dodson of Dangerfield, Tex., and the boy they call Mary. The two stationed themselves near the spot where the incoming troops land. Now and then during a raid, a frightened soldier jumps to his feet and starts to run for cover. If there is only one of them, Dodson makes a flying tackle and sits on him until the raid is over. If there are two of them, the boy they call Mary tackles the second one and sits on him.

They have been doing this for days now and apparently they like it.

The ships of our invasion fleet and the merchantmen on all the seven seas know why

The coveted Maritime "M" has been awarded to Scott Radio technicians

Scott Radio technicians devised the first safe all-wave radio for marine use . . . the first receiver which defied submarine direction finders by having no telltale "leakback". Today Scott Marine Model Radios sail the seven seas, bringing our ships the vital messages of war and providing our men-at-sea with longed-for programs from home.

For their work, and for their unceasing efforts to provide Scott Radios for every ship, Scott technicians have been awarded the proud Maritime "M" award. Only 130 companies have been thus honored.

• Of all Illinois War Contractors only the Scott organization has won both the Army-Navy "E" and U.S. Maritime Commission "M"

GERMANS TIE UP 14 DIVISIONS TO POLICE BALKANS

German Troops Pouring Into Bulgaria.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Sept. 9 [Delayed].—Since Italy's surrender all interest in Istanbul centers on the question, what will happen now in the Balkans?

One of the first reactions noted in Istanbul was marked by a tension between the Germans and the Italians, who were allies heretofore and now aren't too friendly.

Reports of German uneasiness in the Balkans are frequent. The belief is Germany will try to hold the Balkans but if the allies attack, the Nazis will have to give up a major part of the occupied territory.

Germany has 14 divisions policing the Balkans. In Jugo-Slavia the Germans face the Chetniks. In Greece there is a large independent territory the Germans cannot police. Now they are pouring troops into Bulgaria, which is supposedly an ally, because they are afraid of a revolt there.

Bulgars Have 22 Divisions.

The Italians had 30 divisions in the Balkans which were ordered home after Mussolini's fall, but few departed because the Germans, aided by fanatical Fascist Italian officers, coerced them into staying. Now they will either lay down their arms or join the Germans.

The Bulgars have 22 effective divisions, but all they can spare already are being used in Macedonia and Thrace.

Since the death of King Boris of Bulgaria, the Germans have lost much of their hold on Bulgaria and have taken drastic measures to forestall any possible revolt since they intended forcing a pro-German regency on the people without following the constitutional procedure for a choice of members on the regency.

A trained political observer who just arrived from Sofia considers a revolt unlikely because it is obvious it cannot succeed. He added if German reverses continue, a chance of a revolt grows because most of the people certainly are anti-German now.

Germans Control Sofia.

Since a couple days after Boris' death, he said new German reenforcements are arriving in Bulgaria via the pontoon bridge at Rustchuk.

Half of a German panzer division is now stationed on the outskirts of Sofia with three Bulgarian armored brigades with German equipment.

While the military are taking these measures, the Gestapo has been reorganized and strengthened to three or four times as many as months ago.

Small raids by groups of 30 to 40 rebels on minor military objectives in central Bulgaria, particularly around Plovdiv, have been the only signs of revolt so far in Bulgaria, and tales of crowds shouting for peace in the streets are fanciful.

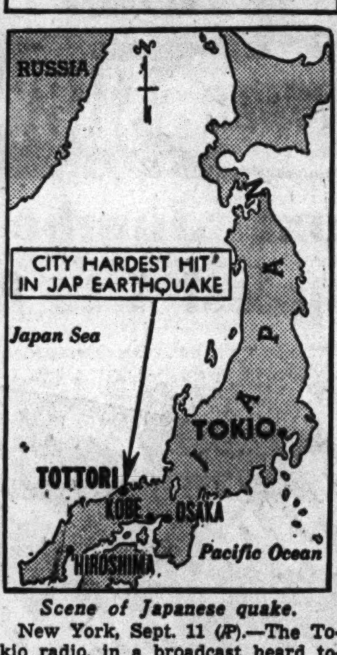
Hungary a Problem Child.

The Rumanians long have been weary of the war and have suffered terrible losses in the Russian campaign, but are too afraid of the Russians to consider trying to surrender.

The Hungarians always have been been a problem child for the Germans, and anti-German sentiments often have been openly expressed. The Germans haven't yet had to occupy Hungary, but opposition there is constantly becoming bolder and that country may yet tie up still more German troops.

In any case, neither Hungary nor Rumania now are giving the Germans any appreciable aid in Russia. No Hungarians are at the Russian front and the Rumanians have only a few troops in the south.

Quake Kills Japs



Scene of Japanese quake.

New York, Sept. 11 (AP).—The Tokio radio, in a broadcast heard tonight by NBC, described the earthquake in the city of Tottori, in southwestern Japan, last night as having caused "slight" damage and "minor casualties." This latest account was in direct conflict with an earlier report by the Domei news agency, which said 1,400 persons were killed or seriously injured by Japan's severest earthquake in 10 years. Tottori, capital of Inaba province, is nearly 400 miles west of Tokio.

SEES EVOLUTION OF SCARED BOYS TO TOUGH YANKS

Newsreel Man Pictures Effect of Battle.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

"We've really got a swell bunch of boys there!"

Jack Barnett.

Jack Barnett, hard boiled Chicago newsreel cameraman, does not give out tributes like this by the dozen, but as he talked yesterday about the behavior of American troops in Sicily the words sprang to his lips naturally. He knows what he's talking about, too, for he returned to Chicago only recently after "shooting" the Sicilian campaign.

"I saw our men in Tunisia and I saw them in Sicily," he said. "In Tunisia they were raw and scared at first. In Sicily they carried everything before them. I'll match any of them against the British 8th army men."

Praise for Thompson.

Not the least swell of "the boys," according to Barnett, is Jack Thompson, Tribune correspondent. "It took guts to jump from a plane into enemy territory for the sake of a story," Barnett said. He was referring to Thompson's trip with American parachute troops the night Sicily was invaded. This, by the way, was the second of Thompson's jumps. He did the same thing in Africa months before.

Barnett grew genuinly lyrical over the magnificent care the American wounded receive. "The hospital equipment is the finest in the world," he said, "and it's set up right behind the lines."

Italians Are Friendly.

Barnett confirmed the stories that have been told about the friendly reception many of the Sicilian civilians gave the American troops. The old people, especially, welcomed the Americans and told them they should have come a long time ago. Their farm produce, they said, had been carted away to feed the axis armies, and their sons had been pushed around by the occupying Nazis.

He recalled his delight when he was taken on his first bombing mission and saw the Germans diving into their fox holes in terror at the approach of the American planes. His delight turned to a slight feeling of sickness when he got back to the base and found the plane had shell holes as big as fists in it.

HAWAIIAN BOY IS REVEALED AS 1st CAPTOR OF A JAP

Soldier Tells of Seizing Prisoner on Dec. 8.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11 (AP).—Delegate Farrington of Hawaii today announced he had requested Secretary of War Stimson to grant a native Hawaiian boy, David M. Akui, a special award for his part in capturing the first Japanese prisoner of this war. Farrington said the Jap also probably was the first axis prisoner taken alive by American forces.

Describing Akui as "a fine type native Hawaiian," Farrington said Akui was serving on Dec. 8, 1941, as a corporal in the Hawaiian National Guard, helping construct a defensive machine gun emplacement northeast of Honolulu on the island of Oahu when the capture took place.

Akui's Story of Capture.

The delegate made public this letter Akui wrote at his request describing the event:

"I was digging the machine gun emplacement about a hundred feet or more from the shore. The time was between 5 and 6 in the morning.

"I noticed there an object bobbing up and down on the waves, resembling a large sized turtle. The object kept on bothering me, as it hovered into view each time I lifted my pick. I couldn't stand my curiosity any longer, consequently called the lieutenant and asked him what it could be. He presumed that it was just a turtle or a dry cocoanut floating around and headed back to the weapons carrier.

Discovers His Quarry Is a Man.

"Suddenly a big wave broke over it and I knew then that it was a man. I could clearly perceive his head and his arms paddling in the water. Then and there, my hunch told me that he was a 'Jap,' due to his bald headed appearance. Without a moment's hesitation, I grasped Pvt. Farm's rifle and, throwing the safety off, ran down to the shoreline.

"Sighting my rifle off to his side I fired a round to determine if my range was correct. It was. The second round was meant to shoot for the kill, but before I had a chance, Lt. Plybon came a-running and yelling for me not to shoot. So, I gave the 'Jap' the 'high sign' for him to come in and that we meant business. He came in and was on the point of exhaustion. Lt. Plybon and myself hauled him from the beach onto our truck.

"While taking him to the truck he asked me if the beach he had landed on was Waimanalo, and pointing to Kailua and the Mokapu naval air base asked if that was Kailua and Mokapu. I said, 'Yes,' and asked him as to how he had come here. He said that his sub had stuck on the reef.

Helps Question Prisoner.

"I didn't know as to what he meant by that so paid no further attention. Then, we took him down to the air field [Bellows air field] headquarters for questioning."

When officers at the field could not make headway in questioning the prisoner, they requested Akui to interrogate him in broken English.

"We found," Akui said, "that his rank was that of a lieutenant commander and his name was 'Sakamoto.'"

SEES HOW YANK BLASTING RIPPED JAP KISKA BASE

Tribune Man Tours Scene of Havoc.

BY HAROLD SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KISKA HARBOR, Aleutian Islands, Sept. 5 [Delayed].—The Japanese naval and submarine base at Kiska harbor came in for its share of the heavy bombardment handed out by our army and navy gunners and bombers prior to the Aug. 15 landing, a tour of the area disclosed today.

Altho smaller than the main camp area, this region was the focal point of much of the later sea and air attacks, probably because the final evacuation must have occurred here. The site of the only pier the Japs installed on the island, the naval base was on a broad beach of firm, volcanic sand at the edge of a wide plain.

Most of the base personnel lived in dugouts or revetted buildings on the fringe of the plain near tunnels hewn deep into the hills for quartermaster and ammunition stores.

Blasts Seal in Tunnels.

Shell holes pit the lower slopes thickest in the regions of Jap gun emplacements. Countless water filled craters in the lowlands converge into almost continuous, tortuous strips near the living quarters and kitchens.

Many direct shell or bomb hits sealed off tunnel entrances.

The devastating concussive effect of near misses by bombs is suggested by the Japs' installation of many earthworks to "cushion" the explosions. Every barracks was heavily revetted, its roof piled deep with blocks of tundra, as the deep sod blanket of these islands is called. The entrances to buildings and tunnels were serpentine passages devised to break the force of explosive blasts.

Why Japs Didn't Fire Back.

The convergence of bomb and shell holes near Jap gun sites showed how accurate our aerial reconnaissance must have been. Even covered weapon positions appear to have drawn heavy fire.

Such deadly marksmanship explains why, even when the Japs were known to be still on the island in full force, they did not answer some attacks. Their gun crews probably were digging in like moles while our flyers and naval gunners were in action.

The spongy tundra served as a cushion for the falling bombs and shells, many of which failed to explode. These duds are being collected by disposal crews and will be set off deep in the hills. Usually such blasts cause ground quakes that can be felt for a mile or more. How much more distressing the detonations were at shorter range only the Japs can tell, but their best testimony was their precipitate departure from Kiska as our growing bombardments gave grim warning of the impending amphibious attack.

JAP WHO HID ON ATTU FOR THREE MONTHS CAUGHT

ATTU ISLAND, Aleutians, Sept. 8 [Delayed]—(AP).—Another ragged and nearly starved survivor of Japan's Aleutian invading force fell into the hands of United States army troops on this furthermost Pacific outpost today.

The prisoner, the first taken since Aug. 24, surrendered after soldiers had chased him into a fox hole. He had been living like an animal in the rugged, treeless hills for more than three months.

All but a handful of the Attu Japanese were wiped out by the American amphibious force which regained the island in May.

JAP OBJECTIVES AT CANTON HIT BY U. S. BOMBS

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 11 (AP).—United States 14th air force planes struck in damaging raids Thursday against Japanese objectives in Canton and other points, Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced today.

Lightnings dive bombed wharves and nearby warehouse areas in Canton, starting fires visible 50 miles away. Railroad installations and shipping near the Yangtze port of Kiukiang also were attacked. All American planes returned to their bases.

GERMANS FLEE FROM DONETZ IN DISORDER—REDS

Russian Gains Imperil Thousands of Nazis.

LONDON, Sept. 12 [Sunday]—(AP).—The Red army pursuing German troops "retreating in disorder" in the Donetz basin overran nearly 200 villages yesterday in smashing gains that threatened to trap hundreds of thousands of axis troops, including those in the Caucasus and Crimea, a Moscow war bulletin disclosed early today.

The bulletin announced a 7½ mile plunge toward Pavlograd, important junction on the Kharkov-Crimea railway, in the race for the Dnieper river, and said soviet forces attacking on a 600 mile front were inflicting "decisive blows" on the enemy.

New advances also were curled around Bryansk on the north and south, and a six mile gain carried the Russians to within striking distance of a town only 72 miles from the Ukraine capital at Kiev, it was disclosed.

Report Novorossisk Landing.

The converging blows on Pavlograd on the last trunk railway east of the Dnieper river bend, and a renewed drive southwest of Kharkov toward Poltava in which 14 German counter-attacks were repulsed threatened the early collapse of enemy resistance east of the Dnieper and the possible entrapment of huge enemy forces, the Russians said.

The Russians, including Cossack cavalrymen who aided in overpowering Mariupol on the Sea of Azov, were reported within 25 miles of Pavlograd, which is only 35 miles from the Dnieper bend.

Report Novorossisk Landing.

A Berlin broadcast recorded by the Associated Press said Russian amphibious forces had stormed ashore "in the port of Novorossisk" on the Black sea coast of the western Causasus where thousands of isolated German troops hold a 45 mile wide fringe of the Taman peninsula east of the Crimea.

Moscow made no mention of the Caucasian theater. The soviet marines landing at Novorossisk were "smashed up to a large extent" and 11 landing boats and a soviet gunboat were sunk or set afire off shore, the Germans said, and added: "Fighting is now going on with the rest of the enemy forces which landed."

Across the Sea of Azov the Russians are chasing other battered German divisions westward toward Melitopol, 100 miles beyond captured Mariupol, leaving the axis Caucasian group in growing isolation.

On the central front above Bryansk where the Russians last were reported within 40 miles of Smolensk, the bulletin said the Red army still was attacking in an effort to improve its positions.

SLASHED BY LOITERER.

Sol Krom, owner of a shoe store at 1516 Madison street, was slashed on the neck yesterday by a Negro he said he found loitering in a parking lot at 1611 Madison street. He held the Negro, Joseph Crosby, 73 years old, 1651 Fulton street, until the arrival of police.

CENSOR PRAISES VOLUNTARY CURB OF U. S. EDITORS

The "good sense" of editors of America was credited by Byron Price, director of censorship, for the success "in a very large measure" of voluntary censorship of newspapers in the war.

Speaking yesterday at the closing session of the Associated Press managing editors' war time conference in the Drake hotel, Price said he came to the meeting principally to "express my appreciation to the newspaper editors for the great service they have done under the censorship code."

William Stevens, managing editor of the Tulsa [Okla.] Tribune, who recently returned to his editorial desk after serving under Price in Washington, also spoke. He said the censorship staff had tried constantly to make army and navy officials justify, on the grounds of national security, their decisions whenever news was withheld.

The association adopted by a unanimous standing vote a resolution praising the work of Associated Press staff men overseas in their coverage of war fronts and asked that the message of appreciation, admiration, and best wishes be forwarded to the war correspondents.

George W. Healy Jr. of the New Orleans Times-Picayune was elected chairman of the association, succeeding Basil Walters of the Minneapolis Star-Journal and Tribune. W. R. Arnold of the Milwaukee Journal was named vice president.

GET $280 IN TAVERN HOLDUP.

Intimidating Mikolos Ezerskes and five patrons in his tavern at 2649 West 47th street, two men carrying revolvers took $280 from a box on the back bar, then fled, police were told yesterday.

THERAPISTS GIVE GOLD KEY AWARD TO DR. COULTER

The American Congress of Physical Therapy concluded its four day 22d annual convention in the Palmer House yesterday without settling either the date or the place of next year's meeting. Because of transportation and other uncertainties it was determined to postpone these decisions until later.

The final day's activities consisted of visits to the clinics of Cook County hospital, Michael Reese hospital, and Northwestern university. Some 200 physicians, about half of the total attending the convention, made the trips.

During the convention, it was announced that the 1943 gold key award of the congress would go to Dr. John S. Coulter, distinguished Chicago physician, in recognition of his many years of effort for the advance of physical therapy. Dr. Coulter is chairman of the department of physical therapy of Northwestern university medical school, director of physical therapy at five Chicago hospitals, and a large contributor to the literature of physical therapy.

ANOTHER DRAFT OFFICIAL BALKS ON DADS; QUITS

Cites Boards' 'Rat Files' of Single Dodgers.

Spring Valley, N. Y., Sept. 11 [Special].—Joining in the wide protest against the drafting of fathers, Charles W. Hawkins today resigned as a member of the Ramapo selective service board.

"If married men with children are to be drafted while many single men are deferred," said Hawkins in his letter of resignation, "some one else can classify them—not I."

Other recent protests against the drafting of fathers resulted in the resignation of a Pennsylvania draft board chairman, the firing of five members of a Massachusetts board, the resignation of an Ohio draft board chairman, resolutions of protest from an Illinois board, and announced refusals of boards in New Jersey and Oklahoma to draft dads as long as single men were being deferred.

Boards Have "Rat Files."

In an interview following the release of his resignation letter, Hawkins referred to a growing "rat file" in draft board offices. This is made up of the names of single men "who are doing all they possibly can to avoid service," he said. He added that it is a large list—"too large."

Hawkins is president of the First National bank of Spring Valley, chairman of the county organization of the New York State Banking association, and president of the Rockland County Bankers association. He is a veteran of World War I., having served two years in France with the 59th artillery.

In his letter, Hawkins criticized the inconsistency of some of the directives and statements coming out of Washington regarding proposed classification changes. "This intimidates many registrants," he wrote, "and causes members of the boards no end of embarrassment."

Calls Allotments Too Small.

Hawkins charged that present allotments for the families of married men with children are too meager. "If they are taken," he warned, "there are going to be more relief rolls immediately."

Among the draft board chairmen who resigned recently in protest against the administration's draft policies were Edmund H. Harvey of Yeadon, Pa., chairman of the Delaware county draft board No. 2, and Tom C. Wooden of Bowling Green, O., chairman of the Wood county draft board.

Five members of draft board No. 76 of Haverhill, Mass., were removed from office this week by Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national selective service director, because they had announced they would not call pre-Pearl Harbor fathers for induction while single men were exempted.

Protest to Senators.

Resolutions protesting the drafting of fathers were sent to Senators Wayland Brooks [R.] and Scott W. Lucas [D.] of Illinois on Sept. 3 by board No. 2 of Rockford, Ill. "The military services have plenty of men for the time being," said Fred C. Olson, chairman, in releasing the protest, "and we see no necessity for breaking up homes."

J. B. Watson, chairman of board No. 3 of Oklahoma City, Okla., declared a few days ago that his board is not going to draft fathers "until this mess is straightened out."

Another protest came from Vincent DeP. Slavin, chairman of board 2, Union county, N. J., who called on congress to investigate what he termed unfair draft methods. He said his board was "disgusted and discouraged" by apparent unfairness in the operation of the draft system.

Four Boys Held in Theft of $30 and Gas Tickets

Four teen aged boys were turned over to juvenile authorities yesterday by Racine avenue police after they were said to have admitted looting the till of the Marling Petroleum corporation, 1221 North Branch street, last week-end. Police reports said $30 and 25,000 gasoline coupons were taken. The boys are Paul Wiora, 14 years old, and Richard Lehman, 14, both of 1015 Division street; Walter Plezia, 16, of 1120 Hickory street, and Eugene Manny, 15, of 1125 Branch street.

BARUCH WARNS NATION IT MUST PRODUCE MORE

Threatens New Cut in Civilian Goods.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11 (AP).—Bernard M. Baruch has prepared an analysis of the man power situation, concluding that the nation has got to produce more efficiently or else cut back war production and trim still further the output of nonessential civilian goods.

Bernard M. Baruch.

As one step toward more efficient use of man power, he suggests in a memorandum disclosed today, that farm draft deferments be reviewed regularly, to assure that farms are not becoming havens for draft dodgers. This brought a prompt reaction from Capitol hill.

Chairman Hampton P. Fulmer [D., S. C.], of the house agriculture committee heatedly declared that the federal government "is sheltering twice as many draft dodgers as the farms."

Claims Scarcity of Help.

If there are any draft dodgers or surplus workers on the farms, Fulmer told reporters, he was unable to find them during a recent survey in the south.

"Crops are lying unharvested in the fields because there aren't enough men to gather them in," he declared, "and from what I hear that situation prevails thruout the land."

Baruch did not spare the government in his memorandum, which was prepared for War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes, to whom the financier and war production head in 1917-'18 is an adviser.

Calls for U. S. Example.

The government ought to set an example for private industry, he said, by "cleaning out unnecessary employes."

Inferentially, the report backs up the decision to draft fathers by saying that selective service should give more regard to occupation and less to dependency in granting deferments. Among other of Baruch's conclusions:

1. There are indications that an oversupply of some types of war materials is being built up.

2. The practice of ordering war goods on a cost-plus fixed-fee basis should be discontinued in favor of fixed price contracting. Cost-plus fixed-fee encourages labor hoarding, he said, since the manufacturer knows the government will foot the bill no matter how many employes he keeps on his pay roll, whereas fixed-price contracting rewards the more efficient producer.

Cites Labor Pattern.

3. The recent labor program worked out for the west coast should be made the pattern for controls in other areas whenever man power troubles arise. The west coast program provides for interagency committees to determine labor priorities, and when necessary to withdraw war contracts and curtail civilian output to align the demand for labor more closely with the supply.

4. Employers should promise first chance on choice post-war jobs to workers who stick to their war jobs.

The country was described in the memorandum as suffering from an attack of "peace jitters" arising from optimistic war news. To counteract post-war thinking by management, it said that efficient employers should be assured post-war priorities on conversion materials and tools.

NEGRO BAPTISTS CALL RACE TO SUPPORT G. O. P.

Delegates to the 63d National Baptist convention, representing 4,000,000 Negro Baptists, voted unanimously in their session held yesterday at the 8th Regiment armory, 35th street and Giles avenue, to call on Negro voters of the north to elect Republicans in protest against the discriminatory practices of the Roosevelt administration.

The convention called for support of Negro voters in electing Republican governors in New Jersey and Kentucky, lieutenant governor in New York, and mayor in Philadelphia.

The resolution charged discrimination against Negroes in the army and navy, war housing, transportation, and the 5,000 ration boards thruout the country. Special emphasis was placed on alleged discriminatory practices in the army, navy, and air forces, denial of equal rights to Negro soldiers, and complete exclusion of Negro women from the WAVES.

He Meets Them All in New Guinea.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Sept. 11.—The longer I am away from Chicago the stronger my impression is that there is nobody living there any more. The reason for this probably false belief is the fact that I meet so many Chicagoans here.

Within the space of a half hour a week or so ago I met Pvt. Edward Flodin, 4902 North Rockwell street; 2d Lt. Myer Silbert, 831 Sunnyside avenue; 2d Lt. Richard Neuhaus, 4711 North Sacramento avenue, and Capt. Kent Miller, 119 East 70th street, all Chicagoans and all amphibian engineers—the men who bring in the supplies in all sorts of small boats under the very noses of the Japs.

Then on the beach a few score miles further down the coast I found a couple of more amphibians—2d Lt. Robert C. Lee, 2219 East 70th street, and Master Sgt. Lyle Lyman, 6736 East End avenue. Lee, a former attorney, and Lyman, a former insurance man, did not know they were neighbors, tho they were well acquainted, till I told them.

They Just Haunt Him.

They haunt me everywhere I go, I had tea in an Australian Salvation Army hut and found Pvt. Joe Paolini, 2741 North Greenview avenue; Pvt. Howard A. Ziska, 4638 West Adams street — whose father Rudolph, is a wagon man assigned to the Fillmore street station; and Pvt. Paul A. Spears, 1136 West 104th place. All are air corps engineers and all were drinking tea.

This morning I picked up a pair of hitchhiking privates who said they were en route to air force headquarters to see whether they could return to the United States and become air cadets. One was Harold H. Daum, 2604 North 72d court, Elmwood Park, Ill., and even the other was from Illinois. He was Homer L. Duff of Barry.

Meets Two Tribunites.

The day before yesterday, who was among the crowd welcoming the five visiting United States senators on their arrival at the airport but Lt. Harry Fisher, 1231 Grant street, Evanston, Ill., a former reporter for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S metropolitan section. He is communications officer of a troop carrying squadron here.

A day or so before that some one called my name in a hospital and who was there, grinning the same old grin, but Lt. Gene Filip, former CHICAGO TRIBUNE office boy, well on the way to recovery from a bullet wound suffered over Wewak when the plane on which he was bombardier was attacked by Zeros.

Five minutes after landing with the allied troops above Lae I again met Sgt. Peter Paolini [no relation to Joe], whom I last saw two months ago at Nassau bay. A few midnights ago I stopped in a building where I saw lights and men drinking coffee, and got a hearty welcome from Staff Sgt. John Simone, 5942 South Peoria street.

Always Father Monaghan.

The artillery battery I lived with for six weeks included Pvt. Mario Pasquisi of Highwood, Ill., the most cheerful man in New Guinea; Sgt. John S. Wojnarowski, 3142 West 42d street, a section chief; Pvt. Ted M. Sopalowski, 3746 South Wood street, a machine gunner, plus other Illinoisans including Pvt. John J. Bodnar of Joliet, a cannoneer; Pvt. William J. Wappler of Collinsville, a cannoneer, and Pvt. Jack Dawson of Princeton, a switchboard operator.

And I must not forget to mention Lt. Owen Monaghan of Chicago, a chaplain, who is doing such a really tremendous job at Tambu bay. I'll bet I met "Chappie," as the boys call him, at least 30 times.

Climb a ridge — there's Father Monaghan.

Walk miles down the beach — there's Father Monaghan.

Dreams of Chicagoans.

Visit an area just shelled or just bombed — there's Father Monaghan.

In fact, I am not at all sure there are not two and maybe three Father Monaghans. One man could not be in so many places at once.

Well, there they are. No, wait a minute. Here's another name in my notebook I don't think I've used. Pvt. Herman Cox of Springfield, Ill., whose sister, Mrs. F. S. O'Neill, lives at 1961 West Adams street, Chicago.

I saw Herman one day and he asked where I was from. I said THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and he said, "I'll be damned; I'm from Springfield."

It has reached the stage where I even see Chicagoans in my dreams.

HIT-RUN DRIVER CAUSES DEATH OF NEWSBOY, 18

A hit and run driver yesterday ran down and fatally injured Erwin Zaruba, 18 year old newsboy of 5636 Princeton avenue, the sole support of his mother, a brother, and three sisters. He died in Englewood hospital a few hours after he was struck near his stand at 63d and Ashland avenue by the auto which failed to stop. No clew to the identity of the driver was obtained.

John Cotton, 18, 1907 Sherman avenue, Evanston, climbed off the top of a truckload of magazines at Howard and Paulina streets and collapsed, supposedly having struck his head against a low viaduct. Rushed to St. Francis hospital, Evanston, Cotton was found to be suffering from multiple skull fractures.

Carl August Olson, 45, 2922 North Damen avenue, who was arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated after he drove his auto into a group of persons, injuring five, told police he had taken an aspirin for relief of asthma and had had a glass of whisky which had made him dizzy. William Callahan, 52, 2343 Irving Park road, a chauffeur, apparently most badly hurt of the five who were about to board a street car at Clark street and Irving Park road, was reported not seriously injured at Martha Washington hospital.

James T. Rendell, 29, 345 Edson avenue, Lombard, died and James Walker of Warrenville, motorman of the Cannonball, fast train of the Chicago, Aurora, and Elgin electric railway, was in Elmhurst Community hospital with a fractured leg after the train and Rendell's car crashed at the Edson avenue crossing in Lombard. Rendell was employed at the Electro-Motive corporation plant in La Grange.

Report Copenhagen Fined for Death of Nazi Soldier

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 11 (AP).—German occupation authorities have imposed a fine of a million kroner [about $220,000] upon the city of Copenhagen in reprisal for the slaying of a German corporal the night of Sept. 7, Free Danes here said tonight. Payment was due at 5 p. m. today.

FALL INJURIES FATAL.

Mrs. Nellie Hey, 79, a resident of Franklin Boulevard home at 3217 Franklin boulevard, died in County hospital yesterday. She entered the hospital on Friday after fracturing a hip in a fall.

U. S. COURT BARS DR. WYNEKOOP'S PLEA FOR WRIT

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday dismissed an application for a writ of habeas corpus for Dr. Alice A. Wynekoop, Chicago physician who in 1934 was sentenced to 25 years in prison for the murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta, 23 years old.

Judge Barnes ruled that jurisdiction should not be exercised by federal courts in this case because Dr. Wynekoop was being held in custody by authority of a state court commitment. The dismissal gave Dr. Wynekoop an opportunity to refile the petition in a state court.

In a letter dated April 27, 1943, Dr. Wynekoop, now 73 years old, pleaded there was no evidence of her guilt except her own confession, later repudiated.

The nearly nude body of Rheta was found Nov. 21, 1933, on an examining table in the 16 room Wynekoop home. Dr. Wynekoop later confessed she shot the girl in a panic after discovering Rheta had died of an accidental overdose of chloroform. From the witness stand she contended this statement had been wrung from her by police trickery. The prosecution described the slaying as a "cold blooded" crime to collect $10,000 insurance.

THE HOME OF HIS DREAMS
Buy an extra $100 bond

A PICTURESQUE EARLY AMERICAN SLOGAN WAS "STRIKE FOR HOME AND FIRESIDE!" REMEMBER?

And that just about sums up what American soldiers are in there slugging for now. Home and fireside are our dearest sentiments.

And when a soldier has any "spare" time, it's ten to one he indulges in spinning the home of his dreams, how he'll make it "a cinch for the missus," or how it will thrill the lady he's going to ask to preside over this blissful domain. Let's get behind this boy now, so that he may realize his dream all the sooner. We can do it by buying an extra $100 bond, on top of all other bonds we're buying. It may pinch a little, but it's worth it!

Series E Bonds give back $4 for every $3 when bond matures.

PETOSKEY FOLK RALLY TO PICK WILD MILKWEED

Million Pounds Expected for Use of Navy.

Petoskey, Mich., Sept. 11 [Special].—Harvest of the wild milkweed, which grows in profusion in northern Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, will be begun here next week as the culmination of a navy program to replace kapok, a fibre formerly imported from the Netherland Indies.

Milkweed floss, said to be, the only native American plant fibre which, like kapok, is hollow and has air cells inside it, will be used as filler for life preservers, aviators' jackets, marine mattresses, airplane insulation and other military needs. Every pound of an expected million pound harvest will be purchased by the defense plant corporation to augment the navy's dwindling kapok stockpile.

Processing Plant Built.

Rapidly nearing completion here is the country's first plant for the commercial processing of milkweed floss. The plant comprises a main building 450 by 93 feet in size containing a mechanical dryer, gins, and bailing and storage rooms, and has been set up by the Milkweed Floss corporation of America under lease from DPC.

Pickers of milkweed pods will earn 15 cents a bag, according to prices established by government agents. Thousands of bags were distributed this week to prospective pickers, and supervisors are establishing buying centers in local communities where picking is under way. Village and country stores, gasoline stations and other places of business are being selected as buying centers.

Pay 20 Cents a Bag.

Pickers who turn in bags of cured pods will receive 20 cents a bag, it was said. Arrangements are being made, however, for the establishment of drying centers at the fair grounds at Petoskey and Cadillac, where bags will be hung on fences around the race tracks, in the grandstands and in stock and feed barns.

Individuals, family groups and community organizations are expected to participate in the harvest. All day picks have been scheduled by hundreds of service clubs, schools, churches and boy and girl scout troops.

The department of agriculture, which has sponsored development of processes for utilizing milkweed, has mapped out a program calling for a 3 million pound goal in 1944 and 5 million in 1945.

GEN. JOHNSON, BOMB EXPERT, HEADS 11TH AIR FORCE IN ALASKA

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11 (AP).—Appointment of Maj. Gen. Davenport Johnson, a bombing expert, as commanding general of the 11th air force in the Alaskan theater was announced today by the war department. Johnson succeeds Maj. Gen. William O. Butler, transferred to Washington.

Maj. Gen. Johnson.

As commanding general of the 2d air force with headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo., Johnson supervised much of the training of bomber crews now battering enemy positions. His successor in that post was not named.

CHICAGO AREA TAX OFFICES TO BE OPEN NIGHTS

HUSBAND KILLS WIFE'S VISITOR FLEEING HOME

Mount Vernon, Ill., Sept. 11 [Special].—A rifle shot by an angry husband today broke up a triangle and resulted in the death of a widower with six children.

B. F. Miller, 50 years old, a roofing company employe, was the victim. He was struck by a .22 caliber bullet fired by Ernie Lyons, 49, an ice plant worker, who said he saw Miller in a bedroom with Mrs. Lyons, 48, when he came home unexpectedly.

Lyons, who is being held without charges by police, told State's Attorney George Howard he had left for work at 11 o'clock last night but was told at the ice plant not to report until 4 a. m.

Reaches Thru Window for Gun.

He returned home between 2 and 3 a. m., he said, and thru a bedroom window saw Miller and his wife in the room. He then removed a screen from a window in the next room, reached in and picked up the rifle, and went to the front door.

Lyons said he was unable to enter because the door was locked from the inside. His wife then appeared, he said, and told him to go to the back door. When he went to the back, according to his story, Miller ran out the front door. Lyons took one shot at the fleeing figure, but thought he had missed.

After the shooting, the state's attorney reported, Lyons took $132 from his wife by force and left for work. Mrs. Lyons called police to tell them of the loss of the money, and when police picked up Lyons he told them of firing at a man.

Body Found Beside Fence.

Miller's body was found beside a fence by neighbors three hours after the shooting. The bullet had gone thru the fleshy part of the hip, causing an internal hemorrhage.

Mrs. Lyons admitted to State's Attorney Howard that she and Miller had been friendly for some time. She denied, however, that their relations had been improper, saying they had just come in from having had some drinks.

Lyons told the state's attorney he had seen his wife and Miller together before and had warned them he would shoot both if he found them together again.

The Lyonses were married in 1921 and have a son about 21 who is in the army. The prosecutor said Miller had been a widower for about a year and is the father of six children. He said charges against Lyons would not be filed until after an inquest, which is scheduled for Monday.

One Out of 5 Homes Wrecked; Britain Faces Rebuilding Job

One home in every five in Great Britain has been destroyed or damaged by enemy action. In London more than one million homes out of two and one-half millions have been hit, and 374,000 persons have had to be rehoused after demolition of their dwellings. In Coventry 70,000 houses out of 85,000 were bombed or fired.

Those figures on the effects of the war on the physical aspects of English cities were put before the 30th annual conference of the International City Managers' association at a luncheon meeting in the Edgewater Beach hotel yesterday by Arthur Collins, British consultant on local government.

Big Problems Waiting.

Much of his address was devoted to the unprecedented problems of reconstruction and administration which await British local governmental units after the war.

"All over the country," he said, "there are cities and towns awaiting a new creation. Here is an opportunity to rebuild for new life. Who can say best how to use it?"

Collins referred to the astonishing financial stability of Britain's blitzed cities and towns, and pointed out that none has defaulted on its bonds or fallen down on any of its contractual obligations.

He warmly praised "that peculiarly American quality of versatility—the ability to switch one's jobs, to keep one's head in unprecedented circumstances, to assume leadership, to disregard risks." He said that the good performance of English public servants during the blitz was due largely to the fact that in an emergency they, too, were able to display something of this same quality.

Winning War Put First.

"That there was never any panic, never any uncontrolable British situation in any British city is not a boast but a fact," he said. "It is in itself a tribute to the way in which our civil service, national and local, rose to the occasion."

Collins contrasted many aspects of American and English government. In England, with the enemy so close, he said, there is relatively little thinking yet on post-war governmental problems. "We've got to win it [the war] first," he said, "and that won't be soon or easy either."

START HEARING TOMORROW ON HARVESTER PAY

A hearing on a general wage increase asked by the United Farm Equipment and Metal Workers of America [CIO] for 21,815 employes in eight plants of the International Harvester company will start tomorrow at 10 a. m. before a special panel for the regional war labor board, in room 304 of the War Agencies building at 222 West Jackson boulevard. The plants involved are the McCormick works, the McCormick twine mills, the tractor works, and the West Pullman works, all in Chicago, and works in Bettendorf, Ia.; East Moline, Ill.; Richmond, Ind., and Rock Falls, Ill. Members of the panel are Herman Rauch of Milwaukee, Wis., chairman and public member; Thomas Butler of Alton, industry member, and Robert Travis, labor member.

Can Vitamins Change GRAY HAIR?

Impartial investigators have found vitamin Calcium Pantothenate of some value in changing gray hair, where a deficiency of this vitamin may have caused gray or graying hair.

For example, one test conducted by Good Housekeeping magazine on a number of people, showed 88% of those tested (all ages were included) had positive evidence of a return of some hair color.

Now thousands use GRAYVITA, which contains 10 mgm. of Calcium Pantothenate (the same amounts used in above tests) PLUS 450 U.S.P. units of B_1, the vitamin necessary to healthy nerves. Try GRAYVITA. See what a difference it may make in the way you look. 30 day supply, $1.50; 100 day supply, $4.00.

WAR LOAN TOPS 78½ MILLIONS IN TWO DAYS' DRIVE

Pace Drops, Tho Average Quota Is Maintained.

The First Billion!

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11 (AP).—The treasury announced tonight that $1,196,000,000 of bonds were sold in the first two days of the 22 day, $15,000,000,000 third war loan drive. The figures include sales for Thursday and Friday.

During the first two days of the third war loan drive $78,526,000 worth of bonds were sold in Chicago and Cook county, Irvin L. Porter, chairman of the Cook county war finance committee, announced yesterday. Friday's sales were $27,054,000, a drop from the opening day sales of $51,472,000, but enough to keep the two day figure above the $35,000,000 a day average which is considered necessary if the county is to make its quota of $746,348,400 during the drive.

Lt. Col. S. Z. Eleveld.

"While it is gratifying to be above the daily average necessary to meet our quota," Porter said, "sales dropped below the pace set for the first day. With a short work day on Saturday, which may cut down third day totals, Chicagoans will have to start buying with renewed vigor on Monday to keep us ahead of the average necessary to reach our goal."

Manufacturers Swing Into Work.

Developments of yesterday included an announcement by the Illinois Manufacturers' association that all of the association's member firms would be urged to participate actively, and to solicit the participation of their employes, in the loan drive.

An example that the treasury department doubtless would like to see widely imitated was set this week by Mrs. Laverne Guhl, 1019 North Leamington avenue, who sent a letter of greeting to her godson, David Stevenson, 3 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Stevenson, 2431 North Tripp avenue, with four 25 cent war savings stamps affixed.

The five million dollar bond drive of Central Uptown Chicago will get under way with a victory parade to be held this afternoon beginning at 2:30 o'clock. Among participants will be units from Great Lakes Naval Training station, the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Boy Scouts, and the civilian defense organizations.

The line of march will be west on Winona street from Marine drive to Sheridan road, south on Sheridan road to Sunnyside avenue, west on Sunnyside avenue to Broadway, and north on Broadway to Foster avenue.

MP Battalion to Camp Here.

The entire 740th military police battalion of Camp Skokie Valley, commanded by Lt. Col. Sidney Z. Eleveld, will camp in Grant park from Sept. 15 to Oct. 1 and guard 24 hours a day the 3 million dollars worth of planes, tanks, guns, and other fighting equipment to be on display there in connection with the loan drive.

The movement into the park will take place the afternoon of Sept. 15, said Maj. Gen. Henry S. Aurand, commanding general of the 6th service command.

Highlight of the Chicago drive will be the Hollywood cavalcade rally in Soldiers' field Thursday night. The program will include appearances by James Cagney, Judy Garland, Mickey Rooney, Greer Garson, Fred Astaire, Harpo Marx, a score of Hollywood starlets, and the Great Lakes Naval Training station band and choir.

Indiana Prisoners Buy.

Purchase of $2,500 worth of bonds by an inmate yesterday started off the bond drive of the Indiana state prison at Michigan City. The prison goal is $6,711.

R. A. Cole, president of the Metropolitan Funeral system and active in the third war loan drive, said that he had not bought a suit of clothes since the war began and did not plan to buy any until it was over.

Five hundred retail merchants and employes in the Auburn Park district have pledged themselves to sell at least $200 worth of bonds apiece.

A large rally for office of civilian defense war bond wardens will be held this afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock, at Gompers park, 4200 Foster avenue. Mayor Kelly, coördinator of civilian defense, is expected to speak. The OCD wardens will be responsible for the house-to-house war bond canvass that begins tomorrow.

150,000 WILL JOIN IN HOLY HOUR'S PEACE PRAYER

Blend Pageantry and Devotion Tonight.

A united prayer for peace thru the victory of allied arms will go up tonight from upwards of 150,000 Chicagoans assembled in Soldiers' field for the third annual Holy hour of the Catholic archdiocese of Chicago.

Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch will lead in the colorful tho solemn three and one-half hour program of pageantry and devotions, expressive of gratitude for recent allied successes and prayer for early end of war, for safety of service men and women, and for personal strength to bear hardships.

Since the Catholic archdiocese of Chicago will be 100 years old on Sept. 30, the Holy hour will be the first of a series of religious functions observing the event.

Lepanto Victory Theme.

The ceremonies will be dedicated to Mary, Queen of the Most Holy Rosary, in supplication for her intercession for the allied cause. The theme of the service will be "Lepanto and Now," referring to the victory at Lepanto in 1571, which ended the threat of Mohammedanism to western civilization and which Catholics credit to widespread public recitation of the Rosary.

"The things at stake in this war are the basic truths on which Christian culture is built," Archbishop Stritch wrote to the 421 parishes in Illinois, announcing the purposes of the Holy hour. "We invite all to join with us tonight that using the weapon of prayer, we may bring God's mercy on us and accomplish for us a victory which will uncompromisingly protect our rights, our national interests, and establish a world peace in justice and charity."

2,000 in Living Rosary.

A grand procession will be led by military units of army, navy, marines, coast guard, and Illinois militia, followed by 900 priests of Chicago, visiting dignitaries, and the archbishop, escorted by ranking members of the military and Knights of St. Gregory.

Among many impressive features of the program, starting at 6 p. m., will be the public praying of the Rosary by the assembled throng while 2,000 high school girls form a living rosary.

When the prayer for peace ends, the lights of the stadium will be dimmed for two minutes of silent meditation for loved ones in services.

Among notables to attend will be Gov. Green, Mayor Kelly, Rep. Stephen A. Day [R., Ill.], United States Atty. J. Albert Woll, and Postmaster Ernest J. Kreutgen. Admission is free and the gates will open at 4 p. m.

SCREAMS ROUT INTRUDER.

Mrs. Louise Suski's screams for help yesterday routed an unidentified man who tried to seize her in the cleaning shop at 1333 North Paulina street where she is assistant manager.

AUDIENCE HAILS KENT COOPER'S NEW OPERETTA

COL. McCORMICK'S TALK.
Text of the talk by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of The Chicago Tribune, on the Chicago Theater of the Air program last night is on the editorial page.

A newspaper man turned composer—Kent Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press—was present in the W-G-N studio last night to hear the first performance anywhere of an operetta for which he had provided the libretto, the lyrics, and the music. A near capacity audience warmly received the new work.

It's called "About the Girl," and it was presented by a combined singing and dramatic cast headed by Marion Claire, Thomas L. Thomas, Barbara Luddy, and Charles Irving. Henry Weber conducted and the W-G-N chorus and orchestra participated. Production was in charge of Jack La Frandre. The operetta was broadcast by W-G-N, W59C, and Mutual.

"About the Girl" concerns the adventures of Bob Cruise, an engineer on the Alaska highway, and a certain Evalane, a Chicago night club singer. Bob has been hearing what he considers an extraordinarily attractive voice on his squeaky radio set up in the wilderness. The moment that the static stops and he learns from the announcer that the voice belongs to Evalane and that she is singing in the Club Canterbury, news is brought to him that two saboteurs have been caught in the construction camp and that they have turned out to be ex-bouncers from this very Club Canterbury!

Bob, tortured by the suspicion that his adored Evalane is mixed up in some un-American goings on, comes to Chicago, acosts her, falls hopelessly in love with her, and wins her love—all in a whirlwind scene backstage at the night club. An idyllic month of companionship with her is marred only by his suspicion that she is a no good tool of Hitler. Finally he blurts out his thoughts and takes leave of her.

When he arrives back north, it turns out that she has preceded him, that she is determined to marry him, and that it has been proved not only that she is innocent of wrong doing but also that he, Bob, is heir to the Club Canterbury. His father had foreclosed, and the dispossessed owner thought up the evil scheme for blowing up the highway to discredit Bob, and so take revenge on the father.

Some of the tunes are skilfully constructed and have a lilt and a professional quality which newspapermen seldom achieve in their musical compositions. The performance had considerable fervor, and it moved along at a spirited pace. Mr. Cooper was called to the stage at its conclusion and received a cordial round of applause from the audience.

Getting Up Nights Nervousness and Kidney Strain

If you're feeling out o'sorts, Get Up Nights or suffer from Burning Passages, Backache, Swollen Ankles, Nervousness, Rheumatic Pains, Dizziness, Circles Under Eyes and feel worn-out, the cause may be non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles. Worry, Colds, working too hard, or overeating or drinking may create an excess of Acids and overload your Kidneys so that they need help to flush out poisonous wastes that might otherwise undermine your health.

Help Kidneys Remove Acids

Nature provides the Kidneys to clean and purify your blood and to remove excess Acids. The Kidneys contain about nine million tiny tubes or filters through which the heart pumps blood about 200 times an hour, night and day, so it's easy to see that they may get tired and slow down when overloaded.

Fourteen years ago a practicing physician's prescription called Cystex was made available to the public through drug stores, making it easy and inexpensive to help thousands suffering from non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles in these three simple ways: 1. Help the Kidneys remove excess acids which may become poisoning and irritating. 2. To palliate burning and smarting of the urinary passages, and bladder irritation. 3. Help the Kidneys flush out wastes which may become poisonous if allowed to accumulate, thus aiding nature in stimulating an increase of energy, which may easily make you feel years younger.

Guaranteed Trial Offer

Usually, in non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder disorders the very first dose of Cystex goes right to work helping the Kidneys flush out excess Acids, poisons and wastes. And this cleansing, purifying Kidney action, in just a day or so, may easily make you feel younger, stronger and better than in years. An iron clad guarantee insures an immediate refund of all your money unless you are completely satisfied. Get Cystex from your druggist today for only 35c.

AUTHOR'S NOTE: Cystex is produced under the direction of a licensed physician for The Knox Co., one of the largest drug companies in the world with laboratory connections in the U.S.A., Canada, England, Australia and South America. The guarantee of money back unless satisfied is enforced 100% and is a dependable form of assurance to all users of Cystex.

Here's furniture that's delightfully new and different—in character, in beauty, and above all in revolutionary, wonderful comfort. That's because Bel Geddes—its creator, one of America's greatest modern designers—commanded science to achieve complete comfort . . . then clothed it with exciting and appealing form and color.

Each piece is covered in a fabric you'll thrill to . . .
Cottons in nubby textures, vivid corduroys, prints dew-fresh!
Colors that ignite the imagination: chartreuse, tobacco brown, coral, lime, turquoise, and grape tones.
Here is color you must see and experience to appreciate.

And—amazing point—this versatile and different furniture will solve your space problems, for pieces slide together to conserve space, or group in separate units to consume space. You can group and regroup them to suit your room and fancy.

And for that wondrous comfort: these pieces say to the body—
"Sit this way for lasting comfort and relaxation"—
And because scientific design is concealed in these new pieces, the body relaxes and rests—and you are made comfortable as no furniture has comforted the body before.

Here, truly, is a fundamentally correct new kind of furniture you'll be proud to be the first to own.

PROTECTING YOUR MONEY AND YOURSELF.

All of the American people taken together earned 71 billion dollars the year the present war started. This year they will earn 150 billion dollars. But, while there is twice as much spending money as in 1939, there isn't nearly as much for which to spend money. We have more money than goods, unless prices of goods are increased enough to absorb the excess earnings. No sane person wants that to happen. Every one is expected to buy bonds in the next three weeks. But the present drive is directed especially at those who now have bigger incomes than they had in 1939.

Who are the people with the extra earnings? They are not landlords, because the government won't let rents go up, not even by enough to offset increased coal prices and higher taxes. Owners of stocks and bonds are not the ones either. The government figures show that dividends and interest in the first half of the year were 14 per cent greater than in the same period in 1939.

The excess war incomes are going primarily to those who work for wages. The department of labor figures show that in the first six months of 1943 factory workers were paid 225 per cent more money than in the first six months of 1939. No other group comes close, except farmers. Their income has risen 132 per cent during the war.

The rise in wage earners' incomes is reflected in the increase in the amount of money in circulation from 7 billion dollars in 1939 to 18 billion dollars at present. This extra amount is stored in pants pockets, purses, bedticks, old clocks, under-the-floor hiding places, and safety vaults. Unless it is in a vault it may be lost by carelessness, fire, or robbery. And safeblowers proved in Chicago recently that some vaults can be cracked.

The one 100 per cent safe place for money is to invest it in war bonds. They can be turned into cash at will, but only by their rightful owners. The Portage Park safecrackers threw on the floor all the war bonds they discovered. They wanted nothing but currency.

Some workers who have been buying war savings bonds may want to diversify their holdings with some bonds on which income can be collected periodically, and which can be used as collateral for a loan at the bank. The government is prepared to meet such a demand with a 2½ per cent issue in denominations as small as $500, due in 1969, with interest payable semi-annually.

RETURN TO REASON.

Sen. Wheeler has announced that he will insist on abandonment of the fathers' draft now that Italy has surrendered and the axis has been broken. The bill he had introduced before congress recessed would have postponed the induction of pre-war fathers until Jan. 1. Now, the senator says, we have even less use for a huge standing army and "there is no reason to jeopardize what we are fighting for—the existence of the American home—when the axis is crumbling."

Gen. Hershey, selective service director, admitted coincidentally with Italy's surrender that we can slow up the pace of inductions. "We probably won't have to mobilize as many men for the remainder of the war as we have in the past," he said.

Even the Democrats are hedging on the question of drafting fathers. It is not so much that they fear the disruption of American economy when the fathers march off to war as it is their fear of a public opinion aroused at the unstatesmanlike stupidity of the fathers' draft. They want to hold on to their jobs.

Rep. J. Buell Snyder of Pennsylvania, chairman of the house military affairs appropriation subcommittee, is one of these Democrats. He advocates drafting men between the ages of 38 and 45 before fathers are inducted. This is a face-saving program chock full of blind fallacy.

The older men cannot be made into soldiers, no matter how willing they are to serve. The army knows that and so does everybody else in the nation except Rep. Snyder. Older men are many times more susceptible to psychiatric as well as physical disorders. Many of them break down just sitting around in training camps and have to be sent home.

We have built the army to destroy our enemies and we have supplied that army and the armies of our allies beyond their most ultimate needs. The thing we must do now is to prevent a breakdown of our domestic economy. If that breakdown occurs, the supply lines of our armies will be cut as effectively as the Germans or the Japanese could do it.

War factories must be returned to civilian production so that civilians can live and eat and produce for their own needs and the needs of the army. Men must be released for civilian production and for agriculture. Those industries which have overproduced war materials can relinquish their workers to civilian industry. The rest should come from the older men in the army and navy and those who have shown that they can't be made into good soldiers.

The fathers, who have heavy home responsibilities and are the leaders of our home economy, must remain at their jobs so that they will continue to form a nucleus around which civilian production can be rebuilt. Drafting them into uniform would, as Sen. Wheeler says, invite a national collapse.

HANDOUT JOURNALISM.

A treasury department press agent telegraphed to The Tribune from Washington the other day, calling our attention to a series of articles sent to us about the third war loan drive. He said that we would find these articles in a franked treasury envelope, and added, "This is a most unsatisfactory way to distribute some very good articles." . . . He closed his telegram with a plea to look for the articles "in your voluminous franked government mail."

The gentleman is right. Our daily quota of franked government mail is voluminous. Every newspaper and radio station in the country receives bales of the stuff each morning. Most of ours goes into the nearest wastebasket because: [1] It isn't news. [2] It is New Deal propaganda, the administration's attempt to control a free press by censoring news at the source. [3] If there is anything worth printing in it our reporters already have dug it up and it's in the morning paper.

While newspaper editors are tossing away tons of good paper that make up their "voluminous government franked mail," readers are thumbing skinny newspapers with less news in them. Publishers are being denied the paper on which to print real news because the New Deal insists that there is a paper shortage. It is doing its best to create one.

THE ROAD TO FASCISM.

Eric A. Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, has just come back from England, where he went to find out what plans the British are making for after the war. He was shocked to learn that they are making preparations to set up great international cartels to monopolize world trade and that they are counting on America joining with them.

A cartel is an association of concerns in the same line of business, formed for the purpose of limiting production, dividing up the markets, and controling prices. The cartel management tells the members how much they can produce, where and to whom they can sell, and how much they must charge.

Cartels are characteristically European organizations. The institution originated before the World war, but it is essentially fascistic. Before 1914, cartels had their highest development in Germany, but were also to be found in most of the other continental countries. The pre-war governments in Germany and Italy looked upon them with great favor and even sponsored them. Thus a compulsory potash cartel was formed by Germany in 1910, and one involving sulphur by Italy in 1906. Control of production, sales, and prices by business concerns under government auspices is the essence of the corporate state, the keystone of fascism. Thus the seeds of Hitler's and Mussolini's Fascist states were sown many years before in the cartelization of industry.

Dr. Theodore H. Kreps of Stanford university testified as follows before the temporary national economic committee in 1940:

"For more than a century the typical British industrialist has produced whatever and as much as he pleased. Today, as a member in good standing of a 'rationalized' industry, he is allowed a specific percentage of the total business that his industry has decided to handle during the year [and he will pay into a pool if he exceeds his quota and will be compensated if he is short]! He will consult the industry schedule before pricing his goods and will not deviate therefrom without permission. He will submit his sales contracts to the officials of his industrial association for advance approval and will throw open his books for industry inspection. He will pay a levy to be used by the industry to purchase and destroy redundant capacity, and he will deposit with the officers of his association a substantial amount to be forfeited if he is found guilty of noncompliance."

This cartel setup in Britain, which was legalized by an act of parliament in 1932, is the one in which British leaders want us to join.

Dr. Kreps stated at the TNEC hearing that there were a number of international cartels involving German, British, French, Italian, and Swedish producers. In reply to a question, he said that the leadership in the formation of the international cartels was usually German, but on occasion British, French, or Italian.

We have had some experience with cartelization in this country under the national recovery act of Mr. Roosevelt's first administration. The act was written by Donald Richberg. At a congressional committee hearing, where he was being questioned by Congressman Knutson of Minnesota, the author of the act testified as follows:

MR. KNUTSON—Under this legislation would it be permissible for industries which are competitors to get together and form cartels such as they have in Europe?

MR. RICHBERG—I do not wish to compare this too broadly with the European cartel, Mr. Knutson.

MR. KNUTSON—In a general way it encourages manufacturers to do the same things that the cartels are doing in Europe?

MR. RICHBERG—I think, in a general way, that may be true! Yes.

That law sanctioning American cartels was declared unconstitutional in 1935. The act represented the greater danger of a Fascist development the country has ever seen. One of the New Deal's most enthusiastic present admirers declared in 1933 that NRA constituted "a semi-dictatorship" and "an approach to a corporate state."

Mr. Johnston was on sound ground when he declared that the British plan for an international cartel and monopolies does not fit into the American way of doing things. American business men will have no traffic with these cartels. Coöperation under the Webb-Pomerene act of 1918 is as far as they will go. American products are good enough to be sold about the world freely and they ask only that they not be hamstrung to help weak, foreign competitors. Mr. Johnston should see not only that his organization opposes participation of Americans in cartels, but that it uses its influence to destroy these evil organizations already in existence. The British tin cartel, which has gouged the people of this country and denied us an adequate amount of this metal, even endangering our ability to wage war, is a good one to start on.

The man with the fixed income was shopping around this morning for a medicine dropper. Said he was going to siphon off his "excess purchasing power."—Detroit News.

Test Your Horse Sense
By George W. Crane

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 7, part 2.

1. One pint of which of the following fluids will weigh the most? Skimmed milk Whole milk Coffee cream Very thick cream.
2. A butternut is most nearly related to which of these? Peanut Buckeye Hickory nut Walnut.
3. The color of the cob of an ear of yellow field corn is White Yellow Red Black.
4. Which one of the following requires the longest time to be cooked? Green beans Sweet corn Rice Dry beans.
5. Red soil should be associated with which one of these states? Ohio Colorado California Georgia.
6. Try to match the following cathedrals with their height in feet. You deserve one point for each correct judgment.

[b]	Notre Dame of Paris	[w]	512 ft.
[c]	Seville Cathedral of Spain	[x]	448 ft.
[e]	Cologne Cathedral, Germany	[z]	204 ft.

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

U. S. WEAPONS ARE BEST

[Following is the address delivered last night by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of The Tribune, on the Chicago Theater of the Air, over W-G-N, W59C, and the Mutual Broadcasting system.]

BY COL. ROBERT R. McCORMICK.

At the close of this little address I will give you better news than even the surrender of Italy.

In order that you may fully appreciate its significance, it is necessary to run thru certain aspects of the history of warfare.

From the dawn of history, armies have been tied to horses. They have had to use them to mount their cavalry, to draw their artillery, to move their supplies. All of the voluminous histories of war, all of the textbooks for thousands of years have tied armies to horses.

Horse power has its limitations. The principal ones are that horses become less efficient as the numbers in a team increase. A six horse team with mounted drivers was as large as could be used effectively, and that limited the weight of field guns. In order to save man power by having the driver on the wagon, transportation teams were limited to four horses or four mules. Horses can travel on the average of five miles an hour, and 25 to 30 miles a day. All military thinking, as I have said, for thousands of years had been limited by these factors.

Every officer in responsible position today received his education in the time of horse armies. Every one was a thoroly trained horseman. Every one had acquired the posture, appearance, manner, speech, mentality, and morality of the horse soldier.

In America, horses passed out of use very quickly after the last war. Tractors went to the farm; trucks to transportation. Almost every home had its automobile. The horse had practically disappeared from American life by 1940, but down to the fall of France and the evacuation of Dunkirk, the army command clung stubbornly to horse warfare.

Of course, there were many advanced thinkers in the army who appreciated the changes that mechanization must bring, but they were not numerous enough or high enough in rank to prevail.

Those of us who began advocating the mechanization of the army in the early '20s held very conservative views. We saw the speeding up of movement from 5 to 30 miles an hour. We saw marches extended from 20 miles a day to 200 miles a day. We saw that the 3-inch gun, the so-called famous French .75, could be enlarged, and talked of a 4-inch gun, a 4.7 and, at the outside, a 6-inch fieldpiece. We even saw that the .30 caliber gun, which was about as large a weapon as could be manhandled, could be increased to a deadly .45 or .50 caliber machine gun when transported by motor, but that is about as far as we went.

The fall of France finally opened the eyes of our military leaders. Genius entered the ordnance department. Some of its achievements were on exhibition in the Chicago ordnance show of a month ago.

Last Monday I saw all of the equipment of all of the countries at war, and I saw the American equipment in action.

The Italian weapons were pitiful. The best were not good. Many of the weapons were from the last war, 25 years ago. I even saw a cannon of the vintage of 1893. Men with such inferior equipment could not expect to stand up to even moderately armed troops.

This can be explained by the facts that the Italian nation is only 70 years old, has no military background, and is too poor a nation to keep its forces armed with up to date weapons.

The British equipment was not much better. For centuries, the British have been the world's greatest horse breeders. As long as warfare was tied to the horse, they had a marked advantage, both in draft and speed. In Spain, back in 1814, Wellington's gentlemen volunteers could ride around the French army at will. Wellington knew exactly where every French soldier was. His opponent never knew where Wellington's troops were. He had the equivalent of modern command of the air.

The horse is the sport of the gentleman—the racing horse, the polo horse, the hunting horse. In England, the army is the avocation of a gentleman, rather than a profession. Mechanics is the occupation of the lower classes and out of any world of the officer and gentleman. The completely underpowered tanks and crude artillery of the British army are the result of this social condition.

The Japanese weapons were mostly imitative and the workmanship was good. But where the Japanese used their own judgment, the primitiveness of their savage intellects became apparent. I refer in particular to their .25 caliber rifle, which is totally lacking in hitting power, and the Zero airplane, a beautiful flying machine, but lacking both in offensive and defensive armament. Where the Japanese have had to improvise weapons at the front, the rickshaw mentality is evident.

The German staff officers knew what they wanted. Their ideas, both as to tanks and cannon, were original, farsighted, and sound, but their mechanics, in turn, were not officers; the highgeborn officers and lowgeborn industrialists could not work together. In consequence, while the principle of all their equipment is correct, the details of execution are quite inferior.

Here is my good news:

Our weapons, without exception, are the best in the world, due to the fact that, with us, every honest occupation is honorable. Here, the experimentalists, the designers, the manufacturers, and the ordnance officers work together in complete harmony, on terms of complete equality. All the ingenuity of our marvelous industrial system has been put at the disposal of the army, and its assistance has been heartily welcomed. The contributions that have been made to weapons by industries that had not thought of war machines a year ago stagger the imagination.

Released from the limitations of horse power, we have used mechanized force to its ultimate possibilities. In consequence, all our weapons are infinitely superior to those of any other country. That explains why, fighting at such great distances from our bases, our soldiers have been able to win—that and our soldiers themselves. It also explains why our allies, formerly defeated on every occasion, began to win as soon as they were supplied with American weapons.

As a field and staff officer who in former times denounced the ordnance department for its backwardness, I am proud to say that it has produced weapons far beyond anything that I or my friends had ever conceived, which brings to mind a statement of Adm. Mahan, our great naval authority.

I quote: "The student will observe that changes of tactics have not only taken place after changes in weapons, which necessarily is the case, but that the interval between such changes has been unduly long. This doubtless arises from the fact that an improvement of weapons is due to the energy of one or two men, while changes in tactics have to overcome the inertia of a conservative class; but it is a great evil. It can be remedied only by a candid recognition of each change."

The ordnance department has produced weapons far ahead of our tactical concepts. It now becomes the duty of the staff and command schools to devise the maximum use of them. The military students in the general staff and command schools must rewrite their drill and field service regulations to take advantage of the extraordinary weapons and machines that the ordnance department has put at their disposal to save American lives and hasten victory.

THE DISTURBING EFFECTS OF NOISE.

ANY sound that is unpleasant can justly be labeled "noise." It is something that we can do without. We welcome music and reflect its mood, whether it be soft and soothing or spirited and martial. Watch the crowd as the band goes by, playing one of Souza's spritely marches, and we will observe that shoulders are squared and heads held erect.

Racket, on the other hand, is unwholesome. A sensitive musician will actually shiver when he detects a discord, while raucous sounds will disturb ever the most phlegmatic. The repeated reverberations of a pneumatic riveting hammer will drive the average listener to distraction, particularly if it keeps up hour after hour, day after day.

But there is such a thing as becoming conditioned to sounds which at first may be extremely unpleasant. The boilermaker's apprentice, for the first week or two, may return home exhausted and fatigued. After a time, however, a wall of resistance will be built which spares the sympathetic system and hence will fail to influence the heart rate, respiration, or the disposition.

We are all familiar with the experience of the city lad who lived adjacent to the elevated. He had grown up in an environment of jangles and jars. Invited to the country, he could not sleep for several nights because of silence. Even the chorus of shrill notes produced by the katydids and crickets failed to soothe. Within a week or two, however, he was sleeping soundly but never recovered wholly from homesickness. He longed for the "peace and quiet" of his routine surroundings.

But this does not imply that any one of us can become immune to the roar of traffic as it does take its toll upon every one emotionally. Not a few will experience upset systemic functions. Regardless of training, a sudden report—for example, an explosion or a crash—will startle and alarm. A sinking feeling in the vicinity of the stomach usually indicates that the heart has stopped momentarily, with marked abdominal congestion. The face will appear pale and the countenance anxious. This means that lesser impulses probably produce body changes despite the fact that outward manifestations may be lacking.

Civilization can be measured by the quiet decorum of citizens. War is a bad business. It is marked by the bursting of bombs and shells and the rattle of machine guns. Warriors encourage themselves and each other by shouting. But the participants are only too happy when respite comes. The orderly life of a quiet community has been remarked by every one who observes it. Little wonder that a substantial percentage of our citizens prefer to reside in rural areas where, for at least a portion of the day, they can avoid confusion.

This has all been recognized by noise abatement societies and they are doing an important job in giving publicity to the ill effects of the insults which the hearing apparatus is obliged to endure.

There is a dial on the radio which can be regulated so that programs can be heard without disturbing the neighbors. Apparently this button is difficult to find or its adjustment is so technical that it remains unused.

PALENESS.

A. I. writes: How can a person tell he is anemic without going to a doctor?

REPLY.

General pallor of the skin and mucous membranes is suggestive. Accurate information is obtained thru the red cell count and the hemoglobin estimation.

WHITE CELLS.

W. T. writes: What is the purpose of counting the leucocytes in the blood?

REPLY.

To determine their response to disease. In the presence of infection, for example, they usually increase in number and act as well armed soldiers bent upon destroying bacteria.

SAFE WATER.

C. M. H. writes: How long should polluted water be boiled to render it harmless?

REPLY.

Most noxious organisms will be destroyed after a minute or two of boiling. Spores [figurative seeds] are more resistant but, for all practical purposes, may be disregarded.

HEALTH IMPROVES.

R. E. writes: Does a person gain weight after her tonsils have been removed?

REPLY.

Ofttimes, particularly if the structures have been pouring poison into the system. With less toxemia, digestion and assimilation improve.

HEART INVOLVEMENT.

J. B. writes: Is a rheumatic heart the same as a murmur?

REPLY.

Only in the sense that a murmur may be heard with each beat.

RAW FOODS.

Mrs. H. W. writes: I crave raw vegetables such as carrots, turnips, etc. Is there any harm in eating them that way?

REPLY.

Not at all, if your digestion agrees.

DRAFT BOARDS AND TRAIN WRECKS.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—It would seem all the various investigations being held relative to the fearful wreck on the Pennsylvania would best begin with the various draft boards which persist in filling their quotas with experienced transportation men.

Any well trained and not overtired trainman should have detected that trouble long before it reached such a tragic stage. Surely, if transportation is the backbone of the war, it is high time they stop disorganizing it by drawing away experienced workers of all classes. JUST A WELL WISHER.

THEY'RE NOT ESSENTIAL.

Janesville, Wis., Sept. 3.—In your editorial, "How to Stay Out of the Army," you say, "Anybody who draws a government check is essential to the New Deal." I happen to draw my check from the government as a railway mail clerk. We are neither draft exempt or vital to the New Deal. As railway mail clerks we are classified under communications, one of the most essential war jobs. But because our supervisory officials hold their jobs by the grace of the New Deal, we are not draft exempt. They refuse to sign our papers for deferment because it may jeopardize their jobs.

So we march off to war and the soldiers yell, "Where is our mail?" Take off a few more mail clerks and nobody will get any. Mail that can't be worked on trains because of a shortage of experienced help is thrown to the terminals, where it may take one day to 10 to get it out.

Then the officials have the nerve to ask railway postal clerks to please come into the terminals and help work mail they didn't get sorted on the road due to shortage of men. We require three years for our study and training, and still we are not draft exempt.

A RAILWAY MAIL CLERK.

THE HEARTS AND MINDS OF MEN.

Chicago, Sept. 6. — Your editorial, "Peace from Men of Good Will," puts the problem of world peace in the domain where it must eventually be solved—in the hearts and minds of men and women. This is the slow and painful but the only way it can be solved.

Gilbert K. Chesterton in one of his witty and deeply penetrating essays said that certain things got on the consciences of men years ago. Later similar things got on the minds of men and more recently similar things got on men's nerves. Agreements, covenants, alliances, treaties signed and countersigned by "the high contracting parties" are not worth the paper on which they are written unless we have men of character and honesty in high places.

A few hundred years ago an English poet said a mouthful when she wrote:

If wrong their hearts their heads are right in vain;
What is a Pelham's head to Pelham's heart?

The American delegates to the peace conference must be the best America has and among them should be Herbert Clark Hoover. EUGENE MULLANEY.

MILK FED TOMATOES.

Lisbon Falls, Me., Sept. 3.—There is no shortage of milk any more than there is a shortage of any other food. Laws have been made and orders enforced to prevent the smaller farmer from selling his milk just as he can't sell anything without shouts of "black market." I am one of thousands who have surplus milk to dispose of. Because of "regulations" we keep only a few hens for ourselves and have no pig but I've raised a lot of swell tomatoes on a milk diet, our surplus milk. HARRIETTE GREEN.

LIBERAL ENGLAND.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 2.—Do you happen to know the approximate number of English, Hindu, Scotch, New Zealand, Canadian, Australian, South African, Negro, and other troops that composed Gen. Montgomery's army in Tunisia? Even tho the English were a small percentage of that army it goes without saying that liberal, democratic, civilized England will grab the fruits of that for herself.

JOHN SHERMAN.

THE ALPHABETICAL SHORTAGE.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—Mr. Jack L. Jones of Plano, Ill., says The Tribune is a "mud slinging" publication because it believes in criticism. If there wasn't so much loose mud, worthless mud, flying around Washington, The Tribune wouldn't have any to sling.

The Tribune doesn't have to run Mr. Roosevelt down; he's all run down without their aid—the alphabet is all consumed. The war saved the party for the present, and perhaps the Chinese alphabet, with its 5,000 characters, may go toward supplying monikers for post-war projects, providing the money holds out. E. TIETZ.

SOUTH AFRICAN SERVICE IN EUROPE.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—My attention has been directed to an editorial in The Tribune of Aug. 9, 1943, stating that in the British empire the dominions do not conscript for service abroad and that "the South Africans will not serve outside Africa."

There is now no restriction on South Africans serving outside the African continent, and there has never been any unwillingness on the part of South African volunteers to serve outside Africa. I mention volunteers, as we do not conscript for military service in the union, and every member of the fighting services, which number 10 per cent of the union's white population, is a volunteer.

When war broke out parliament decided that troops would not be sent overseas as was done in World War I. Faced with a serious axis menace on the African continent itself, the union, with its small white population of fewer than 2¼ million people could not afford to dissipate its military strength at that stage by sending expeditionary forces overseas.

The government's foresight in placing a ban on overseas service was underlined when Italy entered the war in June, 1940, and threatened southern Africa from Abyssinia and Italian Somaliland. The South Africans had a very satisfying share in hounding Mussolini out of East Africa and Rommel out of North Africa, and once the axis forces were broken in Africa the union government promptly took steps to permit South African troops to serve in non-African theaters of war.

The decision to do so was taken in January, 1943, when Field Marshal Smuts, after recalling South African successes on the shores of the Mediterranean, said:

"It is quite clear that we cannot stop where we are; it is impossible for us to keep our forces inactive on the African continent. . . . It is no use merely thinking that we are safe while the war is going to be lost in the world. We are going to be in it to the full—and to the end!"

Rommel was still fleeing thru Tunisia when it was officially announced that the South African 6th armored division had arrived in North Africa as the vanguard of the South African forces, equipped for overseas service wherever they may be needed. South African units have fought with the British 8th army in Sicily, and the South African air force has operated widely over Italy.

ELECTION BOOTH CANDLES.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—Many years ago Thomas A. Edison invented the incandescent light. Since then the candle and kerosene lamp as well as the gas light have been relegated to oblivion. Our taverns, our dance halls, and our amusement parks are a blaze of lights.

Electric posters, large, brightly lighted ones at street corners, tell you to vote for so and so. Election day comes along and into a polling booth you go to vote. Can you see the ballot in the semi-darkness, or do you just guess at it?

Why on earth do our election officials put a simple little candle in a booth for the voters to decide such an important question at this day and age in a city the size of Chicago? WILLIAM CAREY.

WHERE ROOSEVELT HAS FAILED.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—In reply to a letter by Jack L. Jones in the Voice of the People, inquiring why Mr. Roosevelt and his administration are being slammed, there are so many reasons that I am almost at a loss where to start. Permit me to offer just a few of the many reasons coming under the heading of "We planned it that way":

Formulating foreign pacts without congressional sanction.

Laws by Presidential directives instead of by legislation.

Circumvention of states' rights.

Curtailment of farm machinery production.

Gestapo methods in OPA enforcement.

Lend-lease bungling in ships and planes, which may be operated in the post-war period by our allies in competition with our own services.

Unrest and uncertainty of millions of American men because of indecision in policies by selective service.

Alien and un-American concepts in OWI propaganda.

Curtailment of farm acreage while the world cries for American food.

Sale of thousands of tons of scrap steel to Japan now being returned to our boys in uniform in the form of bullets and bombs.

We are hearing some people deprecate the changing of Presidents in the midst of a war—the old slogan of "Don't change horses in midstream." And yet, when a general or an admiral [and I have in mind the two commanders at Hawaii on Dec. 7, 1941] fails in his duties, he is immediately replaced for the good of the service. To say that this administration has failed in its duties on the home front, especially in civilian distribution, is to put it mildly. FLOYD K. SMITH.

DISAGREES.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—Hitler has made many mistakes. Declaring war on the United States was a big mistake, but not his biggest. His biggest mistake was his invasion of Russia on June 22, 1941. The United States is far from Germany, with a big ocean between. Russia is right next door. Russia had beaten two far greater generals than Hitler, Charles XII. of Sweden and Napoleon. Once again it was proved that man learns from history that he learns nothing from history.

N. P. JENSEN.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NOTE.

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 6.—I have just read the letter published in your columns concerning the abundance of oranges in Florida. Some one must be misinformed. Last week I noted the prices of oranges here were 50 cents to $1 a dozen according to size—that is, if you are lucky enough to find a store that has any to sell. What's more, they are California oranges at that.

SOME QUESTIONS.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—Why do we continue to loan money to a borrower who will not pay or who cannot pay? Why didn't Great Britain offer us the West Indies, the Bermudas and a few hundred battleships as security for lend-lease? Why, in view of the billions which they owe us, did we give them 50 destroyers for a mere lease?

As a private enterprise, we have been a huge success; as a political entity, we have been the world's greatest sucker.

DOGS AT THE BEACH.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—[Friend of the People.]—It does seem to me that the beach at North Rogers avenue and 77th court is a location that should be investigated. A sand pathway is the only approach to the beach and every day, rain or shine, dogs are brought there. Thru the filth which they leave hundreds of little children and adults have to pass, most of them barefoot. This is a disgrace to the city of Chicago and to the neighborhood. J. L.

The commanding officer of the 44th district makes the following report:

"Our investigation of this location disclosed that the property is private, including riparian rights. It is not fenced in, neither is it posted with "No Trespassing" signs. A city life guard is stationed there daily, the water front is used by the people of the community as a bathing beach, and the lot proper is used as a recreation ground for the many dogs in the neighborhood.

"Summons for violation of section 98-27 of the city code were issued and each person interrogated was informed of the complaint and their coöperation asked. All willingly agreed that they would coöperate and would inform other dog owners.

"We will continue to keep this location under observation so that there will be no further cause for complaint."

JAMES P. ALLMAN,
Commissioner of Police.

NEIGHBOR'S GRAPES.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Our neighbors have a grapevine planted near the dividing line of our properties and it has climbed the fence. Would fruit on the part of the vine which is on the fence and which hangs on our side belong to us or to them? M. A.

The fruit is theirs. You are entitled to cut the vine at the lot line, but if you do not do so they are entitled to the harvest. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

KEEPING CHICKENS.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I should like to have a small number of chickens. 1. Is this permitted within the city, and if so, [2] under what conditions? A. K.

1. Yes. 2. There is no specific ordinance requirement but obviously the condition should not be permitted to become a nuisance.

It was the most natural thing in the world for her to take a war job at Western Electric—to help HIM.

And she's not the only one. In the heart of nearly every woman worker at Western's big Hawthorne plant there's a picture of a husband, son, or sweetheart—in the uniform of Uncle Sam.

Not so long ago—in peacetime—this same plant made Bell telephones for America. Today it is engaged 100% in war work, producing vital battle equipment. This would not be possible without the aid of thousands of patriotic Chicago women—each filling a man's job to bring her man back home sooner.

If you want to join these production patriots, jobs are now available at all three of Western Electric's Chicago plants.

NOW IT HAS A STAR. In August, 1942, the Hawthorne Works of Western Electric was awarded the Army-Navy E Flag. By their continued good work, Hawthorne's thousands of men and women earned a star for their flag.

EVEN THE FLOWERS SAY IT. Shaking hands above this floral "V" are Hawthorne workers leaving for war service. Thousands of Western Electric men are now in the armed forces.

ESTATE PAYING $70,000,000 TO FIELD SEPT. 28

Collects Again by Terms of Grandfather's Will.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

Marshall Field III. will receive between 70 million and 75 million dollars on his 50th birthday Sept. 28, when the last untransferred portion of the vast fortune of his merchant grandfather will be handed over to the heir after 37 years in trusteeship, representatives of the estate estimated yesterday.

Carl J. Weitzel, controler of the Marshall Field estate, said the residuary estate consists to a large extent of Chicago real estate, and that the estimate of its value was based on current appraisal figures.

Trustees of the estate said Marshall Field III. already has received about 93 million dollars from the estate since the original Field, founder of the Field store from which the riches stemmed, died in 1906. He is the only heir, his younger brother, Henry, having died July 8, 1917, with Henry's share reverting to Marshall Field III. by court decree.

30% of Residue Liquid.

The estate residue represents the less liquid assets. It is understood that only about 30 per cent of the assets are liquid, the rest being such properties as loop or downtown skyscrapers, theater and bank sites, apartment houses, and outlying store and office buildings.

Among these are the 44 story Field building, 135 South La Salle street, built during the depression at a cost of 20 million dollars; the 38 story Pittsfield building, 55 East Washington street, and the 22 story Conway building, 111 West Washington street.

Field received a large part of the liquid assets in 1938, under a provision of the founder's will requiring a distribution of one-half of the net income accumulated when the grandson reached the age of 45. The heir was paid 46 million dollars then. The other half had been paid to him at various times previously. Since 1938 Field III. also has been receiving the residuary estate's income, estimated at $2,800,000 a year.

Virtually Free of Taxes.

The Field estate, often called the second largest fortune in America [Henry Ford's is the biggest], and sometimes estimated as high as 500 million dollars, has played a part in the economic life of Chicago and has been a target for bitter discussions in congress because under the laws of 1906 it has passed to the heir virtually tax free. Had it been subject to the federal inheritance tax in effect when Field III. received the 46 million dollar payment in 1938, the government would have taken 70 per cent.

Congressmen and others assailed Field as a tax dodger not only because the vast fortune passed to him nearly intact, but also because of numerous activities which he conducted at losses which permitted him to get income tax deductions. Among these activities are his racing stables, his cattle raising on his palatial Long Island estate, and his publishing ventures, all of which have been conducted at a heavy loss.

Millions Lost on Two Sheets.

It is estimated that Field has been losing 4 million to 6 million dollars a year on the radical New York tabloid, PM, and his Chicago paper combined. Congressmen have accused Field of inviting these losses to cut his income taxes, and have asserted that the effect is that taxpayers help foot the bill for his personal enterprises.

The English educated multimillionaire also has used some of his wealth for various philanthropic activities, which include a gift of a million dollars to the University of Chicago. His Long Island property, a replica of an English estate, is reputed to have cost millions. Thrice married, Field is said to have settled fabulous sums on two former wives, the second of whom was English. His first wife, Evelyn Marshall, of New York, was said to have received an alimony commitment calling for payment of 1 million dollars a year when she divorced Field in Reno in 1930.

Fortune to Eastern Charity.

While Field's principal gifts to Chicago, the city from which his fortune has come, have been the contribution to the university and his payment of the annual deficits of the Field museum founded by his grandfather, he is said to have given several millions to various charitable and philanthropic organizations in New York City.

Field's principal connection with Marshall Field & Co., which operates the store and owns the Merchandise Mart, is as a director and minority stockholder. He is said to have persuaded the estate trustees to build the Marshall Field Garden apartments, a low rent project which later was sold as unsuccessful.

TRUCK DRIVER AND $255 MISSING.

Police yesterday were seeking a truck driver for the Union Distributing company, 259 East Ontario street, a liquor firm, who, after working one day, failed to return with $255 in receipts. He did not take the truck he had been driving, Jerome S. Leavitt, manager of the company, told police.

Tact Is Career

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

MRS. ELLA T. MORRIS.

Mrs. Ella T. Morris, manager of New York Central railroad's Pullman reservation department, probably has more occasion to be tactful than almost any career woman in the city. Hers is the job of soothing irate passengers who are unable to obtain desired space on the company's trains. The best part of her job, she said yesterday, is the gratitude of service men for whom she tries to obtain facilities.

Mrs. Morris, who lives at 6838 Normal boulevard, started work with the railroad in 1919. Since then, she has arranged reservations for scores of celebrities. She has arranged passage for all the Presidents who have held office since 1919.

When industrial tycoons threaten to call the company's president if she is unable to supply them with reservations, Mrs. Morris turns on what she terms her "Sunday" voice. That always works, she said.

DRAFT ELIGIBLES WARNED TO KEEP BOARDS POSTED

All registrants for selective service risk reclassification to A-1 status if they neglect to inform their local boards of changes affecting them, Col. Paul G. Armstrong, state director, said yesterday. He warned all men eligible for the draft to post the boards at once.

"Deferred registrants have failed to inform their boards of the birth of children, changes in jobs, and other changes," said Col. Armstrong, adding that many complaints at inductions are due to the neglect to correct the data on file with the boards. He asked all registrants who are fathers of children born before Sept. 15, 1942, to give that fact to the boards at once.

A crack down on all registrants who have moved and not informed their boards of new addresses was hinted as Col. Armstrong warned that failure to file new addresses subjects the registrant violating that rule to a federal prison term of five years.

Mailbox Thief Slated for Showup Tomorrow

Ralph Sychowski, 21 years old, arrested Friday for rifling mail boxes, will be taken to a police showup tomorrow at Central station. At the time of his arrest, Sychowski was on probation from Federal court for mail box thefts. Sychowski gave his address as 810 Leland avenue.

CAR KILLS GIRL CYCLIST.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 11 [Special].—Doris M. Getzinger, 15 years old, died today of injuries suffered last night when her bicycle was struck by an automobile in the first fatal traffic accident in South Bend in 161 days. Earl Smith, 47, the driver, was held for investigation.

MORE WEDDINGS, FEWER RINGS, IS OUTLOOK FOR '44

Jewelers Cite WPB Rule Cutting Supply.

The double ring wedding ceremony which has become increasingly popular with army and navy men is running into a shortage of wedding rings, a survey of jewelers disclosed yesterday. The supply of rings is further complicated by the fact that the number of marriages is increasing.

In a few months two of every three brides may face the prospect of being unable to obtain the traditional wedding ring, unless the war production board liberalizes its order to L-45," the Jewelers' Circular-Keystone, a trade magazine, said.

Wedding rings are made of either gold or palladium since the use of platinum for jewelry was forbidden about a year ago. They are limited by the WPB order to one-half the metal used in 1941, when there were 1½ million marriages. However, there were 1,800,000 marriages during 1942 and 2 million are expected this year.

"Present inventories will provide about 1 million rings," the magazine said. "Added to current production, a total of 1¾ million rings will be available during the next 12 months, tho marriages will total 2 million plus. That's a quarter million more weddings than rings."

More than half of several hundred jewelry stores thruout the nation surveyed by the magazine reported their present stocks of wedding rings would be cleaned out by the end of the year. Seven per cent of the stores stock only a 30-day supply, 9 per cent have only a two-month inventory; 18 per cent have enough for the next three months; and another 20 per cent have sufficient stock to last out the year. Present stocks of 44 per cent of the stores will carry them from six months to a year, and 2 per cent have enough to last them more than a year.

During the first six months of 1943 about 40 per cent more wedding rings were sold than in the first half of 1941, which is the base year for the WPB order. Sales of men's wedding rings are more than twice the volume of two years ago.

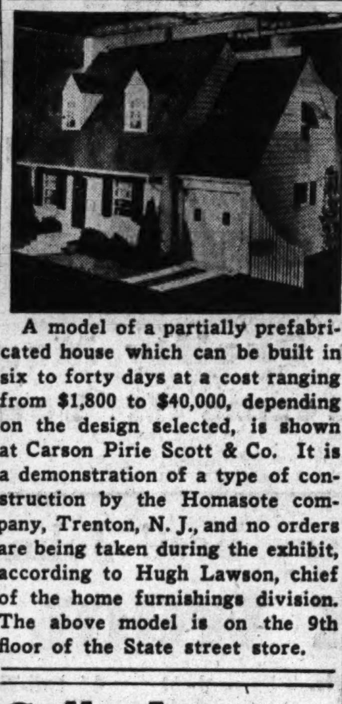
Home Model in Loop



A model of a partially prefabricated house which can be built in six to forty days at a cost ranging from $1,800 to $40,000, depending on the design selected, is shown at Carson Pirie Scott & Co. It is a demonstration of a type of construction by the Homasote company, Trenton, N. J., and no orders are being taken during the exhibit, according to Hugh Lawson, chief of the home furnishings division. The above model is on the 9th floor of the State street store.

Colby Leases Larger Store in Evanston

John A. Colby & Sons, one of Chicago's oldest furniture dealers, established in 1866, yesterday leased the two story building at 626-28 Davis street, Evanston, for occupancy of its Evanston store now at 620 Church street. The new location, to be occupied at once, has approximately 12 thousand square feet, nearly four times as much as its present store, A. W. Crawford, president, said.

A. W. Crawford. [Loubell Photo.]

The land under the new store is owned by Northwestern university which negotiated a long term ground lease expiring in 1965. The S. S. Kresge company built a two story building in 1925, 50 by 115 feet, and occupied it until Jan. 1, 1943, when it sold the leasehold to the North Side Management corporation, of which Fred Becklenberg Jr. is trustee.

Becklenberg subleased the property to Colby for five years, beginning Oct. 1, on a minimum guarantee and percentage basis. Herbert L. Lucas was broker for both parties.

The Colby firm has its main store and executive offices at 129 North Wabash avenue. It has maintained an Evanston store for 18 years. Expansion of its facilities in that suburb is being done to prepare for an anticipated large post-war furniture business, Crawford said.

REALTY OUTING WILL BE HELD AT OLYMPIA FIELDS

The annual fall outing of the Chicago Real Estate board will be held all day Tuesday at the Olympia Fields Country club, John J. Falveye, chairman of the outing committe, announced yesterday. In addition to golf, there will be a championship baseball game, horseshoes, and other outdoor entertainment, with a steak dinner as a climax.

Falvey's committee includes Fred F. Gardner, Clarence H. Goelzer, Roy D. Haverstick, David Horwich, Henry W. Jansen, Robert L. Johnson, Kenneth W. Moore, Roy P. Morrison, Hyde W. Pearce, Stephen V. Ronksley, Leroy F. Washburn, and Carl N. Wolf. Illinois Central express trains will solve the gas and tire problem.

FIELD ESTATE SELLS HARLEM, GRAND CORNER

The Marshall Field estate yesterday sold the northeast corner of Harlem and Grand avenues, 150 by 100 feet, improved with a two story store and office building, to Andrew Kanelos, president of Andes Candies, for $233,000. Ward Farnsworth represented the Field estate and Peter G. Manikes was broker for the buyer.

CHICAGO TO GET MORE PRIORITIES FOR WAR HOMES

Expect New NHA Quota in Ten Days.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Clemons Roark, assistant regional representative of the national housing agency for Illinois and seven other midwestern states, yesterday said that a new allotment of home priorities for Chicago probably would be announced within 10 days. This would be in addition to the 3,231 designated in July for the Calumet area, he said. He declined to disclose the total.

Home building in the Chicago metropolitan area can continue at the present rate only for about two months unless NHA issues a new allotment of priorities, according to an analysis made by the Bell Savings and Loan association in connection with its monthly building review published yesterday. Arthur G. Erdmann, president, said the "interim quota" of 3,000 home priorities assigned last March to the Chicago area has been nearly exhausted, with about two-thirds actually under construction.

New Quota Is Urged.

"Probably the greatest incentive that could be given the builders of homes would be the announcement by NHA of additional quotas for the Chicago region," said Erdmann. "They would then feel justified in making their plans and building up their organizations to fill existing quotas as rapidly as possible and relieve the present need for war housing."

Home building in August presented an encouraging outlook, maintaining approximately the number of units reported for July—the best month of the year—and increasing the dollar volume, the Bell survey showed.

Home Value Total Rises.

In July the total number of homes reported by Chicago, 88 suburban communities, and the zoned counties of Cook, Du Page, Kane, and Lake was 572, with an estimated value of $2,324,022. In August the number of homes was 569 and the value $2,380,091.

In 92 suburban communities during August 314 home permits were issued, valued at $1,522,478, compared with 284, and $1,424,665 in July.

Des Plaines led the suburbs in number of home permits last month with 58. Brookfield and Cicero followed with 50 each. Lyons, which adjoins McCook, where the big new plant of the Aluminum Company of America is located, came next with 48 homes. Park Ridge reported 22 and Riverdale, 20. Elmhurst had 16 and Westchester, 14.

Suburban War Homes

Edward J. Kelly, Illinois director of the federal housing administration, yesterday announced the names of 21 builders allotted 645 home priorities for construction in the west suburban and southwest suburban sectors. Of this total about 600 are "interim quota" priorities designated last March by the national housing agency for these areas, and the rest are priorities "recaptured" from builders who never used them.

REPORT VINSON ASKS PRICE CUTS ON FRUITS, FATS

"Rollback" Subsidies Again Considered.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11 [Special].—Alfred M. Vinson, director of economic stabilization, has directed the war food administration and the office of price administration, to proceed immediately with a program to carry out the administration's commitment to reduce living costs to the levels of Sept. 15, 1942, unnamed officials said today.

In letters to Marvin Jones, WFA administrator, and Chester Bowles, acting head of OPA, Vinson directed that the program be undertaken and outlined the commodities to be affected. They include apples, onions, oranges, peanut butter, lard, the edible vegetable oils, and potatoes. The plan will cost approximately $100,000,000 annually, officials said, and together with price reductions in prospect for winter vegetables, is depended upon to reduce living costs between 4 and 5 per cent.

Move to Appease Labor.

This, officials say, will be sufficiently near the levels of a year ago that both the president and James F. Byrnes, director of war mobilization, will be able to tell labor leaders they have made good their promises to roll back living costs.

The price reduction program has been under consideration for weeks and there has been considerable criticism within OPA because WFA did not move more quickly in the matter.

The price of edible vegetable oils, used primarily in cooking and salads, is scheduled to be reduced 1 cent per pound at the refinery level by WFA at a cost approximately of $15,000,000 annually.

1 Cent Cut in Lard.

Lard also is scheduled to be reduced 1 cent per pound under a reconstruction finance corporation program. The RFC handled the so-called roll-back for butter and meat, which led to a congressional battle over subsidies. Officials do not plan to take the program in prospect to congress for approval. They say only a small part of the $100,000,000 estimated cost will be expended in subsidies.

With the exception of the lard program, all the commodities affected will be handled by WFA and only one, the plan for oranges, is likely to result in a new government purchase and resale plan.

Seek to Improve Distribution.

The plan for apples and onions includes, it was said, price reductions for these commodities by OPA and transportation subsidies by WFA. It is hoped not only to get prices down, but to bring about better distribution.

No estimates of the prospective reductions in apple and onion prices have been made. A slash of from 6 to 8 cents a pound has been talked of for peanut butter. The government now is, in effect, purchasing all peanuts.

The reduction in potato prices will be carried out thru a loan program based on support prices, announced on Aug. 24. Under this plan, the government will lend money on potatoes at a rate close to the support prices promised producers, but WFA reserved the right to call the loans at prices less than the loans, or as the announcement put it, "the war food administration reserves the right to permit redemption below the loan value."

Big Crop Expected.

In view of the tremendous potato crop in prospect, officials expect the market prices this fall and early winter to be lower than the support price.

Labor leaders, including Philip Murray, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, and William Green, head of the American Federation of Labor, have on numerous occasions threatened to withdraw their support of the price stabilization program unless living costs were reduced to the September, 1942, levels.

OPA TRIMS 100 FOOD PRICES; 50 RISE TOMORROW

Slight price changes on 150 food items, principally canned goods, will go into effect tomorrow in a new table of price ceilings announced by the office of price administration for independent retail stores in the Chicago metropolitan area that do less than $250,000 worth of business a year.

Michael F. Mulcahy, Chicago area OPA director, whose office prepared the new list replacing that of July 2, said prices were reduced 5 to 10 per cent on 100 items, covering chiefly the 1943 pack of fruits and vegetables. About 50 items are increased.

Staples such as bread and butter are not changed, and meat is not included in the new list. The new printed tables, to be displayed in the stores, differ from the price ceiling lists applying to chain stores and to independents having an annual business in excess of $250,000.

ROBBED OF $80 IN STREET.

Goldman C. Bey, 923 Hudson avenue, reported to police last night that a Negro about 25 years old held him up and robbed him of $80 at Chicago avenue and Sedgwick street.

BLACK MARKET TARGET OF OPA PLEDGE DRIVE

A campaign to have Chicago and suburban retail merchants and their customers sign pledges that they will obey federal rationing orders will be waged this week by the office of price administration with a fanfare of neighborhood meetings, parades, speeches, and door-bell pushing.

The OPA is heralding the program as an attack on black markets and the cost of living. Customers will be asked to sign a scroll-like pledge that they will pay no more than ceiling prices and that they will accept no rationed goods without giving ration stamps for them. Similarly, merchants will pledge not to charge more than legal prices nor to sell rationed good without collecting stamps.

Civilian defense units and community service managers of local ration boards will direct the campaign in the Chicago metropolitan area. School children will distribute the pledges from house to house and store to store in Oak Park and Evanston. The OCD and the rationing board will canvass Berwyn.

Winnetka, Highland Park, Lake Forest, Highwood, and Kenilworth residents will be given pledges to sign at a meeting Sept. 20 in the Central school auditorium in Glencoe.

TYPEWRITERS VANISH AT SCHOOL.

Woodlawn police yesterday were seeking to solve the mystery of the disappearance of four typewriters from Hyde Park High school between Aug. 24 and Sept. 3. School authorities said the machines virtually are irreplaceable because of war time restrictions.

Complete General Health Examinations at United Medical Service
provide the greatest protection against the principal causes of disability and untimely death.

Prevention of disease through routine general health examinations is now the most valuable and protective service modern medicine can render. Such examinations can add years to the life expectancy of every individual. Most of the major causes of disability and untimely death, such as heart disease, cancer, tuberculosis, kidney disease, apoplexy, pneumonia, etc., can be prevented or controlled by early examinations, diagnosis and care. Wide medical knowledge and complete scientific facilities are necessary to provide these protective services.

A complete general health examination requires the services of a group of physicians with special individual knowledge and training in all the different fields of medicine such as: General medicine; cardio-vascular (diseases of the heart and blood vessels); respiratory (diseases of the lungs, bronchial tubes); gastro-intestinal (diseases of the stomach and intestinal tract); urology (diseases of the kidneys, bladder, urinary tract); gyncology (diseases of women); proctology (diseases of rectum); eye, ear, nose and throat; dermatology (diseases of the skin), excepting skin tests for allergy. In addition to these necessary regional examinations there are routine laboratory examinations of the urine, blood, microscopic examinations of all discharges, secretions, tissue, abnormal growths and suspicious ulcers. Sputum is examined in all lung conditions. X-ray examinations are made of the chest which disclose the condition of the heart and lungs. An electro-cardiogram indicating the heart's action, also X-ray examination of the stomach and intestinal tract, including the gall bladder and a full size X-ray picture of the abdomen. Laboratory examinations are made of the contents of the stomach and of the stool when indicated. There is an X-ray picture of all the teeth, an X-ray picture of the sinuses, when indicated, and a basal metabolism test. An additional X-ray picture will be made of any part of the body not mentioned above, if needed.

The pictures in the illustration above show some of the many special examinations and the scientific facilities which the modern physician finds indispensable in making diagnosis of the beginning disease. They are available here at moderate fees. The above complete services are only $37.50. In addition to the complete general health examination in which all staff physicians participate and all scientific facilities are used, there are other special examinations available. Some of these are listed below. If you have found it difficult to obtain medical care because of the many physicians now serving the armed forces, visit this unusual medical organization. You will receive excellent care. Our offices can be reached by street cars, buses, elevated railroad trains, or automobiles. Information furnished upon request. Write for Booklet.

FEED SHORTAGE SEEN DESPITE BUMPER CROPS

Midwest Farms Increase Animal Production.

BY GAIL COMPTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 11.—Despite floods and drouth midwestern farmers this year will again give the nation a bumper crop of grains and meat animals. A 3,000 mile survey of Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Iowa reveals that altho nature has not been as lavish with crop bonuses this year as in 1942, for the seventh straight year the corn belt will reap a huge harvest.

The midwest still needs from two to four weeks of hot maturing weather to assure its bumper harvest. A killing frost in the next few weeks would spell serious trouble. Given normal weather for the rest of the month, however, the corn belt farmer will again prove that he can accept the major burden of feeding the nation despite all obstacles, natural and artificial.

Perfect example of this is the justly famous tall corn of Iowa. Drouth plagues sections in the northwestern part of the state and along the southern rim there are counties which will produce little corn because of continuous spring rains which delayed planting. Yet Iowa expects a record breaking crop of 630 million bushels of corn—the greatest harvest in its history.

More Acres Cultivated.

In every state the same story may be told. Despite lack of help and rationing of farm equipment and machinery, the corn belt farmer has put more acres under cultivation and nursed them thru adverse conditions.

It is this vast increase in acreage that has been a saving factor, for in most cases average yields per acre have slipped below last year's record levels.

Each state is supporting more animals on its farms than ever before. Porkers are moving out of the barnyards in unprecedented numbers, cattle stock the feed lots in good numbers. Hens are producing with patriotic fervor, and milk production is soaring.

Feed Nearly Exhausted.

The present harvest is coming just in time, however, for present supplies of feed grains are almost exhausted. and if present animal numbers are maintained the harvest of 1943 barely will meet feed requirements.

Again Iowa may serve as an example. By the end of this crop year the state will have disposed of all of the 1942 crop of feed grains plus 8 to 10 million bushels of wheat plus 20 to 25 million bushels of commodity credit corporation corn that had been produced in earlier years.

Wisconsin Faces Shortage.

This means that feed deficit states such as Wisconsin which depend upon importing Iowa and Illinois corn for live stock consumption will suffer. The heavy producing states will have ample feed grains for their own use but little for transport to other states.

This will result in a forced liquidation of live stock, lighter weight cattle and hogs on the market, and lowered production of all the by products the feed grains go to make. The number of grain consuming animal units on farms next January is expected to be 5 to 10 per cent larger than on January, 1943.

Feed supply per grain consuming animal during the next feeding year will be much below the average of the past five years and probably the smallest since the fall of 1936.

COURT REJECTS MRS. DEMPSEY'S PLEA FOR FUNDS

White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 11 (AP).—Gerald Nolan, Supreme court justice, today denied the application of Mrs. Hannah Williams Dempsey for an allowance to appeal a decision awarding coast guard Lt. Comdr. Jack Dempsey, former world heavyweight champion, an interlocutory decree of divorce.

The court said Mrs. Dempsey's attorney had not shown reasonable evidence that an appeal would be successful. Justice Nolan granted a cross motion by Dempsey relieving him of payment of $500 monthly alimony.

Dempsey's decree, in which he also was awarded custody of two minor daughters, becomes effective Oct. 16.

LOTS OF BEANS, NOT MUCH MEAT FOR 1944 MENUS

Record Breaking Crop Goal Set.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11 (AP).—More milk, less meat, more eggs, less chicken—but beans in plenty—shaped up today as a likely civilian diet in 1945, on the basis of new figures on farm capacity.

The data came from a nation-wide survey by the agriculture department of 1944 production possibilities.

This survey shows that, because of declining feed supplies and an insufficient quantity of land, labor and machinery to extend feed production, the 1944 food production program of the war food administration will have to place greater emphasis on food obtained directly from crops rather than from live stock.

With the exception of milk and eggs, the productive capacity of all live stock products is indicated to be smaller than this year.

1944 Goals Studied.

The survey is being studied by the WFA in determining next year's production goals. Changes in 1944 output would show up largely in 1945 food supplies.

The WFA has already announced an over-all crop 1944 goal of 380,000,000 acres, which be the largest on record. An output of 122,000,000,000 pounds of milk—about 4,000,000,000 more than expected this year—is indicated to be possible for 1944. On the other hand, a 1944 pig crop of only 100,000,000 head, compared with 125,000,000 this year, is said to be about the top possible.

The survey indicates that an egg production of 4,562,000,000 dozen compared with 4,516,000,000 estimated this year, is within reach. However, limited feed supplies would require a reduction of from 248,000,000 to 198,000,000 head in the production of commercial broilers and of from 925,000,000 to 858,000,000 in the number of chickens raised on farms.

Meat Supply Slipping.

Farms would be capable, the study shows, of caring for about 11,900,000 head of beef cattle and calves, compared with 12,960,000 this year. A reduction from 54,800,000 to 52,500,000 in the sheep and lamb population is indicated.

Sharpest increases in acreages of food crops are seen for soybeans, peanuts, dry beans and peas, sugar beets, and vegetables for both fresh markets and processing. Shorter supplies of meat, normal sources of protein, are to be supplemented by greater portions of soybean and peanut products, dry beans and peas, and cereals—sources of proteins—in diets.

Little change in corn production possibilities is indicated by the survey. It estimates 1944 acreage at 96,304,000, compared with 96,818,000 this year.

Delay Alderman's Son's Trial in Sleep Escapade

The disorderly conduct trial of James B. Waller Jr., 17 years old, 895 North Oakwood avenue, Lake Forest, who insisted on going to bed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Metzger, 126 North Western avenue, Lake Forest, on Friday, was continued yesterday to next Saturday by Police Hagistrate Edwin Burgess. Burgess released the boy in the custody of his father, Ald. James B. Waller [43d], on the promise that the boy will appear for the trial.

FOOD SALES TAX TEST SUIT FILED BY WHOLESALERS

Suit for an injunction to prevent the collection of Illinois retailers' occupation [sales] taxes was filed in Circuit court yesterday by 12 food wholesalers against State Treasurer William G. Stratton, Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett, and Finance Director Philip W. Collins. The suit also asks the court to find the tax, as it is applied to the plaintiffs, to be void and unconstitutional and to direct repayment of taxes already paid under protest.

The injunction petition said the wholesalers sell to religious, charitable, educational, and scientific institutions and this food is resold or given away. The institutions, therefore, are not the ultimate consumers, the suit set forth, and the plaintiffs are not subject to the tax because they are not retailers.

It stated that the injunction is being sought to test the constitutionality of the amendment to the tax act applicable to the wholesalers. The plaintiffs include Steele-Wedeles company, Cudahy Packing company, Sprague Warner & Co., Reid Murdoch & Co., Ward Baking company, John Sexton & Co., and Franklin MacVeagh & Co.

LIQUOR STOLEN FROM TAVERN.

Liquor valued at $1,500 was stolen from the basement storeroom of Dinty Moore's tavern, 1332 West 69th street, Robert Dugdale, the proprietor, reported to police yesterday.

"BODIES" for BOMBERS

ON OCTOBER 25, 1940—more than a year before Pearl Harbor—U. S. Army Air Corps officials notified us of the urgent need for a vastly increased aircraft production program, and invited us to participate.

Already we were making Army trucks in great number, completing a huge tank arsenal, building field ranges and tent heaters, and making our first studies of anti-aircraft gun manufacture.

Here was another urgent job that had to be tackled at once.

Without waiting to learn what aircraft job would be assigned to us, we provided 600,000 sq. ft. of additional plant space and, from our own personnel, began to select engineering, metallurgical and manufacturing specialists for this new work.

It was just three months after our first meeting with Air Corps officials that we were officially notified our job was to build the complete nose and center fuselage sections for medium bombers,—including installation of their complete mechanical and control systems.

We immediately sent forty of our technicians to a producing aircraft plant where these men did regular production work and observed, at first hand, the production methods then in use. Our long background in building automobiles and trucks, plus the experience these men gained working with an aircraft manufacturer, enabled us quickly to get under way with the necessary tools and equipment to turn out "bodies" for bombers by quantity production methods.

NOSES AND BODIES FOR BOMBERS (INSIDE AND OUT)

To help acquaint us in advance with the many kinds of material and operations involved, the Army Air Corps sent us a bomber nose section. Our engineers and master mechanics made intensive analyses of aircraft blueprints covering more than fourteen thousand structural parts.

The materials to be used included aluminum, steel, brass, bronze, plastics, plywood and fabrics. They would need to be forged, cast, stamped, machined, cut and fitted without the slightest error in their dimensions or relationship.

Many of the metal parts presented entirely new working characteristics. They required elaborate heat treating processes for the extreme stresses demanded of them. They also presented new problems in the design and use of the dies required to shape them.

Our production and purchasing specialists determined which parts we could subcontract to other companies. As the work progressed, orders for parts and materials were given to 2,255 subcontractors in 309 towns, in 29 states.

Aluminum forgings would be needed in large numbers by us and other manufacturers participating in the expanded aircraft production program. Therefore, we were given the job of building an aluminum forge plant to take care of these requirements. We also prepared at our foundry to produce aluminum castings required for plane manufacture.

Thousands of men and women had to be trained for this new type of work. We opened schools for the training of workers. Women were employed in large numbers and carefully taught drilling, riveting, machining and assembling of aircraft parts. Automobile sheet metal workers, body builders and trimmers were shown how to apply their skill and experience to the production of bomber parts.

TRAINING SCHOOLS FOR WORKERS

The big nose of the bomber, which houses the Bombardier, Pilot, Co-Pilot, Navigator and Radio Operator is often called the "brain" of the ship. Nearly all the mechanical and electrical controls are here, while the center section immediately behind it provides the bomb carrying space.

If you could look within these sections as the work of assembly goes on, you would see a bewildering network of wires and tubing as well as the structural skeleton of the ship. Every one of these 1,963 separate wires and over

IF YOU COULD LOOK WITHIN

1,000 feet of tubes—to say nothing of all the control mechanisms—must operate faultlessly.

In the production of "bodies" for bombers—a new field to Chrysler Corporation—again is demonstrated how our experience in peacetime car and truck building is being applied to war equipment in quantity . . . and on time.

COLONEL BARKS AT PRESS AGENT AND GROG FLIES

200 Mile Sortie Is Made to Quench a Thirst.

BY CARL WIEGMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Selfridge Field, Mich., Sept. 11.—How the public relations officer of the air base here acted as the commanding officer's messenger on a 200 mile airplane trip to fetch a load of liquor was described today at the court-martial of Col. Williaim T. Colman, the former commanding officer.

Benson Ford.

Coleman is accused of procuring the fraudulent and unlawful transfer of enlisted men, of shooting and wounding Pvt. Willie McRae, 24 years old, a Negro chauffeur; of drunkenness, of accepting a gift from a government contractor, and of misappropriating government property.

Capt. Richard Ramey, the public relations officer, testified to the liquor errand.

A Call from the Colonel.

Col. Colman was at the Oscoda army air field, a subbase 200 miles north of Selfridge field, on April 23, Capt. Ramey said, and telephoned to him in the morning, asking:

"Why aren't you up here? It's a beautiful day for taking pictures."

Ramey said he had received no order to go to Oscoda that day, but Colman then ordered him to fly to that field immediately with photographic equipment and photographers.

"The colonel also said, 'Bring me some grog,'" Ramey testified. "I asked him what kind, and he said bourbon."

Ramey arrived at Oscoda about noon with the photographic equipment and the bourbon, he said, and Colman took him on a tour of the base.

Decides Colonel Is Drunk.

He testified Colman ordered workmen to tear down a half completed fireplace in a building being remodeled for an officers' club and gave three of the civilian employes a drink from a bottle that he had in his car.

On cross-examination, Ramey said he reached the conclusion that Colman was drunk at the time.

Benson Ford, grandson of Henry Ford, told of his speedy transfer from Fort Custer, Mich., to Selfridge field. Twenty-six years old and now a second lieutenant, young Ford said he had been at Fort Custer only three or four days before being sent to Selfridge. He remained here until Jan. 24, when he was sent to San Francisco, Cal., where he applied for officer training.

Didn't Know Details.

Ford testified he knew nothing about the details of his transfer to Selfridge field, but Col. George T. Shank, executive officer at Fort Custer, who was placed on the stand, recalled a telephone conversation with Colman in which, he said, Colman told him the Ford family had made arrangements with the war department to have Benson sent to Selfridge.

The prosecution also introduced a letter from Colman to the commandant of Fort Custer, urgently requesting Ford's transfer to Selfridge.

Shank said he told Colman a war department order was necessary for such a transfer. "That evidently was done," Shank testified.

Prosecution Ends Case.

After Ford's testimony, Capt. Phillip D. O'Connell, trial judge advocate prosecutor, resumed presentation of testimony relating to charges of drunkenness against Colman. Besides Capt. Ramey, other witnesses were Capt. Clifford Davis, formerly of Oscoda and now stationed at St. Petersburg, Fla., Maj. James M. Hunter and Lt. Marvin H. Hitchcock.

Ramey's testimony completed the prosecution's side of the case, which took six days and presented 75 witnesses. Maj. Thomas A. Ballantine, chief defense counsel, then offered a motion to dismiss all the charges. This was overruled, after brief deliberation, by Lt. Col. Charles H. McDonald, the law member of the court, who rules on all legal points of the trial.

LEONARD H. VAUGHAN, SEED COMPANY HEAD, DIES AT SUMMER HOME

Services for Leonard Holden Vaughan, 63 years old, president of Vaughan's Seed store, will be held at 3 p. m. Tuesday in the chapel at Rosehill cemetery. Mr. Vaughan died unexpectedly yesterday at his summer home in Onekama, Mich. The family home is at 4353 Central avenue, Western Springs.

Leonard H. Vaughan.

Mr. Vaughan, the son of the late Charles Vaughan, who founded the seed business in 1876, and Martha Throop Vaughan, was educated in Chicago schools and Armour institute, now Illinois Institute of Technology, and Cornell university. He formerly was president both of the American Seed Trade association and the Society of American Florists, and was president of the Lyons Township High school board, of which he had been a member 19 years.

Surviving are his widow, Anita; six sons, John Charles of New York City; Leonard H. Jr., Gager Throop, Ensign Warren of the coast guard, Lt. Alan W., U. S. A.; Ensign Edward H., U. S. N., and a daughter, Mrs. G. Raymond Donnersberger.

OBITUARIES

Dr. D. W. Poff.

Dr. Delbert W. Poff, former president of the Lake County Dental association, died of a heart ailment last night in his home at 1537 Henry place, Waukegan. He was 58 years old. Dr. Poff had practiced dentistry in Winnetka from 1911 to 1930 and thereafter in Waukegan until illness forced his retirement last December. Dr. Poff leaves his widow, Zeta, and a daughter, Mrs. Ruth van Wyngarden of Schenectady, N. Y. Funeral services are tentatively set for 2:30 p. m. Tuesday in the First Congregational church, Waukegan.

Mrs. Amelia Lantz.

Mrs. Amelia Lantz, 93 years old, a widow, died yesterday in her home at Oswego, near Aurora. She and her husband, John Peter Lantz, who died last year at the age of 95, were a pioneer farm couple of the Wheatland and Oswego communities. Mrs. Lantz is survived by a son, Isaac, of Naperville; two daughters, Mrs. Ida Book of Joliet and Mrs. Mabel Holzheuter of Wheatland, 29 grandchildren, and 38 great-grandchildren. Services will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow at the home in River road, Oswego.

Victor H. Rowland.

New York, Sept. 11 (AP).—Victor H. Rowland, 57 years old, ocean cable engineer for Western Union Telegraph company died today at his home in Little Neck, L. I. Rowland, who joined the company in 1920, was in charge when the three cables carrying the greatest traffic in the world were laid across the Atlantic in 1924, 1926, and 1928. He was a native of England.

Mrs. Mary J. Comstock.

Services for Mrs. Mary Jenkins Comstock, 80 years old, past regent of Elgin chapter, Daughters of American Revolution, and active many years in church and literary circles of Elgin, will be conducted at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 346 Division street in the suburb. Mrs. Comstock, widow of Charles B. Comstock, died Friday at her home in Hendersonville, N. C.

Miss Margaret Hennessy.

Funeral services for Miss Margaret Hennessy of Waukegan, a retired Chicago school teacher, who died Thursday, will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow from the chapel at 2166 North California avenue to St. Sylvester's church. Miss Hennessy taught school 20 years, and retired in 1911.

Dies of Heart Attacks, Suffocation in Ashpit

William L. Fuhrmark, 44 years old, 604 Glendale avenue, Glenview, became wedged in the outside ashpit of the fireplace in his new home yesterday and died of suffocation and a heart attack combined, said Dr. John Carter, coroner's physician. Mr. Fuhrmark, manager of a real estate office, crawled into the pit where he had found a wooden brace afire after the fireplace had emitted smoke. His wife, Gladys, found him unconscious and summoned firemen, who made futile efforts to resuscitate him.

2 'FORTRESSES' FALL INTO SEA; 22 FLYERS DIE

Alexandria, La., Sept. 11 (AP).—Two Flying Fortresses crashed into the Gulf of Mexico about 40 miles southeast of Galveston, Tex., after colliding in the air, and all 22 members of the two crews were presumed killed.

The Alexandria army air base, announcing the loss today, said the crash occurred late yesterday afternoon during a routine training flight.

A search by navy craft and army planes has failed to find any survivors, bomber base authorities reported.

At Gunnery Practice.

The two plans were flying in a formation which took off from Alexandria yesterday afternoon on a gunnery practice mission over the gulf. One of the planes was believed to have lost its position in the formation, said the announcement. In attempting to maneuver back into place it collided with another ship. One plane exploded and both sank immediately.

Names of some of the dead were released late today by the base. They included Sgt. Reinhold Kubarth whose wife, Mrs. Virginia Kubarth, lives at 5020 28th avenue, Kenosha, Wis.

Oak Park Flyer Killed.

Marianna, Fla., Sept. 11 (AP).—Cadet John Ruckman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ruckman, 312 S. Scoville, Oak Park, Ill., was killed Thursday when his plane crashed here.

Chicago Victim Identified.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 11 (AP).—Two flight officers killed in a plane crash near Simpsonville, Ky., yesterday were revealed by Bowman field authorities today to be Robert T. Sutherlin, 27 years old, Bloomington, Ind., and Harold D. Roth, 22, 5035 North Springfield avenue, Chicago. A third man, Flight Officer Leon B. Spencer, 20, of Montgomery, Ala., escaped with minor injuries, field authorities reported.

Chicagoan Killed in Flight.

Talahassee, Fla., Sept. 11 (AP).—Second Lt. Richard A. Marin, army pursuit plane pilot, whose widow lives at 2516 North Avers avenue, Chicago, was killed near Thomasville, Ga., yesterday during a training flight, it was announced today by the Dale Mabry field public relations office. Marin was assigned to the Thomasville sub-base at the field.

Lost Pilot's Body Found.

New York, Sept. 11 (AP).—The body of 2d Lt. Charles J. Collins, 26 years old, army pilot missing since his fighter plane crashed near Brimfield, Mass., Sept. 1, has been found, the eastern defense command announced today. Collins, son of Mrs. Jeanette Lindsay of Baraboo, Wis., had been stationed at Chickasha, Okla., Vernon, Tex., and Foster field, Texas.

California Crash Kills 4.

Hamilton Field, Cal., Sept. 11 (AP).—Four army fliers were killed yesterday in the crash of their advanced training plane near La Jolla.

HENRY WALLACE EXPANDS 1 OF 4 FREEDOMS TO 7

Lays Down 3 Rules for 'People's Peace.'

Vice President Henry A. Wallace spoke last night to some 20,000 Chicagoans in a "win-the-peace" rally at the Chicago Stadium. He warned that revolution will follow any peace that ignores the rights of the common man.

CIO union organizers, who had been working for three weeks among their members to provide the Vice President with a large audience, were at the doors early to show their charges to the places assigned to them and give out badges. On the balcony rails were hung banners of the International Union of Mining, Mill, and Smelter Workers of America and the Amalgamated Machine Tool and Die Workers, both listed by the Dies committee as Communist dominated unions.

Fears Millions Will Forget.

"We can arrive at understandings now that we can't get next year," Mr. Wallace said. "The momory of the airplanes, tanks, food, and men now means so much to England, Russia, and China that they can't help being grateful. Today we all are grateful for the help of friends. But tomorrow millions of us may forget and curse others as the cause of our woes."

The Vice President expanded one of the four freedoms of the Atlantic charter into seven additional "freedoms" and laid down three fundamental rules for a "people's peace."

"There is certain to be a revolution until the seven freedoms are obtained and the three rules are fulfilled," Wallace warned. "The only question is the speed of the revolution and whether it will be peaceful or violent."

Enlarges "Freedom from Want."

Wallace took the "freedom from want" of the Atlantic charter and enlarged it into: Freedom from worry about a job, freedom from worry about a dependent and poverty pinched old age, freedom from unnecessary worry about sickness and hunger, freedom from strife between workers and business men, between farmers and business men, and between workers and farmers; freedom from strife between races and creeds, freedom from fear of bankruptcy caused by overproduction of necessary materials, freedom for venture capital and for inventors of new ideas to expand production of needed goods without fear of repressive cartels, excessive taxation or excessive government regulation.

"A people's peace is the gateway on the path to the century of the common man," the Vice President declared. "In the century of the common man, rule 1 is the full use of all natural resources on a sustained basis. Rule 2 is full use of all technologies. Rule 3 is to use these resources and technologies so that every one working in hope can came every night to a peaceful rest in the expectation of another day of hopeful work tomorrow."

Declares Against Cartels.

Wallace charged that "isolationism is the screen behind which special privilege seeks to entrench its control."

"Wherever isolationism is being pushed most vigorously, there in the background can usually be found, furnishing money and power, monopolistic cartels," he declared. "These cartels are customarily seeking tariffs, quotas, subsidies or other governmental favors which are the breeding ground of isolationism."

[An editorial in today's Tribune entitled "The Road to Fascism" discusses cartels at length. It points out that NRA in the first Roosevelt term was an attempt to create cartels in this country. Donald Richberg, author of the act, admitted this in testimony at a congressional hearing.]

"America cannot do this job by herself," Wallace warned, "because in such case her standard of living, so far above the rest of the world, would bring on envy and finally war. America's only safety and guarantee of high living standards is in world-wide full use of natural resources and a world-wide rise in living standards as rapid as her own."

The Vice President supported the Ball-Burton-Hatch-Hill senate resolution for international post-war collaboration to preserve the peace. Sharing speaking honors at the rally with him were Sen. Joseph H. Ball [R., Minn.], one of the authors of the resolution, and Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America and chairman of the CIO committee on political action.

Hillman insisted that only an economy of abundance available "to all men everywhere" can guarantee permanent peace.

For "Economy of Abundance."

"We want a peace," he declared, "that will give full employment to our people, with a broad program of social security for those unable to work and a national income level that will provide a decent livelihood for all. These standards can be established for ourselves only in an economy of abundance that fully utilizes the rich resources of the world and makes them available—not to a few lands, but to all men, everywhere."

Preceding and following the speakers were such entertainers as Orson Welles of radio invasion-from Mars fame; Paul Robeson, Negro baritone; Walter Huston, star of the propaganda movie, "Mission to Moscow," and Dorothy Donegan, whose dexterity as a boogie woogie pianist carried her to Orchestra hall.

Sen. Ball Revises Speech.

Sen. Ball revised the speech he had been giving on tour to demand "let's say what we mean and mean what we say."

"If America must depend entirely on its own strength for security in a world in which there is no collective security," he said, "we'll spend 15 to 20 billions a year for defense after this war. That would mean a continuation indefinitely of WPB, OPA, WLB, ODT, and all other regulations which today curb enterprise and curtail our freedoms. That sort of total mobilization of our economy and national life is an essential part of modern, total war, and it is also part of total defense."

Most popular on the evening's program of entertainment were Comdr. Eddie Peabody, the Great Lakes band and other musicians from the naval station.

FLOSSMOOR MAJOR, 24, MISSING IN SICILY, GIVEN 2 HERO AWARDS

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Dempesy of Brassie road, Flossmoor, have learned that their son, Maj. Robert C. Dempsey, missing in action in Sicily, has been awarded the bronze oak leaf cluster and air medal by President Roosevelt. Maj. Dempesy, 24 years old, was graduated from Knox college, where he met his wife, Carolyn. They have a son, William Robert, 8 months old. The major's father is president of the Buda company, Harvey.

Maj. R. C. Dempesy.

Sgt. R. L. Bennett.

Sgt. Robert L. Bennett, 23, radio operator on a Fying Fortress of the 8th bomber command, reported missing in action since July 28, has been awarded the air medal and two oak leaf clusters, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman T. Bennett, 618 Berkley avenue, Elmhurst, have been informed by Maj. Gen. J. A. Ulio, adjutant general of the army. Family friends said Sgt. Bennett is believed to be a prisoner in German occupied Europe, for others of his crew have been reported prisoners.

Mrs. Harriette Judas, 245 Villa street, mother of Lt. Maxwell Judas, army airman who is prisoner of war in Germany, yesterday received an air medal with three oak leaf clusters, awarded to her son in recognition of 20 bombing missions over enemy territory. Lt. Judas' Flying Fortress was shot down over Wilhelmshaven last May 21.

IDENTIFIED BY THEFT VICTIM.

John Gallagher, 27 years old, 6223 South Sangamon avenue, was arrested yesterday shortly after he had been said by Aloysius Beck, 6134 South Artesian avenue, to be the man who robbed him of his auto and $17 in front of 6234 South Halsted street.

STANDARD HEAD AVERS WALLACE CHARGES FALSE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 11.—Ralph W. Gallagher, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, tonight branded as false the attack made on the corporation by Vice President Henry A. Wallace in a speech in Chicago.

Wallace, without naming Standard Oil, struck at it by implication in an attack on what he called a "private treaty between a great American oil comany and I. G. Farben, the German chemical colossus." These companies, said the Vice President, made a deal whereby the Germans were given a world monopoly on synthetic rubber, and the Americans were given a world monopoly on synthetic gasoline. As a result of the deal, asserted Wallace, the oil company obtained control of buna rubber and for five years held back the production of butyl rubber altho the company knew it possessed greater possibilities than buna.

Points to Coöperation.

"Most people know that our efforts during the last 15 years in bringing buna rubber to the United States and in carrying out research and development here have been the very foundation of this country's synthetic rubber program," Gallagher said.

"Surely Mr. Wallace should be in a position to know that long before war came we had worked with eight agencies of our government to establish synthetic rubber production in this country.

"Surely he should be in a position also to know that we put to our country's use every bit of technical knowledge we possess, all the 'know how' we had built up from years of research and experimentation; that our technologists were placed at the country's disposal; that we transferred permanently to our government patent rights on buna-S rubber; that we developed butyl rubber in our own laboratory; that we learned new and better ways to make butadiene from oil.

Quotes Jeffers Statement.

Gallagher cited the statement of William M. Jeffers, rubber director, on last June 6 that "had it not been for the research and engineering development carried on by Standard Oil of New Jersey prior to Pearl Harbor, the synthetic rubber program would be one and one half years behind what it is now."

"It is also unfortunate," Gallagher continued, "that Mr. Wallace has apparently not taken the time to read the report of the national patent planning commission transmitted by President Roosevelt to congress on June 18, 1943. This report summarizes patents and the war effort by saying: 'This involves no serious problem since, under existing laws, the government has the right to use any patented invention. Altho full opportunity has been given, and specific inquiry made by the commission of the armed services, no evidence has been submitted of specific instances of the use of patents to hamper the war effort.'

"Mr. Wallace has again resorted to the label 'cartel' to alarm the American public. With reference to cartels I stated publicly some months ago a position I now repeat, 'I oppose cartels so far as our company is concerned, in any place, with all the vigor I have.'"

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

S. T. P. asks: "Is there a chance for a man who has had considerable experience in public administration to secure a commission in the army in the allied military government activity?"

ANSWER: Yes, you may qualify for a commission in the army if you have acted as the head or principal officer of a large public agency department or division in a city, county, state, or federal department or in a similar position in a large private enterprise. Candidates must have had broad administrative experience and have ability to direct a military government section or ability to serve in an administrative position on a large staff engaged in the setting up and coördination of activities and procedures of one of several departments on the civil affairs staff. A successful and progressive record as a capable administrator is absolutely essential. In addition, candidats should be college graduates and have a knowledge of some modern foreign language altho the language requirement may be waived if the candidate is otherwise exceptionally well qualified. These assignments require an ability to deal effectively with important government and military officials; ability to get along well with all types of persons and strata of society; ability to handle difficult situations and problems, and ability to express oneself forcefully and clearly. If you are between 38 and 50 it is suggested you apply at the Chicago Officer Procurement District office for an interview.

D. W. H. writes: "I have been in class 2-A until today when I received a card telling me I had been reclassified 1-A. I went to the board and they told me the 2-A classification had been changed and I was no longer eligible for that classification because men formerly classified 2-A because of being 'essential in his civilian activity or occupation,' would now have to be 'men necessary in support of the war effort.' I am a pharmacist in a rural community."

ANSWER: The 2-B classification was amended Aug. 16, 1943, to read, "In class II.-A shall be placed any registrant who is found to be a 'necessary man' in support of the war effort. . . . Class II.-A deferments shall be for a period of six months or less as may be deemed necessary to secure or train a replacement for the registrant." It appears to be up to the local board to determine in each case if the registrant's occupation and particular activity is in "support of the war effort." The registrant can appeal from his local board's determination. If you are the only registered pharmacist available over a large area and no replacement is available and your induction would deprive the community of the services of the only pharmacist, you should be deferred.

GLOBAL TINKERS GIVEN REBUFF BY INDIANA G.O.P.

State Group Sees Eye to Eye with Mackinac.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 11.—Indiana Republicans appear as strong as ever against any surrender of American sovereignty in any post-war plan of international coöperation to preserve peace.

The Republican state committee, in a statement today pointed out that the policies adopted at the G. O. P. post-war advisory council meeting at Mackinac Island, Mich., are largely similar to resolutions adopted by the state party organization here last May.

Incidentally, the May declaration was regarded as a Hoosier Bronx cheer for the global planning and blueprints of eastern seaboard internationalists. The view expressed by the party here was that with war conditions changing so rapidly no man is wise enough to formulate a program. Indiana beat Mackinac to it.

Programs Parallel.

Today's statement cited parallels in the Mackinac program of policy and in the Indiana party statement. Among them are prosecution of the war to conclusive victory, and disarmament of the axis forces.

Where the Mackinac policy approved participation by America in post-war coöperation among sovereign nations to attain peace with organized justice, and in this should adhere to the Constitution, the Bill of Rights and the Declaration of Independence, the Indiana statement in May said any international relationships must always be "compatible with the common interests of the American people."

Where the Mackinac program called for widest consultation of the men and women in the military services, the Indiana declaration said: "When the war is won, our 11 million fighting men and women will again become integral parts of our civil government; they will return to us fortified by first hand information of conditions in foreign countries and will therefore be thoroly qualified to participate in the formulation of a post-war program to preserve the peace and well-being of the world. No such post-war program should be determined without the benefit of the knowledge and judgment of our armed forces."

Willkie Ignored.

This Indiana satement, directed against global planners, was in measure a reiteration of what happened in the state Republican convention here yast year. The state platform then made no mention of Wendell Willkie, Presidential nominee in 1940, did not embrace Willkie's post-war internationalism views. Instead, it declared no man or group is wise enough to formulate a program for some unknown time in the future, and that all responsibilities assumed after the war to assure peace "must be consistent with our republican form of government."

Willkie's ideas got no further last year than at Mackinac. The Indiana party was against any relinquishment of American sovereignty.

Last month the G. O. P. state committee sent out reprints of "Boondoggling on a Global Basis" to the organization. Its author, Henry J. Taylor, is to speak at the Indiana Republican Editors association meeting at French Lick, Sept. 18.

Commenting on Indiana's insistence that there be no relinquishment of sovereignty, Sen. Raymond Willis said: "The Mackinac statement is probably as good as can be developed at this time in view of the lack of knowledge of conditions which will confront us after the war.

'People Opposed.'

"Ultimately the question may be put up to the people as to whether any sovereignty is to be given up for the sake of the machinery of treaty enforcement. I am sure the people are opposed to surrender of any of the sovereignty of the U. S. A. to the authority of any supergovernment or any association of governments.

"As a senator I have no right to gamble with other peoples' liberties and constitutional rights. The penitentiaries are filled with men who have gambled with other people's money. But gambling with other people's liberties is a much greater abuse of confidence."

James A. Emmert, attorney general of Indiana, in speaking of Indiana sentiment against utopian dreamers and an international police force, said today:

"While Indiana folks are gravely concerned about preventing future wars upon us, they are too realistic to believe an international utopia would be possible following defeat of the axis.

Can Prevent Attack.

"We can prevent Germany and Japan from attacking us again by keeping them disarmed, by force if necessary. The Monroe Doctrine justified any post-war obligations we may assume to keep these enemies disarmed,

"But there is nothing in the Monroe Doctrine which would necessitate us becoming a part of a perpetual global police force in order to protect ourselves against future wars. There is no sentiment in Indiana for turning Uncle Sam into a hybrid Santa Claus policeman, with a sack of gifts for all the world in one hand and a billy club in the other."

Emmert, a strong nationalist, is among the candidates for the Republican nomination for senator next year against Sen. Frederick Van Nuys, Democrat, and is rated a formidable contender. Willkie, in his recent efforts to captivate Indiana party leaders, is reported to have remarked that if the organization should support Emmert, which is regarded as likely, he would not oppose him, tho a nationalist.

Dewey a Casualty.

The current of opinion among party leaders here seems to be that the Mackinac conference was of doubtful value at this period, but that it adhered to essential principles.

One casualty of Mackinac, as party chiefs view it, was Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York. Dewey's pronouncement for a military alliance between America and Great Britain to defend the English speaking powers from attack and to prevent future wars in general, some of the party chiefs leaders declare, was followed by an unfavorable reaction in Indiana. He has been regarded as being strong as a Presidential possibility.

Criticism of Dewey was soon heard out in the rural regions and party scouts report a volume of comments, in essence: "Dewey is an internationalist." "Willkie is too much like President Roosevelt and the New Deal." "Dewey is even more internationalist than Willkie."

BUTTER AND EGG MAN'S RING AND $250 DISAPPEAR

Richard J. Peifer, 47 years old, an employe of the Tracy Produce company, butter and egg dealers in Tracy, Minn., a town of 3,000 population, reported to police yesterday the disappearance of $250 and his diamond ring valued at $3,000 from his room in the Hotel Sherman. Peifer, in Chicago to attend a convention, told police he invited two young women to his room, served drinks, and then fell asleep.

MISSOURI FIRES 9-POINT POLICY QUIZ AT WILLKIE

Demands Clarification of Post-War Aims.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 11 (AP).—Nine questions, asking Wendell Willkie for his specific views on post-war problems, have been addressed to the 1940 Republican Presidential nominee in a letter signed by Missouri state and national party officers and Willkie today promised to give his answers "off the record" before the end of the month.

Gov. Dalton, chairman of the state committee, said Willkie promised in a telephone conversation, to meet the group in St. Louis some time in September to answer the nine questions and any others on international or domestic issues.

Delighted, Willkie Says.

In New York, Willkie said in a statement that "most of the questions bear no relationship to reality, but I'd be delighted to sit down with Chairman Dalton and his group to discuss them. My views on some of the questions are already very widely known. It would be a pleasure for me to meet with Chairman Dalton to discuss these questions and any others."

The letter recalled that the Missouri delegation gave Willkie a large vote for nomination at the 1940 convention and declared, "We are not unfriendly now."

"We are unanimously of the opinion that in the post-war world America should seek whatever arrangement of world affairs are in the best interest of America," the letter said.

"We seek enlightenment on method. We should like to have your considered views about this world when it is again at rest."

The questions:

1. "Do you believe that the United States should become a member of a world supranational state? Would it place United States fighting forces under control of the world state?

2. "If you favor a world state, what would you do about nations that refuse to come in? Would you force them in by military means?

Asks View on Aliens.

3. "Do you believe in absolute freedom of international trade without restrictions to protect American standards of living?

4. "Do you believe a world monetary system should be established, and if so, what relationship would it have to the American dollar?

5. "Do you believe in the free and unrestricted movement of peoples? If so, how do you propose to prevent peoples from Asia overrunning the United States?

6. "Do you believe that it is desirable for America to permit flooding our country with alien individuals and alien ideas?

7. "In what other respects do you envision the political and economic organization of 'one world'?

8. "Newspapers report you to have said that if the Republicans adopt a liberal platform they can win. What dou you mean by a 'liberal platform?' Be specific please.

9. "If you are not the Presidential nominee of the Republican party in 1944, will you actively support the nominee chosen by the Republican convention?"

ULRIC BELL PUT IN CHARGE OF A NEW OWI OFFICE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11 (AP).—The office of war information today announced formation of an overseas bureau in Los Angeles, Cal., with Ulric Bell as chief.

Robert E. Sherwood, director of OWI's overseas branch, said the new bureau represents a consolidation of all representatives and services of the overseas branch in southern California. The major emphasis is upon service to the motion picture industry, he said.

Bell, former newspaperman, became assistant director in the office of facts and figures in 1942. Later that year he became OWI's overseas representative in charge of liaison with the motion picture industry.

LOVE SHOOTING VICTIM DOOMED TO BE INVALID

A life of invalidism is faced by Miss Alberta Morrow, 27 years old, of 1315 West 90th street, victim of a love triangle shooting on Sept. 7, even if she recovers from the bullet wound which severed her spinal cord, Dr. John Simonaitis, attending surgeon, said yesterday. She was shot by Miss Rosalie Walsh, 21, of 725 West 79th street, who said she was jealous of the attention that her fiance, Anthony Van Arkel, 8310 Wallace street, paid to Miss Morrow. Miss Walsh is in county jail, held on $20,000 bond, awaiting a hearing in Felony court Sept. 24 on a charge of assault to commit murder.

"and next year he'll be 18..."

MORE than 3,000 boys in America are celebrating their seventeenth birthday today. Tomorrow there will be 3,000 more...and the next day, and the next. Boys like this one.

"And next year he'll be 18..."

It didn't seem possible that this war could ever need him—and the thousands of others like him who will be 18 years old next year.

But it can. And it will, each day of the year, for as long as this war lasts.

WAR BONDS are real and living things...life itself.

For they're days and weeks and months off the calendar of war.

Could there be any finer reason than this to buy more and more War Bonds—to get this war won and done with fast? Could there be any finer reason than America's 3,000 sons who reach the age of 18 every day?

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs again refused to be shut out by the Cardinals yesterday. They made three singles in a row after two were out in the ninth, just as they had done on Friday, to make their run for the day. The Cards won, 3 to 1, to increase the Cubs' homecoming losing streak to seven straight. It was the fourth straight game in which the Cubs have made one—and only one—run.

The game was played largely in the infield, so puny was the swinging. Not a Cardinal outfielder made a putout, and only three were made by Cub outfielders. It was the second time in a week that the Cubs have failed to give an opposing outfielder a chance in nine innings of play. In a game with Cincinnati last week, Estel Crabtree made the only outfield putout after two were out in the 10th inning.

Meet Cards Twice Today.

While Bill Nicholson caught two flies yesterday and Lou Novikoff grabbed one, the main traffic was at second base where Eddie Stanky made eight putouts and five assists, three chances short of the record.

Chicago fans, who saw Rip Sewell become the first National league pitcher to win 20 games, will have a chance this afternoon to see Mort Cooper become the second National league pitcher to accomplish 20 victories. Mort will pitch one of the contests and Harry Brecheen the other. Hi Bithorn, who has won 17 and lost 10, and Paul Derringer, who has won eight and lost 14, will pitch for the Chicagoans.

Eddie Hanyzewski was abandoned by his pals for the third straight time since the big Wrigley field swoon set in. The Cubs have made three runs in games started by Eddie and in the same three games have made nine errors. There were three infield errors yesterday and other clumsy plays not so recorded.

Cards Play for One at a Time.

So sure were they of the Cubs' helplessness at bat that the Cardinals never tried for a big inning. In connection with this confidence that the Cub power has become almost negligible, the Cards made five sacrifices, only one of which was a squeeze play.

The Cards' second and winning run was scored without the aid of a base hit. Their first run was legitimate and so was their third, off Johnny Burrows. He pitched the ninth.

Walker Cooper opened the fifth inning with the second hit off Hanyzewski, a single to left, went to second on Whitey Kurowski's sacrifice, and to third on Danny Litwhiler's fly to Nicholson. He scored on Ray Sanders' single to left.

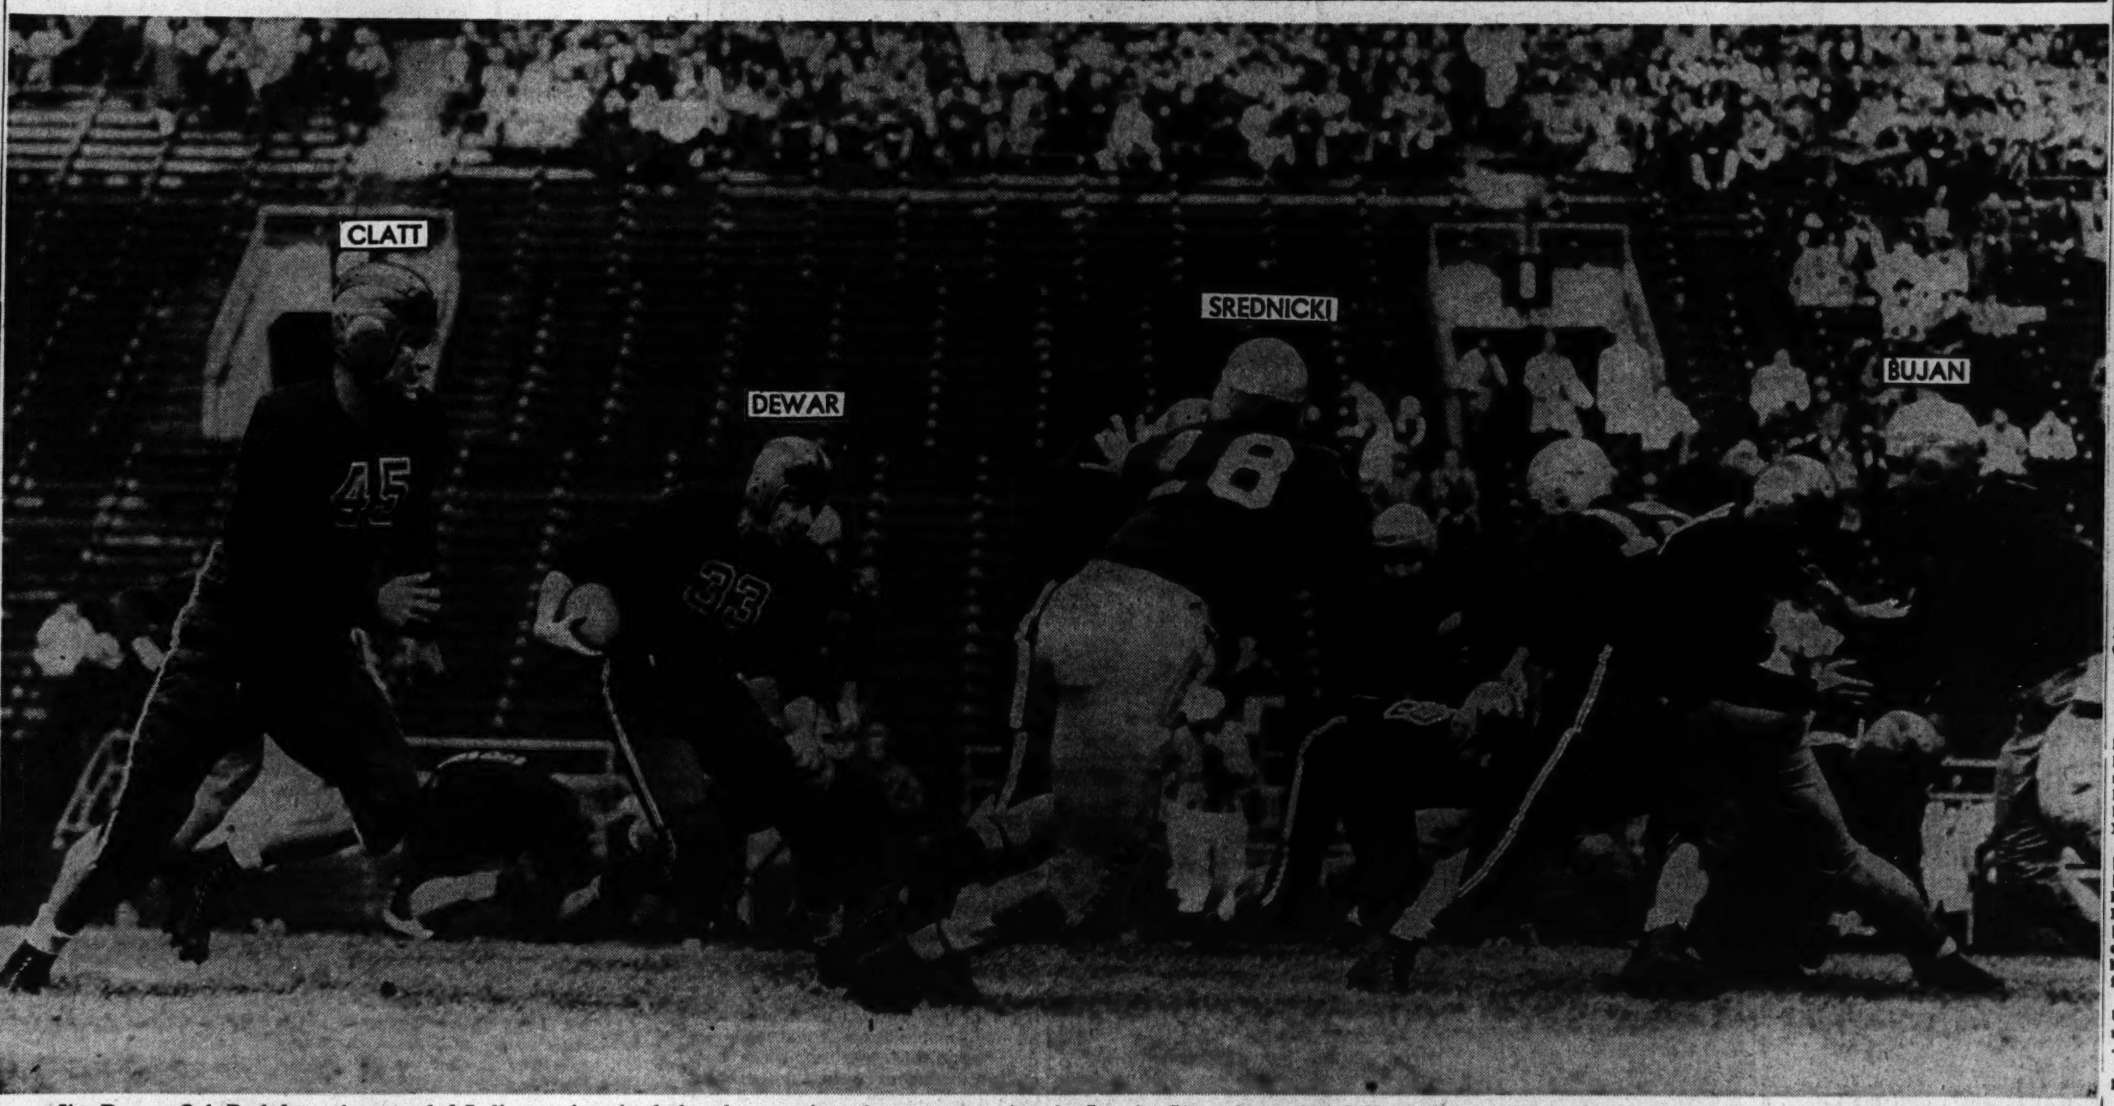
Two Errors Help Cards.

At the start of the sixth Al Brazle, the winning pitcher, reached first on an error by Stan Hack, advanced on Lou Klein's sacrifice and Johnny Hopp's out, and scored on the first of Len Merullo's two fumbles.

The run off Burrows in the ninth was the result of Litwhiler's triple and a squeeze bunt by George Fallon.

The Cubs got their daily run quota in the ninth on successive singles by Mickey Livingston, Peanuts Lowrey, and Pinch Batter Dom Dallessandro.

A WARRIOR OUTFLANKS THE ILLINI FOR 13 YARDS



Jim Dewar, Oak Park boy who attended Indiana university before he went into the army, carrying the ball for Camp Grant around right end in yesterday's game with the University of Illinois at Champaign. Camp Grant won, 23 to 0. Running interference for Dewar as he darts across the field is Corwin Clatt, formerly of Notre Dame. The play, in the first quarter, gained 13 yards for the Warriors. James Srednicki, Illinois end, is running in to attempt the tackle. George Bujan is the Illinois quarter back. The weather drove the spectators under the upper deck of the stands. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

KREEVICH GETS 4 HITS AS BROWNS DEFEAT ED SMITH AND WHITE SOX

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 11.—James Dykes' White Sox first division ambitions suffered another kicking around today by the Browns, who were pennant possibilities last spring, but now will be satisfied if they can make a modest climb to sixth place.

The Browns, with Mike Kreevich the Chicago alumnus setting a dizzy four hit pace, treated Eddie Smith's southpawing to a severe combing and the Dykes' lads were next to helpless against Al Hollingsworth so they succumbed by 4 to 1 before 628 cash patrons.

Sox Dodge Shutout.

The Sox had so much trouble getting the range on Hollingsworth's southpawing that they fashioned only four hits in seven innings which was longer than it took for the Browns to complete their run production, half of the amount being due to a homer by George McQuinn. However, the Sox eventually achieved the dubious honor of dodging a shutout, this feat being made possible by a surprising outburst of three hits in the eighth.

Business was bad for Smitty at the outset because Don Gutteridge opened with a dribbler and beat Appling's throw for a hit. Kreevich began pouring it on his former mates by singling to center and both men advanced with the aid of McQuinn's sacrifice. Gutteridge scooted home when Chet Laabs directed a long fly into the hands of Ralph Hodgins.

Browns Fill Bases.

The next disturbance in Smitty's life was a pass he handed to Hollingsworth. Gutteridge and Kreevich singled again, filling the bases and Hollingsworth scored later on McQuinn's fly.

Smith had two of his foes disposed of in the fifth before there were any signs of another Brownie splurge. Kreevich got loose for the third time by singling to right. Then Smitty made the first pitch to McQuinn too good to be ignored. McQuinn planted it on the right field roof for his ninth homer, giving the Browns their 4 to 0 edge. And Kreevich could have done more damage in the seventh with his fourth single if Gutteridge, the man preceding him, had been content to stop at second instead of trying to stretch a drive into a triple.

Sox Finally Score.

In the first seven innings, the Sox hitting, such as it was, had been confined to Cuccinello and Mike Tresh, but this was changed when Thurman Tucker, who had been out for almost a month because of a shoulder injury, singled with two gone in the eighth. Hodgin helped him to second with a single and Guy Curtright drove him home for the lone run.

The Sox conclude their season's work here tomorrow with a double header in which they'll risk Thornton Lee and Orval Grove against Denny Galehouse and Bob Muncrief.

World Series Is Arranged in One Trip

The 1943 world's series, opening in New York's Yankee Stadium on Tuesday, Oct. 5, will be a one trip affair.

The first three games will be played in New York and the remaining games in St. Louis, regardless of the number necessary to decide the series.

These plans were completed yesterday as the Yankees and Cardinals moved toward the championships in the American and National leagues. The Cardinals need to win only seven more games to clinch the National league flag, while the Yanks must win 13 more, regardless of what the other teams do.

Coöperate with ODT.

The details were worked out at a meeting presided over by Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, and attended by Sam Breadon, owner of the Cardinals, Charles McManus, representing the New York Yankees, and Ford Frick, president of the National league.

The decision to play the first three games at New York was reached after it had been proposed by Edward Barrow, president of the Yankees. Barrow also suggested a one trip series in order to coöperate with the office of defense transportation in eliminating unnecessary train travel.

Day of Rest.

If the series should go seven games, it was decided, there will be a day of rest between games six and seven in order to sell tickets for the seventh. The tickets customarily are sold in blocks covering three games each. It was also decided to allow two days of travel after the first three games. Thus the fourth game will be in St. Louis Oct. 10. All games will start at 1:30 p. m.

Charity will share in the receipts as it did last year. The profits of games three, four, six, and seven, after the players' pool is taken out, go to war relief and Service, Inc., a baseball organization handling funds raised for charity. This organization will turn over one-half of the receipts to the American Red Cross and the remaining half to the National War Fund, Inc. The latter organization is the distributor of funds to 30 odd war relief and charitable organizations.

Radio Rights Bring $100,000

The radio broadcasting rights were sold to the Gillette Safety Razor company for $100,000, and this, too, will be tossed into the charity pool. If the series goes seven games Landis estimated that charity might receive $550,000. If the series goes only four games, the amount would be only about $400,000, Landis said.

The usual world's series prices will prevail, with box seats for the New York games selling for $6.60, grandstand, $5.70; general admission, $3.30, and bleachers, $1.10.

At St. Louis, however, because of a Missouri state tax, these prices will prevail: Box seats, $6.90; grandstand, $5.50; general admission, $3.45, and bleachers, $1.15.

PACKERS SCORE IN ALL PERIODS; WHIP PHIL-PITT EAGLES, 28 TO 10

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 11 [Special].—The Green Bay Packers tonight whipped the Philadelphia-Pittsburgh Eagles in an exhibition football game in Shibe park, 28 to 10. In scoring their second successive victory in the east, the Wisconsin team made a touchdown in each quarter. The Eagles scored their 10 points in the first quarter.

The Packers defeated the Washington Redskins, defending National league champions, last Sunday, 23 to 21. They now will return to Green Bay to prepare for their National Football league opener there a week from Sunday against the Chicago Bears.

The Packers meet both the Pitt-Phil and Washington teams during the regular season. They will play the Redskins Oct. 17 in Milwaukee and the Steelers Dec. 5 in Philadelphia.

Eagles Take 10 to 0 Lead.

The Eagles gave the Packers a scare in the first quarter by setting up a 10 to 0 lead. Jack Hinkle scored on the fourth play of the game and a few minutes later, Roy Zimmerman kicked a field goal.

Then the crow of 15,000 watched the Green Bay team take control. Andy Uram hurled a pass to Harry Jucunski, which was good for 55 yards and a touchdown. A pitch from Tony Canadeo to Don Hutson for 22 yards put the ball in position for Full Back Ted Fritsch to drive over for a touchdown in the second quarter and give the Packers a 14 to 10 lead.

In thethird period, Canadeo again found Hutson with a pass, this one good for 56 yards and ascore. The final touchdown came in the fourth quarter when Irv Comp, rookie half back, recovered a fumble by Ernie Steele and raced 65 yards. Hutson kicked three of the four extra points.

Eagles Fail in Air.

The Eagles outran and outgained the Packers on the ground, but couldn't muster any strength in the air. Green Bay had 11 first downs to 17 for the Eagles and gained only 201 yards by running 381 for its opponents. Lineup:

Kramer Hurls No Hit, No Run Game for Hens

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 11 (AP).—Jack Kramer, Toledo right hander, pitched a no hit, no run game tonight, the first of the season in the American association, as he blanked the Louisville Colonels, 5 to 0.

DREAMS TO COME TRUE FOR ADAMS; HE STARTS TODAY

New York, Sept. 11 [Special].—Ace Adams, who has just set an all-time record for relief pitchers, will realize a lifetime dream tomorrow afternoon when he'll start his first major league game for the New York Giants in the second game of a double header against Boston in the Polo grounds. The bullpen star, a former Brooklyn Dodger farmhand, first joined the Giants in the spring of 1941, and won the first major league game he ever saw relieving on opening day at Ebbets field. Since then he has pitched in 161 games—all relief. Last Wednesday he relieved for the 62d time, breaking the seasonal mark he established last year.

NAVY PIER NINE WINS, 10 TO 3, TO CLOSE SEASON

The Navy Pier baseball team closed its season yesterday with a record of 28 victories in 32 games, beating Naval Air Tech, 10 to 3, on the losers' field at 88th street and Jeffery avenue. The winners broke a 3 to 3 tie with seven runs in the sixth inning. Features were the pitching of Sam House and timely hitting of Harley Kassell of the Aero-Macs, who got two singles with the bases loaded.

Bears to Play Redskins in East Today

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Baltimore Md., Sept. 11.—The Chicago Bears, who apparently are still the team to beat in National League football, will try tomorrow afternoon to make amends partially, at least, for the long hard winter, spring, and summer that followed their defeat in last year's championship game.

The Bears are scheduled to take on the Washington Redskins, twice beaten in pre-league competition, at Baltimore's Municipal stadium in a game that is expected to attract 45,000.

Beat Giants, 42 to 28.

The Chicago contingent, operating under the combined coaching talents of Hunk Anderson, Luke Johnsos and Paddy Driscoll, has been training in Baltimore since shortly after the 42 to 28 victory over the New York Giants at Buffalo last Sunday. The Redskins, routed by the College All-Stars, 27 to 7 in Evanston Aug. 25, were edged out by the Green Bay Packers, 23 to 21, last Sunday.

The woes of Coach Dutch Bergman, commander in chief of the pro champions, were aggravated today when Bob McChesney, 31 year old end decided to retire and tend to business in Washington. Joe Aguirre, the other end with experience on the squad, will take his place. Aguirre, by the way, is the player who caught Sammy Baugh's pass in the end zone at Dyche stadium for the only touchdown the Redskins scored against the All Stars.

Tomorrow afternoon's game does not count in league standings. The Bears at this time last year gave Washington a thoro drubbing in an exhibition game, but they couldn't come thru when the chips were down in championship play.

Several Stars in Service.

The Redskins tomorrow afternoon will not be able to present a lineup as formidable as the one they sent against the All-Stars. For that game they had the services of Steve Bagarus, their best running back; Jack Jenkins, a newcomer from Vanderbilt who some day may be one of the best half backs in pro football, and Don Nolander, center from Minnesota. These men are in service and were available only for the All-Star game.

The Bears are expected to start the same lineup that overpowered the Giants last Sunday. Leading the line will be Bulldog Turner, the two best centers in football.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 11.—Camp Grant's Warriors marched to the payoff window today after helping Illinois open the midwest's 1943 collegiate football season in Memorial stadium. The soldier eleven won on experience, 23 to 0, but in losing the youthful Illini earned commendation for their fighting spirit.

The Warriors, all of whom have had university experience, knew what the game was all about. They even appeared nonchalant in the first quarter, but a scoreless 15 minutes made them realize the determination of the Illini. Even then, the Warriors played far more raggedly, as witness their eight fumbles, than their opponents, but they had power on attack which eventually produced a touchdown in the second quarter.

With a 9 to 0 lead in the final quarter—Illinois had yielded a safety for the first score of the contest—the Warriors applied the pressure. An intercepted pass led to a touchdown and then, just before the end, another interception was good for 44 yards and the final compilation.

Warriors Check McGovern.

Jimmy Dewar, former Indiana half back, and Cornie Clatt, the Notre Dame line buster, measured up to expectations in the Camp Grant back field. They were ably assisted by two Warrior veterans, Reino Nori, quarter back, and Tony Storti. It was Storti who raced around Illinois' right end for the first touchdown.

Illinois had no such straightaway power and its most elusive back, Eddie McGovern, who last year played for Rose Poly in Terre Haute, Ind., was held in check. Even so, late in the first period McGovern sparked a brief air assault which produced a first down on the Warriors' 12 yard line. It ended on the next play by interception.

Recover Five Warrior Fumbles.

Illinois, without a letterman from the 1942 team which finished third in the Western conference, had no reason to expect victory. But what slight chance the youngsters may have had to score was dimmed when four players were declared ineligible this morning.

[Story on ineligibility of four Illinois players on page 5.]

But the Illini kept the Warriors

CHANDLER AND YANKEES BEAT RED SOX, 4 TO 0

Spud Hurls 7th Straight; No. 19 for Season.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 11 (AP).—Spud Chandler stole the show today as the New York Yankees made it three in a row over the Red Sox, 4 to 0. This is what Chandler, star Yank pitcher, accomplished: 1, he earned his 19th victory of the year against three defeats; 2, it was his seventh straight triumph; 3, it was his fifth shutout of the year; 4, he shaved his earned run average to 1.71; 5, he fanned eight to raise his season strike outs to 119, and 6, he yielded only seven hits and issued only one base on balls.

INDIANS, 7; TIGERS, 2.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 11 (AP).—The Cleveland Indians gained their 11th victory over the Detroit Tigers in 17 starts by shelling Paul [Dizzy] Trout, seeking his 18th triumph, for an easy 7 to 2 decision today. Vern Kennedy spaced eight hits for his ninth victory.

The Indians hammered Trout for 10 hits and all seven runs in less than five innings. Russ Peters' second of three hits drove in what proved to be the winning run in the second. Cleveland thus seized a 4 to 1 edge in the six game series.

LUBERSKY WINS ARCHERY CLOUT; FINALS TODAY

William Lubersky of the Chicago Archery club shot 225 yesterday in Washington park to win the clout round of the Chicago Park District Archers' eighth annual city tournament, finals of which will be conducted today on the Jackson park archery range, starting at 9:30 a. m.

Other winners yesterday were George Gemeinhardt of the River Park Archery club in the intermediate boys' division, with 49; Bobby Gedvill, of Gage park, 98 in the junior boys' division, and Mrs. Tessie Lubersky of the Chicago club, 230 in the women's division. Marge Schack of the Chicago club was second among the women with 226. Robert Simmons, also of the Chicago club, was the men's runner-up with 220. The men and intermediate boys shot at 48 foot targets from 180 yards, while the women and junior boys shot from 120 yards.

Today's finals will include an open as well as the city championship division.

Pro Tennis Title Meet to Be Held at Fort Knox

Fort Knox, Ky., Sept. 11 (AP).—The 17th annual National Professional Lawn tennis tournament will be held here Oct. 7-10, inclusive, it was announced today by the tournament committee. Col. N. Butler Briscoe, post commandant, said requests would be made that leaves be granted Don Budge, Robert Riggs, Wayne Sabin, and Bruce Barnes so they might participate in the meet.

Glider Wins in Star Boat Team Races

Sheridan Shore Yacht club Star boats defeated a team of Chicago Yacht club Stars yesterday off Wilmette harbor, on the winning club's 10 mile course, 23 to 17. A strong wind prevailed over the lake.

Glider, sailed by Charles Floyd, was first to cover the course. Winning time was 1:37:23. Floyd, John Clay, and Al Bingham own the Glider, a Sheridan Shore entry. Robert Cameron of the Chicago Yacht club sailed his Loch Lomond to second place in 1:41:55. Step-N-Fetchit, sailed by Maurie Van Arsdale of Sheridan Shore, was third two seconds later.

Rhapsody Finishes Fourth.

Roger Friskey, sailing for the Chicago Yacht club team in his Rhapsody, was fourth in 1:44:45. Emerson Raymond, Sheridan Shore contender in the recent world Star boat championship regatta in New York, finished next in 1:44:55, in his Dolphin. Don Bergman's Fram, from Sheridan Shore, was sixth in 1:52:00, followed by two Chicago Yacht club Stars, Tim Angsten's Sky Lark, and Bert Williams' Bubbling Over, the latter sailed by William Coveney.

As a result of the beating the Q and 8 meter class sloops took last Monday in the strong winds encountered on the Jackson Park Yacht club's race from Michigan City, Ind. to Chicago, the Lutz trophy series, scheduled to be sailed on the club course yesterday and today, have been canceled. Race Committee Chairman William Moore called off the races when only one yacht, Lively Lady, Otto Dreher's South Shore [Milwaukee] Yacht club defender, appeared for the event.

Hope Is Dismasted.

Hope, Dr. Adrien Verbrugghen's Q boat, one of the leading challengers, was dismasted last Monday, another one of the big sloops was towed in leaking, and several lost their canvas. Falcon II., undamaged in the blow, did not challenge as one of its skippers and most of its crew is in Detroit.

Negro Giants, Barons Start Series Today

The Chicago American Giants will open a new phase in their drive for the Negro American league baseball championship when they meet the Birmingham Black Barons this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in Comiskey park in the first game of their playoff series. The Black Barons won the first half and the American Gians the second round of the split season.

Manager Ted Radcliffe has selected Gentry Jessup, the right hander who put the American Giants into the playoffs with the deciding second half victory over Memphis on Labor day, to open the series for the Chicagoans. His opponent will be Gread McKinnies, Barons' southpaw.

The American Giants, with the heaviest hitting club in the American league, are accorded no more than an even chance against Birmingham in the series. The Barons have a powerful club, strong in all departments. The Chicagoans, however, with Ed Young, Lloyd Davenport, Art Pennington, and Alec Radcliffe to back up the pitching of Jesseup, Leroy Sutton, Willie Cornelius, Charley Shields, and Manager Radcliffe, hope to bring this city its first Negro baseball championship since the days of the late Rube Foster more than a decade ago. File Protest in 8 Meter Yacht Races

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 11 (AP).—A protest stood tonight between Skipper Elmer [Bud] Doyle of Youngstown, N. Y., and a third consecutive Great Lakes 8 meter sailing championship.

Doyle took the first three legs of the scheduled six race contest for the Commodore Barthel trophy handily yesterday and today over a Lake St. Clair course, but the fourth race went to Leland Karas of Chicago and his Lake Michigan crew with Joe Snay of Detroit second and Doyle third.

Kasa also was first across the finish line in the fifth, but the judges ruled his craft struck a stake near the start, disqualifying him, and declared Doyle, second to finish, the winner of race and series.

The Chicago skipper protested the judges' decision, however. Should the protest be allowed, a sixth race tomorrow would be necessary, altho Doyle could amass enough points to retain the trophy merely by placing third in the three man field.

WILLIAMS AND PESKY ARRIVE IN INDIANA CAMP

Baseball fans will recognize the arrivals as Ted Williams, the American League's leading hitter last year with a batting average of .356, and Johnny Pesky, Williams' Boston Red Sox teammate who batted .331 a year ago, all of which explains the cadets' joy. Their regret lies in the fact the Bunker Hill naval baseball team will complete its schedule in 10 days, giving Williams and Pesky few chances to get into action.

They arrived from pre-flight training at Chapel Hill, N. C., and will be at Bunker Hill about three months, or long enough to obtain about 100 hours flying time.

South Bend Central Wins Over East Chicago, 25 to 6

South Bend Central High school football team defeated Wishington High of East Chicago, Ind., 25 to 6, in a practice game in South Bend, Ind., last night. Dick Deranek scored three of the winners' four touchdowns on runs of 74, 49 and 31 yards. Score:

Revolta Seeks Sixth Illinois Crown Today

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Johnny Revolta, the curly-haired Evanston swinger who has won the title in five of the last seven years, this afternoon will begin the defense of the Illinois section championship of the Professional Golfers' Association of America in the annual tournament over Waukegan's Glen Flora course.

Pro-Amateur Event Today.

The event is a 54 hole medal play competition, the first 18 of which this afternoon will be joined in a pro-amateur event in which each professional will tee off with two Glen Flora amateurs in threesomes arranged by Bill Gordon of the Illinois P. G. A. tournament committee and Forbes Leith, the host professional.

The Marshall trophy was captured by Revolta, former National P. G. A. and Western Open title holder, in 1936, 1937, 1938, 1941, and 1942. Other former winners include Jock Hutchison in 1923 and 1925; Eddie Loos in 1924; Al Espinosa in 1927, 1928, and 1930; Foulis in 1929 and 1933; Abe Espinosa in 1931; Harry Cooper in 1932 and 1934; Frank Walsh in 1935; Dick Metz in 1939, and Dutch Harrison in 1940.

Final 36 Tomorrow.

The final 36 holes will be played tomorrow. A dollar in war stamps will entitle purchaser to witness the entire 54 holes. Starting times for the pro-amateur today follow:

1:00—Walter Keller, Keller's Fairways; F. Kyndberg, E. Kyndberg.
1:06—Cyril Wagner, unattached; E. Wightman, V. Sick.
1:12—Tony Jaronik, Bonnie Brook; J. Crowley, H. Cannon.

DETROIT WINS IN DEFENSE OF SOFTBALL TITLE

Youngstown, O., Sept. 11 (AP).—The Detroit Auto club opened defense of its national amateur baseball federation championship today defeating a rival from the motor city area, the Hazel Park, Mich., Mitchells, 5 to 4.

A three run blast in the first inning put Detroit ahead to stay, altho it had to match a two run splurge of the Mitchells in the seventh and was forced to call on Tony Bukovich to put down another two run rally in the ninth. Other scores:

Birmingham, Ala., 4, Hotel New Yorkers, 2; Fort Wayne, Ind., 5, Akron, O., 0; Atlanta, Ga., 3, Brooklyn Brewsters, 1; Cleveland Bartuneks, 3, Baltimore Bombers, 1.

GIANTS DEFEAT BRAVES, 4-3, IN 13TH ON HOMER

Witek's Hit Wins After Ott Ties Game in 9th.

New York, Sept. 11 (AP).—The Giants came from behind with two home runs today to beat the Boston Braves, 4 to 3, in 13 innings.

The veteran Jim Tobin apparently was assured his 13th victory of the year after Boston had taken a 3 to 1 lead in the first of the ninth on two walks, a sacrifice, and singles by Phil Masi and Kirby Farrell. But Manager Mel Ott, appearing as a pinch hitter, blasted his 18th homer of the season with two out and one on in the Giant half to tie the score. Then in the 13th Mickey Witek poled his fifth homer of the year to win the game.

DODGERS WIN, 7-2.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 11 (AP).—The Dodgers regained second place in the National league today by beating the Phillies, 7 to 2, while Cincinnati lost to Pittsburgh.

Schoolboy Rowe yielded three runs in the first inning on Dixie Walker's double, a wild pitch, an infield out, Luis Olmo's homer and two baggers by Billy Herman and Howie Schultz. This was enough for Kirby Higbe to gain his 11th victory of the season altho he was relieved by Ed. Head in the seventh after the Phils filled the bases with one out. Ron Northey hit his 12th homer of the year for the Phils in the fourth.

PIRATES BEAT REDS.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 11 (AP).—Johnny Vander Meer weakened in the eighth inning today, and the Pittsburgh Pirates won an 11 to 1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. The defeat, coupled with Brooklyn's victory over Philadelphia, dropped the Reds to third place.

After furnishing Bob Klinger a pitchers' duel for seven innings, Vandy yielded three singles, a walk, and a double by Vince Di Maggio for four runs. Ed Heusser took over and yielded a single to Al Lopez, and a minute later Rubeling stole home for the fifth score. The Pirates added three in the ninth on three hits and an error.

FIREMEN WILL DRILL DAILY FOR BENEFIT GAME

Manager Mike Murphy of the Chicago Firemen's baseball team has orderd daily workouts for his players this week in preparation for their game Saturday with the Mid West league All-Stars. The contest will be played in Wrigley field and the proceeds will go to the Firemen's Benefit fund, which cares for widows and dependents of deceased firemen.

Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan has invited the public to coöperate by subscribing to the fund or purchasing tickets for the game at their local fire stations. The drive has the approval of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

BOWLERS TO TOE MARK TOMORROW AT WINDY CITY

39th Season Will Open Tomorrow.

The Windy City Major league, one of the oldest bowling organizations in the country, will toe the foul line for the first time in the 1943-44 season at 8:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Windy City Bowling association, 2101-11 South Cicero avenue. It's the league's 39th year.

The opening schedule includes the following bouts: Gep-Rods vs. Virginia Dares; O. K. Motors vs. Mineralites; Vogel Bros. vs. Lemon King, Inc.; Furman Funerals vs. Schamberger Schlitz; John Tomans vs. Cascade Bowling Center; Soper Brothers vs. Nonebetter Ice Cream; Reichmann Jewelers vs. O'Keefe Bros. Coal Co., and Bee-Vacs vs. Meister Braus.

Another top flight ladies' league will open tonight when the newly formed South End Traveling league has its opening rolldown at Pla-Mor lanes, 79th street and Euclid avenue. Each of the eight teams, according to Gene Little, the organizer and president of the group, has an average of 835 or better. Leading the eight entries will be the Logan Square Buicks, world and city champions, who will bowl as the Pla-Mors. They are Nina Van Camp, Catherine Fellmeth, Emily Deering, Ruth Hartman, and Capt. Tess Morris. The league will roll over a 35 week schedule on Sunday evenings in four houses. In addition to Pla-Mor, they also will visit Crest Recreation, Hyde Park Recreation, and the Bowlarium, 75th street and Essex avenue.

Tonight's program will send the Crest Recreation against the Pla-Mor Lanes, the Du Bouchett vs. Crest Bowling school, Green Diamond Golf against Mrs. Grass' Noodle Soupers, and South Shore National Bank vs. Bowlarium.

Plenty to Be Shot At, But Not to Shoot

BY BOB BECKER.

The good news from Canada of a general increase of 25 per cent over last year's big duck crop, the problem of how to get ammunition for a little fall hunting, and the campaign to put over Lake Illinois are three topics of conversation among Illinois hunters this week-end. Ducks Unlimited is the authority for the prediction that America's waterfowl population is taking another jump this year, a fact that makes every duck hunter first give three cheers and then do a little worrying as to how he's going to find shotgun shells in order to shoot a few birds.

Tom Main, general manager of Ducks Unlimited projects in Canadian marshes, writes that his organization has produced millions of birds on one million acres now safeguarded by more than 100 projects financed by American sportsmen thru Ducks Unlimited. Millions of other birds have been saved from drouth and fires by management practices. All of the big marshes which have been rehabilitated in Canada to keep water on nesting grounds are the work of Ducks Unlimited. The dividend from these in bigger duck crops now are coming thru.

Shell Situation Is Bad.

Illinois sportsmen are scurrying around to raise money to finance Lake Illinois, a big duck growing project to be established by Ducks Unlimited from funds contributed solely by Illinois sportsmen. Chapters of the Illinois Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, individual rod and gun clubs, and hunters all over the state are contributing to this fund which will create a marsh capable of producing 250,000 to 500,000 ducks each year. Thus it will put back on the flyways more ducks than are shot during a normal year by Illinois waterfowl hunters. Sportsmen who wish further information about this laudable conservation project should call the Ducks Unlimited office, Central 6268.

As for the shotgun ammunition situation, it seems to be getting worse instead of better for the civilian who has no shells. The latest dope is this: George M. Davis, sales manager of the Western Cartridge company, East Alton, Ill., told this writer a couple of days ago that this week some ammunition was going to be shipped to jobbers and dealers in northern states where shells are needed for early hunting seasons, but as far as he could see it "looks like darned few shells for civilian hunters."

Job Is Too Big for Farmers.

The farmers get first crack at the new shells under WPB certificate No. 6. [Allotments for control of predatory animals and birds.] What's left will be doled out to civilian hunters who file certificate 6 with a sporting goods dealer.

And when a lucky civilian does get a chance to buy one whole box of 25 shells it will be recorded on his hunting license.

Charles E. Jackson, assistant director of the United States Fish and Wildlife service, said yesterday that the service wanted sportsmen to get ammunition for use in cropping the increasing game population because farmers do not have the time to do the hunting necessary to keep the game birds and animals in check.

SPOTTING THE PINS

BILL SMITH, bowling anchor for the United States Brewery team in the 1943-'44 premiere of the Classic league, has the honor of shooting the highest individual game for the opening week of the season. . . . Bill collected a 279 in the course of Wednesday's opening at Matt Faetz's recreation. . . . Clare Steinke was high man in Samuelson's major with a 267. . . . Herb Gunz, who had one game of 256, turned in the high series, a 647, five more than Steinke's 642. . . . That 10 game match which Connie Schwoegler, national individual match play champion who will defend his crown in the All-Star tournament opening over the Auditorium service men's center alleys in December, and Vern Anderson is due for an encore. . . . Only 30 pins separated the pair at the end of their battle, with each averaging better than 215 for the route. . . . The rematch is in the making now, with the Pla-Mor lanes the likely site again. . . . Louis P. Petersen is sending out entry blanks for his 32d annual Petersen Classic, the major event of his annual pair. It will be held at Hochstadter's Archer-35th Recreation as usual from Jan. 29 thru Feb. 5. . . . Pete hopes to break last year's record field of 832 bowlers, who divided a prize fund of $20,800, led by first money of $4,000.

Laura Stellmacher Sets Record for Chicago Women.

Laura Stellmacher, rolling leadoff for the Goranson's 20 alleys squad in the Friday night opening of the Playdium All-Star Ladies' league, knocked over 710 pins, the highest series by any Chicago woman bowler in the last decade. . . . She had games of 205, 254, and 251, enabling her colleagues to turn in a team total of 2,837 in winning from Durkee's Margarines by 402 pins. . . . Proprietors are asking all bowlers not to roll down darkened alleys. . . . Pin boys often snatch a nap between squads and have narrowly escaped serious injury when an overanxious 10 pin athlete fires a fast practice ball after the lights have been turned out. . . . Jim Hargrove, one of the regulars at Cascade, is quite proud of the triple blood donor emblem he wears in his coat lapel. . . . The 20 team Junior House league opened its fifth season Thursday night at the Playdium on North Clark street. . . . It is one of the fastest of its kind, requiring a 900 pin par per team. . . . Ray Keister, who will handle the league's book work again, just returned from a fishing trip in which he hooked a 32 pound muskie.

Windy City Recreation Manager Resigns.

Jerry Peck, manager of the Windy City Recreation for the last 21 years, has resigned to take a much needed rest. . . . Jerry has no immediate plans and no successor has been named as yet. . . . In the recent special match between Goranson's 20 Alley Girls and Johnny Kelly's Wonder Boys, which was won by the latter, 2,718 to 2,624, Johnny helped his total of 590 by picking up the 6—7—10 twice. . . . The match also resulted in a $24 turnover to the Auditorium service men's center, contributed by spectators. . . . Buddy Bomar of the Monarch Beers, Classic league champions, may be the next big name to don a uniform. . . . Buddy recently was reclassified 1-A. . . . Joe Wilman, captain of the disbanded champion A. B. C. Budweisers, leaves for Camp Grant on Sept. 27. . . . War plant executives report themselves sold on bowling as a means of mental relaxation and physical exercise for their workers. . . . Last year a number of proprietors had their share of men and women coming direct from their plants to the alleys. . . . In many cases the officials furnished transportation to the bowling stages.

Two Major Leagues to Shoot on Same Night.

Eddie Costello, who keeps things humming at the Pla-Mor Lanes, again has arranged to have his two major leagues shoot on the same night. . . . Both men and women will start seasonal action on Tuesday night, with the Women's Major, increased from 10 to 16 squads, rolling on the 7 and 9 o'clock squads. . . . The Men's Major, one of the city's strongest, will go to the line at 9 o'clock with eight teams. . . . Among the new quintets in the Women's Major is the De Luxe Trailways. . . . President Cliff Villeneuve, the sponsor, plans to lead the rooting for his squad, which is captained by Bernice Brooks. . . . He will bring a bus load of employes to the opener on Tuesday. . . . Byron Schoeman, former Chicago newspaper man and new owner of the Logan Square recreation at 2552 Milwaukee avenue, has booked a number of important attractions, including one of the Classic league's Wednesday night sessions and that organization's Sunday sweepstakes. . . . Nick Etten, New York Yankee first baseman, has an average nigh onto 190. . . . He does his bowling at the Pla-Mor alleys when he's in town. . . . The first National Rolle Bolle Open championship will be determined next Sunday at the Evergreen Club alleys in St. Charles, Ill. . . . Rolle Bolle is a game of Belgian origin and is played with 6½ inch discs on an oval alley 30x15 feet. . . . The tourney will have three-man teams in competition, bowling eight point games. The Evergreen club is located on route 64, just west of St. Charles.

Real Protective Clause in Entry Blanks.

Barney Hochstadter's Junior Classic, which last year found a field of 2,250 bowlers fighting for a prize list of $22,400, will have a real protective clause in its entry blanks this season. . . . The event is open to bowlers having an average of 185 or less. . . . The new clause will bar the entry of any bowler having an average of 186 or over for the last three years. . . . Due to a recent illness, Charley Wass, one of the top flight men of other years, has lost 38 pounds, but is about ready to step up there again. . . . Lloyd Wevang of Cascade Center, reports that the West Side K. of C. Majors have increased their membership from 12 to 16 teams and will go to work on Friday. . . .

The Cascade Center on Wednesday also will be the scene of one of the busiest openings of the season—the 32 team Harvester company organization. . . . Bowling enthusiasts of the Republic Drill and Tool company are set for another crowded season. . . . Last year they had two 24 squad leagues, one of girls and one mixed going direct to Dearborn-Jackson recreation. . . . A week from Friday 24 girls' teams will report there at 1 a. m.

First Sunday Sweepstakes Set by Classic League.

The first Chicago Sunday sweepstakes sponsored by the Classic league will take place Oct. 3 at Matty Faetz's Recreation, 5961 Ridge avenue. . . . Manager Art Williams expects to have 20 teams, including the six league members, shooting in the opener. . . . The sweepstakes, of which there will be 15 thru the season, one every other Sunday, are open to all major teams. . . . The league itself will resume action again on Wednesday at Marigold Arcade, 828 West Grace street. . . . Johnny Neubling, formerly connected with Barney Hochstadter at Archer-35th, is now managing Lou Petersen's Dearborn-Jackson Recreation. . . . Twentieth Century Recreation has signed up 24 men's teams from Douglas Aircraft to bowl every Thursday morning at 2 a. m., and a similar number of mixed teams from the aviation plant following at the same hour on Friday morning.

STATION W-G-N TO BROADCAST 8 MAJOR GAMES

An eight game schedule involving some of the nation's outstanding football teams will be broadcast by W-G-N this fall, with Joe Boland at the microphone. The broadcasts will be sponsored as a public service by the Chicago Motor club.

Starting Saturday, Oct. 16, in Madison, Wis., when Notre Dame meets Wisconsin, Boland will describe an important game each week. The schedule includes games involving Illinois, Northwestern, Notre Dame, Wisconsin, and Minnesota. Other highlights will be the play-by-play accounts of the Notre Dame-Great Lakes game at Comiskey park, Chicago, on Thanksgiving day, and the Chicago high school championship game in Soldiers' field on Nov. 27. The schedule:

Oct. 16—Notre Dame at Wisconsin.
Oct. 23—Illinois at Notre Dame.
Oct. 30—Minnesota at Northwestern.
Nov. 6—Northwestern at Wisconsin.
Nov. 13—Notre Dame at Northwestern.
Nov. 20—Illinois at Northwestern.
Nov. 25—Notre Dame vs. Great Lakes in Comiskey park.
Nov. 27—Chicago high school championship in Soldiers' field.

Spartas and Slovaks Will Battle Today

BY OFFSIDE.

Efforts of the Spartas to open their home season with a victory when they oppose the Slovaks in Sparta stadium will provide one of the features of today's program in the International Soccer league. The second highlight on the program will be the game between the Swedes and Linneas at 59th and Paulina streets.

The Spartas, who were not at full strength last week, when they lost their season opener to the Schwabens, expect to have Laddie Mrnka, their star full back, in the lineup and Eddie Bohm, now in service, also may be available for this contest.

The Swedes, playing their first season in the Major division this year after winning the First division championship last season, got away to a good start last week, when they beat the Hansas. Two changes in the Swedes' lineup are in prospect, Henry Handler moving in at goal and Tag Swanson taking a place in the middle line. The Linneas, beaten last week by the Vikings, have lost the services of Maxie Pearlman, who has joined the Hakoah-Centers, but Manager Steve Dahlberg expects to bring in three Milwaukee players. Lineups of the two feature games:

AMATEURS WILL OPEN ILLINOIS GOLF THURSDAY

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 11 (AP).—Minus more than a score of sharpshooters who have gone to war, 50 or more Illinois amateurs will take a crack this week at the State Amateur golf tournament title won last year by Jim Frisina of Taylorville.

Frisina took the Governor Emmerson trophy last year at Peoria, defeating Johnny Holmstrom of Rockford, now in the army. Frisina maintains a membership in the Springfield Illini Country club and plays at least once a week on the Illini's course, where the 1943 tournament will be held starting Thursday.

A hurry up call for entries has been issued by the tournament sponsor, the Chicago District Golf association, which expects to attract Gus Moreland of Peoria, a former champion; Art Doering of Chicago, and other stars from Champaign-Urbana, Bloomington, Peoria, Springfield, Chicago, Canton, Rockford, and other cities.

Thirty-six hole qualifying rounds start the tournament Thursday followed by match play ending with the championship duel Sunday. Thirty-two qualifiers will play in the title flight.

BOLDEN TACKLES DAN MERRITT IN MARIGOLD ARENA

Nate Bolden, the inconsistent south side light heavyweight, who defeated Larry Lane in Newark on Aug. 30 despite an 18 pound disadvantage in weight, will face what appears to be a more difficult test when he faces Dan Merritt of Cleveland in a 10 round bout in Marigold Gardens tomorrow.

Merritt, who weighs 209 pounds, 37 more than Bolden, scored an upset by flooring Lem Franklin for the count in the first round on the Lou Nova-Lee Savold card in Wrigley field Aug. 9. Dan survived two knockdowns while registering this achievement, the most notable he has achieved since knocking out Alex Kettles in the first round in the Marigold arena in 1939.

Woods Takes on Abbot.

Since Bolden has performed with better than average success against heavyweight competition he must be given an even chance to beat the bigger and hard hitting Merritt. In his debut against a full fledged heavyweight, Bolden was stopped by Lee Savold, but in subsequent appearances he conquered Tony Musto, and Freddy Fiducia, in addition to Lane. The less said about Nate's loss to Clarence Brown the better.

Lou Woods, welterweight of Detroit and Camp Grant, will make his first boxing appearance since entering the army when he faces Johnny Abbott of Cleveland in a six round semi-windup on the card. In his last Chicago appearance, Woods beat Gib Jones a year ago last Aug. 24. He also defeated Mike Sopko and Johnny Como in the Coliseum last year.

Gary Heavyweights to Meet.

An additional six round event will bring together William [Moose] Kennedy and Pug Wilson, Gary heavyweight rivals. Don Callahan, St. Paul 160 pounder, is paired with Bishop Murphy, and Bill Parsons, Danville junior welterweight, is matched with Charley Wells in four round encounters.

Charles [Gorilla] Grubmyer will meet Eddie [Bad Man] Lewis in the windup bout of the wrestling show in White City tomorrow. Flash Gordon will oppose Emir Badui, Miguel Torres will face Lewis Klein, and Nick Elitch will encounter Bobby Segura.

MACIEJEWSKIS, EDISON PARK TO PLAY IN FINALS

The junior championship of the Metropolitan Amateur baseball league will be settled today when Edison Park plays the Maciejewski Boosters. Syl Krueger will pitch for the Boosters, defending champions.

The senior bracket title race has narrowed to four teams, two of which will be eliminated this afternoon. Hammond will play the Goldammers and Skarda will meet Coyne. Winners today will meet for the title next Sunday. The schedule:

Hammond-Moose vs. Goldammers, Wells park, 2:30 p. m.

Skarda vs. Coyne, Altgeld park, 2:30.

Edison park vs. Maciejewski, Avondale and Olympia avenue, 3.

River Grove vs. Clarions, 86th street and Grand avenue, 2:30.

Harmons vs. St. Bert, Kilbourne park, 2:30.

Witteks vs. St. Davids, Riis park, 2:30.

Rozinski vs. Cobras, Hamilton park, 2:30.

Camerons vs. Beavers, 59th street and Damen avenue, 2:30.

SKOKIE CLUB IS HOST TODAY TO OAKLAWN TEAM

Krier's Skokie Indians, new champions of the Midwest Baseball league, and the Fernwood All-Stars will engage in feature encounters on the loop's four game schedule today.

The Indians will be seeking their 13th straight league triumph when they meet Oaklawn for the second time this year in Oakton Park, Cicero avenue, and Oakton street, Skokie.

The Fernwood All-Stars will go after their 32d victory in 40 games when they encounter the Indianapolis A. B. Cs at Fernwood field, 104th street and Wallace avenue.

Apache Beats Shutout; Wins at Aqueduct

New York, Sept. 11 (AP).—Equalling Whirlaway's mile and one-eighth track record of 1:49 2-5, William Woodward's consistent Apache made every post a winning marker today as he won the Edgermere handicap at Aqueduct.

Second choice of the crowd of 28,276, the 4 year old son of Alcazar finished a half length in front of Shut Out, seeking to give Mrs. Payne Whitney her fourth triumph in the stake in five seasons. Three lengths back of the 1942 Kentucky Derby winner came Lou Tufano's favored Market Wise, making his first start since July 10. First Fiddle, Anticlimax and Dark Discovery completed the field in that order.

The $11,950 purse that Apache picked up boosted the Woodward colt's earnings for the year to $48,336 as compared to the $44,600 he won last year for the master of the Belair stud. His backers received $7.60 for each $2 win mutuel ticket.

The race was run to Apache's taste. The brown colt, who likes to set his own pace, went right to the front under Jimmy Stout's guidance and quickly opened up a wide lead. He disposed of Dark Discovery before the end of a half mile. He was still five lengths on top rounding the final bend for home and, altho his advantage dwindled thru the stretch drive, he had enough left to stall off Shut Out's bid.

GARDEN STATE CLOSES.

Camden, N. J., Sept. 11 (AP).—A closing day crowd of 21,254 saw Barbara Childs spurt to the front at the final turn to win the $10,000 mile and one-sixteenth Vineland handicap at Garden State park today.

It was the fourth consecutive victory for the 4 year old daughter of Clock Tower, claimed by Mrs. B. S. Campbell during the spring meeting at Pimlico for $3,500, and brought her earnings to $22,745 for the year. Sparkling Maid was second.

New Jersey racing commission sources announced tonight that total attendance for the 50 day meeting was 470,560. The total mutuel handle was $36,018,888, and the state of New Jersey took a total of $1,440,755 in taxes.

BREEZING ALONG

JOHNNY ADAMS, the nation's leading rider, has an excellent chance to become the first jockey in the history of the American turf to win the jockey championship three times. . . . Latest official standings show Adams, the 1937 and 1942 champion, leading this year's race by 49 winners. . . . Since the first of the year he has booted home 179 winners. . . . His nearest competitor is Lyle Whiting with 130. . . . According to the American Racing Manual no jockey ever has won the championship three times. . . . It's wedding bells for Jockey Jess Higley and Miss Jean Wilms of our town. . . . They'll be married Saturday. . . . Herbert Bayard Swope, chairman of the New York racing commission, predicts that crowds of 100,000 will be common on race tracks when transportation conditions return to normal.

Johnny Adams.

Market Wise Gets Top Weight in Narragansett Special.

Alsab has been assigned 122 pounds in the $25,000 Narragansett Park special. . . . Market Wise will tote the top weight of the field with 124. . . . Thumbs Up, which finished in a dead heat with Royal Nap in the Washington Park handicap, will carry 122. . . . The mile and three-sixteenth race will be held Saturday. . . . Maj. Ednyfed H. Williams, chairman of the Illinois Racing commission, is on a business trip in California.

HARVARD SQUARE TAKES $5,000 SPEED HANDICAP

Mixer 2d, Burgoo Maid 3d at Hawthorne.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Harvard Square followed a pair of long shots thru the early stages of yesterday's $5,000 Speed handicap at Hawthorne, showed who was boss in the stretch, and came on to hold command when Mixer made a bid in the last 100 yards. Harvard Square's winning margin was a length, while Mixer was beating Burgoo Maid out of second place by a neck.

Harvard Square, which had won a tuneup race earlier in the week, was held at better than 6 to 1 in the betting while Burgoo Maid was established the 5 to 2 favorite. Overdrawn, second choice at 3 to 1, performed a bit sluggishly and was unable to get any better than fourth.

This was Harvard Square's first stake victory of the season, tho he had scored in four previous allowance events. The track was in good condition, but he required no more than six furlongs in 1:12 2-5 to gallop away with the decision. His mutuel pay-off was $14.80, $6.80, and $4 across the board.

Cabin Creek Fails.

In addition to Overdrawn's indifferent performance, Cabin Creek, a stake winner at Washington Park, also ran weakly, finishing eighth with no apparent excuses.

Jockey C. L. Martin got Harvard Square out of the gate fast, but Jois rushed into the lead as they went down the back stretch. Gold Mike was running second, half a length in advance of Harvard Square. Mixer and Burgoo Maid were well back in the pack.

As they swung around the turn, Jois opened up a lead of two lengths. Harvard Square shook off Gold Mike and moved up in pursuit of the pacemaker. Soon after the stretch run began, Martin drove Harvard Square to the front. The weary Jois dropped back while Mixer and Burgoo Maid were working their way up steadily. At the sixteenth pole the strength of Mixer's challenge still was doubtful but as they neared the finish it became apparent nothing was going to catch Harvard Square.

Unknown Reward Wins.

In the secondary feature of the afternoon, the Big Brand purse at a mile and 70 yards, Tony Skoronski brought in Unknown Reward, at odds of a little less than 8 to 1. This horse, which had been able to win only once previously this season, came up from off the pace to take the lead in the stretch.

The crowd of 15,000 wagered $813,795 on the day's nine races. The handle for the corresponding afternoon last season was $754,656.

Another threat appeared on the horizon of the Suburban football league when it was discovered that Jack Rothacker, coach of Evanston Township High school, was mustering a potentially great team on the north shore. This warning might well be heeded by Oak Park, the perennial challenger or champion, and New Trier of Winnetka, the defending champion.

Gifted with a dozen returning letter men, three of whom were regulars and rated among the standouts in the conference last year, Rothacker also has a good sized group of nonletter winners plus a fine squad coming up from the frosh-soph team of last year. The entire squad numbers 77 players.

Big Dick Jones, senior center, will be back to co-captain the team along with Ervin Hauf, the flashy running full back. Hauf is also an exceptionally fine blocker back. Both boys were selected on numerous All-Suburban league teams last fall.

Relies on Benington.

A mighty little mite, Orchie Benington, is back to handle the quarter back chores. Benington, weighing only 140 pounds, is a fine passer and kicker and supplements his aerial attack with lighting jabs at his opponents' ends. Rothacker is very high on this youngster's possibilities of becoming the outstanding back in the conference this season.

Two seniors, Dave de Swarte and Johnny Johns, are expected to round out a well balanced back field.

Flanking Jones in the guard spots are Bud Lemon and Jim Parregian, both of whom saw considerable action in last year's conference race. Jim Horne, another veteran, has sewed up right tackle but Bob Bliss and Phil Kaufman are running a close fight for the other tackle post.

Milwaukee Boy Wants Place.

Evanston will be strong at the ends. Sam Adams is leading the fight for the right end assignment, but Nathaniel Rice, a 185 pound Negro, who won all-city honors at Milwaukee last season, is giving him a lot of competition for that berth. Bob Snyder and Corkie Johnson are carrying on a duel for the other flank post.

THEY PLAN TROUBLE FOR SUBURBAN LEAGUE RIVALS

Notre Dame Holds Lengthy Punting Drill

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 11 [Special].—An hour and a half's punting scrimmage provided a good workout for the Notre Dame football team today, as the Irish indulged in their first all-squad contact work since practice opened on Sept. 3.

A bright note was introduced in the workout when Herb Coleman, monogram winner in 1942, reported for practice. Coleman, a center, recently was accepted in the navy V-5 program, and was assigned to Notre Dame to complete his academic work. He is subject to call at any time, however.

PICK SOFTBALL CHAMPIONS THIS WEEK IN DETROIT

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 11 (AP).—The survivors of a mammoth field of 50,000 teams in the United States and Canada will battle it out starting Friday in a four day "world series" of the Amateur Softball association. Detroit is host to the event for the fourth straight year.

Some 30 teams, all winners of thoro testing regional and provincial competition, will meet on a two defeat elimination basis for men's and women's championships. The New Orleans Jax will be back to defend the women's title, while a successor will be found to the Tulsa, Okla., Deep Rock Oilers, 1942 men's champs, who have disbanded.

Because of war time transportation problems, teams outside the continental United States and Canada will be missing from the meet.

COACH COMMISSIONED.

Danvers, Ill., Sept. 11 [Special].—William Anderson, coach at Danvers High received a commission in the navy and was ordered to report this week for duty. Woodrow Hickman, mathematics and physical science instructor, has taken over the coaching position.

SCHWALL STARS IN PRACTICE AT NORTHWESTERN

Northwestern's football team rounded out its first week of practice yesterday with a brief scrimmage that revealed the Wildcats have a long way to go before being ready for the season's opener with Indiana in two weeks.

The first contact work of the season produced the usual amount of missed assignments and ragged execution of plays, but was not without its compensations. Vic Schwall, hard running freshman full back from Schurz, looked impressive while Junie Franck, veteran half back from last year, completed a number of passes for long gains.

Morley, Graham Sparkle.

In a kicking drill that preceded the scrimmage, Jack Morley, sophomore half back from Waukegan, stood out. He got off a number of long spirals in the workout that was carried out under actual game conditions. His fellow townsman, Otto Graham, sparkled on several long punt returns.

A tentative first team which with a few exceptions will probably be the starting lineup for the Indiana opener worked as a unit yesterday. The back field consisted of Otto Graham and Dud Kean, half backs; Lynne McNutt, quarter back, and Vic Schwall, full back. The line was composed of Bob Wallis and Duane Sickels, ends; Ray Vincent and Bill Ivy, tackles; Alex Kapter and Johnny Gent, guards, and Len Golan, center.

Groom Reichel as Back.

Henry Reichel, a half back from Nebraska, is being groomed for the right half back position, where he is expected to see considerable action as soon as he becomes familiar with the Wildcat system. The rugged Cornhusker reported for the first time Friday.

DALEY SCORES FOR MICHIGAN.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 11 [Special].—Coach H. O. [Fritz] Crisler was pleased when his University of Michigan football team had no game scheduled for today, for in a full length intra-squad scrimmage, his supposed varsity barely outpowered a reserve eleven.

The margin between the two teams was provided by Full Back Bill Daley, who scored three times for the regulars on runs of 8, 14, and 43 yards. Capt. Paul White and Elroy Hirsch, the varsity half backs, were thrown for several big losses and neither gained much yardage. The regular line was outcharged much of the time and the blocking was poor.

Don Lund and Wally Dreyer paced the reserve attack which accounted for two touchdowns, Lund cracking the middle of the varsity line on spinners for gains of from 5 to 10 yards.

BADGERS' DEFENSE IMPROVES.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 11 [Special].—"Our defensive reactions were good but our offense was hit and miss," was Coach Harry Stuhldreher's opinion on a lengthy scrimmage held by the University of Wisconsin football squad here this afternoon.

The Badgers' two varsity elevens pushed over a pair of touchdowns on the reserves but only after a hard pull the length of the field both times. Bob Piper, freshman full back from Elkhorn, scored the first on a yard plunge while Clarence Self, Morton High of Cicero, Ill., ran off tackle for 6 yards and the second score.

The Badger coach started his first team with Don Lee at center, flanked by Charles Connor and Bob Meyer at the guards. Clarence Lesser and Ralph Weiger were the tackles, with John Eulberg and Pat Weber at ends. In the back field, Lon Calligaro was at quarter, with Don Kindt and Paul McLaughlin at the halves and Bob Piper at full back. McLaughlin, the former Detroit U. player and Kindt, a freshman from Milwaukee, made the best gains of the day.

HOOSIER LINEMEN IMPROVE.

Blomington, Ind., Sept. 11.—[Special].—Indiana university's football squad yesterday continued its drilling in fundamentals preparatory to the opening game with Miami university here next Saturday.

Jow Sowinski, freshman tackle of East Chicago, and Donald Dwyer, freshman guard, Chicago, showed much improvement on defensive fundamentals. John Cannady, freshman of Owensboro, Ky., also is improving in his defensive full back play.

Sinkwich and Lions to Talk Terms Today

Parris Island, S. C., Sept. 11 (AP).—Frankie Sinkwich, lighter by 25 pounds after rigorous boot training, caught a bus back to civilian life today, and a possible career in professional football.

Capt. Tim J. Sanders, post public relations officer, said Sinkwich was handed his honorable discharge for physical disability this morning and immediately headed for Charleston, S. C., there to take a plane to Atlanta. He was to spend the night in Atlanta and fly thence to Ohio, where he plans to talk salary with the Detroit Lions.

To Meet Mandel.

The captain of Georgia's Rose bowl football champions, who was drafted by the last place Lions of the National Football league as a post-war bet, expected to have a contract discussion with Owner Fred L. Mandel Jr. of the Detroit club at Akron, where the Lions play an exhibition game tomorrow with the New York Giants.

What the salary offer would be, no one but Mandel could say. However, the club is regarded as generous, and was believed to have signed Byron [Whizzer] White at about $15,000 after taking over his contract.

Return to Youngstown.

Sinkwich said after talking pro football plans he would go to his home at Youngstown, O., where his wife is expecting a baby.

Detroit has first call on his services, and Sinkwich said he felt under obligation to play for the Lions at least one season if he is able. His future draft status is still to be determined by his local board.

The marine corps release read: "Honorably discharged by order of the commandant of the United States marine corps, for convenience of the government, due to physical disqualifications for officers' candidate class."

Set National Record.

Physical disabilities which caused Sinkwich's discharge were not disclosed by the marine corps, but thruout his collegiate football career he was plagued with high blood pressure, a heart murmur, and flat feet. None hindered him in carrying or throwing a football and Coach Wallace Butts once credited his flat footed running with making him difficult to bring down.

PRO FOOTBALL LEAGUE LISTS NEW OFFICIALS

Five changes have been made in the list of National Football league officials for 1943, Commissioner Elmer Layden announced yesterday.

Tom Dowd, a former Holy Cross star, has been signed as a referee to replace the veteran Bobie Cahn, who retired recently after 21 years in the league. Fay Vincent, a former American association official, has replaced Leo Novak on the list of umpires and Irving Kupcinet of Chicago takes the place on the head linesman roster vacated by the resignation of J. J. Lipp, a veteran of 25 years' experience in collegiate and professional football officiating.

Lloyd Brazil of Detroit, who worked several games as a substitute last season, has been added to the list of regular field judges along with J. Edward Tryon of Rutherford, N. J., who also handled several assignments last fall. They replace William Grimberg and Ralph Vince, who are in service.

The officials, as announced by Layden, are:

Referees—Ronald Gibbs, Tommy Hughitt, Carl Rebele, Sam Weiss, and Dowd.
Umpires—John Schommer, Carl Brubaker, Harry Robb, John Kelly, and Vincent.
Field judges—Chuck Sweeney, William Downes, Eugene Miller, Brazil, and Tryon.
Head linesmen—Earl Cavanaugh, Charlie Berry, Larry Conover, Lou Gordon, and Kupcinet.

ATWATER, EVERT WIN CITY TENNIS DOUBLES TITLE

Howe Atwater of the Fullerton Tennis club and Jerry Evert of the Chicago Town and Tennis club won the men's doubles championship in the Chicago city tournament yesterday on the Fullerton courts. They defeated the home club combination of Henry Balaban and Sol Gould in a five set match by scores of 5-7, 6-2, 7-9, 6-4, 6-4.

TRUELOVE TO ELDORADO.

Eldorado Ill., Sept. 11 [Special].—Glen Truelove is the new coach at Eldorado High school, succeeding Joe Spudich who recently resigned to accept a similar assignment in Freeport.

YALE RALLIES TO WIN, 13-6, OVER MUHLENBERG

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 11 (AP).—Big Tim Hoopes, Yale's captain, pitched and ran a tough Muhlenberg football team dizzy today as the Elis came from behind to triumph, 13 to 6, in the Yale bowl before 12,000.

Off to a slow start, the 188 pound, dark haired Hoopes and his blueclad mates turned on the power in the third period to tally all their points. The Mules had gone in front on Walt Duncavage's 3 yard end sweep in the second quarter.

ROCHESTER WINS, 14-6.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 11 (AP).—Baldwin-Wallace of suburban Cleveland threw a scare into the powerladen University of Rochester football eleven today before finally losing, 14 to 6.

Half Back Bob Polidor, who played at Temple before his transfer to Rochester as a Navy V-12 trainee, scored the first touchdown in the final seconds of the second quarter.

Polidor figured effectively in Rochester's second touchdown when he took a punt on Baldwin-Wallace's 37, midway of the third period, and ran it back to the 12. George Sutch, also a former Temple back, then took the ball over on two line plays, plunging finally from the 1 yard line.

The visitors scored in the final quarter after a 19 yard pass carried them to Rochester's 41. Lee Tressel then threaded his way 33 yards to the 8 yard line and on the next play, Half Back Roberts went over for the score.

Gopher First Team Scores 3 Touchdowns

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 11 [Special].—With Backs Red Williams, Hoyt Moncrief, Chuck Avery, Bill Garnaas, and Paul Sutton leading the attack, the Minnesota first team scored three quick touchdowns against the reserves in the full game scrimmage today. From that scrimmage most likely will arise the starting team for the opener here with Missouri two weeks hence.

It also was revealed by Dr. George Houser, head coach, that Minnesota will have game captains this fall. The captain-elect, Cliff Anderson, has left for marine training at Parris Island, leaving the Gophers without a leader.

Because of his fine work in coaching the ends this summer and fall, the holdover lettermen ask the captaincy be left open and he be continued as the honorary leader. It will be the first time since 1935, when Captain Glenn Seidel broke his collar bone in the Tulane game, that Minnesota has had no game leader.

PURDUE TESTS FORWARDS.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 11 [Special]—A number of new line candidates were given a chance to show their wares as Purdue wound up its second week of drill this afternoon in preparation for the opener at Great Lakes next Saturday.

Bob Plevo, freshman from Bowen High school, Chicago, stepped into the first string line at right tackle for a brief period and Frank Bauman, Harvey, Ill., wingman, made his first appearance at right end. Both Bauman and Plevo are making their first bids for collegiate recognition.

Aerial tactics were emphasized during a brisk scrimmage, with Jimmy Darr on the throwing end of a number of successful heaves to Buscemi and Bauman.

Windy City League's Field Events Tonight

Tonight in Rheingold stadium, the Windy City Softball league will hold its annual field day, with sprints, circling the bases, target batting, distance throwing, and a wheelbarrow race all part of the program.

NEWS FROM ARMY AND NAVY POSTS

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Navy Pier.

WHEN Marine Lt. Jack Smith was a chief petty officer and instructor in the navy physical fitness program at this station last winter he weighed 200 pounds. . . . This is 15 pounds more than he carried on his return as successor to Lt. Ted Lyons as marine athletic officer here recently. . . . He peeled off the surplus while serving as a hand-to-hand instructor at the marine officer candidate school at Quantico, Va.

Lt. Jack Smith.

Chief Petty Officer Bill Pope scored an upset by beating Lt. Comdr. Jim McMillen, sports officer at this establishment, in the pier "ladder" handball tournament last Tuesday, 21 to 11 and 21 to 5. . . . The Aero-Macs, baseball representatives of this station, yesterday concluded the season with a game against the 87th Street Naval Air Training school. . . . The pier nine finished the campaign with a record of 28 victories in 32 contests, including the 10 to 3 victory over 87th Street. . . . Gerry Guiles, former Des Moines High school athlete, captured individual honors in the pier's Labor day intercompany cross country run and also led Company 12 to the team championship. . . . Guiles, who covered the 3¼ mile Lincoln park course in 21 minutes and 3 seconds, finished 10 yards ahead of Don Foley. . . . Marine Pvt. Henry Walshon, premeet favorite and erstwhile Lane Tech and University of Illinois runner, was third.

Fort Sheridan.

A TOTAL of 32 men turned out for opening football practice on the parade grounds here last week, among them being Gentino Sullo, Hershey, Pa., half back, and Mitz Fujimoto, half back and guard candidate from Santa Barbara, Cal. . . . Soldiers from the post signal corps appeared in a touch football game at this camp when Doug Flarity's team walloped Ray Prucha's Pioneers, 48 to 0. . . . Flarity got a lot of help from Loren Olson, Bob Faust, Dick Freeman, and Tom Gray. . . . Erwin Rudolph, outstanding pocket billiard player, will appear in exhibition matches at Fort Sheridan's service club Wednesday afternon and evening. . . . The post band crushed the Bakers' and Cooks' softball team, 14 to 5, the other day. . . . The Military Police, who also boast an undefeated record in softball, upset the Headquarters Bats, previously unbeaten, 8 to 4.

Glenview Air Station.

THE station's baseball team wound up the season by beating Arlington Heights, 4 to 0, a week ago, the conquest giving Glenview eight victories in its last 11 starts. . . . The Engine Overhaul Glenview softball players, will meet the Hotpoints, a subsidiary of General Electric, in Parichy stadium, Forest Park, Thursday evening.

Camp Grant.

THO the football campaign is just starting, Lt. Col. Frank A. Bush, special services officer at this camp, has an eye toward the basketball season. . . . Yesterday he had scheduled seven games for the approaching cage period. . . . These are against Wisconsin in Madison, Dec. 13; Glenview at Glenview, Dec. 21; Notre Dame in Chicago Stadium, Jan. 15; Caterpillar Tractors in Rockford, Jan. 21; Glenview in Rockford, Feb. 2; Minnesota in Rockford, Feb. 7, and Caterpillar Tractors in Peoria, Feb. 26. . . . The post baseball team concluded competition last Sunday by defeating Notre Dame, 13 to 3. . . . The conquest gave Camp Grant 44 victories in 56 games. . . . Among victims of the soldier players were Iowa Pre-Flight, Detroit Tigers, Benda Coals, Columbus Red Birds, and the Cleveland Indians. . . . Don Kolloway, White Sox infielder, who joined the camp nine near the close of the season, finished with a .458 batting average.

Great Lakes.

ELEVEN teams, survivors of the early rounds of play for the station's ships' companies softball championships, will compete in the quarter-finals and semifinals this week. . . . Twenty-four squads started in the tournament, which is being conducted by Ensign Leonard Rector of the physical training and recreation department. . . . The Camp Barry Bombers and the team representing commissary building No. 5 are among the favorites for the title. . . . Lt. Mickey Cochrane, who directed the Great Lakes Bluejacket baseball team to 52 victories in 63 contests this summer, yesterday returned from a brief leave in Wyoming. . . . Pete Kelly, Bluejacket guard from Notre Dame, was captain of the 1936 Fenwick High school eleven which played Bill De Correvont and his Austin teammates in the annual all-city encounter. . . . Anton Christoforiditis, professional light heavyweight boxer from Geneva, O., who reported for duty at this establishment last June, recently was transferred to an eastern port. . . . Yeoman Nort Baser, formerly attached to the athletic public relations department here, now is aboard an auxiliary aircraft carrier in the Pacific.

Four Illinois Players Lost by Ineligibility

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 11. — The University of Illinois football team lost four players, three of them freshmen, before the opening game today with Camp Grant. Three of the four were to have started the game. Players declared ineligible by Doug Mills, athletic director, follow:

Chester Sajnaj and Eddie Bray, from La Salle-Peru [Ill.] Township High school; Hilbert Mitchell, Harvey, Ill., who is said to have attended Prairie View [Tex.] college last year, and Ralph Serpico, Proviso Township High school of Maywood, Ill. Bray, left half back; Sajnaj, a full back, and Mitchell, a left end, were to have started today's game. Serpico was second choice at right guard.

The three freshmen were short of required credits for university entrance, Mills' checkup disclosed, but they will have the opportunity to pass an entrance examination in 10 days. Mitchell must produce his college credits showing passing work last year. These had not arrived today. While university classes do not start until next month, freshmen are eligible under a new Western conference war time rule if they submit the required high school credits and pay their tuition fees.

JOHNSON, YALE BACK, SUFFERS BROKEN NECK

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 11 (AP).—Wayne Johnson Jr. of Woorton, Md., former Harvard football star who was hurt the first time he carried the ball for Yale in the Muhlenberg game today, will play no more football this year, doctors at the New Haven hospital said tonight.

The 6 foot, 2 inch, 21 year old half back has a fractured cervical vertebra, or "a broken neck if you want to make it sound bad," according to Lt. Comdr. Edward J. McCabe, medical officer of the navy training unit in which Johnson is enrolled.

McCabe said that specialists were being consulted to determine if an operation would be necessary. Altho Johnson's condition is good, he said, he will not be able to play football again this year.

Johnson, a Harvard back for three years, was stopped hard by a Muhlenberg tackler as he started a sweep around right end early in the first quarter.

Camp Grant Eleven Beats Illinois, 23-0

attack under control in the first half except for a wide reverse on which Storti scored. They frequently piled up power plays to the surprise of the Warrior ball carriers.

Arthur Gerometta, an alert freshman guard from Gary, Ind.; Jim Srednicki, another freshman from Chicago's Taft High school, and Bob Prymuski, a sophomore tackle from Hammond, Ind., were outstanding in the Illini defense. They spearheaded a group of ball hawks which recovered five of Camp Grant's fumbles.

Illinois had the first scoring opportunity when Don Johnson, full back, intercepted Nori's third down pass in the opening quarter on Camp Grant's 40 yard line. McGovern picked up a yard at defensive left end, missed connection on a pass, and then threw to Srednicki, who was tackled as he caught the ball on Camp Grant's 12 yard line.

McGovern threw again but Dewar intercepted in the end zone and was thrown on his own 3 yard line when he ill-advisedly tried to run the ball out.

Illini Yield a Safety.

Five minutes later Dewar atoned when he hoisted a long punt which bounded out on Illinois' 2 yard mark. A low pass from the Illinois center to Greenwood was fumbled and Greenwood, who might have saved the situation by throwing a pass, tried to run. He was tossed for a safety in the end zone by Bill Huber and Joe Coomer.

Camp Grant then got its first touchdown, less than two minutes before the intermission. The drive covered 70 yards, more than one-fourth of all the yardage the winners acquired in the 60 minutes.

Dewar passed to Huber for 11 yards and then got around Illinois' left flank for 11 more. After an incomplete pass Dewar threw to Storti for a gain of 17 yards and a first down on the Illini 31. Illinois braced. The line yielded 4 yards to Dewar, waited while the secondary batted down a pass, and then Ray Ciszek threw Storti for a 4 yard loss. On the all-important fourth down Storti caught Dewar's pass to keep alive the attack at Illinois' 15 yard line.

Storti Goes Over.

Dewar and Nori failed to complete passes. On third down Storti came around Illinois' right end on a deep reverse, cut back, and raced over the goal. Bob Orlando, one time Colgate player, place kicked the point as he did after the subsequent touchdowns.

The third period, like the opening quarter, was scoreless. Shortly after the fourth period started, Illinois' pass attack backfired when Storti intercepted deep in Warrior territory and returned 49 yards before he was tripped up on Illinois' 17. Nori's second pass was caught by Huber who lateralled to Storti for a total gain of 11 yards. On his second plunge Clatt crossed the goal line.

Bill Butkovich, the third Illini choice at left half, also lacked pass control. On the second play after he had entered the game his toss was intercepted by Bill Burghardt, Camp Grant substitute quarter back, and Burghardt raced 44 yards to the goal. Statistics:

Time of game—2:30 p. m.

The Great Lakes Bluejackets, service football champions of America last season, today will launch their 1943 season, meeting the Fort Riley, Kas., Centaurs in a new football stadium erected on the naval training station's Ross field parade grounds. Twenty-two thousand recruits will see the game, the first of seven contests the Sailors will play before their shipmates this season.

Rated as the No. 1 service eleven in a nation wide poll of sports writers at the end of the 1942 season, the Bluejackets will start the new season with a lighter and considerably less experienced squad than the eleven which last fall won eight games, lost three and tied Notre Dame, 13 to 13.

Juzwik, Warren in Back Field.

Lt. Paul D. [Tony] Hinkle, former Butler university athletic director and coach, who directed the Sailors to the service title last year, has attempted for several weeks to put together a formidable combination from the collection of approximately 40 ex-college seniors, juniors, sophomores and freshmen who represent all sections of the United States. Several former high school performers also are listed among the reserves.

Whether or not the Bluejackets will make an auspicious start will depend upon a 193 pound line and Half Backs Steve Juzwik of Notre Dame and Buist Warren of Tennessee. Their back field mates will be Full Back Kenneth Roskie, formerly of Rockford high school and the University of South Carolina, and Quarter Back Paul Anderson of Western Reserve university.

Not Set on Center.

The Sailors' biggest problem in the line has been at center, where Lt. Hinkle as yet has not named a starter. However, Richard Stealy, once of Ball State, Ind. Teachers college, probably will open with Mike Saban, Indiana sophomore guard last season, as second string. The starting ends will be Forrest McCaffry, Purdue, and Cecil Pirkey, East Texas. At the tackle positions will be George Perpich, Georgetown, and John Badacewski, Western Reserve, while two National Football league veterans—Libero Bertagnolli of the Chicago Cardinals and Russ Letlow of the Green Bay Packers—will be at guards.

Sheridan Leads Centaurs.

Fort Riley also possesses a former Notre Dame half back, Benny Sheridan of Havana, Ill., now a captain in the cavalry replacement training center. In addition to Sheridan the Centaurs have such backs as Bobby Ford, Mississippi State; Bernard Ruman, Arizona; Bobby Nowell, Georgia; Charles Haynes Jr., a member of Duke university's 1941 Rose bowl team, and Keith Caywood, Emporia State.

The Centaurs, who will present a forward wall averaging more than 200 pounds, are coached by Capt. Francis G. Welch, formerly of Emporia State, and Harry Evans, former St. Benedict's college coach.

MEN!!! LEARN AIRCRAFT INSTRUMENT SERVICING

ONE OF THE MOST Essential occupations

WE TRAIN YOU IN 15 WEEKS

WORK AT YOUR REGULAR JOB WHILE YOU'RE TRAINING
Classes day times and evenings—Your schedule adjusted to fit your situation—You can finish quickly or take your time.

HUNDREDS WANTED! Demand for Aircraft Instrument Specialists is tremendous. Every airplane has from a dozen to hundreds of instruments which must be kept in perfect order. This takes training, and right here is where most of the Army's technicians have been trained!

NO EXPERIENCE NEEDED! Your age and present occupation make no difference. Older men are just as quick as younger ones to grasp the work. Finest of equipment and tools furnished.

PERMANENT PEACETIME WORK! After the war, flying will grow as never before. And there will always be need for trained instrument specialists. Pay is excellent, work is light and interesting. Much of it must be performed in air-conditioned quarters. Cost of training is moderate. Send coupon TODAY for details.

INDUSTRY URGES U. S. AID TO EASE RAIL SHORTAGES

Illinois Manufacturers Assail Labor Waste.

Directors of the Illinois Manufacturers' association yesterday urged the government to take steps to insure adequate equipment, materials, and man power to keep railroads abreast of war time requirements.

"The association reaffirms and reemphasizes its convictions regarding the importance to the war of proper consideration of the needs of our railroad transportation system for essential equipment, materials, and man power," the directors said.

"The successful prosecution of the war, as well as the safety of our men in the army and navy and of the general public, requires the government to take prompt steps."

Recommendations of Group.

The association's recommendations included:

1. Supply the man power needed to operate trains safely, to inspect them thoroly at terminals, and to make essential repairs.

2. Provide adequate equipment, including passenger and freight cars, locomotives, and rails, needed to carry the heavy burden of war time traffic.

3. Provide steel and other materials urgently needed for repairs on run down rolling stock and impaired roadways.

4. Eliminate mileage restrictions, so-called "feather bed" rules, and other restrictions interfering with the maximum use of available man power.

Waste of Time Reported.

"Reports of the interstate commerce commission indicate that men of train and engine service were idle approximately 25 per cent of their working time during 1942, and that there was a surplus or waste of more than 100 million service hours during that period," the association said.

"Such conditions, insofar as they result from arbitrary union restrictions, should not be tolerated at this time when there is an urgent demand for man power to aid the war."

18 ILLINOIS COAL FIRMS GET MINES BACK FROM U. S.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11 (AP).—Records of Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, who serves as coal mines administrator, show 18 Illinois companies among those whose mining properties were released by the government since their seizure last May. A total of 691 mines have been returned to 389 firms in 24 states, Ickes' office said.

Those in Illinois include: Columbus Mining company, Centralia Coal company, Newcoal corporation, and United Electric Coal companies, all of Chicago. Spring Valley Coal Mining company, Spring Valley; Wallace Coal company, Marion; Black Diamond Coal Mine No. 4, Petersburg; Buckheart Creek Coal company, Peoria; Sugar Loaf Coal corporation, Collinsville; Moffat Coal company, Sparta; O. HEDGING HALTS GRAIN UPTURN; WHEAT IS LOWER September Oats Slumps from 23-Year High.

Hedging pressure developed in domestic wheat markets late in yesterday's session, and an upturn on the Chicago Board of Trade was replaced with losses of ⅜ to ⅞ cent a bushel. Earlier, September and December oats sold at a new season high, and October and December wheat in Winnipeg went to the highest levels of the year.

September oats sold early at 75⅝ cents, a new 23 year peak, and soared to 3 cents above December at one time. Closing sales were ⅛ to ⅝ cent higher. Rye followed other grains and finished ⅛ to ¼ cent lower.

Canadian Prospect Slashed.

Strength in the Winnipeg wheat market was attributed to buying induced by an official estimate that this year's Canadian crop would fall to 296 million bushels, or 50 per cent of the 1942 harvest. The trade also received reports that Mexico was in the market for 13 million bushels of Canadian wheat. The Canadian wheat board sold futures on the advance and caused a recession from the top, with the close ¾ to 1¼ cents higher.

Buying of wheat futures in Chicago, attributed to distillery and cash interests, caused an early moderate upturn, and little attention was paid to a department of agriculture report issued late Friday indicating that the corn crop was 111 million bushels larger than a month ago.

Farmers Holding Back.

Chicago grain men who were in the southwest last week said that farmers are not selling cash wheat in that section, preferring to wait for information on the new crop. Farmers who do not wish to include the sale of their cash grain in this year's income tax return are also said to be holding back their grain.

There was little early pressure on the oats market, and prices advanced quickly on scattered buying by commission houses and professional traders. A reduction of 45 million bushels in the estimated oats crop, as given by the department of agriculture, more than offset the effect of an increase in the prospective corn yield.

Frost Threatens Corn.

Light frost was reported yesterday morning in some sections of the corn belt, with light to heavy frosts also in parts of Wisconsin, but there were no reports of damage to corn received. Tender vegetation, however, is said to have been affected in parts of northern Illinois, as well as in Wisconsin.

Country offerings of old corn remain small, only 38,000 bushels being bought for deferred shipment. Aggregate major grain crops in North America this year promises to be about 1 billion 200 million bushels less than last year, as indicated by official estimates on this year's production.

3 CHICAGO AREA FIRMS CITED FOR WORK VIOLATION

Three Chicago area firms were named in criminal informations filed yesterday before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan charging violations of hours, overtime payment and child labor provisions of the fair labor standards act. The three concerns and the allegations filed by United States Atty. J. Albert Woll were:

Daniel Mann, doing business as Daniel Clothing Manufacturing company, 139 East Jefferson street, Joliet; 17 counts alleging failure to pay minimum wages and overtime compensation, falsification of records and failure to keep records.

Frank Kalpert, doing business as Superior Electric company, 2111 South Wabash avenue; 51 counts charging failure to pay overtime compensation, falsification of records, and failure to keep records.

Becker Brothers' Carbon company, 3450 Laramie avenue, Cicero, Rudolph E. Fischel, secretary-treasurer, and Maurice R. Rosen, office manager; 35 counts alleging employment of children under 16 years of age.

Dock Firm in Cleveland Sets Ore Unloading Mark

Cleveland, O., Sept. 11 (AP).—The Pittsburgh and Conneaut Dock company claimed a seven day iron ore unloading record today with 451,792 tons removed from 40 lake freighters last week.

Ceiling at Chicago $14.75 Per Cwt.

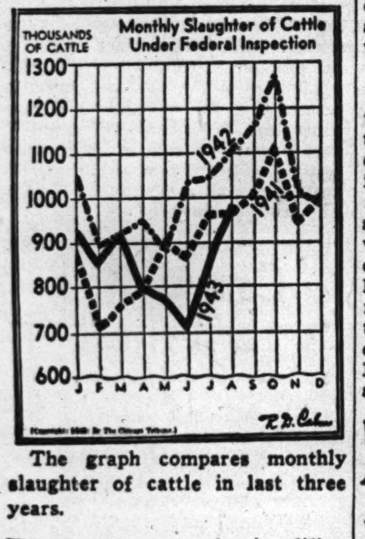
Washington, D. C., Sept. 11 (AP).—Maximum ceiling prices on live hogs were established today at $14.75 per hundred pounds, Chicago basis, to carry out a commitment made by the office of price administration in mid-July. Top price on hogs at Chicago Friday was $15.25. The ceiling established today is effective Oct. 4. The war food administration concurred in the order which provides the first ceiling on live animals.

The live hog ceilings will not affect the retail prices of pork products, but are ordered to prevent pressure against the wholesale pork price ceilings, OPA said. Packers had complained that prices asked by producers for hogs were higher than the resale price maximums allowable.

Feeder Stock Exempted.

Hogs weighing less than 140 pounds, sold for fattening or feeding for more than one month, and hogs sold for breeding purposes or serum culture are exempt from the ceiling price order.

The new price order will preserve existing geographical relationships of the price structure, OPA said.



The graph compares monthly slaughter of cattle in last three years.

There are no seasonal price differentials, in the interests of simplicity in administration, it added.

Prices are fixed at three types of selling places: [1] Terminal markets in specifically listed municipalities; [2] interior markets also specifically designated; [3] buying stations, defined as any fixed place of business other than a terminal market or an interior market where live hogs are weighed for sale and sold to the buyer.

The order specifically bans "filling," the practice of feeding and watering hogs on the day of sale, except in public stock yards where existing rules will govern.

OUTPUT CUT FORECAST

The ceiling of $14.75 a hundred pounds on hogs, announced yesterday by the office of price administration, will reduce production, increase illegal markets, and add to the confusion in the live stock industry, P. O. Wilson, executive secretary of the National Live Stock Producers' association and co-chairman of the national live stock and meat council, said yesterday.

"The effect will be less pork for the army, navy, and civilians at a time when we need more," he asserted.

"The present retail price has not been policed, and the present wholesale price has not been policed, which has resulted in black market operations. This additional move to correct the errors the OPA has made up to this time will only serve to add to the confusion of the market, will increase the black market, and reduce production."

Predicts Rush to Sell.

He said the live stock industry, thru the joint live stock committee and the national live stock and meat council, has been trying for months to figure out a method for putting into effect a ceiling price on hogs, but has been unable to develop a plan that could be policed and made effective.

A large run of hogs after Oct. 4 with prices reduced 25 to 50 cents a hundred pounds was predicted by spokesmen for independent packers as the immediate effect of the ceiling. The lowered prices, nearer to the floor price than to the ceiling, would continue all winter, the packers said. Because of the set price of wholesale meats, packers still would be operating at a loss even with prices below the ceiling, it wais said. This packer spokesman said hogs probably would accumulate at packing plants because the available labor supply precludes the killing of hogs as fast as farmers would market them.

British Stocks Take Italians' Fall in Stride

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 11.—The London stock market reacted quietly to the news of the Italian capitulation. As one financial writer put it, "The market expressed its unbounded satisfaction at Italy's exit from the war mainly in singing the national anthem."

Optimistically the operators paved the way for a possible boom by marking up the prices of "peace stocks" and making mild downward adjustments in the quotations for "war stocks," but no big rush of buying orders materialized. Investors showed no particular inclination to buy heavily and apart from a few specialties the only substantial gains were in European bonds.

Building Stocks in Demand.

The market's performance at the end of the week did indicate, however, which groups of stocks British investors regard as good holdings for peace time prospects. Store, radio, building material, gold mining, oil, and other commodity shares were in best demand in the industrial section. Traders were attracted to Greek, Rumanian, and Bulgarian bonds. In some cases the increase represented an addition of 20 per cent to the value of the bonds. A few buyers were attracted to German issues.

However, long dated British government stocks and some of the railways declined. Another significant movement was the fall in the most important diamond stocks, apparently a result of the investors' conviction that the present insatiable demand for gems mainly is a war time anti-inflation move.

Italy Held Far from Won.

Influential in curbing market enthusiasm was the growing realization that the Badoglio government's capitulation does not mean the war in Italy is won and that the Germans are capable of putting up stiff resistance. London economists warned that the military and psychological gains accruing to the allies from Italy's surrender are not matched by the economic advantages. In fact, it seemed to be generally agreed that economically Italy is more of a liability than an asset to the allies.

WEST AND SOUTH AIR LINES VIE FOR BOSTON PERMIT

New York, Sept. 11 (AP).—A civil aeronautics board hearing in the applications of seven air line companies to establish or extend service in the New England area today brought up a controversy over whether the south or the west had the greater "community interest" with New England. Testifying in behalf of the application by Transcontinental and Western Airlines, E. Lee Talman, executive vice-president of TWA, declared there was a greater community interest between New England and the west, which is served by TWA, than between New England and other sections of the country served by other applying air lines.

An attorney for Eastern Airlines, which also has applied for a franchise for a New York-Boston run and serves the south, declared that there was a great community of interest between New England and the south, taking issue with Talman's allegation. The hearing adjourned until 10 a. m. Monday.

PEACE SHARES EXTEND RISE IN SMALL VOLUME

Steel and Aircraft Stocks Decline.

New York, Sept. 11 (AP).—Peace shares were again the brighter side of today's stock market as some of the war issues yielded a little more

Altho hard fighting in Italy was indicated, speculative ideas as translated in the stock exchange dealings, continued to lean toward the belief that stocks of companies that stood to benefit soonest with the ending of the world conflict were more attractive than those which have had the war contracts.

Steel turned soft near the close. Motors, aircrafts and utilities also shaded lower, but rails were helped by a fairly brisk demand for Santa Fe and Chesapeake & Ohio.

Other Classes Advance.

Fractional gains were the rule in store stocks, farm equipments, and a scattering of tobaccos and industrial specialties.

It was one of the slower Saturdays of the year, with dealings at 296,480 shares compared with 173,570 a week ago. The Associated Press 60 stock composite rose .1 of a point to 50.1.

Despite the selling flurry in war stocks on Wednesday's news of the Italian collapse the averages underwent little change for the week. Many of the losses were narrowed as a result of the Thursday recovery which was marked by another spirited buying movement in the peace stocks. The five day range for the 60 stock average was 49.6 and 50.1. It was 49.8 at the end of last week.

CHICAGO LIST RISES.

Chicago Stock exchange prices continued to rise yesterday. Sixty issues were traded of which 27 advanced, 18 declined, and 15 closed unchanged. Turnover totaled 10,000 shares. Adams Oil & Gas reached a new 1943 peak of 32 but closed at 30, up 2. Commonwealth Edison was active but closed unchanged at 27⅞. Chicago corporation at 4⅞ was down ⅛.

RAIL BONDS ACTIVE.

New York, Sept. 11 (AP).—Principal activity in today's bond market was in low priced rails in which price changes were irregular. Industrial and utility liens were generally steady. Rising 1 to 2 points were Colorado and Southern 4½s, M-K-T adjustment 5s of '67, St. Louis Southwestern 5s of '52 and 5s of '90, and Commonwealth Edison 3½s.

Medium term treasuries in the United States government unlisted market were quoted 1-32 to 2-32 of a point higher.

73 CHICAGO AREA FIRMS GET 91 WAR CONTRACTS

Ninety-one prime war contracts, amounting to $7,945,000, were awarded to 73 Chicago area companies last week, Leverett S. Lyon, chief executive officer of the Chicago Association of Commerce, reported yesterday. This increased the total of contracts awarded since the beginning of the war program in the Chicago area to 12,797, divided among 2,123 companies.

WPB to Hold Construction to Three Billions Next Year

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11 (AP).—Public and industrial construction will be held to 3 billion dollars in value in 1944, under present war production board plans, and stringent new tests will be invoked before materials are released for approved projects.

The tentative limit on 1944 construction represents a 50 per cent slash from 1943 building. In 1942, a period of feverish war plant expansion, public and industrial construction topped 14 billion.

Applies Essentiality Rule.

The WPB is carefully checking the list of approved construction projects, and even those under construction have been ordered canceled if they do not meet new essentiality requirements. Four oil company expansion projects already under way were ordered halted this week.

A man power shortage is given as the primary reason for holding down construction. The war man power commission has estimated that 600,000 men can be shifted from the building and building materials trades to war industry if construction is limited to 3 billions.

Continuing shortages of lumber and steel also work against any but a minimum program. No construction of any size can be completed without these two basic materials, which war enterprises demand in increasing quantity.

2 Committees Decide.

Proposed construction projects must be approved by either the indusrial or the non-industrial facilities review committees of WPB. These agencies recommend whether or not materials can be released.

While each case is to be decided on its own merits, the general rule of essentiality is: Is it immediately needed for the war effort, or can it wait until peace time?

Illinois Plant Affected

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11 (AP).—Preference ratings for expansion of facilities at the Wood River, Ill., plant of the Shell Oil company were revoked by the war production board, and further construction was prohibited, it was announced today.

Business Volume Gain Lifts Profits of Industrial Firms

Large increases in volume of business during the first half of 1943 enabled American corporations to show substantial improvement in earnings, both before and after taxes, compared with last year, the National Industrial Conference board reported yesterday.

The reports of 322 industrial companies analyzed by the board showed combined half year net income after taxes of 654 million dollars, compared with 585 million in the first half of 1942, a gain of 11.6 per cent. Thirty-five public utility corporations reported 216 million profit against 212 million, and 50 railroads showed 343 million against 213 million last year.

Mining Profits Decline.

Among the industrials, 280 manufacturing corporations reported net after taxes of 574 million this year against 506 million in the first half last year, and 25 mining companies reported a decline after all charges from 67 million to 65 million. Retail trade and miscellaneous companies likewise showed small declines in profits after taxes.

The proportion of earnings absorbed by tax reserves was not greatly changed from the 1942 figure. For 232 industrial companies whose reports showed tax reserves separately, the total during the first six months of this year amounted to 1 billion 186 million, or 69 per cent of income before tax and other reserves, against 1 billion 064 million or 68.3 per cent last year. The tax reserves of 215 manufacturing corporations amounted to 1 billion 160 million, or 70 per cent of net before tax and other reserves, against 1 billion 036 million, or 69.6 per cent last year.

Durable goods manufacturers, set aside a larger proportion of income for tax purposes and their net income after taxes showed less increase than that of nondurable goods companies.

Improvement in the earnings of the automotive companies was outstanding as a result, doubtless, of the completion of conversion processes. Nine of them reported average year-to-year increases of 33 per cent. Machinery concerns also averaged well above the first half of 1942 with 18 corporations reporting net income after taxes was almost 30 per cent higher.

The chart shows the variations in half year corporate profits.

6 Month Profit of Eastern Air Lines Mounts

Increased net income for the first half of 1943 was reported yesterday by Eastern Air Lines, Inc., despite enlarged provision for federal income taxes. Profit was $1,599,454, equal to $2.73 a share, compared with $1,388,665, or $2.37 a share, in the first six months of 1942. Provision for federal income tax was $1,273,000, compared with $782,000 a year earlier.

A large reduction in profit was shown in the consolidated report of the Colorado Fuel & Iron corporation for the fiscal year ended June 30. Net earnings were $1,351,528, or $2.40 a share, compared with $2,580,135, equal to $4.58 a share, in the year ended June 30, 1942.

Tax Provision Reduced.

This year's net profit is after depreciation, depletion, amortization of emergency facilities, interest, and provision of $1,236,000 for federal income and excess profits taxes. In the 1942 period provision for federal taxes amounted to $2,965,800.

Profit on certain sales of Colorado Fuel & Iron and its subsidiaries is subject to renegotiation, the report stated. Based on the outcome of discussions relating to the year ended June 30, 1942, the management is of the opinion there is little likelihood of any material adjustment for the year ended June 30, 1943.

G. R. Kinney company reported net profit of $356,428 for the first six months of the year, compared with $303,565 for the first half of 1942.

WPB Orders Anti-Freeze Sent to Western States

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11 (AP).—Quotas for anti-freeze mixtures for 14 western states were ordered shipped today by the WPB to insure adequate supplies for motorists before freezing weather occurs. WPB explained that complaints had been received that manufacturers were favoring distributors in states closer to their factories, and that a shortage in the west was likely.

DPC Increases Contract with Ford to 68 Million

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11 (AP).—Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce, announced today the Defense Plant corporation had increased its contract with the Ford Motor company for additional equipment at a plant in Michigan at a cost of $340,000, resulting in an over-all commitment of 68 million dollars.

People and Events

Government officials and industrialists will discuss war problems of Illinois industry at a two day session of the Illinois Industrial council next Thursday and Friday in Chicago Heights, James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association and secretary-treasurer of the council, said yesterday.

Gov. Dwight H. Green, Director Joseph B. Eastman of the office of defense transportation, and Chairman J. Haden Alldredge of the interstate commerce commission, will be speakers at the 1943 war conference of the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners, which will be held in the Edgewater Beach hotel Sept. 14, 15, and 16.

Tubie Resnik has been elected a vice president and director of the Calvert Distillers corporation, W. W. Wachtel, president, announced yesterday. Resnik will continue to direct the company's sales, which he has managed since June, 1941. Prior to joining Calvert's he was associated 10 years with McKesson and Robbins.

The annual meeting of the financial section of the American Life convention will be held in the Edgewater Beach hotel, Oct. 4 and 5. Among speakers scheduled is Warren A. Patterson, president of the United Air Lines Transport corporation, Chicago.

ARGUES FREIGHT RATE STRUCTURE HIKES WAR COST

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11 (AP).—Asserting that "long standing rate barriers against the west and south have become a national boomerang," with the government paying more than 40 per cent of the nation's war time rail freight bill, Sen. Tom Stewart [D., Tenn.] called today for congressional action to force uniform rates.

For 1943, he declared, the government will pay a total of 2 billion 700 million dollars in rail freight charges, "or almost half of the sum collected last year from individual income taxes."

"It could and would be less if this country had uniform freight rates," Stewart said.

He said that under existing schedules the shipper in the south has to pay on the average 39 per cent more freight on the goods he moves on class rates than does the shipper in eastern territory, while western shippers have to pay from 28 to 84 per cent more "than those of the favored east."

FEDERAL BANK RESERVE RATIO FALLS IN YEAR

Remains Far Above Amount Required.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

The percentage of reserves which the federal reserve banks have on hand as backing for total deposits and federal reserve notes in circulation dropped decisively in the last year, but remained about double the required legal minimums, a study of the system's statistical reports showed yesterday. This reserve percentage, which bankers call the reserve ratio, consists of gold certificates.

Data showed also that the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago has the highest reserve ratio and the New York bank the lowest among the 12 reserve banks. The latest report indicated that the Chicago bank's reserve ratio was 79 per cent on Sept. 1 and the New York bank's was 53.8 per cent. The combined ratio for the whole system was 68.3 per cent.

What Reserve Ratio Means.

What this means is that the Chicago bank had $79 of gold certificates behind each $100 of total deposits on hand and federal reserve notes in circulation, while the New York bank had $53.80, and the system average was $68.30 for each $100.

All that the federal reserve act requires as to the amount of reserves is between $35 and $40 to each $100 of federal reserve notes in actual circulation and deposits in the reserve banks.

On this point the act says: "Every federal reserve bank shall maintain reserves in gold certificates or lawful money of not less than 35 per cent against its deposits, and reserves in gold certificates of not less than 40 per cent against federal reserve notes in actual circulation."

The drop in the system's average reserves in the last year was from 85.8 per cent on Sept. 9, 1942, to the current figure of 68.3 per cent. The peak was 91.3 per cent, established in April, 1941.

Currency Demand Rises.

Federal reserve bank officials said the main reason for the decline had been a large expansion in federal reserve note volume to meet the war time demand for currency. They said this increased demand reflected swollen war time pay rolls and the tendency for individuals to keep more cash on hand as relative prosperity spread among workers.

According to banking opinion, the rise in federal reserve note volume probably will continue. The reserve ratio, still nearly double the legal requirement, could cushion more large increases in the amount of notes in use.

In April, 1941, at the time of the reserve ratio peak, federal reserve bank note circulation was 6.3 billion dollars. On Sept. 9, 1942, it was 10.3 billions. Last Wednesday it had reached 15.1 billions.

Federal Funds Play Big Role.

Reserve bank officials said the reason that the New York bank's ratio dropped more than that of the others probably was that the amount of money which the federal treasury collected in New York thru taxes and sales of treasury securities was larger than the amount the treasury spent there for all purposes, including payments on war contracts. That means a net outflow of funds.

When settlements are made among the federal reserve banks—thru bookkeeping shifts in gold certificate credits in the interdistrict settlement fund—credits are shifted from the New York bank to other reserve banks where government expenditures are heavier, such as at Chicago and San Francisco, in which districts there are concentrations of war contracts.

Vast Increase in War Goods Output Asked

New York, Sept. 11 (AP).—American industry must increase monthly production by 250 million dollars above each preceding month for the remainder of 1943 to deliver war material "as promised," Frederick C. Crawford said tonight.

F. C. Crawford.

In a coast-to-coast radio broadcast over the Mutual network, the president of the National Association of Manufacturers disclosed hitherto guarded production figures and called for a 45 per cent increase in aircraft production and 25 per cent in munitions, naval vessels, merchant shipts, "and all other categories of equipment."

65 Billian Promised.

"We have promised the general staff more than we have been giving them, 65 billion dollars worth of war materials this year, twice as much as last year," Crawford said.

In an earlier broadcast Crawford, who is president of Thompson Products company of Cleveland, O., plane parts manufacturer, had gone beyond immediate production needs to "Post-War Jobs: The Responsibility of Business."

He said both workers and fighters want "a job at least as good or better than they had before the war," and warned that failure of business to provide jobs would result in a "post-war WPA."

Lists 4 Hampering Factors.

In his second talk Crawford listed four factors as hampering war production: "Too much individual inefficiency and failure to do the fullest possible day's work; altogether too much labor turnover—too much jumping from job to job for higher wages; an alarming rate of absenteeism in war industries, and too many—and I say one is too many—strikes and slowdowns."

"Department of labor statistics show that the man power turnover this summer reached a new peak of 97 per 100 employed," he said. "That sounds like I'm trying to pass the buck on to labor. I'm not. Management has got to do a better job, and government has got to do a better job than it has been doing."

UTILITY GRANTED EXTENSION ON ITS DISSOLUTION

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 11 [Special].—The North American light and Power company today was granted a five months extension to Dec. 30 to comply with a securities and exchange commission "death sentence" order directing liquidation of the holding company.

The SEC said that because of an earlier extension which expired July 22, no further delays may be given because the holding company act does not provide for an aggregate extension in excess of two years. The SEC's order was dated Dec. 31, 1941.

The company, one of the major subholding units of the North American company system, filed a voluntary plan for dissolution.

CIVILIAN FISH SUPPLY TO BE CUT, SAYS WFA

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11 (AP).—The war food administration announced today that approximately 65 per cent of the food fish supply will be available to civilians during the 12-month period ending next July 1. This supply will provide a per capita quantity of 7.9 pounds, or about 1.3 pounds less than last year.

The other 35 per cent will be allotted to the army and navy, allied nations and other war needs.

DISCLOSE OIL POLICIES FORCE BUYING ABROAD

Big Imports Arrive from Venezuela.

Crude oil is being imported from Venezuela at the rate of 250,000 barrels a day. State Sen. Nicholas L. Hubbard [D., Mount Pulaski], member of the Illinois joint legislative commission to investigate the rationing of petroleum and petroleum products, revealed yesterday.

Hubbard said he obtained the figures from an unquestionable source. He declared he was informed that the oil shortage in this country, credited to the office of price administration and the petroleum administration for war during the last 18 months, recently became so acute that the importation was made necessary by war demands.

He reported the facts, he said, to State Sen. Earle Benjamin Searcy [R., Springfield], chairman, and the other members of the commission, with a recommendation that the matter be investigated.

Huge Increase Possible.

"Records in the gasoline and oil division of the Illinois bureau of mines and minerals and from other authentic sources show that oil production in this country could be increased 600,000 barrels a day in Texas, New Mexico, Louisiana and Illinois alone, to say nothing of the nine other oil states," Hubbard said. "In view of that fact, the commission ought to find out, if possible, why the Washington burocrats are allowing the importations rather than tapping our own natural resources."

The South American importations, Hubbard said he understood, are by the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, the Gulf Oil corporation, the Shell company, the Sinclair Petroleum company, and the Texas company.

An import duty of 21 cents a barrel for crude oil was established in 1932, oil men said. Later a quota for each of the nations from which this country might import was established by the state department and imports up to that established limit were allowed at 11½ cents a barrel.

Can Evade Both Tariffs.

But the importing companies can evade both these tariffs, it was pointed out, by importing under bond purely for export. Since all the companies are exporting large quantities of petroleum products, they need simply to export the equivalent of the oil they bring in to be freed of any import duties.

"Leon Henderson and Prentiss Brown, successive price dictators, for two years have refused to lift the ceiling on crude petroleum and its products clamped down in 1941, thereby making it impossible for the wildcatters, who have discovered 75 per cent of all the new oil in the last 80 years, to drill," Hubbard said.

"Ickes has failed or refused to exert his prerogatives under war powers act 2, by which he could immediately bring about the production of at least 600,000 barrels a day more oil, 400,000 barrels of it in Texas."

OPA Confirms Chicago Ceiling of $14.75.

bruises on animals being marketed, is expected to total more than 3 billion pounds, stock handlers in Chicago said yesterday. And some experts said even this figure was far too conservative because of the recently increased deaths in the record crop of pigs on farms.

Meat authorities estimated that the loss is equivalent to the meat tonnage consumed annually by more than 20 million persons, and equal to about 12 per cent of the tonnage the government estimates farmers will produce this year. Part of the loss was attributed to insanitary farm feed lots caused by overcrowding. The scarcity of experienced farm help, too few veterinarians to take care of the growing herds, and too little protein feeds also are affecting the health of meat animals, it was said.

Part of Loss Preventable.

A part of the loss in food producing animals is the result of abuse, carelessness, and other preventable causes, said H. R. Smith, manager of the National Live Stock Loss Prevention board, which operates on a nation-wide scale.

"Overloading of transportation facilities with war traffic, and the loss of many experienced truckers and railroad workers to the armed forces and other industries have greatly increased the loss of meat in transit due to deaths and bruises," he said.

He estimated that such waste of edible meat this year is far exceeding the 150 million pounds lost in marketing during 1942. One-third of this loss was in dead and crippled animals and bruised meat that had to be trimmed out by packers. The board is making a special appeal to workers for more careful handling of animals en route to market.

Most Occur on Farms.

By a wide margin, however, meat losses are largest before animals leave the farm. An estimated four out of every 100 pigs farrowed this year have died of cholera alone, Smith said. The 5 million pigs dying of this sickness represents a potential loss of almost 1 billion pounds of pork and lard.

Altho rated by some as the worst of hog diseases, cholera this year has not been as disastrous to many herds as some of the comparatively new sicknesses, farmers from many parts of the country in the yards with live stock last week said. The loss by stunted growth of pigs that survive cannot be estimated, they said.

Cholera usually appears about the time feeding of green corn is started and reaches a peak in September. Altho this year's toll is heavier than in recent years, it is less than during the last war because of the extensive campaigns carried on since to stamp it out.

With the exception of some of the newer sicknesses, records show that much progress has been made in the control and eradication of live stock diseases, and despite the recent substantial rise in mortality, the percentage of loss is believed by some to be less than during World War I. Records are scant, however, except on the well known diseases. In the last war cholera took about 10 per cent of the hog population, whereas now it is estimated at less than 5 per cent.

Output to Top 1942.

Despite the growing losses of animals, the country still will set up a new production record this year that will exceed the 1942 tonnage by a satisfactory margin, spokesmen for the war food administration predicted. A recent estimate by the government placed the probable 1943 production tonnage at 23 billion pounds of all meats, almost 2 billion above last year's record output. However, this total is almost 2 billion pounds below the earlier goals set for 1943, they admitted.

Hog prices last week rose 5 to 50 cents to the highest levels since early last May as volume at the principal packing centers dipped to the smallest of the year. Chicago receipts were 17 per cent under the week before and 32 per cent smaller than in the corresponding week of 1942. Buyers paid an average of $14.50 a hundred pounds for the week's supply.

CANCELED CONTRACTS.

When World War I. ended, government contracts for war materials and construction were canceled abruptly. Contractors found themselves with excessively large inventories, big bank loans, and in many cases insufficient cash to finance a prompt reconversion to peace time activities.

No procedure had been set up in advance for the speedy settlement of contractors' claims against the government arising from canceled contracts. Some of the contracts were defective. The Dent act of 1919 eased the difficulties of some holders of defective contracts, but in other instances there was long drawn out litigation and negotiation. Settlements that reimbursed only out-of-pocket costs were agreed to by some producers in order to avoid litigation or extended negotiation with government procurement agencies.

Balance sheets of many companies currently engaged in war work disclose an impairment of liquidity as compared with normal relationships between current assets and current liabilities. Current assets have increased sharply, but mainly because of swollen inventories. Frequently the inventories represent materials or products useful only for war purposes. Current liabilities have expanded too, with large bank loans appearing in many statements.

Experience gained in the last war, however, is being used to advantage. For example, the "regulation V" bank loans thru which many producers are financing war contracts, provide for deferring the maturities of the loans until the contractor's claims against the government are settled. Congress, in the revenue act of 1942, created a tax refund cushion for the benefit of business in the post-war period.

While the bank loan and tax refund measures are helpful, they are far from adequate to prevent a serious working capital situation for industry when the war ends. Government and business are studying the problem in the hope of devising a solution to the problem, but the results thus far have not been encouraging. It is considered doubtful that a formula can be devised to assume a healthy working capital position for all companies that have converted to war work.

We manufacture a small machine which is sold to the U. S. government and which we will continue to make after the war. We also make parts for the U. S. army and navy. We are located on a car line 10 minutes west of the loop and employ 350 people. Our low turnover of help confirms the opinion of our employes that this is a good place to work.
If you operate a LATHE, MILLING MACHINE,
SCREW MACHINE,
or any type of special machine or have experience in heat treating, etc., we probably can use you. We also need several good helpers.

HELP WANTED—MEN

Salesmen.

SALESMAN OPPORTUNITY
A good position with a future is offered a capable salesman. Some understanding of construction will be very helpful in selling our building materials for new construction and restoration.
Our diversified business is geared to both the war time program and the post-war period.
Experience should include selling to purchasing agents, engineers and contractors.
We manufacture these materials which have been on the market for over 40 years.
We are rated AAA-1.
Drawing account and present customers and thorough field training given. Must have car. Write in detail. Out of town inquiries also invited. F. V. VANNER, 650 W. RANDOLPH-ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

SALES REPRESENTATIVE
To travel in a Southern territory, to serve our clients, to sell our management services on the legal and economic aspects of govt. regulations and to become a permanent part of our organization. We seek an executive type salesman between 35 and 55, who is capable of the effective use of standardized sales presentations, who is accustomed to dealing with industrial executives and professional men on their own level, and who will not be satisfied with earnings of less than $5,000 a year. We will pay an adequate salary during a period of thorough training; thereafter drawing account against comms. on new business and renewals, plus bonuses. Traveling allowances. Write detailed qualifications, recent snapshot if possible. [Not returnable.] Address C T 269, Tribune.

4 Permanent Salesmen
Unusual opportunity available selling an instrument that is locally and nationally advertised by pioneer company in rapidly expanding electronics industry. Continued production, gas and tires assured by high priorities. Permanent peace time employment and exclusive dealerships available to successful salesmen. Sales gain nearly 50% past year. Saturation of market less than 16%. Unusual profit margins in commissions. A-1 record and experience necessary. When writing for personal appointment, give age, experience, education, training, and character references. Applications confidential. Address D Y 411, Tribune.

SALESMEN & EXECUTIVES ATTENTION
I have a very fine position on salary and comm. to offer a high-grade, exp. man out of either the selling field or executive group. The position carries very substantial income for the man who can qualify. I prefer a man who, through no fault of his own, has been disfranchised in his old position by war or priorities or who is underpaid in his field. This is a lifetime job in a large financial institution. Write for appt., giving brief business history, age and draft status. All information strictly confidential. Address D Y 225, Tribune.

—REAL ESTATE—RANCHES—

AN OPPORTUNITY RANCH

Located in the picturesque and fertile North Platte valley in Southern Wyoming is a complete ranch unit of 22,000 acres, half deed and half lease land, offering unusual opportunities for profit and pride of ownership to absentee owner or resident.

At an altitude of 7,000 feet, it lays in one beautiful piece along a mile and a half of the North Platte River, and miles more of its tributary creeks, sheltered on the east by the picturesque Medicine Bow Range and on the west by the Sierra Madres.

While the present owner has been developing this ranch for years, the full potential of this property is far from realized. The 2,000 acres presently irrigated now produce enough hay and grain for 800 head of cattle or 4,000 sheep.

This year the place is stocked to 75% of that capacity and will yield $23,000 gross income as follows: Lambs, $6,600; wool, $5,600; beef calves, $6,500; extra hay and grain, $4,200. On this ranch have been fed some of the finest prize-winning beef cattle ever shipped to the big shows.

Aside from its unique profit opportunities as a working ranch, this is a real place for living, for sport, and for recharging your batteries in the famous Wyoming altitude. Trout fishing abounds in this stretch of North Platte. Wild antelope roam the hills of the ranch. Duck and sage chicken inhabit its streams and fields. Deer hunting is a short ride to the hills.

The large stone double house with central heating and electricity accommodates both owner and manager. Only 6 miles to your shipping point, state highway, schools and town. Your neighboring ranches are substantially held.

You may take over, if you wish, as a going concern, with ranch manager, machinery, work animals and livestock. Federal loan now covers about 40% of property value. Due to war time pressure of other business, present owner must sell. Send for more particulars or arrange a personal inspection trip. Your travel expenses for the trip will be refunded in event of your purchase.

DAY by DAY on the FARM
by BEN MARKLAND

Sept. 11, 1943.

WHEN city residents become perturbed about the war time shortages of such items as pipe cleaners, hairpins, alarm clocks, and raspberry preserves, they might ponder the problems faced by the farmer who has to do the best he can with less labor, less machinery, and shortages of such important farm requisites as machine parts and fencing.

The men on the Wheaton farm were talking about the fence problem the other day. They needed to repair a permanent fence made of rough-sawed oak. This type of fence is attractive, strong, durable, and usually requires little upkeep.

Another Dismantled.

But at present the farm manager is unable to find this type of lumber, so when he wanted to repair one section of the fence there was no recourse but to dismantle temporarily a similar fence in another part of the farm. A paddock fence which is not absolutely necessary at the present time was taken apart and its boards were used for the needed patchwork.

The farmer is under similar difficulties with other types of fencing. The men on the Wheaton place have been able to get barbed wire and one-inch and two-inch chicken wire, but hardware manufacturers report shortages of these materials in some areas. Most farmers have been able to procure such light material for temporary fencing, but there is almost no possibility of getting any sort of wood or metal for permanent fences. Heavy gauge fence wire is being reserved primarily for war plants, and except in rare cases has not been available to farmers for many months.

Ingenuity Invoked.

The farmer's only recourse in the fencing matter, therefore, is to patch up his permanent fences by exercising ingenuity. When that isn't possible he can put up temporary fences with light wire and hope that they'll last until the war is won.

The next major job of the farm schedules is that of cutting corn for silage. The men on the Yorkville farm plan to cut about 58 acres of corn for the three silos. They figure that the largest silo will hold about 40 acres of silage, and the two smaller ones will hold a total of about 18 acres. It's probable that this job will be started in the next few days. The fields nearest the three silos will be cut first to prevent long distance hauls.

★ The GARDEN ★

THE small sample garden on the Wheaton farm, only 25 feet wide and 30 feet long, continues to provide abundantly for a family of two. Most of the vegetables grown on the farm this season were planted in the large plot covering more than 30,000 square feet, but the smaller garden was planted to prove how much could be harvested from a plot of typical city size.

The family which tends this small plot has had more leaf vegetables, beets, carrots, and tomatoes than could be used on the table. Some of the excess has been canned for winter use, including more than 12 quarts of snap beans and four quarts of beets from the first plantings. One day last week the housewife picked a peck of tomatoes from the 12 plants in the small garden, as well as 20 onions and 16 peppers. From these ingredients she made 17 pints of chili sauce to add to her winter supply of foodstuffs.

Hotel for Sale

Fine resort hotel, suitable also for fraternal society home.

For sale, because of owner's death, outstanding year 'round Pennsylvania resort hotel with financial record for twenty-five years. All property and buildings are in fine condition. Doing capacity business this summer.

Annually visited by more than 100,000 people. Enjoys strategic location on principal highway; internationally known and advertised.

Would be ideally suited as a national home for a large membership union, fraternal organization, health resort, semi-club, or any other large organization.

Also offers tremendous real estate development market. Population of two million people within 50 miles. Post-war aviation development by means of helicopter service will put this property within fifteen minutes ride of large metropolitan area, and make it accessible to additional tens of thousands of new customers and homeseekers.

Brokers protected. Only parties with large capital will be given particulars.

Manufacturer Wants Inventions and Ideas

Have you an invention, patented or patentable?

Have you an idea that merits development?

We are a large, highly rated manufacturing concern equipped to manufacture almost anything of metal or plastic.

At present we are engaged 100% in war work, but are in the market for inventions or ideas that can help the war effort or have post-war possibilities.

If your invention or idea appeals to us we will make you a cash or royalty offer.

We should also like to hear from concerns forced by priorities to discontinue manufacture. If the articles you have manufactured appeal to us we will buy your patents, tools and dies.

We likewise should like to hear from sales organizations and manufacturer's agents with an assured market for some particular commodity they would like us to manufacture in the post-war period.

We intend to branch out in new fields and are interested in the following items: Radio and Television; Automobile Accessories; Aircraft Devices; Toys and Games; Electrical and Mechanical Devices; Household Items; Novelty Items; Automatic Dispensers; Hardware Specialties; Air-Conditioning; Plastics; Chemicals; Cosmetics.

Whether your invention is patented or unpatented, your rights will be scrupulously respected.

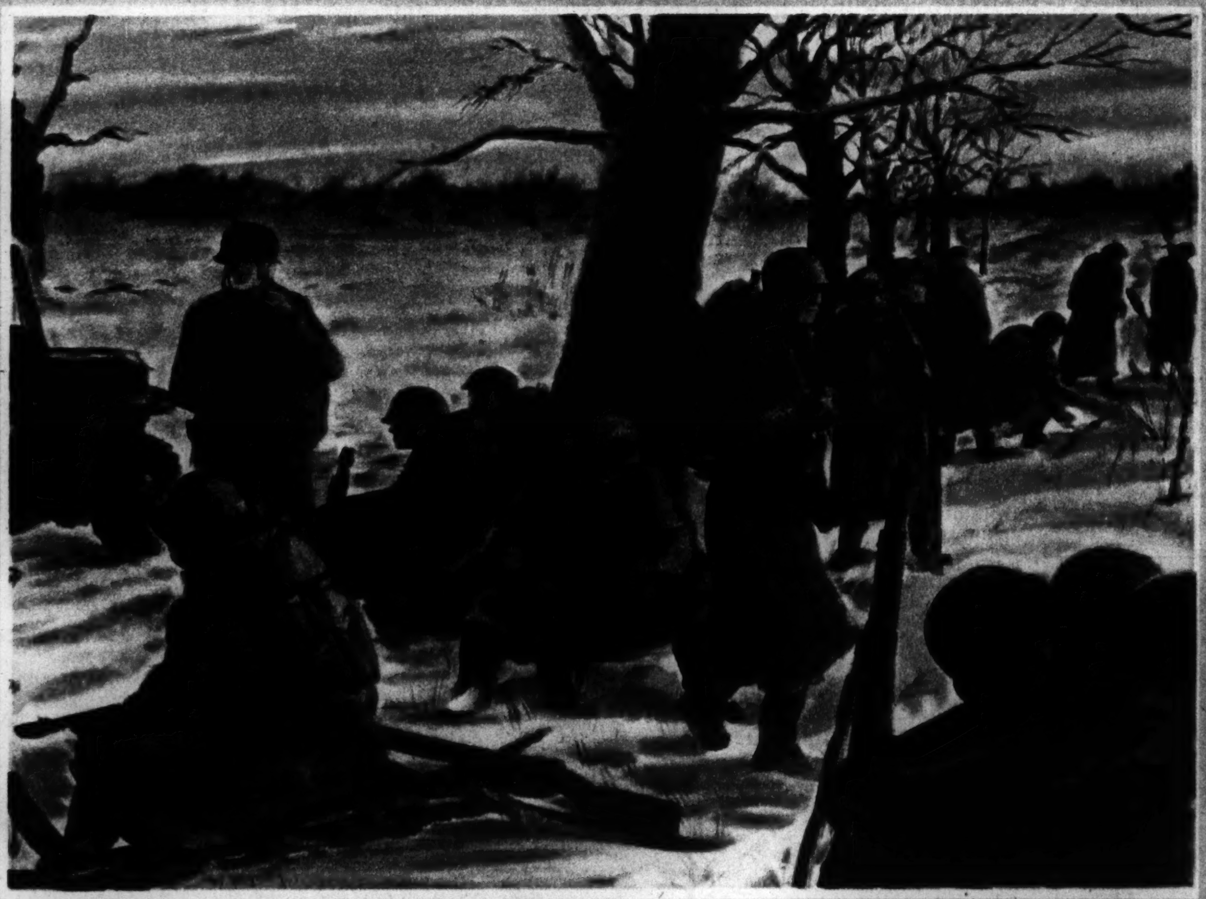
ARMY LIFE AS SOLDIER ARTISTS SEE IT

The paintings reproduced on this page are part of an exhibit of army art being featured at the Art Institute of Chicago. They represent the work of a group of enlisted men known as the Fort Custer Army Illustrators, an organization sponsoring the leisure time artistic efforts of soldiers who for the most part were artists before entering the army. (Tribune color photos by Godfrey Lundberg.)



TEN MINUTE BREAK, by Pvt. Elmer Stilwell, Philadelphia. Private Stilwell is attached to the Provost Marshal General Training center. He was a student at Pennsylvania Academy of Art.

WET LANDING, by Sgt. Wallace Brodeur, Chicago. A naturalized French-Canadian, Sergeant Brodeur formerly worked in a large Chicago commercial art studio. He is stationed at Fort Custer.

SERVICE BATTERY, by Tech. Sgt. Arch McLean, Dearborn, Mich. Sergeant McLean now is attached to the medical section of a supply regiment, Camp McCoy, Wis. He was a photo retoucher by profession.

FOREIGN PATROL, by Corp. Leonard Krimsin, Chicago. Corporal Krimsin painted this picture overseas. While a student at the Art Institute school he won the Tribune prize at a Palette and Chisel club exhibition.

OBSTACLE COURSE, LOG ROLLERS, by Technician First Class Fred Simper, Detroit. Now stationed at Aberdeen Proving grounds, Aberdeen, Md., Simper painted this picture while stationed at Fort Custer.

NEXT SUNDAY—"THE MORTIFICATION OF HISTORY," BY GARET GARRETT

TOMORROW!—LIGHT METALS HAVE THEIR DAY!

By WALTER SIMMONS

ALUMINUM and magnesium men believe the world will enter an age of light metals when the war is over. They may be right. American aluminum plants, with capacity tremendously expanded, are expected to turn out more than a million short tons this year—five times the 1940 output. The magnesium potential is estimated at 362,500 short tons, as compared with 6,500 tons in 1940 and 16,500 tons in 1941. All this production will be available for peace time uses.

In the face of the greatest efforts at expansion, steel has shown no such proportionate gains, tho it still dwarfs the light metal industry. In 1940 United States production was 67 million tons. This year it will, with luck, reach 92 million (as against 61 million for axis nations).

Faced with the problem of finding markets for their tremendously accelerated outputs when the war is over, light metal producers are cheered by a belief that the days of some heavy metals are about over. World copper supplies are expected to last only 40 more years. And the great Mesabi iron range in Minnesota is about mined out—which means steel men will have to work with lower grade ores, more expensive to concentrate.

Tons of salt being unloaded at Basic Magnesium, Inc., for use in making magnesium. (Wide World photo.)

*Silver 100. †Iron 1.00.

The supply picture is entirely different with magnesium, the metallic war baby which has grown up overnight. It can be profitably extracted from sea water, which has already done the preliminary job of washing the oxide out of the soil. The oceans hold 320 million cubic miles of water, each containing 5,700,000 tons of the metal. Great Salt lake in Utah, whose waters contain 0.6 to 3.2 per cent magnesium (as against 0.14 per cent for sea water), is a major source.

In addition, ore sources are almost inexhaustible. Here are a few—all common in the United States:

Source	Average pct. of magnesium
Brucite	41.6
Magnesite	28.7
Olivine	28.4
Serpentine	25.9
Dolomite	13.8
Langbeinite	11.6

Dolomite is extremely common in Illinois, and already the possibilities of its extraction are being studied. All Great Lakes states, in fact, have large deposits of magnesium-bearing ores. Dr. R. A. Smith, Michigan state geologist, estimates reserves of 2½ billion tons in Michigan, all near the surface and easily scooped up by power shovel. This ore contains 19 per cent magnesium.

Canada can supply magnesium in large quantities as a by-product of asbestos production. Waste tailings in the Thetford, Que., mining district are believed to contain $20,000,000,000 worth of magnesium in a 200 million ton stockpile built up over the last 60 years. Canadians feel this material could yield magnesium at 15 cents a pound or less—a figure generally used by all magnesium men when speaking of after-war hopes.

Aluminum producers, too, speak of inexhaustible supplies and reduced prices after the war. (Prices have fallen from 20 to 15 cents a pound in war time, while copper has advanced from 6 cents to 12.) In experiments at Muscle Shoals aluminum has been extracted from kaolin, an abundant clay, by a new process. If these experiments turn out to be commercially successful the United States will not have to rely on Dutch Guiana for bauxite, a rusty, claylike mineral which is the orthodox source of aluminum. Normally one-third of American bauxite supplies comes from Arkansas and two-thirds from Dutch Guiana.

Every claybank and almost all common rocks contain aluminum, the most abundant of all metallic elements. (It is almost twice as common as iron and makes up one-twelfth of the earth's entire crust.) Yet the high cost of concentrating the alumina, and high chemical losses, have heretofore ruled out all sources but bauxite.

In appearance the two light metals are much alike. Both are white and lustrous. With its low specific gravity, aluminum has only a third the weight of steel, and magnesium is a third lighter than aluminum.

The qualities of aluminum are generally known, since it stands fifth among the commercial metals in world tonnage consumed, and fourth on the basis of volume. It is highly regarded for its resistance to the corrosive action of air and many chemical compounds, its high thermal and electric conductivity, its reflectivity for radiant energy of all wave lengths, and its ease of fabrication. It is nontoxic, nonmagnetic, and nonsparking. It may be welded by all commercial processes.

Aluminum and its alloys are easily cast, forged, pressed, rolled, impact extruded, and machined. It may be rolled thru the range of sheet thicknesses, from plate three inches thick to foil so thin a pound of metal covers 30,000 square inches. It may be drawn into wire so fine a pound of metal makes a length of more than 20,000 miles, or into rods eight inches in diameter. Seamless tubes are produced from the size of a hypodermic needle to that of the mast for an ocean-going ship.

The metal resists chemical attack by forming a thin surface oxide which prevents further reaction. In the textile industry concentrated nitric and acetic acids are handled in aluminum. Gums and resins, hydrogen peroxide, fermenting yeasts and other organisms, gaseous compounds of sulphur, and furnace gases are without harmful reaction. Its indifference to sulphur makes it popular for structural use in industrial centers.

Commercially pure aluminum, on the other hand, has a tensile strength of only about 25 per cent that of structural steel in the annealed or cast condition. But its alloys are much stronger. Heat-treated, they have tensile strengths comparable with structural steel. Metals most commonly used in the production of alloys are copper, silicon, manganese, magnesium, chromium, iron, zinc, and nickel. The proportion of alloying elements is seldom more than 6 or 7 per cent.

Tensile strengths up to 70,000 pounds per square inch have been claimed for certain of its alloys by the Aluminum Company of America. It was recently reported that new alloys for war uses add 10 to 25 per cent to previous strengths.

A wide range of alloys with varying characteristics has been developed, making aluminum available for almost any purpose.

The metal has a few disadvantages which are frankly admitted. Strong alkalis dissolve the protective coating of aluminum oxide and eat away the metal itself. The low elasticity of aluminum makes it necessary to use deeper sections when it is used to support heavy loads. This property is an asset, however, when impact loads are to be resisted.

Aluminum is hard to roll—harder than steel, because the rolling must be done at lower temperatures. Pressure of 7 million pounds a square inch is employed to roll out airplane "skin." Ingots nine feet long and weighing 3,200 pounds are rolled at the rate of 15 miles an hour into sheets 425 feet long. This is an improved process, 50 times faster than pre-war practice.

The low melting point of aluminum (659 degrees C.) is another barrier to its use for some purposes. Tensile strength drops sharply with increasing temperature. This table shows decreasing strength of an excellent wrought aluminum alloy under heat conditions:

75	68,000
300	42,000
400	28,000
500	14,000
600	7,500
700	4,500

Over a period of years, however, the aluminum men have succeeded in working out most of their problems and developing wide markets. Housewives have been taught that aluminum pots and pans are not poisonous; that aluminum is, in fact, about the least toxic of all metals. Architects know that they can specify thicker aluminum members of strength equal to steel and still save more than a pound of weight for every pound of aluminum alloy used. Electricians have found that while

GLOSSARY

ALLOY—Two or more metals fused together.
ANNEALED—Heat-treated and cooled to reduce brittleness.
CENTIGRADE—A scale of temperature measurement (abbreviated as C.) under which 0° is the freezing point of water and 100° the boiling point. To convert Centigrade to Fahrenheit, multiply by nine-fifths and add 32.
CORROSION—Gradual wearing away by chemical process.
DUCTILITY—A metal's capacity for being drawn out or hammered thin.
ELECTRODE—A wire, plate, or other object by which electric current enters or leaves.
EXTRUSION—A method of shaping metal by forcing it thru a die.
FAHRENHEIT—A scale of temperature measurement (abbreviated as F.) under which 32° is the freezing point of water and 212° the boiling point. To convert Fahrenheit to Centigrade, subtract 32 and multiply by five-ninths.
MALLEABILITY—A metal's capacity for being shaped by hammering or rolling.
MONATOMIC—Having one atom to the molecule.
OXIDE—A compound of oxygen with another substance.
SPECIFIC GRAVITY—The ratio of weight of a substance to the weight of an equal volume of another substance. For liquids and solids the comparison is with the weight of water.
TENSILE STRENGTH—The greatest longitudinal stress a substance will bear without tearing asunder.

MYSTERY!

Only you can solve this mystery. And here are clues to help you, facts that are established and proved.

In the Eastern States, and on the West Coast as well, sales of Pro-phy-lac-tic Tooth Brushes with PROLON bristles have always been high and are now soaring higher. But in this city, our sales are frankly lagging behind. What is the explanation?

Are teeth different here? Is Pro-phy-lac-tic Tooth Brush less well known to you than to New Yorkers and Californians? Is the brush less well displayed here by dealers? Or are you less insistent in asking for the Pro-phy-lac-tic Tooth Brush by name?

No matter which theory is right, all the evidence points to the fact that you may be missing something in a really fine tooth brush if you don't try the new Bonded Pro-phy-lac-tic with PROLON bristles.

We guarantee that no brush at any price has finer or more costly duPont bristles. We guarantee that it is the only brush with gentler, round ends on each bristle. And, in writing, we guarantee the brush for six months of service, or a new one free.

There are two types of the Bonded Pro-phy-lac-tic. The regular (illustrated below) has the famous tuft to help clean the back teeth better. The 2-Row Professional has the same round-end PROLON bristle, but the brushing head is only one inch long, professionally compact. Get the shape that suits you best. Just be sure to ask by name for the Bonded Pro-phy-lac-tic.

IF YOU LOVE cowboy and Indian pictures—and who doesn't?—you'll have a treat in store for you in "Buffalo Bill."

Pop Sherman, maker of westerns, tells me he's giving us the real thing in this story of Colonel Cody. There won't be a Gower street Indian or a drug store cowboy in it. Crows, Cheyennes, Blackfeet, Sioux, and Navajos are getting social security numbers and will face cameras for the first time. Camera crews and cast were sent to three location spots calculated to provide the correct primitive flavor.

At the Crow reservation 13 miles east of Hardin, Mont., his scouts located the annual sun dance—a marathon which lasts 72 hours without food or water—a ritual with the tribe. When this was photographed the crew of 44 technicians moved on to the 9,000-foot-high plateau of the Big Horn mountains to catch the ceremonial buffalo hunt. Camera equipment and personnel made this 200 mile round trip on horseback, since there are no roads. This is the first time white men have penetrated these wilds since the '80s, when it was ceded to the Crows by the United States government. Then the Navajo reservation near Houserock valley, Arizona, will be company location for the first time in its history. The state of Utah is building a road into inaccessible portions of Pirea canyon, so cameras will catch truly virgin forest.

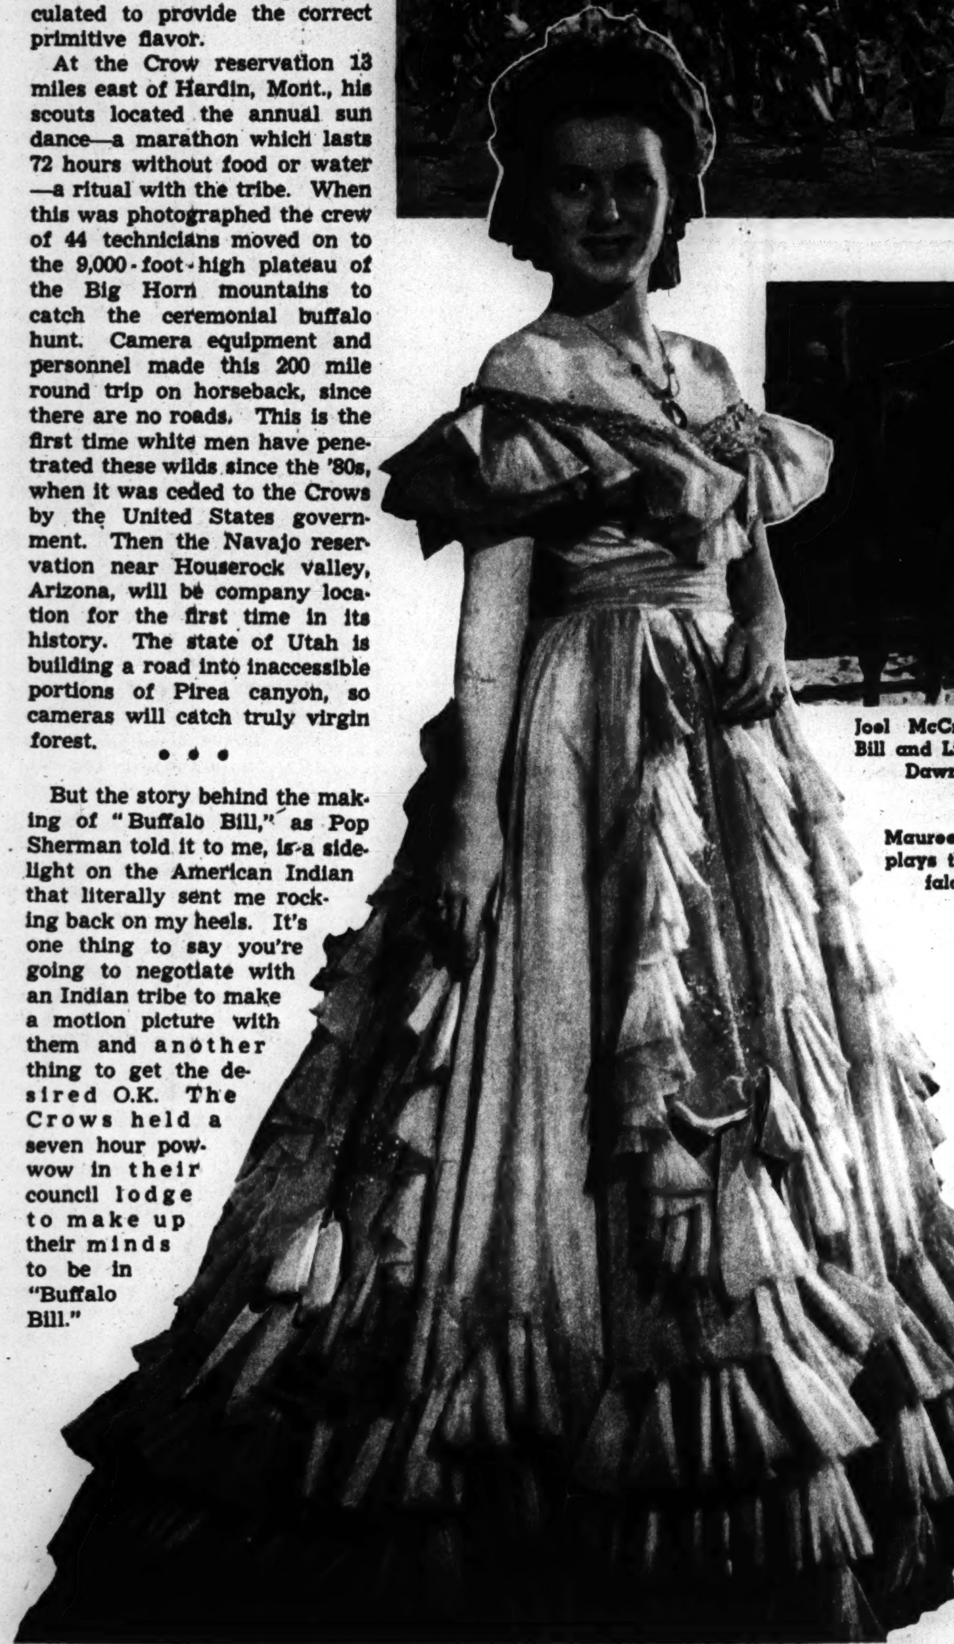
But the story behind the making of "Buffalo Bill," as Pop Sherman told it to me, is a sidelight on the American Indian that literally sent me rocking back on my heels. It's one thing to say you're going to negotiate with an Indian tribe to make a motion picture with them and another thing to get the desired O.K. The Crows held a seven hour pow-wow in their council lodge to make up their minds to be in "Buffalo Bill."



Joel McCrea as Buffalo Bill and Linda Darnell as Dawn Starlight.

Maureen O'Hara, who plays the wife of Buffalo Bill Cody.

Negotiators wilted a trifle during this endurance test, but perked up when the answer was "yes." Elaborately outlined in Crow dialect and supplemented generously with sign language, this cheerful ultimatum was delivered by Chief Yellowtail. Emboldened by success, Twentieth Century's representative suggested the names of Buffalo Bill's traditional enemies be inserted in the ritual of the sun dance. Negotiations immediately hit a snag. The Crows said they had already decided on their ritual. Their sun dance represented an invocation for victory against the enemy, and they intended to name their real enemies—Hitler, Tojo, and Mussolini.

After this eye opener the Hollywoodites looked about and discovered a sizable number of service flags swinging from lodgepoles. Ten per cent of the Crow tribe are in service. When the deal finally was consummated a camera crew moved onto the stamping ground. Eight hundred braves, turned actor for the occasion, contributed as colorful a list of names as movieland has ever heard. Such box office tags as Joel McCrea, who plays Bill; Maureen O'Hara as his wife, Linda Darnell as Dawn Starlight, Thomas Mitchell as Ned Buntline, can't hold up against this Crow list: Charlie Teeth, Henry Little Coyote, Jeter Little Bird, Bert Two Moons, American Horse, Another Prairie Bear, Tom Flying Man, Chief Stands in Timber, Martin Below Bear, Chief Plenty Coops (obviously a chicken fancier), Frank Walks Last (he actually does, on all occasions), White Man Runs Him (an old Custer scout), and Chief Many Treaties—just to name a few.

Chief Yellowtail has a town crier, one Henry Plain Feather. Henry is coördinator of all stamping ground events and further serves as a daily news broadcaster. Crows have radios when their incomes permit, but there is a scarcity of batteries in Hardin, so just now most of them are silent. More than 700 Crows, Blackfeet, Sioux, Navajos, and Cheyennes were massed in council, so the studio turned over its public address system to Henry. He shied when his voice came roaring back at him, but quickly adapted himself to the modern way. However, Henry took no chances; he used sign language along with the mike.

Hollywood, accustomed to settling business deals over luncheon tables and at cocktail parties, learned that a good Indian talks business only on the stamping ground. So if a detail came up in Hardin every one had to trek back to the reservation to talk it over. Once there, the indispensable peace pipe gave way to a carton of cigarets, passed around gravely, so the essential technique of the peace pipe remained intact.

These quaint children of nature understand perfectly that if a tepee is shot in a picture the company pays rental for it. So Crow tepees were rented, but when it came to erecting them not one of the prop crew could make head or tail of the 26 poles involved in setting up the tepee. So they tried to get some braves to do the job. No soap. No Indian brave worthy of his salt would be caught dead setting up a tepee. That's squaw's work. So Lillie Tall Grass and a bevy of girls moved in and rigged up the tepees in record time.

Harry (Pop) Sherman

The United States government delayed the draft so 18 braves who are to be inducted could participate in the sun dance. When the time comes these braves will serve their country faithfully and well, as past events have proved. They sometimes dance for 72 hours without food or water, just as their primitive forefathers did. Only now it's to invoke victory for the allies—defeat to the axis—but they eliminate some traditional tricks, such as the ceremonial scalps which used to dangle from three-pronged willow forks and are now replaced with flags.

Traditional Indian costumes were sent in from the studio, as the well dressed Indian today is apt to sport a Homburg, a tail coat, an old tuxedo jacket, or any little item which catches his fancy. He refuses to discuss business in the presence of a squaw, as that is traditional. But the squaw may have her social security number and even in some tribes retain her own name, like the Lucy Stone Leaguers. More than 300 Indians got their first social security numbers to make "Buffalo Bill."

A letter from Guadalcanal proved the most picturesque and thrilling moment in this Montana adventure. The mail arrived one morning, bringing a letter from Martin Bear Below to his mother. It related that he'd been shot down at Guadalcanal and later rescued. Martin's an airplane gunner, incidentally. He sent his ma a present—a Japanese battle flag he'd taken from the enemy. He confided to his mother that he'd scalped the Jap, but he saved that little trophy for himself. Martin Bear Below's ma immediately told Chief Yellowtail the good news. The chief sent for Henry Plain Feather, the town crier. Henry hopped his horse and spread the news around the reservation. Then a strange and wonderful sight took place. Out from tepees and wickiups came squaws and braves decked in full battle regalia. Amid deafening beating of drums the pow-wow began. Martin Bear Below's Jap flag was hoisted on a three-pronged willow fork and the red men circled it. War cries rent the air in bloodcurdling pitch. Lean bodies bent double or sprang high in the frenzy of the victory dance. Photographers, taken by surprise, cursed the luck and ran for the cameras.

Do you wonder why Pop Sherman doesn't want to hear any talk about Gower street Indians or back lot sets?

Dear Miss Tinée: I have just seen "Assignment in Brittany" and would appreciate it if you would print a picture of Pierre Aumont. Also tell me if he's married to Maria Montez and where I can write for a picture of him. Thank you.

AUDREY JOHNSON.

Pierre Aumont

Dear Audrey: Here's Pierre's picture. He's married to Maria, and you can write for a picture care of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Culver City. He was on the French stage and in French pictures before coming here. He escaped from Nazi-invaded France. Was born in Paris. His greatuncle was Georges Barr of the Comedie Francaise. You're welcome.

Dear Miss Tinée: Will you please tell me where I can write for a picture of Simone Simon? Also print something about her if you possibly can. Thank you. White carnations to your column.

JEANE R.

Dear Jeane: Thank you! Address Simone care of Monogram Pictures, Hollywood. She was born in Marseilles, France, April 23, 1914; has brown hair, blue eyes, is 5 feet 3 inches tall, and weighs 114 pounds. She played in European films before coming to America.

Dear Miss Tinée: I always look forward to your column. Could you please tell me who played the homesick lieutenant in "The Moon Is Down"? If you could print his picture in your column it would make me very happy.

BARBARA R.

Peter Van Eyck

Dear Barbara: It makes me happy to make you so. You refer to Peter Van Eyck, and you can address him in care of Twentieth Century-Fox, Los Angeles, Cal. I hope you like the picture.

Dear Miss Tinée: Altho Clark Gable probably won't be in any more films for the duration, I'd appreciate it very much if you would tell me where I could send for his picture.

PATRICIA W.

Dear Patricia: (I've got a Pat in my family!) Write to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Culver City, for a picture of Clark Gable—only I can't promise one will be sent. One usually incloses a quarter with a request. Come again.

Chicago Women Know The Answer

By 2 to 1 Vote choose soap that cuts grease off dishes in a flash... yet helps hands stay soft, smooth

American Family Flakes Preferred By Twice As Many Women As Any Other Package Soap Independent Dishwashing Survey Shows

"I've never seen grease disappear faster," says Mrs. H. McFarland, 6526 So. Ingleside Ave. This is why! Tests prove that no soap in the world cuts grease faster than American Family Flakes.

"I get more suds faster and they last amazingly long with American Family Flakes," says Mrs. J. Doran, 7710 Laflin St. It's a fact. Today's American Family Flakes make more suds faster than leading granulated soaps.

"My hands feel so much softer I hardly realize they're mine, now that I'm using American Family Flakes for my dishes," says Mrs. J. Brady, 8005 Lafayette . . . . . Here's the reason. Today's American Family Flakes are the mildest we've ever made. Are far kinder to hands than any strong granulated soaps.

GIRLS! DON'T WASTE SOAP It's made of war materials

1. When doing dishes, run water in empty dishpan first. Then add Flakes, swish vigorously, do dishes.
2. Wash less greasy dishes first; then do greasy things.

American Family Flakes and American Family Bar Soap both give you valuable coupons—which you can exchange for practical, useful articles for yourself, or your home without a penny's extra cost . . . at the American Family Premium Store, 57 W. Wacker Drive.

Don't Forget EGGS!

By MARY MEADE

IF YOUR meat ration points won't allow you to be carnivorous for as many dinners as you'd like, remember that eggs, as well as fish, poultry, and dried legumes, are in that important "group five" of protein foods, at least one of which we should eat every day.

On a night when eggs substitute for meat you might try them Spanish style, with tomatoes, onion, and green pepper.

SPANISH EGGS
(Serves six)

2 tablespoons margarine
½ cup sliced onions
½ cup sliced green pepper
2 cups fresh tomatoes
1 cup soft enriched white bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
6 hard-cooked eggs

Melt margarine and cook onions and green pepper gently until soft. Add tomatoes, crumbs, and salt. Simmer gently about 15 minutes. Cut eggs in quarters and add to tomato mixture. Serve hot on triangles of toasted enriched white bread.

Here's a recipe in which eggs and milk, another protein food, extend the meat, making a small amount of chipped beef, three red points' worth, do for six persons. At times chipped beef has been difficult to obtain, but lately many markets have been getting fairly good supplies of it.

Fresh corn, too, is used in this souffle, taking care of the vegetable part of the menu. All you need to accompany a dish like this are a big lettuce and tomato salad, blueberry muffins radishes and onions from the garden, coffee, and a slice of chilly melon.

CORN AND CHIPPED BEEF SOUFFLE
(Serves six)

⅓ cup fat
¼ cup flour
1 cup milk
4 eggs, separated
1 cup corn cut from cob
1 cup shredded chipped beef

Melt fat, blend in flour, and add milk. Cook and stir constantly until sauce thickens. This is the thick white sauce which is used as a base for many souffles, croquettes, and other dishes. Beat egg yolks until thick and yellow and stir sauce into them. Add corn and chipped beef. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold lightly into the mixture. Turn into a six cup casserole and bake at 325 degrees about one hour, or until a silver knife inserted in the souffle will come out without any of the mixture clinging to it.

The basic souffle mixture may be used with other meat when you can't get chipped beef. Ground cooked ham has an excellent flavor when combined with corn in this way. Other leftover cooked meat may be ground and used. Some seasoning with salt and pepper may be necessary. Chipped beef provides all of its own seasoning and ham a small part. Modern mild-cured hams aren't as salty as the old fashioned ones and their seasoning power isn't nearly as great.

Eggs can sub for meat when your red ration points have run out. They're good in Spanish sauce.

Eggs and milk stretch meat points and supply good protein value in a casseroled souffle.

TODAY we would like to call attention to the way cosmetics have been neglected in beauty care. To make your skin look its loveliest, undoubtedly you choose your foundation cream, powder, and rouge with great thought and care. Have you ever thought how your skin can make the cream and powder and rouge look more beautiful?

A scaly, skin, blackheads, and blemishes certainly don't bring out the best in fine powders and rouges. A good complexion is the first foundation for successful makeup. A good complexion enhances cosmetics.

If your complexion is faulty it might be caused by one or all of these four things—poor diet, faulty elimination, poor circulation, or nerves.

If you want to do justice to your cosmetics you have to play fair with your stomach, too. Don't overload it with indigestible dishes.

If you suffer from constipation you are storing up toxins to mar the smoothness of your skin. Two glasses of water upon arising will encourage correct elimination.

In case sluggish muscles are to blame, these exercises may improve poor circulation:

1. Put a chair in front of you. Bend over from the hips and place hands on chair so that your body is at right angles to your legs. Blow air out of the lungs, with mouth open in expelling. Contract the abdominal muscles forcibly, pulling them in toward the spine. Relax and repeat five to 10 times.

2. Lie on back, knees bent, feet on floor. Pull knees back and straighten legs upward, lifting hips from the floor. Repeat three more times.

3. Stand with feet apart, knees stiff; bend and touch left hand to calf of left leg. At the same time raise right shoulder and curve right hand to armpit. Alternate. Repeat six times each way.

4. Lie on your back with arms placed straight at your side, raise the legs, and do a bicycle-riding movement. Start with six times and gradually increase the count.

5. Lie on your back, bend knees to chest. Wrap arms around knees tightly and roll over to left side and then to right. Continue for 10 counts.

6. Stand with feet close together, hands on hips. On the count of one rise on toes; two, keeping feet together, sink to squatting position; three, up on toes again; four, feet flat on floor. Repeat 10 times.

7. Feet apart, arms out at sides, twist waist to right and touch fingertips of right hand to toes of left foot. Reverse. Repeat five times.

EXERCISES

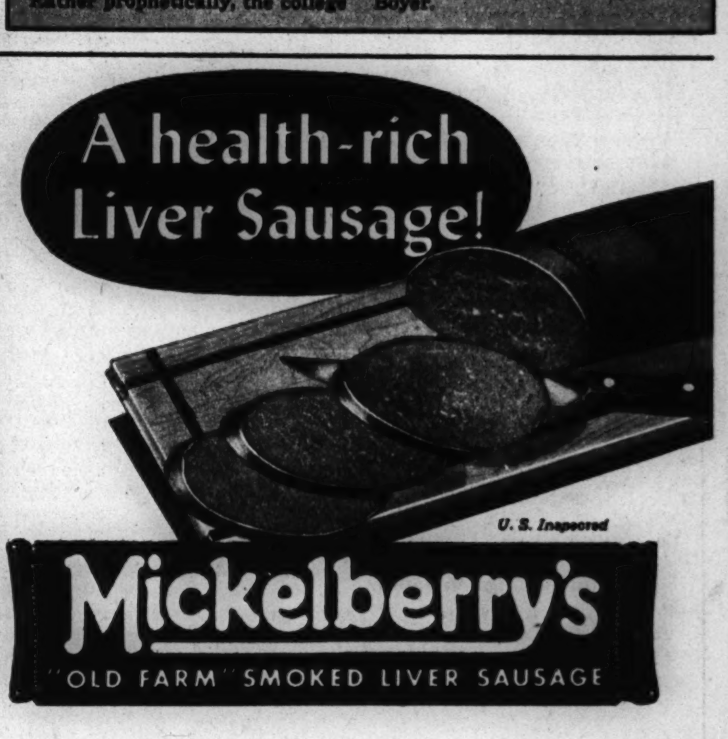
IT TOOK no beauty pageant or starving life in a garret to bring Joyce Reynolds to the movies. Rather it took a discerning drama coach at U. C. L. A., who tipped off a movie scout to his student's potentialities. Joyce got a contract, was spotted a day or so later by Director Mike Curtis and put into a good part in "Yankee Doodle Dandy." For an 18-year-old from Texas (San Antonio, Oct. 7, 1924) that was enough to make her joyful. Rather prophetically, the college dramatic role that won her a movie contract was that of Alice in "Alice in Wonderland." Joyce (she has a first name, Helen) came to Beverly Hills with her mother to finish high school. She enrolled in U. C. L. A. in 1941, majoring in the speech department. She is 5 feet 3½ inches tall, weighs 110. You probably saw her in "George Washington Slept Here," and most recently in "The Constant Nymph," with, sigh, Charles Boyer.



JOHN PAUL JONES— NO WEAPON WOUNDED HIM—ONLY CALUMNY

French artillery caisson bearing coffin of John Paul Jones in Paris, July 6, 1905, during ceremony preceding removal of body to America.

By DELOS AVERY

NO SWORD BLADE ever marred the flesh of John Paul Jones, America's first famous naval hero. No bullet ever struck him. Against the personal hazards of war, altho he risked his life with splendid disdain on many a bloody deck, he seemed to have an almost magical immunity.

But a coward's weapon, calumny, struck him down at last, ending his career as a happy warrior, undermining his robust health, staining the luster of his renown, and he died—all alone—when he was only 45 years old. He died with his right hand clutching a watch, as if by clinging to time's meter he hoped to master time itself; but the watch ticked on and it was his heart that stopped.

He died half in, half out of bed, his face against a pillow, but his feet on the floor. His boots were on.

If it be true that a man's memory, when death draws near, gives him a swift picture of the life he is completing, Paul Jones must have found comfort in the fact that certain words he wrote in his youth were canceled by others written in his maturity.

John Paul Jones, from an old engraving.

For there was a time when Jones had looked upon himself as a man without a country—even tho he was fighting magnificently against the British in the war for American independence.

"I am not in arms as an American," he wrote (May 8, 1778). "I profess myself a citizen of the world totally unfettered by the little, the mean distinctions of climate and country, which diminish the benevolence of the heart and set bounds to philanthropy."

The war, as he viewed it, was a "struggle for the rights of man," and it was for these rights, he said, that "I have drawn my sword."

That was youth speaking. Ten years later, when he was about to draw his sword again, this time in the service of a foreign despot, Catherine of Russia, Jones had a different conception, and he said in a letter to Thomas Jefferson, April 8, 1788:

"I am not forsaking the country that had so many proofs of my affection; I can never renounce the glorious title of a citizen of the United States."

The italics are his.

Belated as this new feeling of a national citizenship was, it must have been a solace to him in the black months and years which followed its expression, the period in which he suffered the blow, assassination of character, which all but robbed him of his honorable place in history.

He was accused of an atrocious crime against a girl.

The world knows now, as many knew then, that the charge was false. But a poisonous lie, launched with malice and driven ahead by craft and intrigue, moves faster—at least for a time—than pursuing truth.

The plot against Jones was hatched by jealousy and fostered in a hotbed of hate. It was, in the basic meaning of the word, a conspiracy—a whispering together. Two vile women and a viler man engineered the thing.

St. Petersburg was the scene, the court of Catherine the Great. A more fertile soil for the secret purposes of the conspirators could not have been found in all Europe. The alliance between the unscrupulous in high places and the unscrupulous in the cellar of the social structure was all-powerful. Catherine herself, notorious for her clandestine amours, was at the center of the evil web, and it was said that more important decisions were made in her bed than on her throne. Her court was far from being a wholesome milieu for a forthright and honorable man like Jones, and why he ever consented to enter it is difficult to explain—except for the fact that he, being a warrior, was tempted to go where wars could be found.

He had won a series of brilliant victories for the empress, fighting against the Turks in the Black sea. But the credit for these successes had been stolen from him by other officers of Catherine's navy, men who used the simple device of suppressing true reports and substituting false ones. By this trick Catherine had been persuaded to recall Jones to the capital, where he was kept waiting, idle, fretting with inaction, awaiting fulfillment of her promise of "a more important command" in the Baltic. It was in the midst of this long waiting that the conspirators, wishing to destroy him utterly, struck their blow.

How they struck it is plainly told in Jones' own words, quoted in the biography by Augustus C. Buell in 1906 from a memorandum addressed by Jones to his one true friend at court, the French ambassador, Count de Segur, dated April 2, 1789. Here it is:

"Some days since, a young girl came to my apartments; the porter announced her as a child whose mother mended garments for a livelihood, and said that she came to ask if I had work of that kind to be done.

"The child then came into my reception room and immediately began some earnest and indecent allurements of person. Astonished at so much boldness on the part of one so young, I felt compassion for her, advised her to beware of such a career, gave her a ruble in charity, and dismissed her; but she refused to leave the room.

"Unwilling to call the porter for the purpose of ejecting a female child, tho impatient at her contumacy, I took her gently by the hand and led her to the door. But the moment I opened the door the little profligate tore her sleeves, cast off her neckerchief, raised great cries, loudly accused me of assaulting her, and at the foot of the staircase threw herself into the arms of an old woman whom she called her mother, and who, certainly, was not brought there by chance. The alleged mother and daughter then went out on the street — the Great Morskaia — and denounced me, exciting the neighborhood with their cries. Now you know the whole affair as I know it.

"The porter, an honest fellow, had seen all, and took down the names as they gave them to him, but he had not taken down their place of abode. He could speak some French and hastened to tell me they would make trouble. I at once sent a message to Monsieur Krimpan, an attorney, whom I had previously employed. . . . He came, and I gave him the facts written in French. . . . Two days afterward he returned the paper to me with a private message saying that a high authority had interdicted him from acting in my behalf, under severe penalties.

"The same day a court courier came with an order from the deputy chamberlain forbidding me to approach the palace of Her Majesty, or to presume to send any communication to any one in regard to the affair. . . . I am the victim of a plot as astonishing as it is incomprehensible, and therefore, as a last resort, I appeal to you."

Such was the story received from Jones by Segur, the ambassador, who, knowing the American hero intimately, had wisdom enough to accept it as the truth—and courage enough to act in a difficult and hazardous situation.

Segur instantly understood that what he had to deal with was no common blackmail trick undertaken by two conscienceless women for the extortion of money. It was not against the purse of Jones but against his personal honor and his worldwide renown that the attack had been made.

Somewhere in the background, Segur's intuition told him, there would be found a scheming, ruthless man—and Segur had a very definite idea as to who that man would be. To reach him would not be easy, to prove his guilt would be harder still, and to bring him to justice—even after proof — might be impossible. Nevertheless Segur was resolved to make the attempt.

The man he had in mind was an international adventurer who for a long time had used his title—rather a cloudy one, and his knowledge of the worst in court life—a complete knowledge, to promote his personal fortunes. He was Prince Nassau-Siegen, and he claimed a blood kinship with Catherine herself. Buell describes the prince as "treacherous and dishonest." And Jones himself, even before falling victim to the man's slandering attack, had appraised his character in two short sentences:

"He is without ability, truth, or honor. To every other vice he adds the shame of cowardice."

Yet it was Prince Nassau-Siegen who thought that by ruining the reputation of Jones he could win for himself the prestige that Jones would lose.

Segur tells us in his memoirs that he began his project of vindicating Jones by assigning secret agents to obtain precise information about the two women in the case.

"They were not long in learning," says Segur, "that the old woman was a procuress, who carried on a special traffic in the bodies of young girls for the benefit of certain particularly depraved and debauched courtiers, and that she was in the habit of passing these poor young creatures off as her 'daughters.' This was so far so good; but now I told my sleuths that I must know the courtiers for whose lechery the old woman procured the poor little girls. In a couple of days they brought me a list, not of names—which would, of course, have meant nothing, because they were necessarily false names—but such close, accurate, and unmistakable descriptions of person, gait, attire, etc., with accounts of tracing them to their proper habitations; in short, complete reports, such as the secret agents of great embassies are trained to make on peril of their lives if they fail or deceive.

"Putting what they reported with what I knew, I found no difficulty in identifying one of the miscreants as Nassau-Siegen."

Segur then told Jones there was nothing more for him to fear because confessions had been obtained from the women, the plot was completely unmasked, and all that remained was to "open the eyes of the empress."

So Jones was "officially" vindicated. But the empress would not—or dared not—punish Nassau-Siegen. And for Jones himself the nearest thing to reparation was a leave of absence, and the "privilege" of kissing the empress' hand when she bade him "bon voyage." She later wrote a letter in which she said Jones had been "put away" because "it would be difficult to

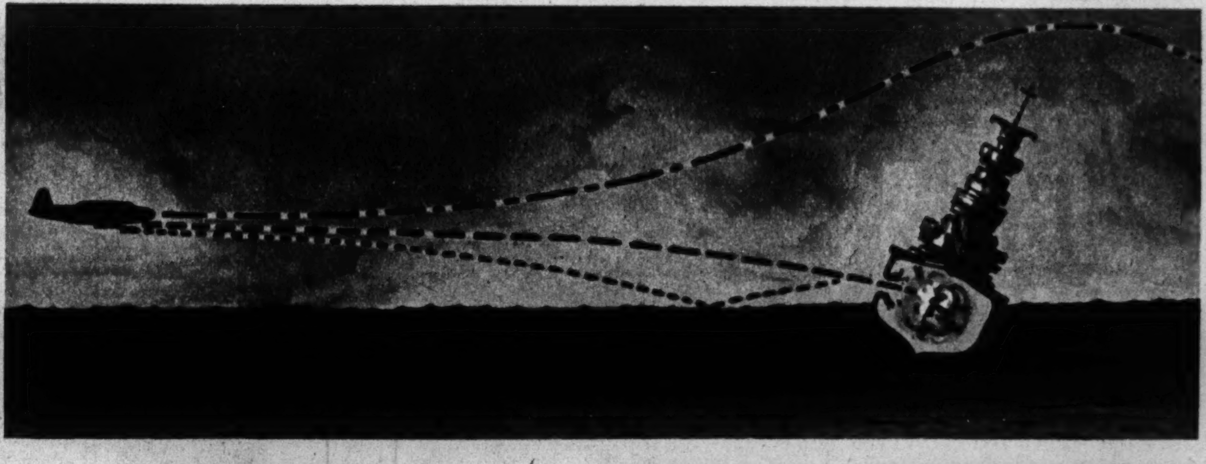
This Is Skip Bombing

To help visualize the technique of skip bombing, which has proved so effective in the Pacific, Artist Julian Krupa of Flying magazine has made the montage below, showing a B-26 bomber attacking a Jap war ship, and the diagrammatic sketches at right.

A True skip bombing against a lightly armored or unarmed ship. Pilot comes in at about 50 feet altitude, aims thru machine gun sight.



B Against heavily armed craft, bomber comes in higher. Bomb hits water at greater distance from the target and bobs beneath surface to explode against under side of ship.

C Masthead bombing without the skip. To prevent bomb from skipping entirely over target it is aimed directly at side. Delayed-action fuse permits plane to pass over target before explosion, and also permits great penetration. Used against lightly armored ships.

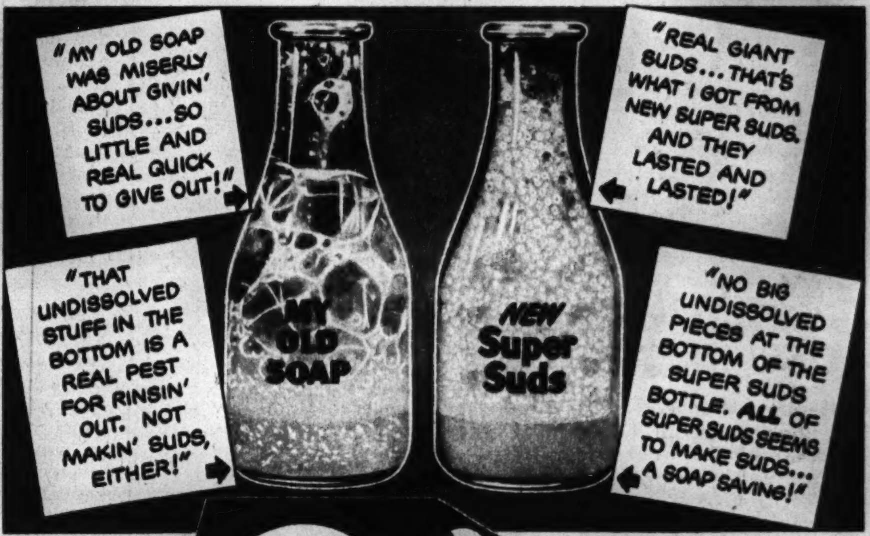
"I don't mind washin' slacks now...with so much MORE SUDS!"

Hard-to-wash things lots easier with new sudsier Super Suds, says Mrs. Gladys Seymour

"I USED to just groan when I had to wash these slacks Lloyd wears workin' around the house. But now that I'm usin' new Super Suds, HEAPS MORE SUDS AND LONGER-LASTIN' SUDS just lift the dirt right out Never dreamed I'd see the day when I'd get through a heavy wash as quick as I do with Super Suds." Yes, Super Suds' LONGER-LASTING SUDS sure do ease up wash-day problems. These HARDER-WORKING SUDS do more, so you do less!

"Table-cloths whiter . . . last longer."
"I'm remarkin' to my daughter, Dolores, that ALL THOSE EXTRA SUDS get table-cloths so white, and without anything strong added! Sure makes 'em wear better!"



Make the "milk-bottle suds test"
Shake up two teaspoons of your old wash-day soap and a glass of water in a milk-bottle. Do the same with Super Suds in another milk-bottle. Even cool or hard water will do. See if you don't get MORE SUDS, LONGER-LASTING SUDS from Super Suds!

DON'T WASTE SOAP!
Vital materials needed to win the war are used in making soaps

1. Don't just pour soap in from the box. Measure it out in a cup so that you don't use too much.
2. Don't wash a few clothes at a time, which means soap for each batch. Save them up and wash everything at once.
3. Don't soak clothes first in soapy water. Modern soaps are made to take out the dirt in the regular washing.
4. Don't wash dishes without first rinsing them. Less soap is needed if they are rinsed first. Wash greasy dishes last.

MOSTLY ABOUT DOGS

By BOB BECKER

ABOUT this time of the year dog owners in dozens of states would like to hear some one issue a last call to the ticks which are such a nuisance to so many pets, to say nothing of the trouble they cause owners. It's important that something be done in the fall about these flat-bodied brown insects which attach themselves to animals and feed on their blood, because if one doesn't get the upper hand of the tick problem some of them may stay around thru the winter months to become a serious menace.

Not a day goes by from spring until fall that we do not receive one or more letters about ticks, which seem to be thriving in many states. Even during the winter inquiries come in from owners who say that they have tried everything to get rid of the pests, but their dogs still have them and apparently will have them all winter. Invariably these owners report that they have tried picking off the ticks by hand, experimented with powders to kill the ticks, and usually failed, and they are baffled on what to do next.

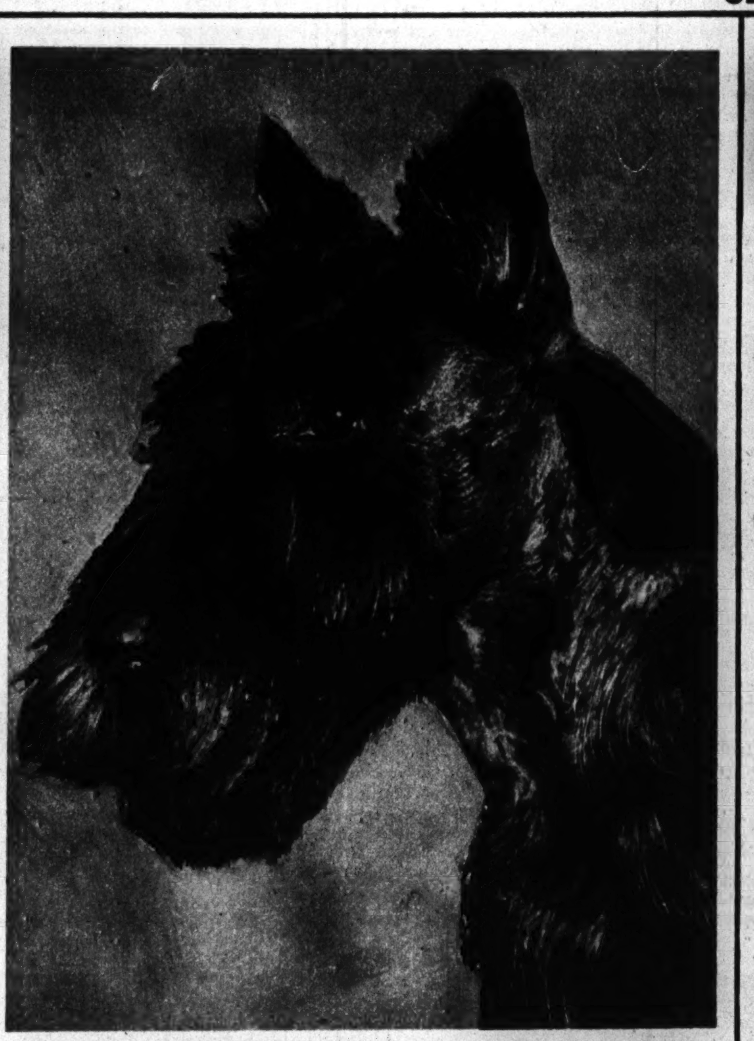
Years ago we used to battle the ticks on our dogs principally by hand picking—in other words, we resorted to the laborious routine of going over the dogs frequently and trying to examine every inch of their bodies to find the ticks. Then we'd use a small pair of sweezers to yank 'em from the dog's skin after making the insect groggy with a drop of mixed alcohol and chloroform. This was hard work, and we didn't care particularly about it. We can recall veterinarians telling us that removing ticks manually was about the best known method, because nothing had been found to kill the insects that wouldn't take the hide off the dog.

Fortunately, this is not true today. There are preparations which will kill ticks and won't hurt the skin of a dog, and if any owner is making a last-ditch autumn fight against ticks he doesn't have to pick ticks by hand from the pet, nor does he have to clip a dog to get at them. The secret is the use of a preparation which makes a tick-killing dip. We've been using such a solution or dip for years, and we never have seen



The Scottish terrier, more intimately and affectionately known among dog fanciers as the Scotty, has been a big favorite with American dog owners for many years. The breed is easy to keep in a small home or apartment, is intelligent, and makes an excellent companion. This specimen, Ch. Kinclaven Tabasco, is a show champion owned by Mrs. Marie A. Stone.

Altho it once was called the Northumberland fox terrier, the Bedlington terrier has been known as such now for more than 100 years. It originally was bred as a working terrier noted for its courage and aggressiveness. This specimen is shown trimmed and chalked for an appearance in a show ring.

one of our dogs get skin trouble from it. It seems to be nontoxic, and in addition it has a pleasant odor. A dog owner can purchase this preparation in most any pet shop or drug store.

We dipped one of our dogs in June and sprayed the kennel with this preparation, which is mixed one tablespoonful to each quart of water. Not until the middle of August, when we were about ready to give this long-coated pet another dip, did he show any signs of ticks. We found just two, a large, engorged female tick on his back and a small male tick on his face. We mixed up a gallon of the insecticide. Then the dog was put into the tub and for about 10 minutes we used a sponge to soak his skin and body thoroly with the dip, which has the odor of sassafras oil. The idea is to keep a dog in the tub for at least five minutes, and preferably ten, and while he's there keep a stream of the tick-killing liquid pouring over his body. Then no towel is used to dry the dog. Just let the liquid dry on his skin. It will kill ticks overnight.

We figure this dog, and probably one of our hunting dogs, will require another dip by Oct. 1. That ought to end the tick problem in our kennel for 1943. If we owned dogs with smooth coats, as, for example, a Boston terrier or smooth fox terrier, we'd examine them carefully every week for ticks and then use either the dip or a spray which kills ticks. On a smooth-coated dog you can find ticks quickly and easily and spray each one.

Here's a diet that doesn't cost a point. Better still it's a wholesome diet that your dogs will thoroughly enjoy. Give them crunchy Milk-Bone Biscuit for breakfast. Follow this up with hearty Milk-Bone Tiny-Bits for their second meal . . . just add warm water, soup, broth, gravy or vegetables plus bits of meat if you wish.

Made of the finest ingredients . . . beef meat meal, milk, whole wheat flour, yeast, fish liver oil . . . Milk-Bone contains five vital vitamins, A, B_1, D, E and G . . . all mighty important in keeping your dogs healthy, happy.

So switch your dogs to the dependable Milk-Bone diet. It's the perfect solution of today's feeding problems! Ask your dealer for Milk-Bone Biscuit and Milk-Bone Tiny-Bits today.

Tomorrow—Light Metals Will Have Their Day!

aluminum has a volume conductivity only 64 per cent that of copper, because of its low specific gravity it has a mass conductivity more than 212 per cent greater. Shipyards, which put more than a million pounds of aluminum into a battleship or aircraft carrier, foresee the day when they can build aluminum destroyers with speeds above 50 knots. Even before the war aluminum was widely used and highly esteemed.

But magnesium, the new metallic Cinderella, still has many of these sales problems to solve. Its development has been so rapid that literature on the subject a year old is often sadly out of date. To get the current facts one must go directly to scientists working in the field.

It was only a little more than a year ago that a process was discovered by which magnesium could be fusion welded. This discovery, which eliminates the use of thousands of rivets in each warplane, was developed jointly by engineers of Northrop Aircraft and the Dow Chemical company and has been made available to the entire aircraft industry.

The welding problem was how to prevent magnesium from bursting into flame under the high temperature necessary. This was accomplished by blanketing the work with a covering of helium, a monatomic inert gas which prevents combustion. A tungsten electrode is used with a direct current electric arc, the current passing between the electrode and the magnesium, while at the same time helium gas pours from the electrode holder. The process is declared to be simpler than ordinary welding.

In its mechanical properties magnesium is much similar to aluminum. It may be obtained commercially in the form of sand, permanent mold, and die castings; cast ingots suitable for casting, rolling, extrusion, or forging; and wrought metal, such as plate, sheet, extruded bar, extruded molding and structural sections, hammer and die forgings. Some alloys respond well to heat treatment. In machinability it exceeds all other metallic materials. Magnesium alloys are superior to aluminum in that they are resistant to attack by alkalis. They also defy many organic chemicals. Exposed to ordinary air, magnesium loses its brightness, but that is all.

Phenomenal lightness and good mechanical properties make magnesium alloys ideal for many engineering purposes. Since weight in equal volume is one-third less than aluminum, and the best wrought magnesium alloys have mechanical properties similar to those of duralumin (an alloy of 94 parts aluminum, 4 copper, 1 manganese, and 1 magnesium), important weight saving may be effected in construction.

Theoretically, on an equal volume basis, the weight saving for magnesium in place of aluminum should be 63 pounds per cubic foot, or 36 per cent, and for magnesium over steel 378 pounds, or about 77 per cent. When allowances for relative strength and elasticity have been made, however, actual savings range from 25 to 68 per cent.

The savings may be expressed in terms of "specific tenacity"—a figure obtained by dividing the tensile strength by specific gravity. Here are figures for a few metals:

Mild steel	3.8
80 ton steel	7.7
Duralumin	9.5
Magnesium alloy	11.5

In structural practice a three inch steel channel may be replaced with a four inch magnesium alloy channel on the basis of equal strength, but it would require a five inch channel on the basis of equal stiffness. A steel assembly of equal rigidity would weigh about 2½ times as much as the magnesium alloy assembly.

The Dow Chemical company, whose scientists bore almost the entire magnesium research load up to 1942, gives this table of relative specific tensile strength and specific yield strength for various metals:

Material	Specific tensile strength	Specific yield strength
Wrought magnesium alloy	24,400	18,900
Duralumin	21,500	12,900
Structural steel	7,600	4,600
Chromium - molybdenum steel	15,900	11,500

The specific strengths are equal to the tensile and yield strengths in pounds per square inch divided by specific gravity.

Magnesium research experts admit, however, that alloys of higher tensile strengths must be developed. Compared with strengths up to 70,000 pounds for aluminum alloys (and 190,000 pounds for a newly developed grade of steel), the best magnesium alloy forged bars test only 48,000 pounds. Sand-cast pure magnesium tests about 14,000 pounds (as against about 19,000 for aluminum), and when alloyed with 6 per cent aluminum it reaches 30,000 pounds. Extruded alloy bars have been rated at 36,000 pounds.

Magnesium has been principally alloyed with aluminum (6 to 11 per cent), zinc (up to 3 per cent), cerium (up to 6 per cent), and manganese (up to 2 per cent). The manganese alloy gives a high degree of corrosion resistance.

Next week—Post-war uses for the light metals.

MAN POWER PROBLEM

By MAUREEN DALY

(Author of "Seventeenth Summer.")

TAKE IT or leave it, the biggest problem of women (size 16 and up) is how to get—and hold—a man. Even tho they are properly fretted by such concerns as who will be the next Mr. President and when we'll get back to Bataan, in the backs of their heads they are constantly thinking of ways to contact some tall, dark, and handy who would be nice to have and to hold.

Boiled down to high school size, the problem is still essentially the same, and come date night, thin or fat, a man's a man for all that! It's no fun to stand aside and just watch, and no young girl can learn to sing "Home, Sweet Home" seven nights a week in the right key! Every doll wants to date and be datable. She may not want to meet her final dream man for a few years to come—she doesn't have a hearth and slippers complex—but she does want a fellow who would be fun to go out with, who likes to dance, likes to talk, and, most important, who likes her more than somewhat. Not just any Joe Blow with the fine line, but some one to pass the time pleasantly and profitably till the right thing comes along.

The ideal boy is nice to think about, but how long can a girl go on dreaming? Time now to get started, to get in the groundwork, the walking-around work. Here are a few opinions gleaned from some Solid Sals who have some tips to keep your telephone constantly on the jingle, your dating schedule blacked out for the duration, and your diary filled with something really worth writing about.

First off, number one on the hep parade—don't worry. Don't let this "he likes me, he likes me not" business get you down. Fellows—like dogs—can sense when they have you scared. So don't let the boys' universal habit of shooting the Ferdinand and the "what a big boy am I!" talk frighten you off. You shouldn't let it worry your pretty head—just remember that you have a pretty head, and a pretty face, too. In fact, generally speaking you're a pretty cute kid! So what have you to worry about?

Second, be smart. Take those two words quite literally. A fellow may like his girl solid—but not between the ears. With the first look at your lovely face he's attracted. With the second look he's interested. With the third look he's curious—curious to know what's behind all the loveliness. Boys like their girls to be fun to talk with—a word to the guys is sufficient, as the old saying goes—but that word and all the rest have to be right on the ball!

Third, be smooth. Be smooth by making the most of what you have. Give yourself the works. Cut out some of the "sugar and spice and too many things nice" for the sake of your figure. Include a stiff hair brush, plenty of hot soap and water, and nine hours of sleep every night in the week, including Saturdays, for the sake of your health. Your whole personality can be determined by the way you feel when you wake up in the morning. If you're a narrow sparrow, thin and nervous, a doctor will be glad to recommend a diet to build you up; and if you are healthy but a little too ship-shaped an intelligent diet can help you to slow down on those curves.

Fourth, be patient. Don't stake a claim on every boy you meet and say, "This is it, kids!" Fellows will be scared off if they think you are too eager to date. When you meet a new group of boys at school, at a party, or thru friends, be friendly, but never put on the rush act. There are plenty of boys to go around, and you'll get yours if you wait your turn. But it's always nicer to have him come looking for you.

If you have any time on your hands, utilize it to stock up on smartness and smoothness. That's important, for a lot depends on how you stack the cards right now whether you will spend your life playing solitaire or dealing it double for honeymoon bridge!

Know Your Camera

By ANDREW B. HECHT, Ph. D.

Shooting buildings from a low angle gives a distorted perspective. Frequently this leads to interesting pictorial effects. Wherever it is undesirable the perspective can be corrected by tilting the paper easel when making an enlargement.

BUILDINGS are fine photographic subjects. They offer opportunities for pictures that are just as striking as those showing landscapes and other types of subject matter. They make excellent material for practice, because they are far more patient than living models and you can count on finding them just the same if you want to come back another day and try a new approach.

The most common error in amateur architectural shots is distortion. The beginner often tilts the front of his camera upward to get the whole building on his film, and this makes it seem to lean over backward.

The vertical lines of the building should appear straight up and down, parallel to the sides of the paper. If they don't the camera has been tilted. Sometimes this can be avoided by moving back farther and leaving a wide foreground, to be cropped off later on in making your prints. Again, it may be possible to find a vantage point that is high enough so the camera need not be tilted. For example, it is easy to get a distortionless picture of a three story building from a second story window across the street.

Even when a picture can't be taken without distortion, it is still possible to correct this fault. The trick is to tilt your easel when you make the enlargement. Raise the side of the easel on which the bottom of the building appears — the side toward you when you see the projected image upright. When you have found the right height to make the vertical lines parallel to the margins, use a book or two to hold it in place.

You will have to use a small diaphragm opening to make the image sharp all over. Focus on the middle of the building with lens wide open and then stop down until top and bottom are sharp.

The time of day, and even the season of the year, should be kept in mind when you plan an architectural shot. Which way does the building face? Is the foliage around it important? These are some of the questions to consider.

Choose a time of day when the building is well lighted.

Churches and other public buildings are excellent picture subjects for the amateur. They not only give attractive pictures but in case of a photographic misadventure you can always go back and retake the picture. Such repetition is the best method for improving your technique.

Early morning and late afternoon are generally best, for long shadows bring out the form of a building, just as they produce good modeling in a portrait. If landscaping is important a summer shot may be best. You may have to wait for winter to get a good picture of a building that is surrounded by trees.

Don't set your camera right in front of the middle of the building you want to photograph. A shot taken from a side angle is almost always better. Include the front and a part of one side at least to give your picture more depth.

Foreground material can be used to advantage in architectural pictures. A figure or two in the foreground will give your pictures depth and serve as an index to size. If the right "props" are at hand you can get fine effects by using tree branches or a window or archway to provide a foreground frame for your picture. For shots like this use a small aperture, so that both foreground and main subject will be satisfactorily sharp. Sometimes part of one building can be used to advantage in the foreground of a picture showing another. This is particularly true of photos taken on a college campus, where buildings of similar architecture often are found close together.

You can use filters to good advantage in photographing buildings. They will enable you to darken skies for contrast, making clouds stand out. If deep shadows are needed an orange or red filter will produce them. When you want to make a building seem lighter in color, select a filter of the same color as the building. This will make it stand out.

Architectural scenes need not show whole buildings. Sometimes one small architectural detail is of sufficient interest to warrant making a closeup of it. A beautiful doorway, a pair of wrought iron gates, a row of stone columns — these are some of the details which have made fine pictures in themselves.

Don't pass up any chances to try your hand at architectural photography. It is an interesting branch in itself and one that is especially handy for experimenting. The things that you learn in taking pictures of buildings can be put to use in other types of picture taking as well.

JOHN PAUL JONES

find in the navy a man who would consent to serve under his command."

Thus Jones in leaving Russia found himself in the dubious position of a man accused but not tried. He was the victim of a sort of nolle prosequi, which gave him freedom but left the damaging lie only half answered. If there had been a trial, even an unfair trial, he would have enjoyed at least the right to present his evidence in the open, where honest minds could weigh it. As it was he could do no more than leave Russia, hoping that some day—either in his lifetime or later—the stigma would be erased.

His friend Segur still tried to help, but the best he could do was to publish in court journals thruout Europe his signed statement that the stories circulated against Jones had been fully investigated and found to be "entirely destitute of foundation."

This Segur did. But the effect of the publication was not great. Those who wished to believe the scandal still believed it. And those who knew in their hearts that Jones was not the kind of man he had been pictured as being had no need for such a documentation of what they knew.

In the huge Dictionary of American Biography, edited by Dumas Malone and published by Scribner, a single paragraph is given to the final phase of Jones' life.

"No longer a popular hero," it says, "Jones, a bachelor, spent the last two years of his life in Paris, in comfortable lodgings, with a few faithful friends. His health, long impaired, now slowly declined. His disappointment over his Russian experiences aggravated his bodily afflictions."

He was only 45 years old on his dying day.

"From the age of 12 to that of 26," says Buell, "he lived aboard ship altogether, and was actually under way two-thirds of the time in blue water. The word 'home' had no meaning for him."

Buell also tells us this of Jones:

"He had hardly any childhood, and no period of youth at all. In all his study he had no teacher; and with all his learning—of languages, of history, of philosophy, or of the lore of his own profession itself—he never had a preceptor. Everything that he was, or that he did, or that he knew, was the fruit of self-incentive and self-help to a degree that was, and still is, unexampled in the histories of great men. . . . Paul Jones owed as little to opportunity in the normal sense and was as little beholden to the adventitious in circumstance as any successful man that ever lived."

Jones never married. His character and achievements, plus the social graces he acquired, made him a fascinating figure to many women in America and in France, but if any woman ever became a truly dominant power in his life there is no clear record of it. The nearest approach to such a record is in a letter he wrote in 1778 to the countess of Selkirk. It was written on shipboard between battles in the War of the Revolution.

"Before this war was begun," he wrote, "I had at an early time in life withdrawn from sea service in favor of calm contemplation and poetic ease. I have sacrificed not only my favorite scheme of life but the softer affections of the heart and my dream of domestic happiness."

In an earlier article on Jones we have told how his body lay for more than a century in a forgotten grave under the muck of Paris and how it was brought home at last to rest in belated honor at Annapolis. There, perhaps, a poet's mind—if no other—may have the courage to believe that a kind of happiness, or at least contentment, has come to the founder of the American navy.

There, in any event, his fellow countrymen have at last paid proper homage to him under the title he called "glorious"—a citizen of the United States.

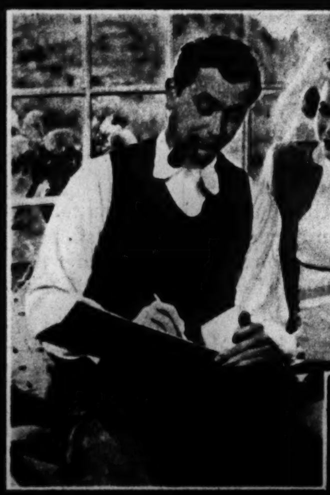
THE GRAPHIC LITTLE THEATER

Presents Dorothy McGuire in "CLAUDIA"



1 Ideally in love, Claudia (Dorothy McGuire) and David Norton (Robert Young) live happily with her mother, Mrs. Brown (Ina Claire). Claudia is very, very young and immature, and to spare her her mother keeps secret a trip to New York for diagnosis of her encroaching illness.

2 In her slightly harebrained way Claudia nearly sells the farm to a very excitable Russian singer, Daruschka (Olga Baclanova), whom David's sister Julia (Jean Howard) brought to visit.

3 At left: Close upon Julia's visit comes a crisis in the form of a play-writing neighbor (Reginald Gardiner). In a festive mood, Claudia kisses him as David appears, hoping to make her husband jealous.

4 But David knows Claudia too well and is not worried. He IS surprised, tho, when she announces they are to have a baby. He wonders if now he'll have to be father to TWO persons.

5 Claudia's habit of listening in on the party line, however, brings to her a shock that launches her into maturity. She hears her mother tell David that she has but a short time to live.

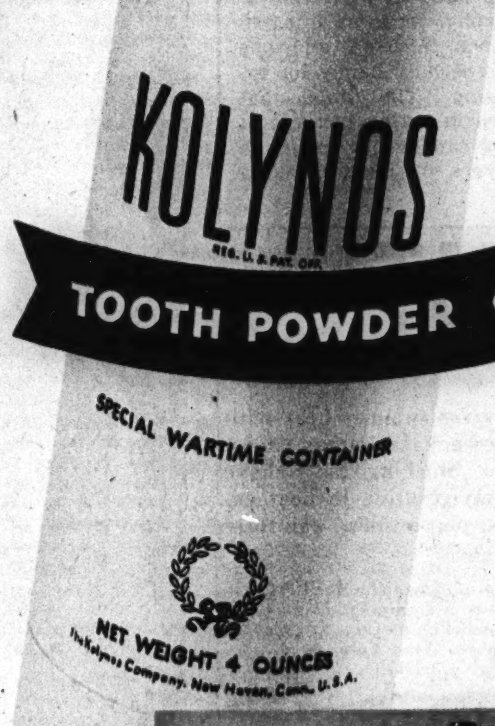
6 But so beautiful is her mother's attitude that Claudia's first fear of facing life without her goes away. In its place comes a protective feeling toward her dying mother and her own baby. David at last knows the child he loved and married has grown up into the woman he hoped she would be. (THE END)

Now I've got a Happy Pappy with a Gleam Beam!

"Hi Ya, Sis . . . what did I miss?" That's Father—of all people—talking jive! What makes? It's just that Pappy has discovered my Kolynos Tooth Powder! "You've been holding out on me," he accuses. "Boy, oh boy! What foam—what pep—what flavor!"

"It's not double-talk," I tell him, "but Kolynos has double foam and double polishing action. Those bubbles help clean even in between your ivories. Those two super-fine polishing agents put a sparkle in your smile! Yes, Kolynos is something right out of this world!"

"What a way to start the day!" Pop gives back. "That fresh, delicious flavor really sends me! It chases the gloom clean out of my mouth . . . leaves a bright new taste! You like it . . . I like it . . . everybody likes it! They're swinging to Kolynos Tooth Powder!"



In some parts of the country, you may get Kolynos Tooth Powder in a glass container. This is due to wartime shortages of packaging materials. But be assured—you get the same quantity and quality as in other containers.

DISTINGUISHED AMERICANS

● This is another in a series of biographical sketches of America's historical celebrities appearing every week in the Graphic Section. The illustrations are taken from a famous work, "The National Portrait Gallery of Distinguished Americans," published in 1865.

THOMAS MIFFLIN, merchant, soldier, and politician, was born in Philadelphia, Jan. 10, 1744. He attended a Quaker school and the College of Philadelphia (now the University of Pennsylvania), being graduated from the last-named institution at the age of 16.

For about four years thereafter he was employed in a Philadelphia counting house in preparation for a commercial career. In 1764 he went to England, where he remained about a year before returning to Philadelphia to form a mercantile partnership with his brother George.

Altho this business was a success, Mifflin soon was influenced by his powers as a public speaker to enter politics. For four successive years, beginning in 1772, he was elected to the provincial assembly. As a stanch champion of colonial rights he was elected to the first continental congress and helped as a member of this body to frame the articles of the association of 1774. Elected to the second continental congress, he soon displayed, after the battles of Lexington and Concord, a preference for the more active duties of recruiting and training troops.

In May, 1775, he was appointed a major, and the following month he was selected as aide-de-camp to General Washington. Two months later he was made quartermaster general of the continental army, a post which he held except for a brief period until March, 1778.

The duties of quartermaster general were not dangerous enough to suit him, and whenever possible he was active in the field. As a brigadier general in May, 1776, he commanded the covering party in the withdrawal of the American army from Long Island. Late in that year he was sent by Washington to Philadelphia to raise troops and supplies for the army. The next year his oratory was employed on a number of occasions to keep men in the army whose terms of enlistment had expired. Present at the battles of Trenton and Princeton, he was elevated to major general in February, 1777.

Irked by criticism and congressional interference, he returned to his home in the summer of 1777, and in the autumn he submitted his resignation both as quartermaster general and major general. A new quartermaster general eventually was appointed to succeed him, but he retained his rank as major general, acting without pay.

Involved in the cabal to advance Gen. Horatio Gates over Washington, Mifflin was named to the board of war, but on the exposure of the plot against Washington he disavowed all connection with it. In April, 1778, he resigned from the board of war and returned to the army, and thereafter took but little part in the war.

His record as quartermaster general still was under fire, and altho he asked for an official investigation to clear his name, and Washington was directed to order such an inquiry if evidence warranted it, no formal action was taken. In February, 1779, congress finally accepted his resignation as major general.

From 1782 to 1784 Mifflin served again in congress. As president of this body it was he who accepted Washington's resignation as commander in chief of the army on Dec. 23, 1783.

A member of the constitutional convention in 1787, he took little part in the debate, but was in complete sympathy with the historic document finally produced by the convention.

Elected to the supreme council of Pennsylvania in 1788 and serving as its president until 1790, he was proposed for governor in the last-named year and elected by an overwhelming majority. He served in this office three terms, the last of which was marked by carelessness in his administration of the office. After retiring as governor he returned to the state legislature, where he served until his death on Jan. 20, 1800. As he had died penniless, the state of Pennsylvania paid for the expense of his burial at Lancaster, Pa.

And—if You Decide You Want Them— 24 More Books—Almost as a Gift!

IT IS amazing, isn't it? This world-famous 512-page encyclopedia volume is an OUTRIGHT GIFT to you—because all you pay is the actual cost of mailing it to you! Why do we make such an offer? Because we want every family in America to SEE and READ the magnificent Funk & Wagnalls encyclopedia—to convince them it is one of the world's greatest encyclopedias, one of the finest ever written or sold at ANY price!

Compare your free Volume One with a similar volume of sets selling at even $100.00 or more. First CONVINCE YOURSELF. Then seize this almost incredible opportunity—which entitles you to receive, if you wish, the rest of the big, 25-volume set at a price so incredibly low as to be ALMOST A GIFT!

LATEST 1943 ILLUSTRATED EDITION

Teachers, critics, scholars everywhere have long recognized the unique quality of the Funk & Wagnalls New Standard Encyclopedia. Originally prepared and edited by the distinguished Editor-in-Chief Frank H. Vizetelly, editor of the top-ranking unabridged Funk & Wagnalls New Standard Dictionary, known to millions of Americans for his authorship of many important books—aided by a staff of encyclopedists, experts, and authorities in every field—this tremendous encyclopedia covers over SIXTY THOUSAND SUBJECTS of the world's knowledge down to the present day.

COMPARE THIS ALMOST INCREDIBLE COVERAGE WITH THAT OF ANY ENCYCLOPEDIA IN THE WORLD. You will find it is equal to, or surpasses those for which you are asked to pay a small fortune.

YOU NEED A FINE ENCYCLOPEDIA

Then read the volume which is our gift to you, and see how crisp and compact is the treatment of every topic, how clear and understandable is every article, how fascinating the style of writing. Even your children at school, of every age, can use this superb encyclopedia—can discover in it the help they need in their education—can find absorbing interest in its 2,000 drawings, pictures and diagrams—can find entertainment in so many subjects that learning becomes easy.

Whatever you need to know, whether in the field of Geography, History, Science, Religion, the Arts, Industry, Finance, Biography, Invention—or any of thousands of other special subjects—you will find it in this encyclopedia. These wonderful volumes will be not only your unfailing guide to the knowledge of the world, but also a source of mental growth and inspiration almost unequalled in the world of books.

24 MORE VOLUMES—ALMOST A GIFT

All these things you will see for yourself as you read the first volume of the huge 25-volume set—sent to you for only the cost of mailing the book to you. And of course, this volume belongs to you whether or not you wish to own the rest of the set.

You will examine the binding—note the excellent quality of cloth, paper, printing, illustrations. You will discover that each full library-size volume, 1 ½ inches thick, contains over 512 double-columned pages—EQUAL TO FIVE ORDINARY BOOKS—WITH OVER A QUARTER OF A MILLION WORDS!

You may feel then that you would like to own the complete set. And if you do, you may have the other volumes at an almost unbelievably low price—a price so small that this offer becomes a true opportunity of a lifetime for every reader!

SPECIAL DELUXE EDITION IF YOU DESIRE

For those who desire especial richness of binding for their home library, we have prepared a SPECIAL DELUXE EDITION of rare dignity and beauty, in addition to the REGULAR EDITION described above.

The format and title panels of these deluxe sets have been designed by a recognized artist in the book field—with endpapers executed in three colors by one of the world's greatest masters of wood-cut technique—Hans Alexander Mueller—with tipped-in frontispieces of United States Presidents reproducing original woodcuts by the same renowned artist—all created especially for this gorgeous edition.

These unique volumes are bound in an expensive leather-grained material, with page tops tinted in a harmonious shade, and with covers stamped and embossed in contrasting colors, lavishly gilded. The effect is one of remarkable richness and dignity.

YOU MAY HAVE YOUR GIFT VOLUME IN EITHER REGULAR OR DELUXE EDITION, JUST AS YOU DESIRE.

MARGUERITE CHAPMAN first came into the public eye modeling fashions, wherein she was so successful that she attracted the attention of Howard Hughes, who gave her her first role in Hollywood. She has just completed three starring assignments in "Destroyer," "Appointment in Berlin," and "My Kingdom for a Cook." Marguerite was born at Chatham, N. Y., and attended school there and at White Plains, N. Y.

Feet burning with Wartime's Extra Walking?

HERE'S COOLING RELIEF!

● YES—you can often ease the torment of hot, tired feet.

Just apply a little Absorbine Jr., especially around the ankles and soles where the big blood vessels are located. You get relief in two ways!

First, Absorbine Jr. c-o-o-l-s! Second, it steps up your circulation through many of the affected foot muscles, tendons and ligaments. Fatigue acids, often the cause of painful swelling, are carried away.

In these days of extra walking, always keep Absorbine Jr. handy—it brings such grand relief and quickly, too! At all drugstores, $1.25 a bottle. W. F. Young, Inc., Springfield, Mass.

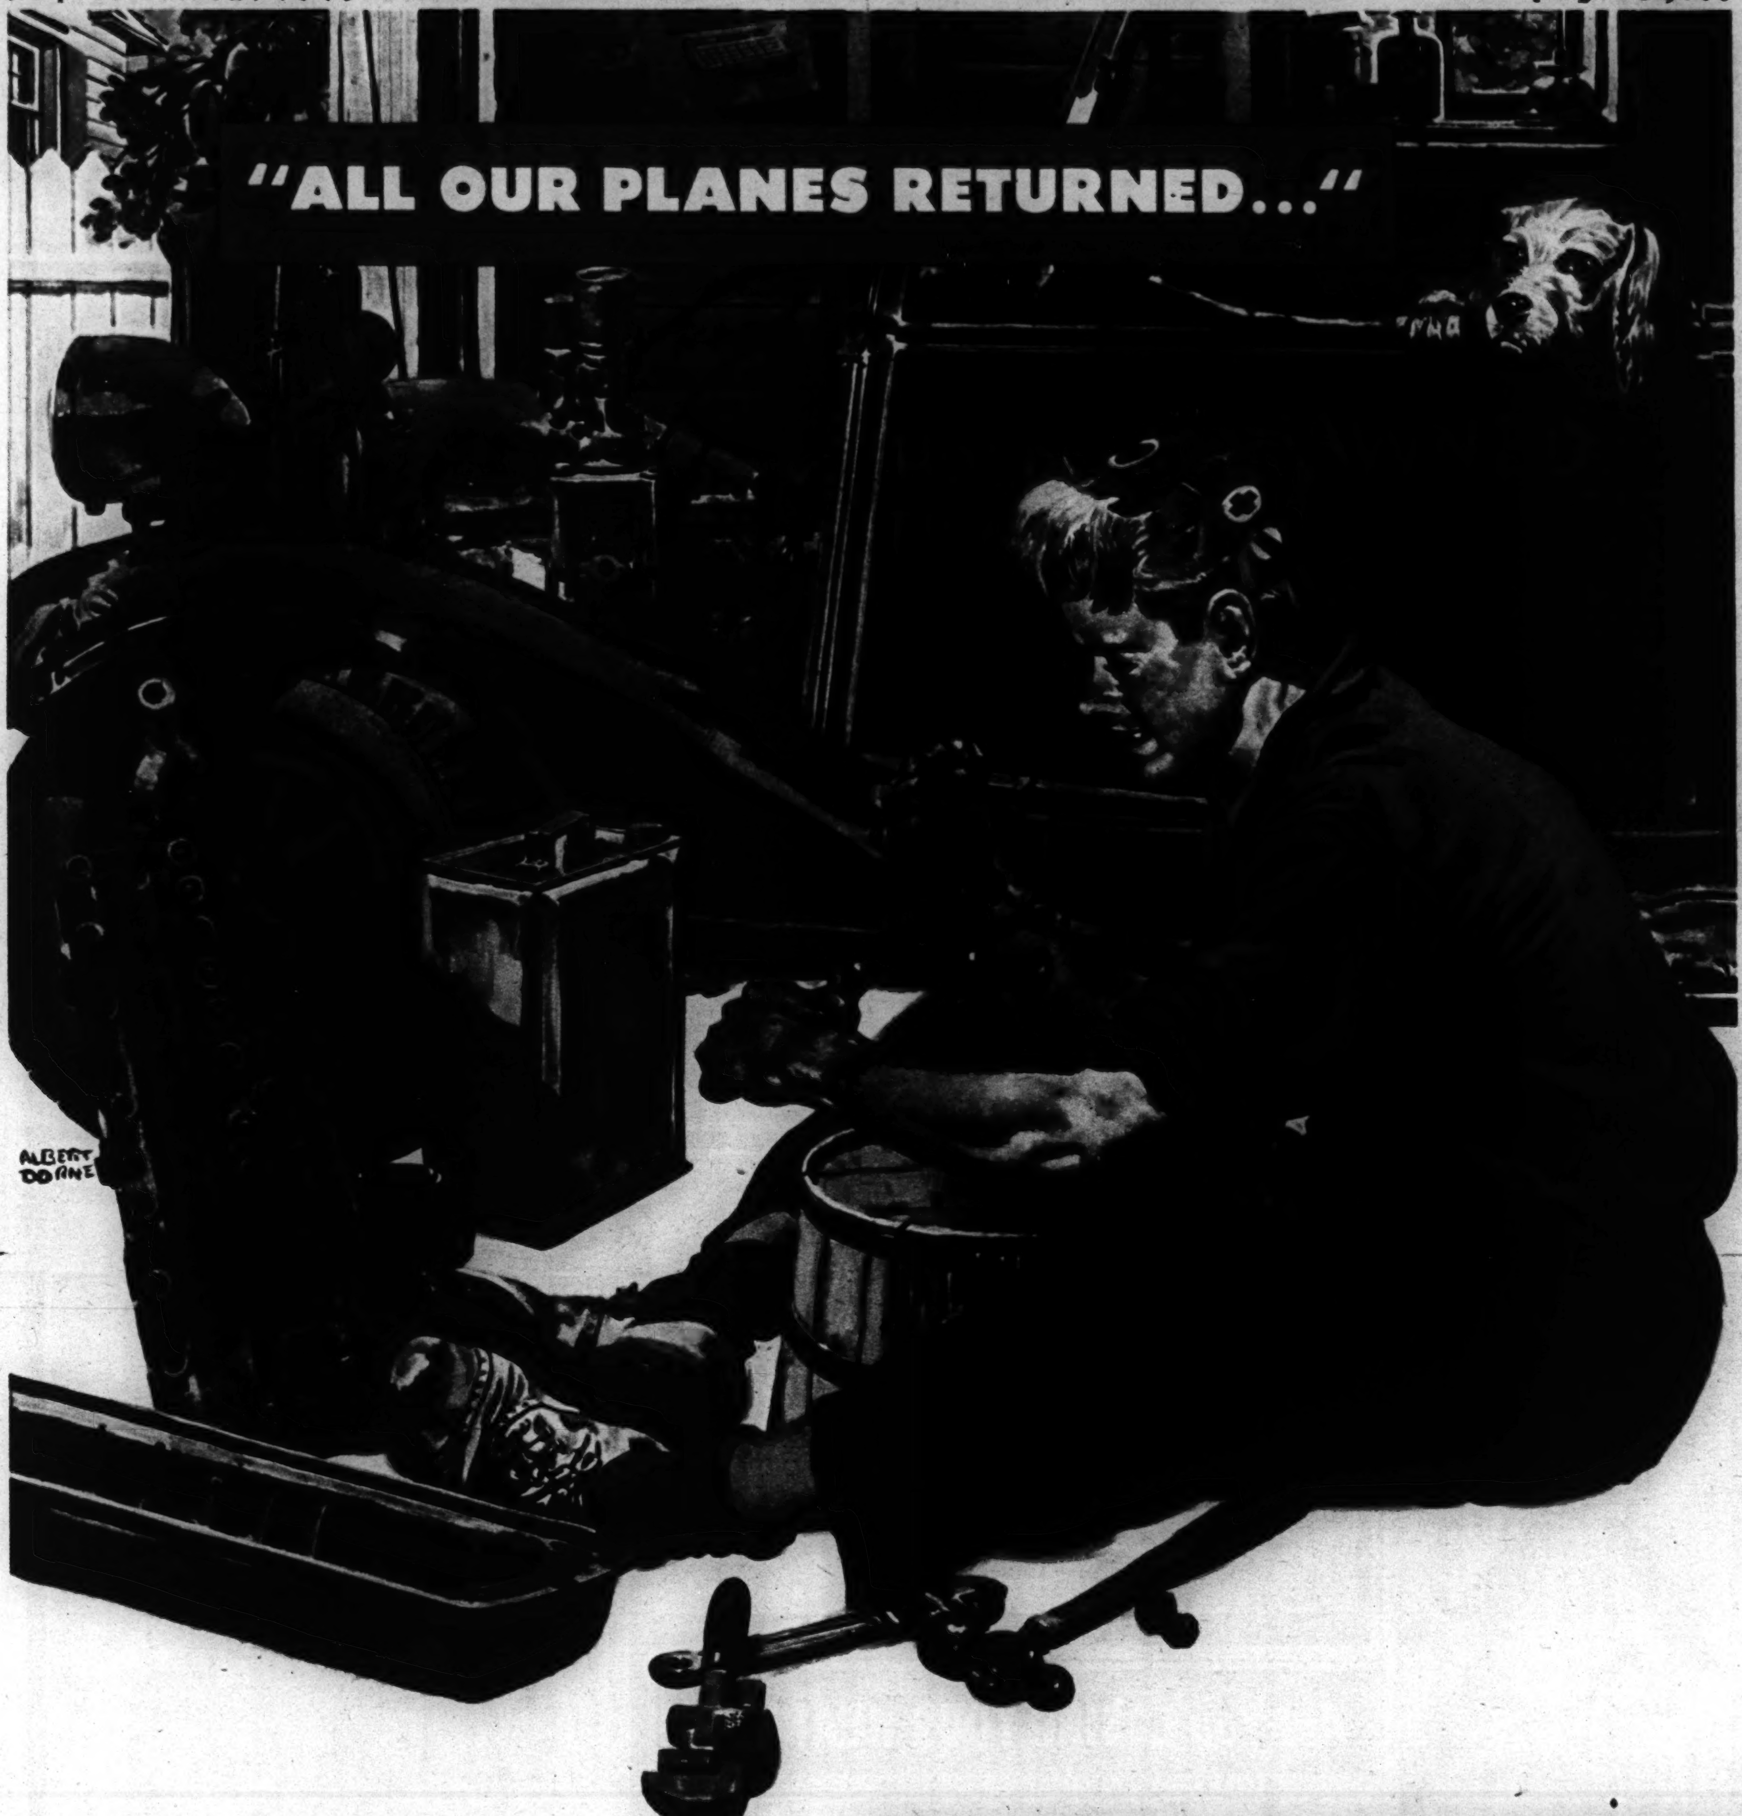
"ALL OUR PLANES RETURNED..."



With the world's best planes . . . with the world's best trained pilots to fly them . . . there's still one thing more you need to get that tensely awaited sign-off — "all our planes returned" — at the end of the Air Force communiques.

It is that which exists in the minds and the fingers of American boys who grew up tinkering and puttering — making things that run and work, out of bits of wire and healthy sweat and good American ingenuity.

No more magnificent job has been done in this war than is done by the unsung, sweating, ground crews. What they learned tinkering in thousands of American back yards is saving lives and winning battles every day in Freedom's new front yards all over the world.

And our taxes promptly paid . . . our purchase of Bonds and still more Bonds . . . is part of the support that they must have.

"Betcha Dad worked on those engines!"

They're talking about a Flying Fortress powered by Studebaker-built Wright Cyclone engines

JUST a little while back, expert machinist John H. Williams and his two sons, Evard and John, were working together at Studebaker.

Today, they're still working together in spirit—but many miles apart.

The father is building Wright Cyclone engines for the mighty Boeing Flying Fortress in the Studebaker factory. The boys have hung up their working clothes to put on the fighting uniforms of Uncle Sam.

There are many families such as the Williams family whose names shine brightly these war days on the Studebaker roster—families that are steadfastly maintaining the great Studebaker father-and-son tradition at home or far away.

And when the fighting job is done, that tradition will be exemplified again in outstanding Studebaker motor cars and motor trucks for civilian use. The solid principles that underlie Studebaker craftsmanship will, as always, remain unchanged.

WARTIME HOUSEWIVES!

Do you know how to make the most of Mayonnaise?

7 out of 10 mayonnaise-users use it in a variety of ways to add food value and flavor to wartime menus. Do you know these ways to use Hellmann's Real Mayonnaise?

Q. Why is Hellmann's Real Mayonnaise a popular spread for bread?

A. Because it's so easy to spread—so economical! Delicious and nutritious, too! Supplies almost exactly as much food-energy, spoonful for spoonful, as vitaminized margarine, or butter. As a spread for bread—and in sandwich fillings, it adds zest and food value to "Victory Lunches."

Q. How can you give new life to leftovers?

A. Make a "Save-It" Salad—with Real Mayonnaise. Just use up small quantities of cold meat, fish, poultry, or eggs that are left over in the refrigerator. Cut them up and toss them together with cold cooked vegetables. Crown with nutritious, golden-rich Real Mayonnaise. This makes a hearty and flavorful main dish . . . good for you and good for your budget.

A. Mayonnaise Mock Hollandaise . . . Just melt two tablespoons Nucoa in top of double boiler. Add ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, and stir until smooth. Add 1 cup of milk gradually, stirring constantly, and cook until thickened. Add ¼ cup Hellmann's Real Mayonnaise and stir until smooth. Easy to make and delicious.

Q. How can you make a little Real Mayonnaise go a long, long way?

A. Add milk or fruit juice to Hellmann's Real Mayonnaise. Real Mayonnaise is all mayonnaise! It's creamy-rich—doesn't get watery. You can make Real Mayonnaise go farther by "extending" it in these thrifty ways . . . and still enjoy its rich, firm consistency. Try it on vitamin-rich "Victory-Garden Salads" these summer days.

FREE! "22 WAYS TO MAKE IT WITH MAYONNAISE!" A timely booklet of tested recipes for wartime menus . . . including hot sauces, vegetable dishes, casserole cookery, "lifts for leftovers," meat stretchers, lunch-box suggestions. Send stamped self-addressed envelope to The Best Foods, Inc., 88 Lexington Ave., New York 16, Dept. 124, for this free booklet!

SAVE MAYONNAISE JARS FOR CANNING! . . . You can use Hellmann's Real Mayonnaise jars for canning, with our patented preserving seal which fits into the lid. These seals are only a penny apiece. To learn how to get them, send stamped addressed envelope to Box 6170-A, Chicago, Illinois.

Real Mayonnaise provides real nutrition

Wholesome ingredients make Hellmann's Real Mayonnaise full of flavor and food value. Made of eggs, added egg yolks, "Fresh-Press" Salad Oil, vinegar, and seasonings, it provides almost exactly the same food-energy as vitaminized margarine, or butter.

No waste! Hellmann's Real Mayonnaise is all rich, pure mayonnaise. Doesn't get thin and watery when you add milk or fruit juices. And its rich, creamy consistency means there's no waste. Real Mayonnaise stays on the food you eat, not on the plate you wash!

Cover Girl tells—

"How I really do Stop Underarm Perspiration and Odor (and save up to 50%)"

"My job calls for glamour!" says lovely FRANCES DONELON

"I've been 'Cover Girl' many times on big national magazines. But first, I had to learn how to stay 'picture-lovely' under wilting photographer's lights," says intriguing Frances Donelon.

"I had to find a deodorant that really kept my underarms dry. And didn't ruin the expensive clothes I model in. I found it in Odorono Cream!

"Here's the reason . . . it contains a really effective perspiration stopper that simply closes the tiny underarm sweat glands and keeps them closed up to 3 days!

"It's safe, too—even after shaving and with lovely, delicate fabrics. I just follow directions. I like to use it every day.

"And you actually get up to 21 more applications for 39¢ than other leading deodorants give.

"I wish every girl who is concerned about her personal daintiness would try this wonderful Cover-Girl formula for glamour—Odorono Cream."

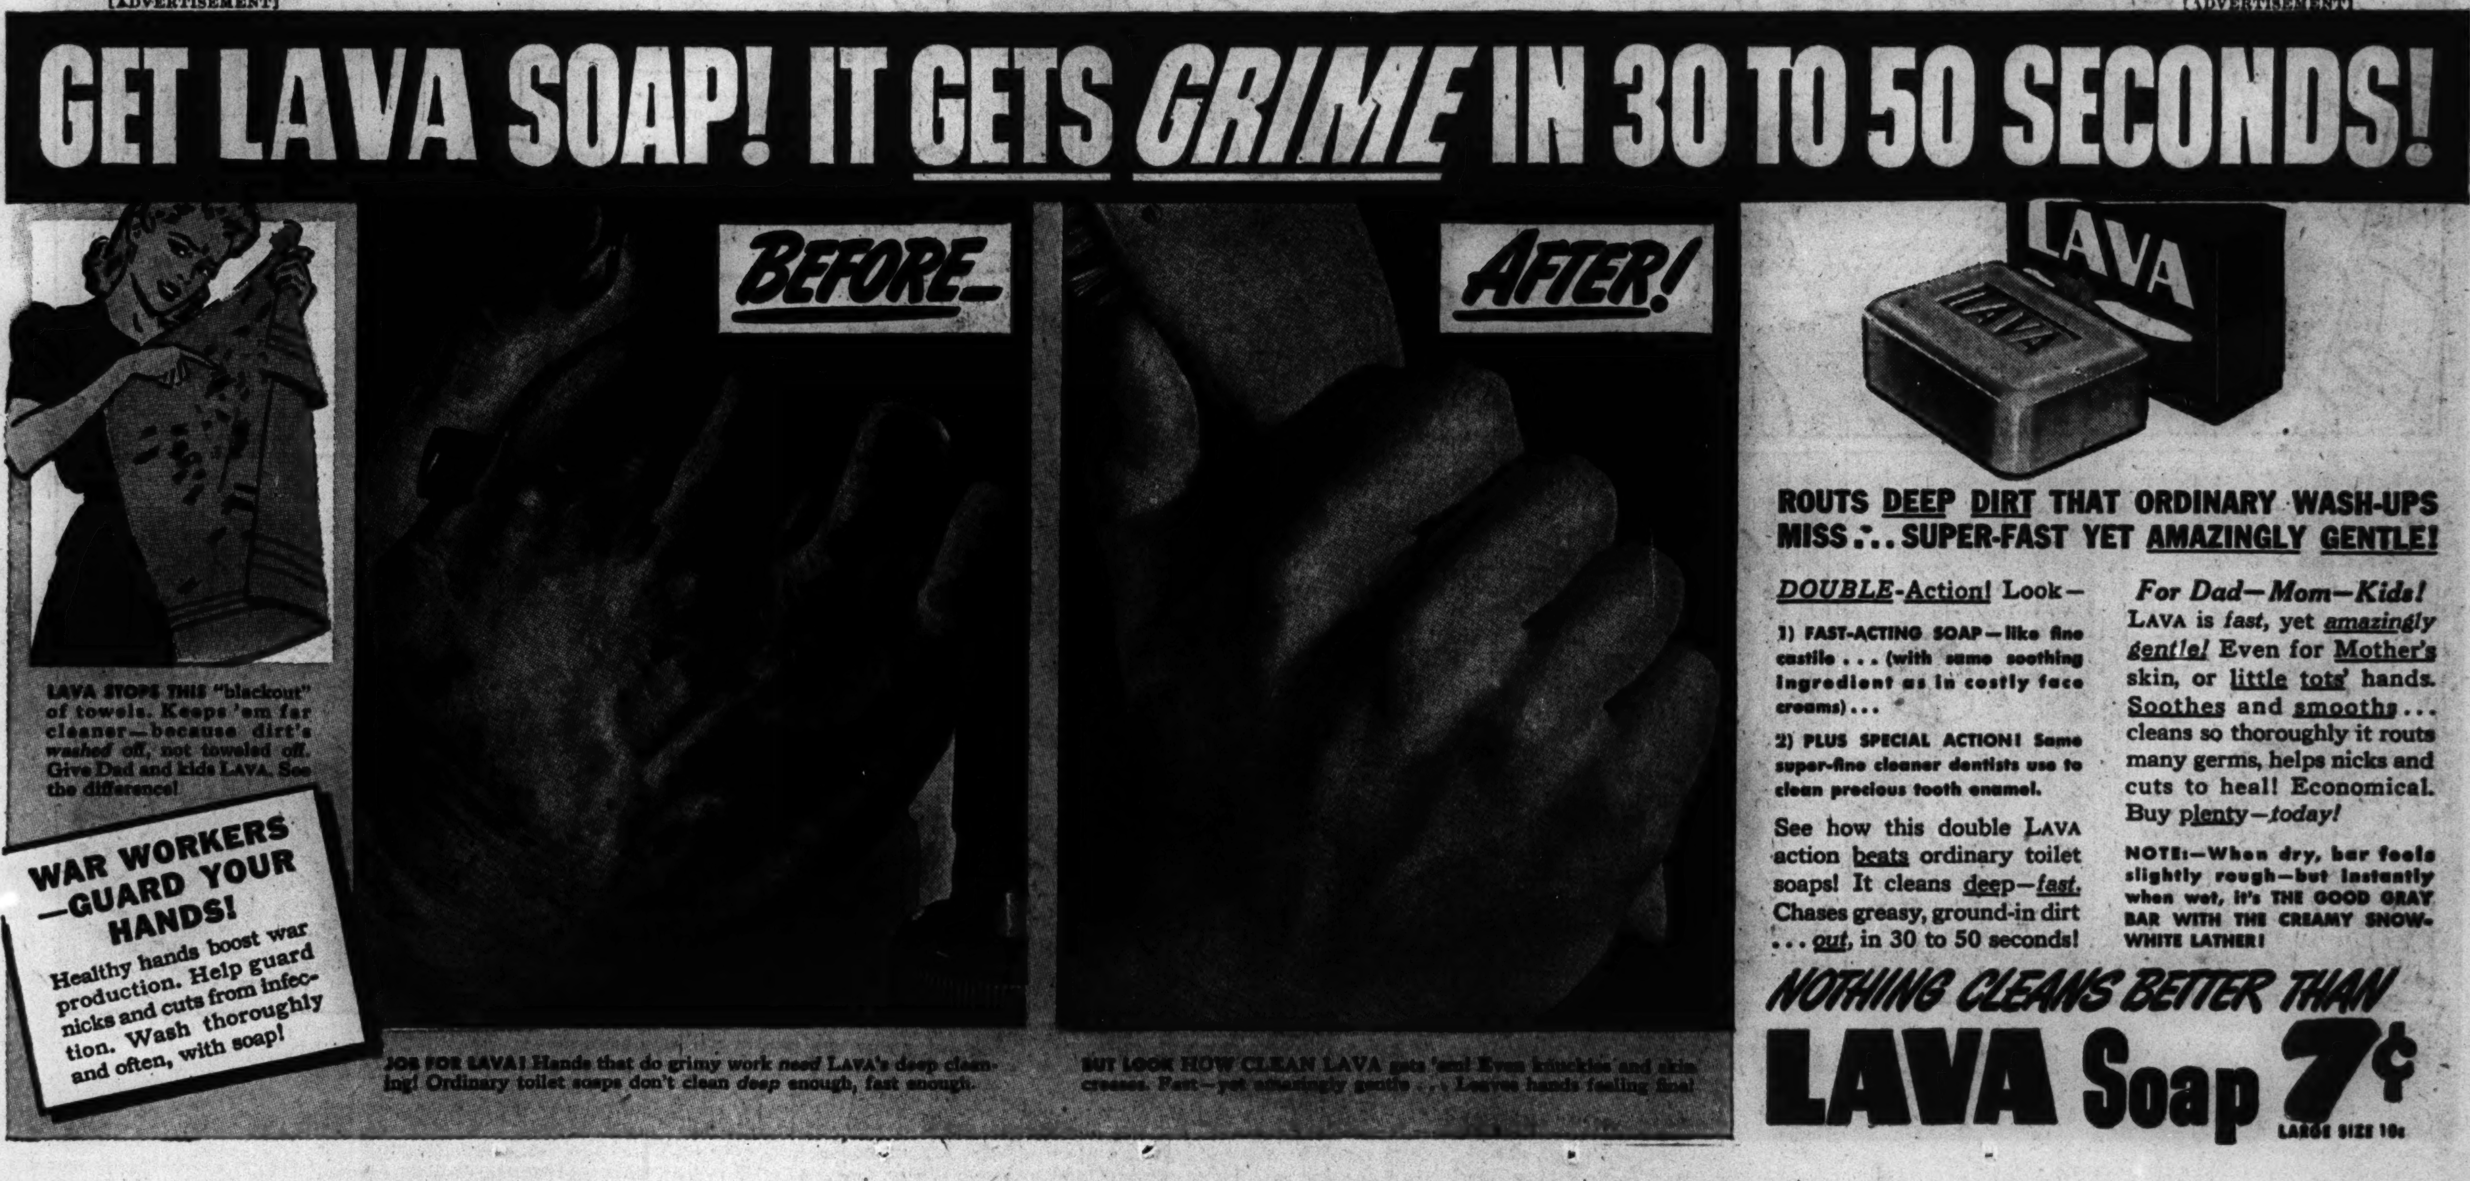
[ADVERTISEMENT] [ADVERTISEMENT]



BIRD HELP

EVERY morning while the Teenie Weenies are gathered around the Teenie Weenie breakfast table the General tells the little people what work will have to be done during the day. The Teenie Weenies usually volunteer for any work but occasionally some task had to be done which was not popular and then the General chose the men to do it.

The General had mentioned for several days that it was time to bail out the swimming pool and put it in condition for the winter but no one offered to do this job and then one morning the General told Gogo, the Dunce and the Chinaman to do the work.

"Ah, shucks!" growled the Dunce, "Can't we leave it until next week?"

"No!" answered the General, "That pool must be empty by tonight or you don't eat any supper. At this time of the year it might suddenly turn cold and freeze and that might crack the dish and then you'd have no more swimming pool."

The Teenie Weenie swimming pool was really nothing but an old sauce dish. The Teenie Weenies had found it and they had moved it to a spot near the rosebush where it was used by the little people as a swimming pool. The Old Soldier with the wooden leg and the Turk had built a set of steps running up to the top edge of the dish where a diving platform extended out over the water. The dish was about the size that big people use to eat breakfast food from but it was plenty large enough to make a fine swimming pool and the Teenie Weenies spent a great deal of their time in it during the summer.

"Jinks!" exclaimed the Dunce as the three Teenie Weenies set to work with buckets made from acorns to bail out the water.

"I wish some thirsty dog would come along and drink up the water. The birds and animals are all the time drinking up the water when it's hot but now when you'd like to have 'em drink it up they won't come around."

Bailing out the pool was very slow work, for the acorn buckets had to be dropped from the diving platform, filled with water and then pulled up with the string which had been fastened to the handle. The Dunce and the Chinaman pulled up the buckets while Gogo emptied them over the side of the dish. The little men had been working only a short time when a red-eyed vireo flew down and perched on the edge of the pool.

"Say!" shouted the Dunce. "Why don't some of you birds who are always coming around here in summer drinking up our pool do a little drinking now?"

"I'm not thirsty," said the bird, "but I'll help you empty that dish in a jiffy if you really want to do some work."

"Sure, we'd like some help," said the Dunce.

"Well, one of you will have to get down into the water to fill your buckets and I'll bill them up to the fellow on the platform to empty," said the bird. "We can get along faster with the work than the way you are doing now."

The Dunce and the Chinaman hurried away for their bathing suits. In a few minutes they returned and the Dunce hopped into the water, which came up to his waist, and began bailing up the water. The bird took the buckets in its beak and handed them to Gogo as fast as he could empty them. The Chinaman stood on the little ladder which runs down from the diving platform into the pool and handed the empty buckets back to the Dunce. This very efficient work soon emptied the pool and the three Teenie Weenies were very grateful for the bird's help.

"Thanks," said the Dunce when the pool was empty. "I said some nasty things about you birds when you were drinking out of our pool last summer, but I want you to know I didn't mean it and you're welcome to all the drinks you want next summer."

The bird chuckled and flew off while the little men set to work covering the dish with the small piece of roofing paper which would keep the water out during the winter.

The General was much pleased with the work and he told the Cook to give the Dunce, the Chinaman and Gogo an extra helping of dessert that night.

"Ah is gwine fo' to save mah extra helpin' of dessert fo' dat bird," Gogo said, "fo' he suah done help us a lot."

BOND DRIVE TO TOUCH EVERY HOME

ANTIOCH SQUAD PROTECTS BIG RESORT AREA

They Make Job of Saving Lives.

BY EILEEN BURKE.

It may be a frantic call for first aid at an automobile accident, or a cry for help from victims of a capsized boat. It may be the excited plea for an inhalator to revive a heart attack case, or a request for help at a fire, an electrical accident, poisoning, or gas suffocation.

But, whatever it is and wherever it is, the Antioch rescue squad is ready, ever willing, and efficiently able to respond.

Organized in 1940, under the captaincy of Herman Holbeck, the Antioch rescue squad has answered 279 calls to date. These have included 107 highway accidents, 31 drownings, 37 heart cases, 53 hospital cases, 28 fire calls, 4 poison cases, 17 strokes, and 2 electrical cases. Whenever first aid could do it, lives were saved.

Three Men Launch Squad.

Credit for the idea and the original hard work out of which grew Antioch's volunteer rescue squad goes to Capt. Holbeck and two other charter members of the group, 2d Lt. Herman Rosing and Maj. Laurel Powles, now in service. As members of the Antioch fire department, these men became interested in the acute need for a rescue squad in the Antioch area.

Surrounded by a chain of 32 lakes, Antioch is in the heart of a summer resort district. Every summer brought its toll of accidents and drownings among vacationists. Each fall had its many emergency calls for aid to victims of accidental shootings among duck hunters. Until 1940, there was no such thing as a professional rescue squad to take care of the numerous first aid calls.

Take Course At Kenosha.

Nearest rescue squad was one at Kenosha, Wis. So Capt. Holbeck and his two followers took a trip to Kenosha and applied for special first aid training from members of the squad there. They made a number of trips and finally, as Capt. Holbeck puts it, they were "able to start off on their own."

"But we didn't have much to start off with but a lot of energy and ambition," the captain admitted.

The work of a rescue squad requires good equipment and much special training, he pointed out. There was the job of recruiting the "right kind" of volunteers and instructing them in standard and advanced Red Cross first aid courses. Along with training the squad personnel came the job of securing, first, a truck and then filling out the long list of necessary equipment.

Finally Get a Truck.

"Never mind—we'll get it," Capt. Holbeck told the squad, and his words became a quiet, determined pledge among all members of the group. They sponsored benefit dances. They solicited aid from the community and they "chipped in" themselves. Finally, they had enough dollars together to purchase a truck.

"And it's a fine truck," squad members declared proudly, "It's worth $1,500."

Almost piece by piece, the squad gradually acquired its other needs. Now the truck is equipped with everything from an inhalator to huge floodlights and stands with 500 feet of cord for night emergency calls.

Truck Now Fully Equipped.

The truck carries resuscitators, gas masks, a fresh air cabinet and pump, safety masks, an acetylene torch, tanks of oxygen and hydrogen gas, a combination stretcher and life bag, a short wave radio set, a 20 ton hydraulic jack, rubber blankets, a stomach pump, fuse pullers, an electrician's insulated stool, and various other first aid articles. The squad's latest acquirement is a completely equipped physician's kit.

"Often there is a doctor near the accident scene but he's on a vacation and doesn't have anything to work with," Capt. Holbeck explained. "Consequently we are now able to supply a physician with anything he might need."

Antioch's physicians have litanies of praise for the volunteer rescue squad. Often the physicians call on the group for help. Sometimes they suggest to Capt. Holbeck that a needy patient has no funds for ambulance transportation to the hospital, and that perhaps the squad's truck might help them out.

Squad Never Says "No."

"The rescue squad never says no to anything," said Dr. Roy Williams, one of Antioch's two doctors. "I don't know what the community would do without them."

At present the squad has 11 active members and 10 members in reserve. Five from the group were called to military service. They are Maj. Powles, Lt. Comdr. Jim McMillan, Sgt. Henry Quendenfeld, George W. Bartlett Jr., and Tech Sgt. Howard Strang. Active members are Capt. Holbeck, 1st Lt. Rosing, 2d Lt. Walter Scott, Lloyd Murrie, Einar Peterson, Charles Larson

Antioch's Volunteer Rescue Squad Has Equipment for All Types of Emergencies

Latest addition to the squad's first aid needs is a physician's professional emergency kit being shown by Charles Larson and Bill Banedt. The kit contains every sort of first aid item which a doctor might need. The kit was purchased to have on hand in case a physician were near the scene of an accident, but had none of his equipment with him.

The rescue squad is especially proud of its inhalator. It has helped save many lives in heart attacks and water accidents. The squad has responded to 279 calls since its organization in 1940. Exhibiting the inhalator are Fred Yates and Henry Renther. Mr. Yates is an Antioch mechanic when he isn't helping rescue people. One of the squad's newest members, Mr. Rentner, is a cartage contractor.

First Lt. Herman Rosing (left) and Morris Pickus are showing how the gas masks are operated. They have helped to save lives on a number of gas suffocation cases. Lt. Rosing, who is in the garage business, was one of the triumvirate which organized the Antioch rescue squad. Mr. Pickus is a beverage salesman. He has been in the organization two years.

The squad has five life belts. They have had much use at the 31 drowning cases on which the rescuers have been called. Antioch, in the midst of a chain of 32 lakes, has a large annual toll of summer resort accidents in the surrounding area. Calls have come to the Antioch rescue squad from almost every lake of that vicinity. Two squad members who have been on most of these calls are, left to right, Walter Scott and Dick Allner, Lake county deputy sheriff. Mr. Scott is owner of a dairy.

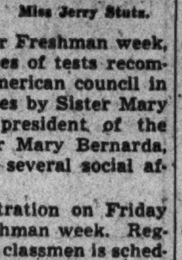
300 FRESHMEN TO SIGN FRIDAY AT MUNDELEIN

Boost of 20 Per Cent Over Last Year.

More than 300 freshmen, an increase of 20 per cent over last year, are expected to register at Mundelein college when Freshman week opens tomorrow. Heaviest registration, early records indicate, will be in the mathematics, science and home economics departments, with Spanish in the lead among preferred languages.



Miss Jerry Stutz.

The orientation course, planned for Freshman week, will include a series of tests recommended by the American council in education, addresses by Sister Mary Justitia, B.V.M., president of the college, and Sister Mary Bernarda, B.V.M., dean, and several social affairs.

Freshman registration on Friday will conclude Freshman week. Registration for upper classmen is scheduled as follows: Seniors, Tuesday morning; juniors, Wednesday morning, and sophomores, Thursday morning. Classes will begin Monday, Sept. 20.

Hostesses to incoming freshmen during this week will be Miss Helen Sauer, president of the Student Activities council, assisted by other council officers.

Among them will be Miss Jerry Stutz of 836 Mulford street, Evanston, secretary. Other hostesses will include Miss Mary Padden of 1512 Touhy avenue, Miss Patricia Hollahan of 6433 Glenwood, Miss Luella Hildebrand of 4351 North Western avenue, and Miss Margaret Simon of 7449 North Claremont avenue.

MARINE ESCAPES JAP SNIPERS IN SOLOMONS, THEN GETS MALARIA

Pvt. John K. O'Connor, U. S. M. C., who is convalescing from malaria at a naval hospital in San Diego, Cal., had a close call in the Solomon Islands campaign because of the radio antenna on his walkie-talkie set. Japanese snipers spotted the antenna and their bullets kept striking within four or five feet of Pvt. O'Connor's foxhole. He came out unharmed, however, except for scratches received in crossing barbed wire entanglements. Later he contracted malaria. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Connor of 842 Wrightwood avenue. Pvt. O'Connor enlisted in the marines on April 3, 1939, resigning his job as a galley proof press operator for Time-Life Magazines, Inc. He had his recruit training at San Diego, Cal.

WILMETTE MEN PLAN RETREAT NEAR HINSDALE

Men of St. Francis parish, Wilmette, who for several years have held annual retreats at Mayslake, the retreat house of the Franciscan order near Hinsdale, will offer their 1943 retreat for all parishioners in service. The three day period of prayer and recollection will be held the week-end of Sept. 24.

Retreatants will gather at 7 o'clock Friday night, Sept. 24, at the retreat house for supper, followed by the opening conference of the 60 hour retreat. The week-end will be closed formally after breakfast at 7 o'clock Monday morning. During the retreat an honor roll containing the name of every St. Francis parishioner in the army and navy will be placed on the altar of the chapel.

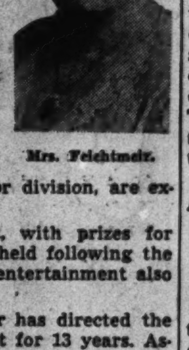
Fathers of men in service are particularly invited to attend the retreat, said the Rev. M. D. McNamara, pastor of St. Francis church. Reservations will be taken by members of the parish military committee or at the parish house. The committee has requested early reservations to allow time for problems of rationing and transportation from trains.

Dedicate Medical Field Unit for Russia Sunday

A mobile medical field unit to be sent to Russia will be dedicated next Sunday evening in Marigold gardens, Grace street and Broadway, to a Chicagoan killed in action. The youth whose name is inscribed on the mobile unit is Lt. Leonard M. Feldman, formerly of 4059 Roosevelt road. The event is sponsored by the north side men's and women's districts of the American Jewish congress for the benefit of the United Jewish campaign for medical field units to the soviet union.

LUNCHEON TUESDAY TO AID ROYAL LEAGUE JUNIOR DEPARTMENT

A fellowship party and luncheon will be held at noon Tuesday at the Home Arts Guild, 205 North Michigan avenue, for the benefit of the junior department of the Royal League, national fraternal society. Mrs. Selma Feichtmeir, 2753 Agatite avenue, national director of the junior department, said that 200 guests, parents of children in the junior division, are expected.



Mrs. Feichtmeir.

A quiz contest, with prizes for winners, will be held following the luncheon. Other entertainment also is planned.

Mrs. Feichtmeir has directed the junior department for 13 years. Assisting her during that time have been Mrs. Marie Klein, 3555 Irving Park boulevard, and Mrs. Lillian Clemen, 4823 North Winchester avenue, associate supervisors.

Evanston Pastor Gives Last Sermon in Series Today

"Spirit of God" is the title of the sermon the Rev. Arthur T. Clark, assistant minister, will give at the First Methodist church of Evanston this morning. It will be the final sermon of a series the Rev. Mr. Clark has preached during August and the first part of September. Harry Swanson, baritone in the chancel choir, will be the soloist for the service.

OCD ON NORTH SIDE TO LAUNCH 4 DAY CANVASS

Set 15 Million Goal for Neighborhood.

North side community block captains and bond wardens are organized and ready for their OCD house to house war bond drive this week.

Approximately 10,000 north side civilian defense workers will take part in this campaign, which opens officially tomorrow and ends Thursday. There will be one bond warden to every 25 families in division 6. Lee Ross, division director, has set a sales goal of $15,000,000 for the north side.

"We will reach everybody," Joseph Fisher, 33 North La Salle street, division war bond chairman, said. "Our emphasis is on simplicity. This country has an estimated income this year of 145 billion dollars, and only 75 billion in consumer goods to purchase," Fisher continued. "Almost 50 per cent of our income, that cannot be spent on consumer goods, must go back to the government if we are to prevent inflation. War bonds provide a cushion for the readjustment and reconstruction period that must follow the war."

Offers Flag as Prize.

To stimulate competition among the bond wardens in the 19 communities in the division Fisher is offering an American flag to the community which makes the largest number of sales in proportion to its population.

This week's four day campaign has been nicknamed the "drive within the drive." It is part of the United States treasury's September drive, in which a goal of approximately 746 millions in bond sales has been set for Cook county.

"We're concentrating on doubling what we did in the last drive," said Benjamin Welcher, 444 Roslyn place, bond chairman for the Clark-Diversey community. Robert Himmel, of 534 Stratford place, chairman for East Lake View community, said that bond wardens there are planning to "fine tooth comb" the community.

Other Chairman Listed.

Form Local Committees.

Many north side communities now have organized local war finance committees which function as units of the United States treasury department in bond campaigns and local projects. These committees are coöperating with the OCD in its house to house drive this week.

As part of the September drive, State street, from Van Buren street to Wacker drive, will be turned into an arsenal of war material for two weeks, beginning Thursday. Armored equipment will be drawn up on both sides of the street and store windows will be decorated with war displays. Shows will be given daily. This is being done by the State street council in coöperation with the treasury department.

N. U. NAMES NEW ASSISTANT FOR WOMEN'S DORMS

Mrs. Helen V. Porterfield will be the new assistant director of women's dormitories at Northwestern university. In addition, she will have charge of the Pembridge, the Evanston hotel, which the university purchased recently as a dormitory for upper class women. Mrs. Porterfield is a graduate of the University of Michigan. For 10 years she was social director of Lucy A. Sloan hall, Central Michigan College of Education, Mount Pleasant, Mich. She will assume her duties at Northwestern at the opening of the fall quarter.

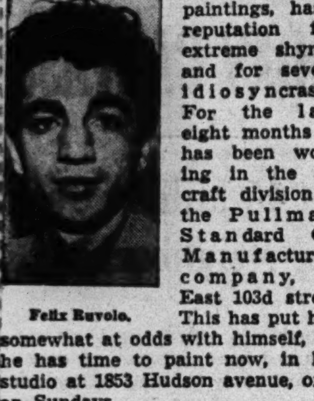
POETICAL ARTIST BIDES HIS TIME WITH RIVET GUN

Shy Man, He Takes Pride in Aircraft Skill.

BY PHYLLIS FORD.

Felix Ruvolo, a Chicago artist nationally known for his imaginative, poetical paintings, has a reputation for extreme shyness and for several idiosyncrasies. For the last eight months he has been working in the aircraft division of the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company, 900 East 103d street. This has put him somewhat at odds with himself, for he has time to paint now, in his studio at 1853 Hudson avenue, only on Sundays.



Felix Ruvolo.

Ruvolo is 31 years old. He is small and dark skinned and has thick, curly, black hair which he likes to wear long. He has a preoccupied air, as if he were imaginary worlds away from reality. It embarrasses him to talk about himself and his work as an artist. When he is with people he doesn't know whether he looks as if he wants to fly away suddenly and perhaps lurk nearby in the ether, like one of the floating figures in his paintings.

Cold Hampers Art.

His parents are Italian and he speaks with a slight accent, slurring his words softly. Altho he was born in New York, he spent most of the first 12 years of his life in Sicily. He remembers this only vaguely, but since has developed a fine aversion to cold weather, which makes it almost impossible for him to work in winter. Ruvolo's first sketches and drawings were made in Sicily.

He likes to wear brown or tan tweed suits, sometimes going so far as to get a hound's tooth pattern. With such a suit he thinks a blue checked shirt, plain blue tie, and green socks are a suitable color combination. He lets the nail on the little finger of his left hand grow very long, but doesn't explain why.

News of Skill Gets Around.

The fact that he is an artist has caused Ruvolo some embarrassment at the defense plant. Word has got around, he doesn't know how, that he is by way of being a famous painter. It seems incredible to fellow workers that he cannot produce a picture at a moment's notice. "One day a man kept after me for half an hour to draw him a picture on the airplane wing. For half an hour!" Ruvolo shrugs, smiles timidly, and looks at the floor. "What could I do? I cannot work like that, just draw him a picture. I think he was angry."

Ruvolo paints only when he is in the mood. These moods come upon him suddenly after days of idling around, dreaming about his subject. He paints rapidly, finishing a picture in one day, altho He feels that he has not done any serious work for almost a year. Riveting, he finds, is much too strenuous to permit concentration in art. He has hopes, however, of having enough money before long, from his job, to be able to go off and paint for awhile. He is thinking of Mexico as a likely place.

Exhibits at Institute.

Ruvolo studied four years at the Art institute, painting mostly heads in a conventional style. He exhibited one of these there in 1936 and is sorry about it now, for he feels it is not at all typical of his present work. Last October he had a show of 10 of his paintings at the institute, and these were more to his liking, altho he is never satisfied with what he has done.

"I like to paint unrelated objects," he says. "Unrelated" may be anything from a lion with flowers to a barber pole on a table. He paints imaginatively and thinks that he has done quite well when he has an emotional reaction from a painting. One of his recent efforts is called "Lemur." A lemur is a nocturnal African animal which natives regard as a symbol for love. Ruvolo has painted the head of a lemur in one corner of the canvas, surrounded it with a dark, mysterious background.

Ruvolo has been invited to exhibit in galleries all over the country. He is pleased that critics refer to him as a lyrical painter. He has gone thru several periods, among them a bluebird period and more recently a circus period.

Just now, however, completely apart from painting, he has had occasion to be proud of his other work, riveting. One day at the plant there was difficulty with one section of an airplane wing. Along with several other riveters he was picked to help straighten out the trouble. "I was flattered," he says. "For some one who is an artist I think that was rather good."

School Safety Patrol Starts Term

Joseph H. Braun, general counsel of the Chicago Motor club, welcomes Edward Zapletal, patrol captain, into this year's safety patrol of Hawthorne school, 3300 Seminary avenue. In common with schools all over Illinois and Indiana the safety patrol this week resumed its duty of protecting school children from traffic accidents.

SCHOOL TRAFFIC PATROLS GO OUT TO BEAT RECORD

Pledge to Protect North Side Children.

When schools opened recently approximately 4,000 school safety patrols, pledged to uphold last year's record of no fatalities among children in patroled zones, assumed the job of protecting children in public and parochial schools on the north side and in the north suburbs.

A recent survey to determine the effectiveness of the patrol system in this area and thruout Illinois and Indiana revealed this perfect record of not one child killed while crossing a street guarded by the safety patrols.

Hayes Lauds Record.

Charles M. Hayes, motor club president and founder of the school patrols, said, "At a time when there is a shortage of police protection at many crossings and the toll of pedestrian fatalities among adults remains alarmingly high, this record is particularly outstanding."

Mr. Hayes commended the safety patrols on their splendid achievement and challenged the new patrol leader to maintain a record of consistently decreasing accidents among children. "More than 4,000 children are alive today who would have been among the list of traffic dead," he noted. "This is the result of a combination of school safety patrol activities and of the consistent emphasis on safety education in schools.

Record Is Reward.

"By their steadfast devotion to duty, their willingness to brave hardships and forgo more pleasant activities," Mr. Hayes continued, "the safety patrols have been rewarded by this record of achievement. These boys and girls, in assuming this responsibility, give valuable help to their schools, their communities, and their nation."

Joseph G. Tew, principal of Hawthorne school, 3300 North Seminary street, commented on another important function of the school safety patrol. Said he, "The patrol members of today are the drivers of tomorrow. Consequently, we feel that the school safety patrol is the nucleus of a safer driving generation. We are certain that the influence of former patrol members," he went on, "will be extremely valuable not only in high schools, but in later life when the patrols are members of the American motoring public."

FRANKLIN KIDD HEADS CARSON POST OF LEGION

Other newly installed officers of the post are G. B. Hurd, senior vice commander; Stanley Shiels, junior vice commander; Carl Counts, adjutant; George Collignon, finance officer; Theodore H. Woodward, sergeant at arms; Otto Gross, service officer; Dr. E. S. Cleveland, post physician; James S. Blair, chaplain; Alex B. Sutherland, historian; and Dawson McCulley, judge advocate.

At the meeting Eagle Scout medals were presented to Edwin Cohn, John M. Doyle, and Jerome Honlander. Presentation was made by A. A. Kirk, assistant executive of the Chicago council of the Boy Scouts of America. John J. Doyle is scoutmaster for the Boy Scout and Sea Scout units sponsored by the post.

NORTH SIDE SOLDIER CITED; SAVES LIFE OF GIRL SWIMMER

Sgt. Arvid O. Johnson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Johnson, 5023 North Ashland avenue, was cited recently for meritorious service beyond the call of duty while stationed at Truax army air field, Madison, Wis. With Corp. Michael P. Ferraro of Rockville Center, N. Y., Sgt. Johnson saved the life of a swimmer. They were attending a picnic by a lake when a girl, about 150 feet out in the water, screamed for help. They swam out, brought her back and administered artificial respiration. Sgt. Johnson, who "never says much about what he's doing," according to his mother, merely sent home a camp paper telling of the incident, and didn't write a word about it. He is 20 years old and enlisted July 12, 1941, after being graduated from Senn High school. He has been transferred recently to Scott field, Illinois.

OPEN BROWNSON CIRCLE SEASON WITH MUSICAL

Soprano and Pianist to Appear Oct. 4.

Mrs. Albert M. Kelly, program chairman of the Brownson circle spent many hours during the summer planning a schedule for the 1943-44 club season which would be timely, educational and interest sustaining. As a result, her recently completed programs will include a long and varied list of guest artists and special club events.

A musical program with Miss Marjorie Anderson, soprano, and Miss Dorys Seelig, pianist, will be presented at the opening club meeting Monday, Oct. 4. Mrs. Edward Chainski, music chairman, is in charge of the program.

Literature day will be in charge of Mrs. J. Charles McCarthy, literature and education chairman. She will introduce Mrs. Thomas J. Byrne, a past president of the Glenola club, who has frequently appeared as a reviewer before the Glenola book circle.

The annual philanthropy card party will be held Nov. 15 with Mrs. Albert J. Hayes, philanthropy chairman, and Mrs. John E. O'Hora, social chairman, as hostesses. On Dec. 6, Mrs. William H. McElliott, American citizenship chairman, will present a talk by a member of the Junior Bar association.

Plan Book Review.

Program for Jan. 17 will feature a book review by Mrs. O'Hora. A charter member of the club and a past president of the Chicago branch of the Catholic Poetry Society of America, Mrs. Daniel B. Hayden, will read recent poetry at the Feb. 7 meeting. Mrs. Hayden, drama chairman of the Brownson circle, will present Miss Alvina Krause, professor in the school of speech at Northwestern university, on Drama day, March 6.

Miss Mary E. Buckley, art chairman, will conduct two art tours during the year. On Feb. 21, she will present Dr. Dudley Craft Watson's talking pictures from the National Gallery of Art, Washington, D. C.

At the April 3 meeting, Mrs. Kelly will conduct an unrehearsed "True or False" program. Mrs. Prentiss McKenzie, president of the circle, will conduct the annual meeting April 17 when the Brownson Harmonica Grandmothers will present their annual concert.

Woman's Club of Evanston.

Prof. Chang Shu-Chi, Chinese artist, has proved that even in the midst of battle China holds to its spiritual and cultural values. Since the bombing of Nanking by the Japanese, Prof. Chang, dean of the fine arts department of the National university of Nanking, China, and his students have been carrying on their work in the rock caves of Chungking.

At present, the professor is ambassador of art and good will from China to the United States. Thru his friendship with Mrs. Edward L. Middleton, acting art chairman of the Woman's club of Evanston, Prof. Chang has agreed to make a special Chicago appearance at the club's art exhibit which will open Thursday at the clubhouse.

Painting Exhibition.

During the three day exhibit, the Chinese artist will give a painting exhibition from 2 until 5 o'clock each afternoon. A Chinese tea, under direction of Mrs. Floyd Thompson, will be served at 4 o'clock each day. Mrs. Pierre Beach, art chairman of the club, is unable to participate in the program because of illness.

Prof. Chang will bring with him some outstanding examples of Chinese art. Added to this will be exhibits of the professor's own work and demonstrations of his unusual ability to produce a brush painting in eight minutes.

Hostesses for the exhibit will be members of the art committee. They will include Mrs. Hugo Dalmar, Mrs. James G. Badger, Mrs. R. L. Countrymen, Mrs. W. Merlin Adrian, Mrs. Hugh C. Beelman, Mrs. Richard H. Clinton, Mrs. Thomas J. Dee, and Mrs. John A. Dienner.

Other committee members are Mrs. Ernest N. Doring, Mrs. Wilbur Helm, Mrs. Malcolm F. Hill, Miss Charlotte Konsberg, Mrs. Penfield E. Mason, Mrs. Oscar G. Mayer, Mrs. John H. McCloskey, Mrs. Eben D. Norton, Mrs. John Stone Parker, Mrs. M. John Prendergast, Mrs. Melvin S. Rembe, Mrs. Philip A. Rising, and Mrs. Valentine A. Smith. Mrs. Frank C. Engelhart will represent artists of the Evanston area. The public is invited to the exhibit.

Rogers Park Woman's Club.

Outstanding speakers scheduled for the season's lecture program of the Roger Park Woman's club will include Dr. William J. Hale, Bruce Thomas, Sheela Carter, C. J. Hambro, and Suzanne Silvercruys. As previously, these talks will be a feature of the Tuesday afternoon programs. Morning programs will be announced later, chairmen said.

Mrs. Alexander M. Kerr, president, will greet club members at the president's tea Oct. 5. On the program will be a trio including Annette Thorn Anderson, soprano soloist for the First Christ Scientist church of Evanston; Isabelle Ebert, pianist of the Northerners, and Caroline Sofronk, flutist and soloist of the Woman's Symphony orchestra.

At the October meeting, club members will see the motion picture "The Ominous Arms Case" and hear William J. Lang discuss the importance of the public health service.

The More Bonds and Sweat –The Less Blood and Tears!

DO YOUR BIT in the 3rd WAR LOAN

BACK THE ATTACK with BONDS

IT'S EASY TO BUY BONDS

Loaning money to win the war is easy. Any store or bank or other "issuing agent" can take your money and immediately deliver your bond made out to you. You pay $18.75 for a bond you can cash in for $25 in ten years. A $50 bond is $37.50, a $100 bond is $75. The bigger the bond the less it costs the government and you in bookkeeping. If you need your money in less than 10 years, you can get it any time—with earned interest. Buy a big bond today to start this $15,000,000,000 loan off with a bang! And for your future!

THE WAR IS NOT WON

Our armed forces have a continuous fighting job. And so it is with buying bonds. Buying bonds is a continuing responsibility for everyone who can scrape the price of a bond together at any time. You should buy bonds every month, or every week, if you can. Money you lend for bonds goes into the war at once, keeps out of consumer markets, and therefore helps fight inflation. Bond money is double duty money—fighting the war on foreign fronts and inflation on the home front. Keep buying bonds.

★ In this $15,000,000,000 Third War Loan Drive, Central Uptown Chicago's army of 1875 retail employees is drafted to seek out Chicago's loafing dollars and get them into fighting bonds. Our job is selling bonds, to help you do yours, which is buying them. We're buying them, too. Let's be proud of ourselves through bonds and sweat. Meet us halfway and start buying today . . . will you, please?

MIZPAH WOMEN TO OPEN SEASON WITH LUNCHEON

Mrs. A. C. Green Starting 2d Year as President

A dessert luncheon and general meeting will open the season's club activities for the Women of Mizpah at 1 o'clock Wednesday at Temple Mizpah. The program has been arranged by Mrs. Leslie Schoenbrod, chairman.

Mrs. A. Chester Green will preside, starting her second term as president of the sisterhood. Recently elected associates on Mrs. Green's administrative staff are Mrs. Jesse Brown and Mrs. Zolly Taub, vice presidents; Mrs. L. B. Greenberg, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Otto Moss, recording secretary; Mrs. Samuel Brodsky, treasurer, and Mrs. A. Orrie Caplan, financial secretary.

Hear Program Plans.

Officers and chairmen, who devoted much of their summer vacation to drawing up a club program schedule for the year, will present their plans to sisterhood members at the opening meeting. Three special club events will be held within a several week period.

Mrs. Samuel Ostiller heads the membership campaign. She has sent out invitations for the first membership tea to be held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Joseph Robineau, 1426 Touhy avenue.

Heading the 14th silver plate campaign will be Mrs. Jesse Brown. The campaign will be officially opened the first week in October when Mrs. Jacob Singer is hostess for a tea at her home. The fund raising drive will end in January when the highlight program of the social season will be held. Proceeds from the campaign will go towards the sisterhood's philanthropic, cultural, educational, religious, and war service projects.

Plan Education Drive.

Mrs. Harry J. Iverson, past president, will head the drive for Jewish education in coöperation with the college of Jewish studies.

Mrs. Edward Lewis is general chairman of the war service program for the organization. War work activities were carried on thru the summer. The committee contributed $500 for a recreation room at Camp Ellis. They also gave parties at the Waukegan service center and the USO at 203 North Wabash avenue. Mrs. David Labowitch heads the sisterhood's Red Cross unit.

The knapsack library is under direction of Mrs. George Steiner. A number of "solitaire" blankets have been made by the unit for bedridden soldiers so they may play solitaire while in bed. This work is headed by Mrs. Peter Tucker as chairman.

Friends of Handicapped.

Members of the Friends of Handicapped Children will hold open house at their next meeting, at 10:30 a. m., Thursday, in the auditorium of the Jahn school, 3149 North Wolcott avenue.

Chase Park Wins Award for Best Youth Gardens

The title of "finest" among the 65 parks where children's war garden plots have been set aside by the park district was recently given the project at Chase park by George T. Donoghue, director of war gardens for the Chicago area. John Duffield, supervisor of recreation at Chase park, Leland and Ashland avenue, is in charge of the project.

Each young gardener was provided with a space 5 by 12 feet in size. They were given unit packets of seed containing exactly the kind and the amounts required for each planting. The seeds were provided free of charge by a loop department store.

Every youngster's garden includes a row of petunias at one end and a row of zinnias at the other for a decorative touch. Between these is planted a row of lettuce, a row of radishes, and a row of stringless beans. There also are rows of Swiss chard, kohlrabi, and two rows of carrots and beets.

The gardens have been as faithfully tended and have proved as productive as any adult war gardens, said Mr. Duffield. Many of the young people have been able to take home generous supplies of green vegetables sufficient to feed their families for days at a time. Kohlrabi has been a vegetable newly introduced to a number of families thru these children's gardens, the director said.

Even with school breaking into some of their daily gardening time the youngsters are having plenty of energy left for harvesting their crops. They rush home, drop their books, and hurry to Chase park—it used to be for a few hours of hard play before supper—but now it's for hard work.

Mundelein Girl Weds Air Cadet

[Carlos Photo.]

MRS. WILLIAM G. HOSKINS.

A recent army bride was Miss Jessie Shields, daughter of Chief of Police and Mrs. Jesse J. Shields of Mundelein. Her marriage to Army Air Cadet William Glenn Hoskins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn G. Hoskins of Thornbury lane near Libertyville, took place at the Maxwell field chapel, Montgomery, Ala., where Cadet Hoskins is stationed. Parents of both young people attended the wedding. Cadet Hoskins left in the middle of his senior year at Purdue university for army service. The couple will reside at Montgomery.

PUPILS OF B'NAI ZION SCHOOL TO REGISTER TODAY

Congregation to Hold High Holiday Rites.

CHURCH FAMILY MONTH TO MARK REMODELING END

Waveland Congregational to Ordain Pastor.

Church Family month will be observed starting today by the Waveland Avenue Congregational church in celebration of the completion of a three month building remodeling program. Special features will be on the program for each Sunday in the month as a measure to lift up the relationship which exists between family and church.

The observance will begin at 10:30 o'clock this morning with Rally day. Children of the church school will dedicate their newly remodeled quarters and new worship center. They also will begin their fall quarter program of study.

Attend in Family Groups.

Members of the church will attend services in family groups this morning and share in a service of Holy Communion. Recognition will be given to families which have all their members present at the service.

On Sunday, Sept. 19, old members and friends of the church will be invited to return for Homecoming day. During the worship service that morning adult members of the church will dedicate the newly remodeled church building.

Fellowship day will be observed Sunday, Sept. 26. Congregation members again will attend services in family groups. The day will be given over to the study of the resources of family security which are within the Christian family.

Install Church Officers.

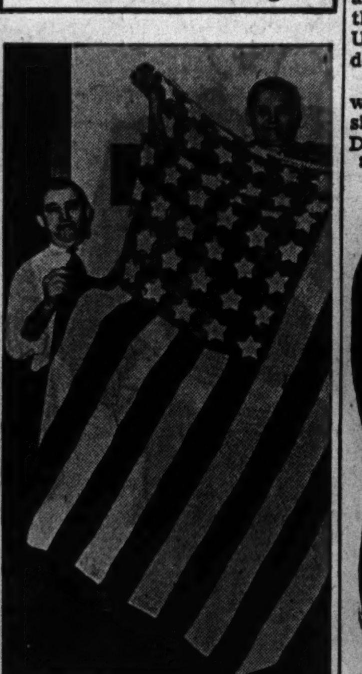
The following Sunday, Oct. 3, members of the church will join in the celebration of World Communion Sunday. Church officers will be installed during the worship service that morning. Dr. Ross Snyder, professor of religious education at the Chicago Theological seminary, will serve as guest minister and will conduct the installation service.

On Friday, Sept. 24, the congregation will attend a service of ordination for their minister. The service will be held at 8 p. m. Rev. Everett C. Parker, pastor of the church will be ordained to the Christian ministry by a council composed of the Congregational-Christian churches of Chicago's north side.

Remodeling of the 60 year old church building has been carried out under direction of a church committee composed of the Rev. Mr. Parker, Edgar C. Bassett, chairman of the board of trustees, and Carl W. Gustafson. H. C. Haeuser of Milwaukee, Wis., was consulting architect.

The sanctuary of the church has been provided with a new sound absorbent ceiling, new choir stalls, and a new divided chancel, containing altar table, pulpit, and lectern.

Crochets a Flag



President Roosevelt does not know it yet, but Mrs. Mary Popp, 64 years old, has crocheted a huge American flag, 90 by 68 inches, which she intends to send to him at the White House. Mrs. Popp, who lives at 2236 North Racine avenue, and her husband, Vasily, 68, employed as a janitor at the Chicago Board of Trade building for 14 years, are natives of Rumania. Their seven children, five sons and two daughters, all are in war work at the same Chicago war plant.

Before joining the marine corps women's reserve Lt. MacDonald resided with her husband at 63 East Division street.

Breed Proves Cool Under War Training Fire.

When four north siders enlisted their Dobermann-Pinschers in the United States marine corps for sentry and combat duty, the marines had not as yet tested the caliber of any dogs in action. But because the Dobermanns proved that they could successfully operate under actual battle conditions, the marines are asking north siders to contribute their pets for service with the Leathernecks.

Dobermanns belonging to E. H. McArthur, 934 Leland avenue; Mrs. Alma Sievers, 1726 Arthur avenue; Miss Mary Anna Pampinella, 732 Scott street, and Maj. E. A. Koerner, 2970 Sheridan road, have already completed training at the marine corps Devil Dog school, New River, N. C., and are now on active sentry and combat duty.

Stand Fire Well.

Richard C. Webster, general chairman of the Dobermann-Pinscher procurement committee, who saw the dogs undergoing battlefield tests at the school, reported that even with the constant firing of 155 mm. and 90 mm. guns and smoke bombs, every one of the dogs performed his specialized task on the field without flinching.

When the dogs arrive at the New River camp they are given a thoro checkup and if any abnormalities are discovered, corrective treatment is applied.

Two handlers are assigned to the dog for the eight week training period. In the first stages of the training the dog becomes thoroly acquainted with the two marines assigned to him. By the end of the canine "boot" training, the men and dog have become a smooth working team.

Dogs Gain Weight.

A gain in weight usually averaging about 6⅓ pounds results from the diet during the training period. Some Dobermanns have gained as much as 19 pounds under the regime.

Owners wishing to enlist their Dobermanns for the second training contingent should contact Melvin Bailey, 8108 Avalon avenue, Saginaw 5025, procurement officer for the Chicago area.

To be accepted for the corps, a dog must be between the ages of 1 and 5 years and physically sound, vigorous and alert.

Irving J. McCarron, Morton Grove, is one of those who has enlisted a dog in the second training group now being recruited.

6 New Teachers to Greet New Trier High Pupils

Women at War

Florence D. Bronkalla of 1100 La Salle street, a sergeant major in the office of the 3d regiment of the women's army corps at Fort Des Moines, Ia., was regimental commander of the 3d regiment at the fort recently when enlisted women replaced WAC officers for the day. Sgt. Bronkalla was secretary in the office of a Chicago law firm for 13 years before she joined the WAC. She was graduated from the Wisconsin Rapids High school at Wisconsin Rapids, Wis.

Sgt. Bronkalla.

Pvt. Rosalie Shier of the WAC set aside her duties as chief clerk at the checking station to take on the responsibilities of her section chief for the special day. Pvt. Shier, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myer Shier of 6651 Newgard avenue, was graduated from Sullivan High school.

Second Lt. Virginia M. Schmidt, daughter of Mrs. Berenice Schmidt, 6579 Glenwood avenue, recently arrived at the army air forces western technical training command post to assume new duties. She was graduated from Mundelein college. Before entering the WAC, Lt. Schmidt was a dietitian.

Two north side women, members of the women's reserve, United States navy, recently completed their indoctrination course at the naval training school, Hunter college, New York City. They were Constance V. Bleier of 4711 Kenmore avenue, and Helen M. Kelley of 703 Oakdale avenue.

Jean C. Kimball, daughter of Mrs. M. Boyd, 410 Diversey parkway, recently was promoted from private first class to technician fifth grade at Fort Mason, Cal., where she is a member of the WAC detachment.

Miss Jueletta Katherine Hare, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aloysius Hare of 1443 Farwell avenue, recently was sworn into the enlisted branch of the WAVES at the women's naval reserve headquarters at the Board of Trade building. She will report for indoctrination at the WAVES school, Hunter college, New York City. Before enlisting in the women's reserve, Miss Hare was a checker, plate file clerk, and graphotype operator.

Another north sider, Miss Mary Margaret Hilliard also will report soon for indoctrination school at Hunter college. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hilliard of 547 Wellington avenue. Before her enlistment, Miss Hilliard did general office work.

Pvt. Anna I. Moeller, niece of Miss Augusta Mohnhaupt, 1442 Catalpa avenue, was promoted to technician fifth grade at the Spokane army air field, Spokane, Wash. She was employed as a social secretary in Chicago before entering the WAC.

Evanston Sermon.

"Harvests of a Quite Eye" is the title of the sermon with which Dr. Emory W. Luccock, minister of the First Presbyterian church of Evanston, will begin the fall season of worship services this morning.

NATIVES HELP NAVY FLYER TO ESCAPE JAPS

Blast Enemy Boats in New Georgia for North Sider.

Lt. Robert E. Sorenson, a navy fighter pilot who turned jungle fighter when his plane was shot down over the New Georgia Islands, was awarded a commendation recently for "meritorious conduct." Lt. Sorenson, formerly of 2134 Sedgwick street, is now an instructor at Bronson field, an auxiliary air station of the naval air training center at Pensacola, Fla.

Lt. Sorenson.

He was a member of a fighting squadron that was in action for more than a year over a wide area of the Pacific. During a battle over one of the New Georgia Islands Lt. Sorenson's plane was disabled and crashed in flames. He managed to escape unhurt and made his way to an outpost of friendly natives. The outpost was secret to all but naval aviation intelligence, for the island was within territory then held by the Japanese.

Finds Marine Flyer.

At the outpost, which Lt. Sorenson could not describe in detail, for that might reveal things the Japanese would like to know about American methods of warfare in the islands, he found a marine flyer who had been forced down some time before and a Japanese Zero pilot whom the natives had captured.

He had not been there long when scouts reported the approach of two barges containing 14 Japs. It was presumed they were looking for him and the marine pilot. Those at the outpost decided to attack before the enemy could.

The barges, moored along a bank, were camouflaged so effectively they could hardly be seen from a distance of 25 feet, Lt. Sorenson said. The natives dragged machine guns close to the barges and opened fire just as the Japanese were having their evening meal. Grenades also were used. All of the enemy were killed.

Take Jap Along.

A few days later the navy sent a four motor plane with a fighter escort to rescue Sorenson and the marine pilot. Lt. Sorenson climbed on board holding a rope, to the other end of which was tied the Jap Zero pilot. Sorenson had spent 12 days in the jungle outpost. Of the natives he said, "I owe them the greatest debt I ever owed—my life."

The citation which he received came from Rear Adm. J. P. Shafroth, deputy commander of the South Pacific area. It was presented at flight designation ceremonies at Pensacola by Rear Adm. George D. Murray, commandant of the training center.

Citation Gives Praise.

The citation read: "For meritorious conduct while voluntarily serving with a detachment of native armed scouts in the New Georgia Islands, British Solomon Islands, in February, 1943. Lt. Sorenson, the pilot of a fighter plane which had been shot down in the above mentioned area, volunteered to accompany and assist the detachment in a daring and successful attack on two Japanese barges. By his courage and coolness he set an excellent example for the members of the raiding force. He also rendered first aid to the wounded while still under fire and within a few yards of the enemy position. His outstanding conduct was in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States naval service."

The fighting squadron of which Lt. Sorenson was a member accounted for 70 enemy planes while performing other missions of war in the Pacific area.

His Youth Catches Up with Soldier

Pvt. Joseph T. Cleary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy D. Cleary of 4756 Lake Park avenue, who early in the year stuffed himself with frankfurters, sauerkraut, and water in order to gain the extra pounds needed to join the army, has received an honorable discharge at Daniel field, Augusta, Ga. Reason—he is only 17 years old. Serving him with his papers is Lt. Anthony S. Varon, assistant base adjutant at the field and son of Mrs. Mary Varon of 1450 Chicago avenue.

ARMY ACCEPTS A RECRUIT, BUT NOT FOR LONG

This is the story of a young Irishman who wanted to be in the "thick of it" if there was going to be any fighting and who—after six months in the army, sits disconsolately now at home far from the fighting fronts and all because of a birth certificate.

Yes! Young Joe Cleary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy D. Cleary of 4756 Lake Park avenue, had a remedy for everything but that.

First—the medical officers suspected some "underdeveloped" muscles and were even so frank to say that he looked "pretty darned young to do some fighting." But, that was an easy hurdle for Joe,

The next obstacle was not so easy. When asked to mount the scales, the doctors looked at him, then the needle, and said emphatically, "Sorry, son. You're two pounds underweight."

He ran upstairs to the lunchroom, stuffed himself with three plates of frankfurters and sauerkraut, and drank eight glasses of water. He was six pounds heavier—four pounds over the mark—and he was "in."

He was sent to Kearns, Utah, for basic training, then to Camp Barkeley, Tex., to be trained as a sanitary technician, and finally to the army air base at Daniel field, Augusta, Ga.

It was there that birth certificate caught up with him!

The reason—he was only 17 and his folks, who needed him at home, had forwarded his birth certificate to the commanding officer at the base with a request for his release.

W-G-N OFFERS GREAT VARIETY IN FALL SHOWS

New Entertainers to Join Old Favorites.

A great variety of entertainment will be heard over W-G-N, W59C, and the Mutual network this season.

Among the programs scheduled for release are Gracie Fields, Dale Carnegie [now on the air at 9:15 p. m. Thursdays], First Nighter, the Chicago Theater of the Air Operetta sries, Treasure Hour of Song, the Cleveland Symphony, and the Shadow.

These new and returning shows will join such current programs as Double or Nothing, Sherlock Holmes, Take a Card, A. L. Alexander's Mediation board, Raymond Clapper, Upton Close, Gabriel Heatter, John B. Hughes, Fulton Lewis Jr., American Forum of the Air [7 p. m. Tuesdays on W59C], Superman, and Bulldog Drummond.

Broadcast World Series.

An extra Mutual fall highlight will be the exclusive broadcast of the world series. The network's sports coverage also will include descriptions of all major boxing bouts and important intersectional football games.

Because of the baseball broadcasts, W-G-N will air the Shadow series at 7:30 p. m. Mondays for the weeks of Sept. 27 and Oct. 4. Beginning Oct. 11, the program switches to 4:30 p. m. Sundays. Bill Johnstone and Marjorie Anderson return to take the leading roles in the mystery.

The Chicago Theater of the Air Operetta season opens on Saturday, Oct. 9, with Jerome Kern's "Roberta" as the first offering.

Gracie Fields Starts Oct. 12.

Gracie Fields' Victory show will be aired at 7:15 p. m. Mondays thru Fridays, starting Oct. 12.

First Nighter, starring Barbara Luddy, will have its premiere at 5 p. m. Sunday, Nov. 7. A new leading man will be featured each week.

Treasure Hour of Song, co-starring Licia Albanese and Francesco Valentino, will come on the air sometime in November. W-G-N will carry the program at 7:30 p. m. Thursdays.

The Cleveland Symphony, conducted by Eric Leinsdorf, is scheduled to start on Sunday, Oct. 10.

ANTIOCH SQUAD PROTECTS LAKE RESORT AREA

Volunteers Make a Job of Saving Lives.

Among these, in addition to Capt. Holbeck and Lt. Rosing, Scott, Allner, and Peterson were also former firemen. Most of the men in the squad are married and all of them have everyday jobs to take care of in addition to their volunteer rescue work. They receive calls at all hours and whichever members of the group are most quickly available rush to answer the request for help.

On Guard During Holidays.

Around holidays, when accidents usually are most frequent, arrangements are made for alternate squad members to stay close to headquarters. They take turns celebrating holidays, Capt. Holbeck explained. There is never an hour any time, he added, when some members of the squad are not on special watch for calls.

Members of the squad particularly remember one Armistice day several years ago when an unexpected blizzard came up. The emergency call came to Antioch for help for seven duck hunters who were trapped in a duck blind at Gross Lake.

Rescuers were out in the water for four hours before they got all seven hunters into the boat, Capt. Holbeck said. The blind was already loose. In another 20 minutes it would have been out in the lake. The victims recovered all right, the captain added, but our boys were sick for days afterward."

Work Without Pay.

A common inquiry made to rescue squad members is: "What do you get out of it?" They all have the same answer to that question.

They don't receive a cent for their work. In fact, it requires about $500 a year to run the squad and members must provide those funds themselves thru benefit dances and voluntary contributions.

"Sometimes we don't even get a thank you out of it," smiled Capt. Holbeck. "But that doesn't bother us either—we have the personal satisfaction of doing a necessary job well."

The captain added that at present his squad has practically everything it needs. "Right now, about all we are hoping for is a boat and a diver's suit," he continued, hopefully.

"Never mind," chorused his squad members, repeating their pledge, "We'll get it!"

Dorothy Maynor, Soloist with Andre Kostelanetz

Dorothy Maynor will make an appearance as guest on the Andre Kostelanetz program at 3:30 p. m today on WBBM-CBS. Miss Maynor has selected the spiritual "Were You There?" for one of her solos.

Spell Down.

Four taxpayers will tangle with four collectors of internal revenue on the Spelling Bee at noon today over W-G-N. Guy Savage is master of ceremonies of the show.

TRUE STORIES ABOUT GM FOLKS

$5 for Your KEEPSAKE!

If certain songs have lived in your memory through the years! If you have saved some bit of verse or quotation because it reminds you of some great event in your life or of some loved one! Then, you will want to listen tonight to "Keepsakes."

You'll hear the songs you've always loved, beautifully sung by those singing discoveries of 1943—Dorothy Kirsten and Mack Harrell—supported by a large chorus and orchestra.

Now, if you have a "keepsake"—a bit of verse, a sentiment, a few words that you cherish as a memory, share your "keepsake" with others. Listen tonight to "Keepsakes" for full details on how your "keepsake" may bring you not only a memory relived, but also $5.00 from the sponsors.

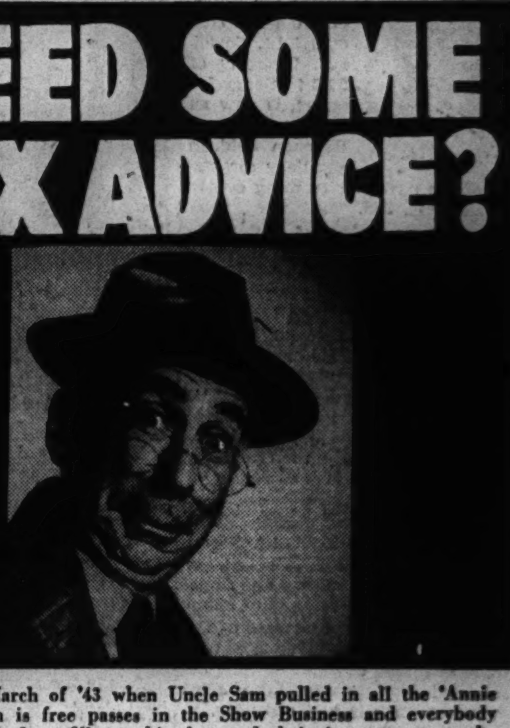
NEED SOME TAX ADVICE?



Back in March of '43 when Uncle Sam pulled in all the 'Annie Oakleys,' which is free passes in the Show Business and everybody else and you had to fill out his, her and their income report, the question of deductin' this, that or what could you had a lot o' new green taxpayers (to say nothing of the old vets) in a sort of a fog that resembled the pea soup you usta get in all gastronomic dispensaries.

At the risk of being called a 'sticky-beak' by some folks who's credo is, ("if you're in the laundry bizz, don't snipe around in another gent's pasture—age of experts, specialists and all that, don't you know") —we Paul-Pryed down in a corner of Yahoo County until we unearthed an outstanding tax expert by name of Zeke Sleezy. We discovered this Mahomet of wisdom and if it wasn't for us he might have expired on the vine, an unknown genius.

To save the new green taxpayers a powerful lot o' diddling between now and Sept. 15 and on up to Mar. 15 we'd like to repeat Zeke's gem on HOW TO MAKE OUT YOUR INCOME TAX REPORT. . . . Zeke put it this way:

FIRST—List as your dependents: Your wife—car—three goldfish—all children and the odd assortment of crackpots you're feeding on the government payrolls. (EXCEPTION: The expense of the government ballet dancer should be figured only until August 1st.)

NOW—Multiply your grandpappy's age by six and seven-eighths and subtract your Social Security number. NEXT—Add the size of your hat and subtract by the number of your gasoline ration card and red ration stamps.

THEN—Deduct one thousand piasters for keeping your wife, a blonde, redhead or brunette for the whole year; then divide the remainder by the number of lodges you belong to and the number of strokes you didn't tally in this summer's golf; after which add the number of times you went to your ration board for an extra gallon of gas, fuel oil or an extra pound of sugar; following which multiply by the number of electric lights in your home and divide by the size of your collar (if a woman divide by the exact size of your girdle cut down the middle and laid flat on the kitchen floor).

AT LAST—You have your GROSS income, which, after dividing by your chest measurement and subtractin' your blood pressure gives you an approximate amount owed to the government.

Well, there 'tis again folks, as clear cut a piece of advice as we'd ever seen before. If it helps the new taxpayers who are still kicking the meadow dressin' off their boots then we feel that the cabbage we spent wheedling this dope out of Zeke will be corn well spent. Oh, yes, Zeke said he'd be happy to answer any particular questions you may have. Just address your inquiries to ZEKE SLEEZY c/o The Skokie Valley Laundry.

WINTER STORAGE OF POTATOES IS A GOOD POLICY

Use of Basement Room Is Described.

BY BEN MARKLAND.

In previous articles in this space we have discussed the winter storage of onions and root crops such as beets, carrots, and radishes in basement storerooms. The storage of potatoes also is important this year, even for home owners who have not grown this vegetable in their gardens, since it is possible to buy during the autumn months at a price considerably lower than must be paid in midwinter.

Home owners who are digging potatoes from their garden or buying them from the corner grocery can store them in well ventilated bins in a room where the temperature is held between 36 and 50 degrees.

Delay Digging Late Varieties.

Such a temperature is difficult to maintain in basement rooms in this area until late October or November, therefore late varieties should not be dug from the garden until a killing frost is forecast. Potatoes keep well in their natural growing space, even during periods of light frost, but they are damaged by frosts which penetrate several inches into the ground.

The conditions under which potatoes keep best in a basement room include the temperature range mentioned above, semi-darkness, and good ventilation. Therefore, the storeroom window should be painted or curtained, and should be fitted with transom hardware both for maintaining air circulation and controling temperature. Potato shelves in the room should be made with air space between the slats to increase circulation.

Care of Cabbages.

The gardener on the Tribune farm keeps cabbages in the rows. Unless the heads split, they can be left in their growing space until killing frosts are forecast. When this occurs the heads can be turned upside down into a trench alongside the row, then covered with about a foot of soil.

Leaves and waste material such as bean foliage and peony tops also can be placed over the trench to protect the cabbage heads from severe weather. With such protection the heads can be kept in the ground until late November or early December without damage.

When the weather remains continuously severe the heads can be dug from the trench and placed in a basement storeroom, where they can be kept under about the same conditions as potatoes.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Sept. 13

This is about the latest date a lawn can be made with any assurance that the growth will be strong enough to withstand the rigors of winter. Fall is still the best time to make the lawn.

First, weeds do not grow on a lowering temperature, while grass flourishes, hence a good stand is obtained without the labor incident to eradicating weeds. Fall rains insure an adequate supply of moisture, altho it may be necessary to water when hot, drying days come.

Tuesday, Sept. 14

Do not allow rubbish to lie around the yard just because autumn is almost here. Everything should be cleaned up to eliminate possible hidden recesses that might be favorable for insects and disease to remain in a dormant state during the winter.

Wednesday, Sept. 15

Pot up all house plants that need repotting, and remove those to the house that have been plunged out of doors. Heliotrope, begonias, geraniums, if wanted for the window, will need cutting back. Cactus plants must go in and care must be exercised when watering them for they enter a period of rest during winter, altho most of them will need some water if placed in the high temperature of most rooms.

Buy a few bulbs for potting. Discard plants that have grown out of bounds and buy a good plant that can be easily handled. Some of the best plants for the home include the foliage plants, such as the pigmy palm, a dwarf date palm, fanleaf palm, Boston fern, holly fern, sansevieria, dumb cane, aspidistra, corn plant, rubber plant, Norfolk Island pine, Jade plant, screw pine or Pandanus, umbrella plant, and asparagus plumosa nanus.

Thursday, Sept. 16

Early spring flowering hardy perennials can be lifted and divided now and the borders made over. It is time to plant peonies. Dig the hole large enough to accommodate the root system easily and plant so that the crowns are just beneath or even with the surface of the ground. Water well after planting.

Hardy chrysanthemums can be transplanted when in bud or flower, but the soil should be well watered before and after moving. Unique effects can be obtained by using these gorgeous and useful plants in masses.

Try a few Japanese iris for their large flowers, some with very attractive colors, add much to any place where they can be used, and they are fine for planting along pool margins. Do not plant so close together that the individuals have no space in which to develop.

Friday, Sept. 17

Lay in a supply of fine meshed wire to place around the base of young fruit trees as a protection against rabbits. Each year numerous inquiries are received relative to the best method of combatting these rodents.

Saturday, Sept. 18

Place a frame over a few chard plants for protection and they will keep producing for some time. The riper pumpkins and squash are the better they will keep. Store in a fairly warm place. Protection against peach borers may be provided by placing a narrow band of paradichloro-benzene around trees that are over three years old.

Keep it away from the back and cover with about five inches of soil, well tamped down. Trim privet hedges now, if it hasn't been done. It is a good time to trim trees for shape, but wait until later to cut heavy branches.

Divide bleeding heart plants and replant. This is one of the loveliest of hardy plants and easy to grow. Plant in full sun and in a manner like peonies.

Prepared in coöperation with Garfield Park conservatory.

CARBOLA
The Disinfecting White Paint

KILLS ENEMIES YOU CAN'T SEE

Don't wait for disease to appear. Prevent loss of production now. Invisible germs cause more losses than lice and mites.

CLEAN UP NOW!

Fall and winter mean a great breeding of disease germs if they are left alone. A spraying or brushing with Carbola will destroy billions of these invisible profit eaters. Carbola painted onto all interior surfaces kills germs, dries white. 1 pound covers 100 square feet. Best for laying houses, brooder houses, dairies, hog pens, rabbitries, pigeon lofts. Kills by contact such invisible germs as tuberculosis, bronchitis, dyphtheria, abortion, hog chloera, colds. ALSO USE AS A DRY DIP AND AS A DRY DISINFECTANT BY DUSTING.

Hardware, seed, feed, drug stores. 1 lb. 20c; 5 lbs. 60c; 10 lbs. 95c; 25 lbs. $1.90; 50 lbs. $3.50; Write for free handy egg-laying chart.

DON'T LET YOUR HENS DIE!

HOME OF FUTURE WILL NOT NEED MUCH REPAIRING

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

No doubt about it, houses of tomorrow are not going to demand nearly as much painting, cleaning, repairing, and maintenance. At least, not if we can believe reports from all sides. We probably will have hardware that never needs polishing, wood that termites will run a mile to avoid, bathtubs that never break away from their moorings and leave cracks which must be filled.

And besides having floors and walls that are boy-proof, we doubtless will have floating walls, too, so that we can rearrange a layout with much the same ease that we redecorate a room.

But in the meantime we are going to do the best we can to keep what we have in the best possible shape.

Paints Easy to Put On.

Modern paints grow increasingly easy to apply with brush or roller. One synthetic resin paint has, after drying, a fine mat finish and this finish is a help in covering up traces of slight brush marks. So, if you are an amateur painter and are planning to do a wall or two yourself this fall, the manufacturers of this particular paint claim it is safe and easy to apply.

Use of Casein Grows.

Casein paints are now being more used than ever before. They are inexpensive, and a "patriotic" material to use, we are told, since they do not contain any materials essential to war production.

It is important that walls to be painted are clean and dry. It isn't hard to dust a wall, but if it is greasy and grimy the old film should be removed. Have plenty of old newspapers on hand so that all floors and furniture and base mouldings can be protected from splashings of paint.

Charts Are Offered.

Many manufacturers of these casein paints offer color charts and also hints and suggestions as to how to use colors for the best results.

We will discuss next week some first steps in the application of these casein paints. Many spots around a home can be rendered infinitely more attractive and easy-to-live with by the use of this type of paint, which comes in powder or paste form, and to which water is added to obtain the proper consistency.

NEW EVENING CLASSES OPEN AT JONES HIGH

Registration for free evening classes in office training will be held tomorrow and Tuesday at Jones Commercial High school, 607 Plymouth court. Classes will begin Wednesday and Thursday.

Adults are given extended training in the evening courses at Jones, only all-commercial high school supervised by the board of education. More than 800 attended the second summer night session which ended recently.

Classes will be available in stenography, typewriting, bookkeeping and calculating machine operation, secretarial practice, bookkeeping, and filing. As a contribution to the war need, Jones will deviate from its commercial curriculum to offer a course in war mathematics, which is a review of algebra, geometry, and trigonometry for loop workers who want to prepare for induction into the army or navy.

Another special war course offered at Jones is pre-induction clerical training for young men and women who plan to enter clerical branches of military services.

As quick training for office workers for war industries, intensive four night per week classes will be offered in stenography, typewriting, and calculating machine operation.

GIRL 'CAR HIKER' LIKES HER JOB: IT'S GLAMOROUS

Spins 50 Different Autos Thru Loop Sundays.

Driving 50 different cars every Sunday can be more fun than it sounds. At least that's the opinion of Miss Mildred Seelbach, 2437 North Rockwell street, a "car hiker" for the Palmer House garage. It's Mildred's job to take cars from the Palmer House door to the garage, and to deliver them back to the hotel at their owner's call.

Mildred Seelbach.

"For the five minutes from the garage to the hotel, the car belongs to me," Mildred grins. "And maybe you don't think some of those big Cadillacs and shiny roadsters do things to your morale!" She admits getting a thrill out of having people turn around and stare at her as she drives a bright sport touring model thru the loop—people obviously wondering how such a slip of a girl landed such a wonderful car.

Cars Her Hobby.

The novelty of her job hasn't worn off yet, tho Mildred has been hiking cars six weeks now. She doubts that the job will ever lose its glamor for her, because cars have been her hobby for years.

When Mildred left high school and got her first job at $10 a week, she bought "Josephine." The car cost only $30, but the amount of spirit she had made it seem "Josephine" was an ancestor of today's jeeps. Later, as Mildred's income grew, she traded "Josephine" in on a better model, which she gave the more elegant name of "Annabel." Even on a strict diet, "Annabel" manages to get Mildred where she wants to go.

Week days Mildred works as an expediter for the Pure Oil company. Saturday afternoon and evening, and all day Sunday, she's a car hiker, one of two women hired for that job by the Palmer House garage. That leaves all Saturday morning, and Mildred confesses she doesn't know what to do with her time then.

Biggest Tip Was $1.25.

The largest tip she ever received was $1.25, the change from a $5 bill after the owner had paid his garage bill. And the smallest was 4 cents, from a gentleman whose motto is "I always give the girl a dime." He didn't have a dime that night, however, and promised to make it up to Mildred the next Saturday night. He forgot, but she didn't.

Mildred's biggest worry is the starters. She wonders sometimes if car designers stay awake nights figuring out new places to hide them. She has put up tops, turned on radios, fans and headlights, all while she thought she was twisting the starter. The instrument panel on some cars resemble that of a bomber, she believes.

TRANSFER NYA SHOPS TO USE OF PROVISO HIGH

The NYA workshop built by the federal government on Proviso High school property has finally been turned over to the high school, Supt. E. R. Sifert announces. The action climaxes negotiations that have extended over a period of several months.

The shop is expected to be of benefit to both the school and the community at large. It will double the capacity of Proviso's machine shop and make possible the expansion of the vocational training program. The entire shop with all of its equipment is turned over to Proviso for operation during the war. After the war it will remain in possession of the school as long as it is used for the purpose of vocational training.

From the time the project originated, the possibility of its becoming a part of Proviso was considered. For this reason the building was planned to face the school rather than the street. The structure is well designed, well lighted, and thoroly insulated for both summer and winter use. The building and equipment value is estimated at $150,000.

Thrift Shop.

The Thrift shop at 1541 Morse avenue, owned and operated by women of the Congregational church of Rogers Park, will open for the season tomorrow. In business since 1926, the shop's profits are given over to church needs. Mrs. B. L. Wright is chairman.

U.S. FARMERS RAISING CHOICE CHOP SUEY BEAN

War Halts the Imports from China.

Chop suey ingredients which once traveled thousands of miles on the high seas to reach the American dinner table now are being grown in many parts of the United States and Mexico. This good news to those who like Chinese food comes from Joseph Wu, director of the Great China Food Products company at 238 West 23d street.

The green mung beans, from which bean sprouts are made, came from Shantung province in China before the war. Now farmers in Oklahoma, Louisiana, and Virginia have been encouraged to cultivate these beans and Chinese agriculturists are instructing them in planting and growing them.

Called Good Interim Crop.

Chief advantage of mung bean cultivation is that planting time falls between the wheat seasons in June and July and September and October.

Water chestnuts, also a pre-war monopoly of the Chinese, now are being grown in Mexico and, tho production is small, American army, navy, and civilian demands have stimulated production considerably.

Sole China-grown ingredient for which a substitute cannot be found and for which no place within easy reach of the American market has been discovered is the bamboo shoot, but Wu feels this a minor problem in face of the many others that his business faces here at home.

Mushrooms, available in the Chicago area, Michigan, and Ohio, unlike the mushrooms of pre-war days, are fresh, not canned. And fresh mushrooms demand refrigeration or immediate use.

Onions, which come from California and Idaho, used to cost 75 and 90 cents for 50 pounds in the past, Wu points out. Now they cost $3.50 and $4 for the same amount. Celery, from Washington, Oregon, California, Michigan, and Florida, now costs $4.50 and $5 a case. And it used to cost $1.50 and $2.

A FREE COPY . . . TO NEW MEMBERS

Begin your subscription to the Book-of-the-Month Club with one of its selections pictured at the top. Surely, among them is one you have promised yourself to get and read. As a new member, the Club will send you, free, any one of the recent book-dividends shown directly above.

WHAT A SUBSCRIPTION INVOLVES: Over 500,000 families now belong to the Book-of-the-Month Club. They do so in order to keep themselves from missing the new books they are really interested in.

As a Club member, you receive an advance publication report about the judges' choice—and also reports about all other important coming books. If you decide you want the book-of-the-month, you let it come. If not, you can specify some other book you want, or simply say: "Send me nothing."

Last year the retail value of free books given to Club members was over $7,000,000—given, not sold! These book-dividends could be distributed free because so many subscribers ordinarily want the book-of-the-month that an enormous edition can be printed. The saving on this quantity-production enables the Club to buy the right to print other fine library volumes. These are then manufactured and distributed free among subscribers—one for every two books-of-the-month purchased.

Your obligation as a member is simple. You pay no yearly fee. The subscription period is not for one year, but as long as you decide; you can end it at any time after taking four books-of-the-month. You pay for the books as you receive them—the regular retail price (frequently less) plus a small charge to cover postage and other mailing expenses. Prices slightly higher in Canada.

Some Recollections of Chekhov's "Three Sisters"

Critic Recalls Many Facets of Great Play

By Claudia Cassidy.

An English visitor, writing his impressions of us and our stage, remarks that the best of last season's playwrights was Chekhov. So he must be haunted by "The Three Sisters," as I am, and as its brilliant cast must be, tho the players have scattered to the lively ends of the earth. Katharine Cornell is at Martha's Vineyard working on "Lovers and Friends," which at last word hoped for Raymond Massey as co-star. Judith Anderson is overseas playing Shakespeare for soldiers. Edmund Gwenn wants to do Somerset Maugham's "Sheppey" if he can get leave of absence from Hollywood. Wishful thinking puts Dennis King back in his original role for a tour of "The Vagabond King." News of the others is likely to bob up in any fresh batch of theater bulletins as the casting dice rolls for the coming season.

Guthrie McClintic. [Wide World Photo.]

Theater folk are of necessity optimists, and all these personable people must hope that the next venture will be finer than the one before. Just the same, closing a good play is a little like dying, and when "The Three Sisters" reluctantly called it a run there was an aura of melancholy about the cast that had nothing to do with Chekhov, except in gratitude to the remarkable Russian who seems to have believed, "There are no bad roles, only bad actors." The piece is a network of absorbing characters and plays within a play, and the only friction of casting a stellar troupe seems to be the passionate desire of every actress to play Masha.

Playgoers seldom understand this. Many of them even wondered why Miss Cornell chose so small a rôle for her own. But any actress would understand the lure of the part, enigmatic, aloof, silent, bored, then suddenly an eager participant in what Miss Cornell called "the most shameless love scene ever written," meaning the scene between Masha and Vershinin in the second act, under the very eyes of the husband who had turned out to be "the kindest of men, but not the cleverest."

Altho I saw "The Three Sisters" three times, it was not enough to observe all possible facets. At the last few performances, for instance, Miss Cornell said she began to play the confession scene with a new lightness. She thought it went better. Probably the whole performance had keener edge, because Guthrie McClintic was in the house to whet the actor's desire for expert approbation. Would he had been there the final Monday, my own last appearance on the scene. Perhaps with a director in the house Ruth Gordon would not have sacrificed the subtly reined technique of her best performance to a blatant display of overacting.

'DOUGHGIRLS'

With all respect to Edmund Gwenn's solid, lovable and bravura performance in Chebutykin, if he had felt at all indisposed during the Chicago engagement, those last days were the time for it. In New York, Mr. Gwenn chose Christmas day to be taken to the hospital with a temperature of 104. His understudy had vanished into the Christmas maze, and the actors had the day off, with no more expected of them than to assemble at the Ethel Barrymore theater in time for performance.

When they got there, they were in for a shock. No Chebutykin, no show. But McClintic said, "Papa will play it," and he did. All directors are actors at heart—they often act a better play than they direct—and he knew every part from the long period of preparation. At his impromptu début, he says, Miss Cornell and Miss Anderson shook like aspen leaves, but he was cool as an iced cucumber. He uses this fact, which the outsider would consider reassuring, to bolster his conviction that he isn't, really, an actor. No nerves. But he played Chebutykin 28 times to one of the play's largest grosses. After he lets this juicy fact soak in, he admits it was holiday week with extra matinées.

Had he stepped into the rôle in Chicago, it would have been his first bow from a Chicago stage since his direction of "The Green Hat" helped send his wife to stardom. He played one of the doctors [that's the way I remember it in the face of lost records] and it was probably one of those walk-ons to help out. Also in the cast were the moon blonde Ann Harding, whose acting was later to suggest the beautiful facade to an empty house, and a young English actor destined to become a popular star and to meet death by murder in the sky, Leslie Howard.

"The Green Hat," you remember, had its metropolitan opening in Chicago. It was one of the first plays to my reviewing string, and I had scarcely started to write about it when the telephone rang and a not-yet-but-soon producer inquired anxiously if I intended to give it a good review. He hoped not, and his concern was entirely for my future, if any. He reluctantly agreed that whatever else "The Green Hat" might be, it was glamor-plus at the box office, and it had a new star. Then he implored, "Well, at any rate, will you say that all Michael Arlen's heroes are 6 feet tall and every other inch a gentleman?" Who would not? So far as I know, that phrase was coined on my telephone that night. By Jed Harris.

Whether Mr. Harris liked "The Three Sisters" I don't have the slightest notion, tho he prospered from it by directing its spoofing counterpart, "Dark Eyes," due at the Selwyn Sept. 27, and made theater history with his own version of Chekhov in "Uncle Vanya." But of course not every one liked "The Three Sisters" any more than every one liked "The Green Hat."

But one of the people who seem to know most about "The Three Sisters"—Cornell version—is a man who never saw it, Carl J. Wilson, who writes from the United States Naval hospital at Great Lakes. Inclosed in his letter are excerpts from a letter written him by Alfred Gray of Chicago. Mr. Gray, trying to make word pictures for his friend, describes Cornell's movement as "somberly languorous, like a great black cat," and Musgrove's Irina as "a beautiful blossom, then turned brown and withered." But it is with Sister-in-Law Natasha that Mr. Gray really gets going. He writes:

"And Ruth Gordon was a perfect reptile. You never saw any one so hideous in your life, as she set about, a kitten with a snake's heart, to wreck the three sisters and their brother, whom she married. You recall the cook's daughter in 'The Corn Is Green' [Thelma Schnee] who was such a slut. That girl gave a hint of what Gordon does with her part. She's cold as stone, vulgar as a toad and absolutely merciless. . . . The house of the three sisters was crumbling when she entered it, but two years later she had spun a choking web over it, and, at the last, sitting staring at them with triumphant, glittering eyes, in the center of that web, as the sisters moved slowly away, this creature saw the house and the family and the beautiful sisters in utter ruin."

MISS SILVER INTERVENES

"Ivy and Miss Roland were old friends. I was convinced that this must be so, and she made no attempt to deny it. She has been in the habit of walking along the ledge outside your window and climbing up the fire escape to visit her friend."

"That narrow ledge? Impossible!"

"For you or me, yes, but not for a girl who had been trained as an acrobat. I felt sure from the beginning that she was not walking in her sleep. Her possession of a piece torn from your letter to the person who was blackmailing you would have been too much of a coincidence. I was sure that there was some connection between her and the person who had your letter, but when you discovered that this person was Miss Roland, I was not altogether convinced that it was she who was the blackmailer. It seemed unlikely that she would in that case have been so careless as to carry your letter in her bag, and to allow you to catch sight of it there. When she was murdered, I felt tolerably sure that it was not she who was blackmailing you. It also became evident that the affair was extremely serious, and that the blackmailer was a dangerous person who would stick at nothing. You have not been entirely frank with me, but I now urge you in your own interest and from a sense of public duty to tell me what I want to know."

"What is it?" Mabel Underwood was breathing quickly. Her eyes were fixed on Miss Silver's face.

Miss Silver coughed.

"Pray do not be alarmed. Remember that I am trying to help you. I cannot do so while you keep me in ignorance. The matter is urgent. I want to know whether it was only money that was demanded of you."

Mrs. Underwood Reveals the Truth

All the color dropped away from the plump cheeks, leaving them pale under two rouged patches. A fumbling hand went up to the throat.

"How did you know?"

"You told me that you could not raise the money. I did not think that the amounts you could manage would be worth the blackmailer's risk. Remembering your husband's position, it struck me that money might not have been the chief object. You had paid one sum. The fact that you had done so was enough to compromise you. I wondered whether the next demand had been for information."

Mrs. Underwood nodded.

"The letter said they wouldn't insist on a money payment if I liked to help them with some facts for a book about the air force."

"And what did you say to that?"

"I didn't say anything. I just put what was on the torn piece of paper—that I hadn't any money to give."

Miss Silver nodded approval.

"That was very wise of you. Now, Mrs. Underwood, I have to ask you why you were being blackmailed. I cannot work for you in the dark. I have to discover the blackmailer's identity. You must help me to do this. You have a secret. If you will tell me what it is, it will narrow the field of my search. I beg of you to remember that this is a murder case, and that the murderer is at large. Suspicion is bound to rest on innocent people. You, yourself, are not exempt. Pray be frank with me."

Mrs. Underwood gave a great gulping sob.

"I was only 17," she said, "and father brought us up so strict. Mother'd been dead two years, and he had his sister to keep his house. A good hand with the dairy work she was, but we hated her. She was stricter than father. We'd a farm 10 miles out of Lexington, but I'd never so much as been in to see the shops, she was so strict. I'd never been into a shop in my life, only the little general store at Penfold Corner, till I went to stay with my cousins the winter I was 17. I'd been poorly and the doctor said I ought to have a change, so I went into Ledlington to the Tanners that were mother's second cousins. Minnie was about a year older than me, and the next one, Lizzie, was 23. They took me shopping with them. It was just before Christmas. I'd never seen anything like it in my life. I didn't tumble to it at first, but those two girls—well, they came home with more than they paid for. What with the crowds and the Christmas shopping, it was easy enough—a pair of stockings here and a bunch of artificial flowers there, and no one any the wiser. They weren't a bit ashamed either when I began to notice it—only laughed and boasted about how smart they were."

Mrs. Underwood dropped her handkerchief into her lap and gazed at Miss Silver with the tears running down her face. "I don't know what came over me, but I took a pair of stockings. There was going to be a party, and I hadn't any to wear, only thick hand knitted wool, and not a penny in my pocket. I don't remember meaning to do it—I don't believe I did—but the next minute I was putting the stockings into the pocket of my coat and the shop walker had me by the wrist. I don't know what I felt like. I wanted to die, but you can't just because you want to."

She wasn't sobbing now, but the tears kept running down. Her voice and her words were the voice and words of Mabel Peabody—a low, horrified voice and simple words. "He gave me in charge. They brought me up in court and I was bound over because of being only 17 and nothing against me. But there was a headline in the Sun—Farmer's Daughter Charged—and my name. And father wouldn't have me in the house again. He sent me down to his cousin Ellen Sparks that kept a boarding house at Southsea and told her to keep me strict. O, Lord—and didn't she! Up early and down late, working my hands off, and never a penny in my pocket. Six years that went on—six years hard labor. And then Godfrey came and stayed, and took ill—some kind of low fever he'd got abroad—and I looked after him. Well, he fell in love with me and we were married. And that's all. Only if anything was ever to hurt him thru me, what do you suppose I'd feel like? I was like a slave in prison and he took me out. What do you think I'd feel like if I was to hurt him?"

Miss Silver said in a very gentle voice:

"We won't let your husband be hurt, Mrs. Underwood. Now please be brave and dry your eyes, for I want your help. All this took place how long ago?"

"We've been married getting on for 16 years."

"And this occurrence was six years before that—" She thought deeply for a time, whilst Mrs. Underwood sniffed and dried her eyes. Then she said, "Twenty-one years ago—that makes the time right. But you were only a visitor in Ledlington, and for a very short while. However, there is just the possibility. Did your cousins by any chance attend at St. Leonard's church?"

Mrs. Underwood opened her eyes very widely indeed.

"O, yes, they did."

"The vicar was the Rev. Geoffrey Deane?"

"O, yes—he was."

"There is often quite a little gossip about a clergyman's family—parishioners take an interest. Mr. Deane had a daughter, had he not?"

Mrs. Underwood nodded.

"O, yes. Lizzie and Min talked a lot about her. She'd been married in the summer to a Mr. Simpson. Now what was her name? Why, Maud—that was it—Maud Millicent. Sweetly pretty, we thought it was, but she was a fast sort of girl. There was some story about her dressing up in her brother's clothes and getting the bank to pay her out some of his money. It was passed off as a joke, but it made talk, and Min said if it hadn't been for who her father was she'd have been in trouble. Liz said she was the best mimic you could think of. She could take off any one she wanted to and you'd think it was them."

Miss Silver coughed and said:

"I believe she could."

A couple of hours later Chief Inspector Lamb looked in. Sergeant Abbott had news for him, but allowed it to wait while his chief talked.

"D'you know, Frank," he said, "human nature is—well, I don't know if I've got the word to describe it, not having had your advantages in the way of a fancy education. The nearest I can get to it is, it's uncommon like a cartload of monkeys—can't tell what it'll be up to next."

Frank Abbott sat in a languid attitude.

"Meaning Maundersley-Smith?" Lamb nodded.

"A rum go," he pronounced. "He's got the name of being pretty hard-boiled. You don't get from nothing to where he's got to without you're tough, and that's his reputation. Well, this tough nut broke down and cried like a baby when I told him about the girl. Made me feel bad, I tell you—ME—and I'm tough if any one is."

"What did he say, sir?"

Lamb shifted in his chair.

"Broke down and cried like I was telling you, and then came out with the whole story. Seems there's a wife he's been separated from for fifteen years, and he never troubled about a divorce because he hadn't any thoughts of getting married again—said it kept the girls off from chasing him. Then he comes across Carola Roland and goes down flat. He started divorce proceedings, got a decree nisi in July, and was going to marry Carola in January as soon as the decree was made absolute. That's what brought her to Vandeleur House and kept her so quiet—there wasn't to be a breath of scandal in case the King's Proctor took it into his head to intervene. The girl knew which side her bread was buttered. She wrote him smeary letters like the one we found, and made him stay away. Last night he said he simply could not bear it. He got out his car and drove himself here—didn't ring up or anything, but just came along. I fancy he was pretty jealous about her. Anyhow he says he got here about eight o'clock and didn't stay more than half an hour—says she wouldn't let him. She gave him a drink, and she had a glass of wine and a biscuit herself, so we've got that accounted for. And then she said a few kind words and pushed him off—said she'd got her reputation to think about, and what fools they'd be to risk upsetting the divorce. I asked him if there had been any quarrel, and he broke down and said she loved him for himself alone and there had never been a cross word between them—said the last he saw of her she was smiling and kissing her hand to him as he went down in the lift. It must have been him Bell saw going away from the house at half past eight."

"Maundersby-Smith broke down and cried like a baby when I told him about the girl."

Abbott Repeats Maudie's Findings

"Think he was telling the truth, sir?"

"Well, I do. Of course there's no corroboration. There might have been a quarrel, he might have killed her, and he might have been putting on an act for me, but I don't think so. Simple sort of chap once you got under his skin, and mortal fond of the girl. I think he was telling the truth. Now what have you got for me—anything?"

Frank Abbott stretched his long legs and then sat up.

"Plenty, sir. To begin with, I spent an hour with Maudie. She was kind and instructive. She suggests amongst other things that the Willards would bear investigation. Mr. Willard was dangling after Carola, and Mrs. Willard washed a perfectly new dress some time between last night and ten o'clock this morning—don't know what she was wearing when Curtis saw her. Possibility that the dress was stained, and that traces of the stain still remain. She is also very insistent on the antecedents of all flatholders being dug up. Furthermore, there was quite a piece about Miss Garside being on the rocks. No groceries for a week—all that kind of thing."

Lamb looked up with his eyes round and bulging.

"As bad as that, was it? We know she was hard up. Here — where did Miss Silver get all this?"

"She helped Mrs. Smollett wash up, sir." A smile flickered and was gone. "Well then, after all that I went round the jewelers—I got a list from Mrs. Jackson—and the second place I went to had the ring. Big shop in the High Street—Allingham's. Miss Garside brought it in this morning at half past nine, and they bought it. Mr. Allingham said she was an old customer and they never dreamed of there being anything wrong. They had bought other things from her—a couple of diamond brooches and a fine Queen Anne teapot. He showed me the ring, and there were the initials all right—M. B. It looks bad."

Lamb frowned.

"Looks mad to me. Woman must be off her head to go to a shop where she's known, with a murdered woman's ring. I suppose she thought we shouldn't find out that the rings had been changed. The public's got an idea that the police are a lot of thick-headed numskulls who can't see what's under their noses. And that's the fault of all these detective novels — a pack of rubbish! Well, we'll have to go along and see the woman—arrest her, I suppose. There's a case over the ring anyhow, unless she's got a much better explanation than I can think of."

Frank Abbott got up.

"She might have taken the ring, and yet not have had anything to do with the murder. Have you thought of that, sir?"

Lamb nodded.

"That's on the cards, but not very likely."

"You remember saying what Maudie's strong suit was—that she knew people? You said she didn't make mistakes about them. Well, she says if Miss Garside, who is a very tidy and particular person, had washed the blood off that statuette she would have put it back on the mantelpiece, but that Mrs. Willard, who is clean but very untidy, might very easily have washed it and dropped it back on the sofa. If she handled the statuette before the blood was dry she might have stained her dress, and that would account for her having washed it."

Lamb got to his feet.

"Look here, Frank, what are you driving at? They didn't all kill her, did they? I like a case where there aren't so many people who might have done it. All right—we'll take 'em one at a time. Mrs. Willard's on the down anyhow."

Mrs. Willard had plugged in her electric iron and was slipping a damp dress over the ironing board when the bell rang. She looked surprised to see the Chief Inspector and Sergeant Abbott, but not at all disconcerted. She liked doing her ironing in the sitting room because two of the chairs there were of just the right height to take the board. Well, she supposed that both the men had seen a woman ironing before now, and it wasn't as if it was underclothes. She led the way into the room and went over to turn the iron off. So easy to forget, and she didn't want a hole in her board and the flat smelling like a fire. When she straightened up, there they were, both of them, looking down at the damp dress. For the first time something touched her like a cold finger.

The large man who was the Chief Inspector looked up from the dress and said,

"There are just a few questions we should like to ask you, Mrs. Willard."

She managed a hesitating smile and said,

"Yes?"

"I think you told Sergeant Curtis that your husband left you soon after seven o'clock last night and did not return until this morning."

Mrs. Willard said, "That's right."

She was standing behind one of the big chairs. She put out a hand now and rested it upon the back.

"I'm sorry to put a personal question, but I'm afraid I must ask you if this was in consequence of a quarrel between you."

She took a moment before she said,

"Well, it was—but it's all made up now."

"Was the quarrel about Miss Roland?" Lamb's tone was very direct.

Mrs. Willard flushed all over her face and made no reply. She stood quite still behind the chair and looked down at her hand.

Lamb said in an authoritative voice,

"Then I take it that you did quarrel about Miss Roland. You can correct me if I'm wrong."

Mrs. Willard Tells of Washing Statue

Mrs. Willard said nothing. She stood there looking down. Her hand had closed on the back of the chair and was gripping hard.

"Mrs. Willard, I can't force you to answer—I can only invite you to do so. If you have nothing to conceal on your own account, you know that it is your duty to assist the police. Did you leave your flat at any time last night and go up to No. 8? Did you wash this dress because it became stained whilst you were in Miss Roland's flat?"

Frank Abbott had lifted the right-hand sleeve and turned it over. The stuff was only faintly damp. A red and green pattern straggled over a cream-colored ground. The colors were fast and had not run at the edges, but on the outside of the sleeve from wrist to elbow the cream was clouded by a stain of brownish red. Frank Abbott exclaimed,

"Look here, sir!"

Mrs. Willard looked up, and the Chief Inspector down. There was a pause before Lamb said:

"A laboratory experiment will prove whether that stain is blood or not. Is there anything you would like to say, Mrs. Willard?"

She took her hand off the chair and came up to the ironing board.

"It ran up my sleeve when I was washing the little statue," she said in a meditative tone. "A stain does spread so on silk. I suppose it was the shock, but I forgot all about it till I saw Alfred looking at it this morning. I don't know what he thought, because I was too tired to talk—I'd been up all night. I just put the dress in to soak and went and lay down—"

Lamb broke in:

"I have to warn you that anything you say will be taken down and may be used against you."

Fine History of a Business Institution

By Arthur C. Bergholz.

There is a growing interest in good histories of institutions. The layman as well as the professional is finding them a source of insight into the forces which mold society. Influential institutions outlive the individual and exhibit the manifold workings of great social forces.

We are indebted to N. S. B. Gras ["Casebook in American Business History," Crofts, $5] for his pioneering. His guidance and inspiration have been responsible for a number of such books. The most recent is Ralph M. Hower's "History of Macy's of New York, 1858-1919: Chapters in the Evolution of the Department Store," [Harvard University Press, $3.75].

This work is of unusual merit. Hower envisions the story of Macy's as an epitomization of the great force of retail distribution as it has worked itself out in the United States. He shows skill in holding the detailed history of the big New York department store against the background of distribution. The reader can always follow the evolutionary growth of the store as it shows itself now in one, now in another of the developments of retailing. He can sense the drama of the changing pattern.

At the beginning of the 19th century, before technological improvements had hit their stride, retailing took place in a seller's market. That is, there were more customers than goods to sell. This meant that the retailer could specialize in whatever goods he could carry. The customer sought him out.

However, as industry advanced and the growing population centered in cities the storekeeper found himself no longer in a seller's market. Now there were more goods than could be disposed of thru existing outlets. New pressures began to appear. The manufacturer became impatient to get his goods on the market, and pressed the retailer to do so in a manner most advantageous to the manufacturer. On the other hand, the consumer, because of the urgent limitations put upon his time and energy by urbanization, pressed the retailer to discover ways of merchandising which would economize on both time and energy.

The result was that the storekeeper was caught in the cross pull of two tendencies which were already at work. Tho he was specialized in his handling of merchandise, there was a constant pull to integrate related lines of goods into the same selling pattern. As the character of the market changed there was an increased pressure toward integration.

The first steps toward combining diversified goods into an integrated pattern of selling formed the initial stage of the department store. Macy's was a pioneer in this activity. But at no time was the development from these beginnings an easy one. The manufacturer was partially appeased when the department stores by-passed the wholesaler and came directly to him. However, impelled by the advances in technology, the manufacturer sought to go directly into the market. He advertised extensively, established his own brands, and in some cases set up his own retail outlets. The independent specialized and semi-specialized retailer fought for his economic life.

Stakes were high. The give and take in the struggle was fast. A gross miscalculation was likely to be fatal. The department store experimented with its own manufacturing, its own private brands, the activity of wholesaling. But, as Hower shows in the case of Macy's, the enterprise and imagination given to the development of the store prevented it from making costly errors.

All this the author recounts with a wealth of detail and perspicacity.

Hower is particularly good at depicting the main formative forces in retailing. He brings the story up to 1919 only, as he has wisely decided to wait for the conclusion of World War II. before undertaking the subsequent story. The material concerning the period up to 1919 is handled so expertly that both the layman and the professional have a rich perspective from which to view future trends.

Now, in the midst of World War II., technology is given a new impetus. What goods resulting from these advances will gain the preference? Airplanes? The many items depending upon electronics? Amid all the potentials of change the department store approaches the future with numerous advantages, as Hower's history of Macy's so clearly shows.

Not the least of these advantages is the acquisition, thru its sturdy development, of a cultural value. Department stores have become a part of the culture of the communities in which they do business. People like to shop. They like to compare values and, above all, they like to expose themselves to suggestion. Periodic visits to department stores have become a part of the social mores.

Such reflections, and many others, are the fruit of this rewarding work. Every reader of it will await, with great interest, Prof. Hower's second volume.

Miss Silver INTERVENES

By PATRICIA WENTWORTH

(Copyright: 1943: By Patricia Wentworth Turnbull.)

INSTALMENT XII.

Mrs. UNDERWOOD tossed her head in an even more marked manner than before. "Miss Garside thinks herself better than any one else—we all know that—but I don't know that any one knows why. She used to keep house for a brother who was a professor, I believe, and they used to travel a great deal—France, Germany, Italy—all that kind of thing. I suppose that's how she got her stuck-up ideas."

"The Lemmings know her," said Meade. "Agnes says she is very proud and reserved. She came here after her brother died, and I'm afraid she isn't at all well off now. Agnes isn't very happy about her."

Miss Silver said, "I see——" and began to ask a great many questions about Mr. and Mrs. Willard and the Lemmings.

When tea was over she proceeded helpfully to the kitchen.

"We are such a party that I am sure you would like a little assistance with the washing up, Ivy. I was drying for Mrs. Smollett after lunch, and we got along so quickly."

"It's very kind of you, I'm sure."

"Such pretty china," said Miss Silver brightly. "Roses are great favorites of mine. Ah, I see that you have a good hot water supply. Such a comfort.

"You are very quick and clever with your hands, Ivy. I expect that would be your training as an acrobat. Miss Meade was telling me about it. Such a fascinating life. I read a very interesting book about a year ago about circus life called Luke's Circus—really most charming, and of absorbing interest. Domestic work must be a great change for you, is it not?"

Ivy found herself telling the visitor all about Glad, and the accident, and how the doctors didn't think she'd ever be much good at walking again.

"But I'm as good as ever as far as that goes. I wouldn't like to go on the wire again. I'm awful out of practice, and I wouldn't like to anyhow, not without Glad. I miss her bad enough as it is, and it'd be worse if I went back. We wasn't reelly circus people, you know—not reely. We were on the halls most of the time. Glad and Ivy—that was us. I've got some old bills with the names on. Seems a long time ago."

"Was that where you knew Miss Roland?" said Miss Silver gently.

Ivy dropped one of the rose flowered cups. It fell into the sink and broke. She gave a queer half smothered cry.

"Don't be frightened," said Miss Silver—"and never mind about the cup. It was when you were on the halls that you met Miss Roland, was it not?"

Ivy blinked.

"She didn't want any one to know," she said.

Miss Silver said, "No, I suppose not," She looked at Ivy very kindly. "But it does not matter now.

"No, it doesn't matter now. I think you had better tell me about it. She got you to come here to Mrs. Underwood, didn't she?"

Ivy stared. She would have backed away if there had been anywhere to go, but the sink held her.

"How do you know?" she said in a frightened whisper.

Miss Silver took the success of a chance shot equably.

"You met her. Was it by accident? It is always pleasant when one runs up against an old friend like that. And she told you she had taken a flat here, and suggested that you should apply for Mrs. Underwood's place?"

Ivy stared. She would have backed away if there had been anywhere to go.

Ivy nodded. It was like being at the dentist's, only worse. She blinked again and said in a breathless voice:

"You didn't arf give me a start, miss. How ever did you know?"

Miss Silver made no answer to that. She asked a question instead.

"Do you really walk in your sleep?"

This was awful. It took the rest of Ivy's breath away. She began to feel as if she hadn't any clothes on and Miss Silver's eyes were looking right through her to her bones. She gasped and said:

"I did when I was a kid."

"Have you walked in your sleep since you came here?"

"I might ha' done."

Miss Silver shook her head in slight but kind reproof.

Miss Silver Tells Ivy's Activities

"I think not. Mrs. Underwood locks the front door and takes the key into her room at night, does she not? I think you have been getting out of your window and walking along the ledge that runs round the house until you came to the fire escape. Only some one who had had an acrobat's training would have attempted such a thing, but it would not be difficult for you. I expect you rather enjoyed it. I noticed that a ledge runs round the house on a level with the windows of each floor, so you had only to go up the fire escape in order to reach Miss Roland's flat. I see that the escape comes up beside the sitting room window. In this way you could pay her a visit without any one knowing about it. That is what you used to do, is it not?"

"How did you know?"

"Because you dropped a piece of paper inside Mrs. Underwood's bedroom window on your return from one of these visits. I do not know whether you meant to drop it there or not. I think not. I think you had it in your hand, and that you dropped it as you were steadying yourself by the sash whilst passing the window. Now this piece of paper was the corner of a letter which Mrs. Underwood had written. The rest of the letter was found in Miss Roland's bag. So, you see, it was quite clear to me that you must have passed Mrs. Underwood's window on a return journey from Miss Roland's flat. There was really no other way in which that particular piece of paper could have reached the spot where Mrs. Underwood found it. Her bedroom door and the door of the flat were both locked. There was no other way."

Ivy started. Then she moistened her lips with her tongue and said:

"That's right."

"How did the letter get torn?"

Miss Silver had hardly asked the question before she was aware of having made a mistake. Ivy's immediate reaction was that after all Miss Silver didn't know everything. Quite visibly she rallied to the defence of what she was determined to hide. Something uncommonly like impudence looked sideways out of the reddened eyes.

"Coo! Don't you know?"

Miss Silver's manner became gently repressive.

"I think you tried to snatch it."

Impudence ran away in a fright. Ivy gaped.

"It wasn't hers—she didn't ought to have had it—I told her so. Mind you, it wasn't a row. She only laughed, but I thought I was going to lose my temper, so I come away."

"How did she get that letter?" said Miss Silver.

Sharp and quick, Ivy's Cockney wit prompted her. "Here's your chance. Take it, you fool!" Easy—easy—easy. She opened her eyes in a blank stare.

"How do I know how she got it? Same way we all do. Postman comes regular, doesn't he?"

"How did you know she had it?"

No way out after all. And your heart coming right up into your throat by the feel of it. What could you do?

She did the only thing that was any good. It happened also to be the easiest thing in the world. She gave a rending sob and burst into tears. Upon which she ran out of the kitchen and banged the door.

Miss Silver, listening with an air of sober attention, heard the slam of the bedroom door and the sound of the key clicking round in the lock.

Miss Silver sighed, smiled resignedly, and went in search of Mrs. Underwood, whom she found in her bedroom, and apparently without occupation. She was sitting in a chintz-covered easy chair beside a small gas fire turned low. There was plenty of daylight outside, but it was of a cold and cheerless nature.

Miss Silver was pleased to observe the fire. She considered the fumed oak mantelpiece and the surround of rose colored tiles very tasteful. Drawing a smaller chair

What Has Gone Before

Meade Underwood dreams that Giles Armitage, her fiance, whose ship was torpedoed, is alive. She runs into Giles in London, but he has lost his memory. Meade lives with her Aunt Mabel Underwood, wife of a wing commander. Mrs. Underwood is being blackmailed and appeals to Miss Maud Silver, private detective, suggesting Ivy Lord, her sleep-walking maid, may be involved. Other tenants are: Aged Mrs. Meredith, cared for by Miss Crane; Carola Roland, a showgirl; Mr. and Mrs. Willard, who are having marital trouble over Carola; Agnes Lemming and her mother; Mr. Drake; Miss Garside; Mr. and Mrs. Spooner, who are away. Bell is the janitor and Mrs. Smollett the cleaning woman. During a bridge game Mrs. Underwood is shocked to see part of her note to the blackmailer in Carola's purse. Carola claims to be married to Giles and shows him a letter he wrote to her. Miss Garside tries to pawn a ring, only to find it paste.. Carola wears a similar ring. When Carola goes out with her sister Miss Garside decides to switch rings, using Bell's keys. Next morning Carola is found murdered. Inspector Lamb and Sergeant Abbott question Giles and Meade. Giles' memory returns. Carola was married to his brother. Mrs. Smollett is questioned, and Miss Crane invites her for a cup of tea. The Willards are reconciled. Mr. Willard sees blood on his wife's sleeve. Mrs. Underwood admits being blackmailed and summons Miss Silver. Mrs. Jackson, a jeweler's wife, reveals that her sister, Carola Roland, was engaged to a wealthy man in the shipping industry, that Mr. Willard called at her sister's door but was sent away, and that she and her sister saw Miss Garside when they were leaving Carola's flat. Miss Silver questions Mrs. Underwood, helps Mrs. Smollett, and acquires information about every one in Vandeleur House. Mrs. Jackson checks her sister Carola's jewelry and discovers one ring is not Carola's. The ring Jack Armitage had given Carola has his mother's initials in it. Giles confirms this. Miss Garside has a caller, a smartly dressed woman. Miss Silver, having tea with Mrs. Underwood, Giles, and Meade, plies them with questions about everything and everybody in the flats.

Musicology a Fascinating Study of Original Scripts

Work Entails a Search for Musical Truth

By Albert Goldberg.

The starting point of most music-making is the printed page. Until fairly recent research revealed that the printed text of most modern editions of the classics is often far removed from the composer's original intention, the printed page was of necessity the interpreter's gospel. But a new branch of scholarship has lately come into being, clumsily called musicology, which, among other things, seeks to probe behind printed texts and discover the truth from original manuscripts and corrected first proofs, even, in some cases, to ferret out the composer's own errors.

Oswald Jonas.

The benefits to be derived from such studies are obvious, and their influence upon musical interpretation will be felt for years to come. As far back as 1837 Robert Schumann saw the need for such research when he wrote an article on "Certain Probably Corrupted Reading of Passages in the Works of Bach, Mozart, and Beethoven," in which he stated: "If we were acquainted with all those mistakes, volumes might be written about them; and if earthly tones penetrate beyond the grave, I think the masters must smile when they hear the errors that custom, tradition, and even anxious reverence have introduced into their works . . . The original manuscript remains the authority that must be first referred to."

But Schumann's warning went mostly unheeded and during the romantic nineteenth century the music market was flooded with "editions" of the great masters by self-appointed authorities who introduced into the printed text their own interpretations, prejudices, and revisions, quite oblivious of the composer's intention as explicitly set down in his original manuscript.

Most of these editions have held over into our own time and have had a profound effect upon the musical understanding and interpretative viewpoint of several generations of musicians. Nor has the supposedly enlightened twentieth century been guiltless of this type of musical "editing," for no less an authority than Artur Schnabel, eminent scholar and interpreter of Beethoven's piano works, has issued a monumental edition of that composer's sonatas so overlaid with comment and suggestion that it almost requires a separate research project to uncover the original Beethoven.

This new pursuit after musical truth can become a fascinating one. One of the foremost European scholars in this field, Oswald Jonas, has recently taken up residence in Chicago and offers some interesting glimpses into the work of a musical detective. The holder of a doctorate from the University of Vienna, the city of his birth, Mr. Jonas has conducted research in the National Library of Vienna, the State Library of Berlin, the British museum, the Library of Congress, as well as in many other repositories of original scripts. The results of his labors have appeared in leading periodicals of Europe and America.

Mr. Jonas objects rather strenuously to being called a musicologist, but can think of no better term to replace that one. "I hate the word," he says. "It has almost come to mean one who is not interested in music, but only in its dry bones. The real musicologist is one who uses his theory and research for practical purposes. His main objective must be to help the performer and interpreter."

Many interesting revelations are to be discovered from a study of original manuscripts. "The manner in which the masters wrote their music was almost never exactly realized in print," Mr. Jonas says. "In order properly to transfer the manuscript to the printed page one must make a microscopic study of the composer's habits and idiosyncracies of notation. One finds that even in the original printed editions there are many deviations from the composers' manuscripts. Some of these are obvious misprints, others arose from a misunderstanding of the composer's intention. Later editions were prepared from the original printed text rather than from the manuscript, with the result that many glaring errors have been perpetuated thru the years.

"Often, however, the composers themselves made changes in the proofs and for perfect accuracy these too must be consulted when still available. One of the most famous of such instances is the opening of Beethoven's fifth symphony, to which the composer added a fifth measure in the proofs that does not appear in the manuscript, in order to give the famous 'Victory' motive the effect of an upbeat to the phrase.

"Manuscripts, too, sometimes tell interesting stories. The manuscript of Beethoven's 'Appassionata' sonata, for instance, is smudged with water spots, seeming to substantiate the legend that the composer, with customary negligence, was carrying it unprotected to perform at the house of a friend, when he was caught in a violent rainstorm."

Tho to the casual observer, Beethoven's scrawled manuscripts may seem almost impossible to decipher, Mr. Jonas asserts that to the careful student they incorporate a mass of perfectly accurate detail, in spite of innumerable corrections, changes, and Beethoven's invariable blots. Mozart wrote meticulous manuscripts, as one might expect. Bach seldom changed or corrected his scripts. If dissatisfied, he simply rewrote the whole thing, which accounts for the frequently many versions of the same work.

Wagner's scores as a rule look as if they had been engraved. But when irresistible inspiration urged him on, as in "Tristan and Isolde," the script becomes almost as scrawled and impetuous as Beethoven's. Chopin presents a pretty problem to the seeker after musical truth. His manuscripts are none too legible at best, but often he failed to correct his own obvious errors. Furthermore, many of his works were published simultaneously in Paris, Leipzig, and London, and to each of his publishers Chopin would send a manuscript in his own hand, each incorporating his latest revisions, and not one exactly agreeing with any other one.

Altho many original manuscripts have found their way into the great libraries, important collections are still scattered about Europe. According to Mr. Jonas, it has never been possible to issue a complete definitive edition of Haydn's works for the reason that his onetime patrons, the aristocratic Esterhazy family of Vienna and Budapest, still hold many unpublished compositions in the family archives and have steadfastly refused to release them.

For the most part, however, the whereabouts of original manuscripts are known.

The majority of Beethoven's are in the state library of Berlin, in the Beethoven museum at his birthplace, Bonn, and in a private collection in Switzerland. Most of Mozart's operas and symphonies also are in the Berlin State Library, tho the British museum has all of the string quartets. Schubert's originals are in possession of the Gesellschaft der Musikfreunde in Vienna, as are many of Brahms'. The extensive and growing collection of the Library of Congress has many Brahms scores, including the first and third symphonies. Wagner's originals of course are sacredly preserved in Bayreuth, while Chopin's are mostly in the library of the Paris conservatoire, where, strangely enough, also repose Mozart's "Don Giovanni" and Beethoven's "Appassionata" sonata.

Chicago is not without its originals, for the Newberry library is the proud possessor of manuscripts of Bach's fugue in B major, the 22d of the second volume of the Well Tempered Clavichord; Schubert's song, "Ein Gruppe aus dem Tartarus"; Wagner's notorious Festival March, written on commission of Theodore Thomas for the Philadelphia Centennial exposition of 1876; Frederick Stock's Symphonic Waltz; Macdowell's first piano concerto in A minor; Brahms' song, "Vergebliches Ständchen"; as well as many other interesting items, including important collections of motets, madrigals, and folk songs of the middle ages.

The first concerted effort to make such treasures generally available for study and reference was inspired by Mr. Jonas' teacher, the late Heinrich Schenker, eminent Viennese theorist, who in 1927 persuaded a wealthy Dutch pupil, Anthony van Hoboken, to found a photostat archive in the National library in Vienna. This collection now numbers over 60,000 photographs of famous manuscripts which can be reproduced and distributed at will. Other institutions have followed this lead and within a few years facsimiles of original manuscripts may be as easily obtainable as printed copies are today.

The result may strongly influence all music interpretation and performance. It at least will eliminate such episodes as the famous encounter between Arturo Toscanini and Bruno Walter, who one day in Berlin became engaged in a violent dispute concerning a passage in Mozart's G minor symphony. To prove his point, Toscanini took his colleague to the State library and showed him the correct version in the original manuscript. When the luckless Walter confessed he had never seen it before, Toscanini soundly berated him for his negligence.

The possibilities, it will be seen, are almost endless. This sort of scholarship may even remove some of the apocryphal high notes from operatic scores, but that will be another story.

CONDUCTOR

Sigmund Romberg, composer of "The Student Prince," "Desert Song" and other perennial operetta favorites, opens the 1943-'44 season at Orchestra hall on Sept. 24 and 25, when he will conduct an orchestra in three concerts of his own compositions and the lighter music of other composers.

Actor Finds Costume Fits After 25 Years

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. (AP).—Bill Farnum, now 67 years old, is playing a role in "Frontier Bad Men." The former star of stage and screen gave the wardrobe department quite a turn when he slipped into the same suit, boots, and hat that he had worn over 25 years before in his first western roles, "Riders of the Purple Sage." It's the only known case of a Hollywood actor keeping an unchanging set of measurements.

Dwight Fiske Coming to Blackstone Hotel Friday

Bondshu Also Returning to Mayfair Room

By Will Davidson.

The Blackstone hotel takes a turn to the Dwight Friday, when the risque Mr. Fiske comes back to the Mayfair room with a pocketful of bawdy ballads. Mr. Fiske is one of the most successful mudders in the business, having gone fodder than any along the line of putting smoking room stories into the best cafes.

Billy De Wolfe.

Neil Bondshu will come back that night, too, and will probably be having his inevitable hysterics over the Fiskean funnies.

A week from Friday the Chez brings sultry Gertrude Niesen back, heading a show that includes Luis Gomez and Beatrice, a smart Latin dance team; the mad magician, Dr. Marcus; Carol and Sherod, the two tall blondes who danced themselves into Chez fame some seasons ago; Lou Breese's band, featuring Blossom Lee's vocals, and Fred Evans' Adorables.

Next Saturday night finds Don Reid and his orchestra making their Chicago debut in a double header program with Lawrence Welk at the Trianon ballroom. They'll repeat Sunday. The following weekend, Sept. 25 and 26, Joe Sanders will be the co-star. Buddy Franklin continues to be the attraction at the north side Aragon.

This is slightly out of my territory, but I don't think Mae Tinee will mind. If you didn't catch "Dixie" at the Chicago theater, don't miss it when it hits what Variety calls the nabes—the neighborhood theaters. If you're a Crosby fan you probably have made plans to anyway, but today I'm plugging Billy De Wolfe, who steals the show, hands down. Billy came into my line of vision for the first time at the Palmer House a year ago, when he was starring in the Empire room floor show. I thought then that he was one of the ablest and funniest impressionists I had ever seen. After the Palmer House run Billy went west to make "Dixie" and the next time I saw him he was in a sailor suit. Since then I've seen him frequently around town and it's a floor show anytime you run into Seaman Jones [his real name]. Now I'm more excited about Billy than ever, since seeing his movie debut. Never have you beheld a suaver villain than Mr. Bones. Never has one so endeared himself to you as probably the most likable heel you ever saw. Billy's voice, his perfect facial control, his poise, and his irrepressible sense of the comic make this role memorable. I just hope that Hollywood doesn't forget it, for Billy is a star if ever there was one. He's the type of actor you'll always identify as an individual—who has that priceless gift of personality that is so malleable it can be at its best in many roles. Paramount can be happy it has De Wolfe at its door.

The Bismarck has brought in an engaging young dance team for its New Walnut room floor show. They are Bob Robinson and Virginia Martin. Bob and Virginia do some expert dancing, a lot of it in the Latin motif. But, bless their hearts, they don't pretend to be suave and sultry disciples of something sacredly important. They just dance, and dance like two energetic kids who get such a kick out of knowing some wonderful steps that they think you'll probably get a kick of watching them performed. They're right, you do.

Art Kassel is as ever the popular host, and he calls on Gloria Hart, Earl Randall, and personable little Jimmie Featherstone to sing. As I understand it, John Tio, the parrot, is back now for a short run.

GENIUS OF THE PIANO

Robert Crum, dynamic piano genius, is the star of the floor show in the Panther room of the Hotel Sherman. So intricate and expert is Robert's finger work that a mirror is hung above him so that the audience can watch the keyboard.

Arriving at the stockyards, Frank was nattily attired in white trousers, sport jacket, gay foulard tie, Panama hat, and cane. "Release" Entertainment.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—(AP).—It used to be producers called them "escapist" stories. Now they dub such films "release" entertainment, on the grounds the former sounds too much like Sing Sing.

Drama Notes

"Skating Vanities of 1944," a musical revue on roller skates featured in Betty Grable's latest movie, "Pin-Up Girl," will open at the Chicago Arena on Tuesday. This is a second and entirely new edition with a cast of 100 and 30 separate acts, including some already well known to vaudeville and musical comedy. Fanchon and Marco have supervised the production and introduced numerous innovations, such as a singing master of ceremonies. Gae Foster is responsible for some new and intricate skating sequences, and Gloria Nord heads a cast that includes Dolly Durkin, Ann Manion, Frank Foster, Bobby Johnson, Rose Piccola, LaVada Simmons, Hugh Thomas, Otto Eason, Bill Leighton, Shirley Barnhart, "Little Maxie" Nirska, Ken Davidson, Marion Belett, the English brothers, Bobby Whaling, and Yavette. Jay Freeman conducts the 20 piece orchestra. Performances are nightly with a matinee scheduled for next Sunday at 2:30.

The Jack and Jill Players continue performances of "Mr. and Mrs. North" next Saturday at 8:30 and each Saturday thru September in their theater at 180 East Delaware place.

Mary Beth Hughes and Jean Parker of Hollywood are listed for the cast of a musical called "Hawaii," with music by Arthur Gershwin, which Lew Cooper hopes to open in Detroit, Thanksgiving and to have on Broadway by Christmas. Phil Silvers will have an important role, and the time is post-Pearl Harbor.

Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" will be presented on Friday and Saturday nights thru September by the Uptown Players at 1219 North La Salle street. J. Bradley Griffin acts as narrator of the story and the cast includes Lorraine Hall, Marie Zoder, Delores Meyer, Robert Van Brunt, Waleigh Rasmussen, Howard Cox, Joyce Jansen, and Robert Forman. Service men are admitted free to all performances.

One of the best things about "Jane Eyre," now starting its last week at the Erlanger, is the brief appearance in the last act of Cora Witherspoon, disguised as a serving maid of the moors. Miss Witherspoon has been appearing in plays since 1905 when she played in "Janice Meredith" at her native New Orleans. Five years later, in New York, she convinced Leo Ditrichstein that she could cope with a character role in "The Concert," and she appeared in a bit as a 70 year old woman. After that came Milwaukee stock, and roles in such famous plays as "Daddy Long Legs," "The Constant Wife," "Jezebel," "Camille" and many others. In Hollywood she appeared with W. C. Fields in "Bank Dick" and with Bette Davis in "Dark Victory." Almost as well known as Miss Witherspoon is her dog, Lucky, a remarkable animal which possesses autographed photographs of Tallulah Bankhead and the late David Belasco. Once when the late George M. Cohan offered Miss Witherspoon a job with a play trying out in Boston, she asked the producer, "What will I do with Lucky?" and he said, "Get him a stateroom and bring him along." She did just that and during the Boston run of the play Lucky's board bill cost Cohan $2 a day.

Nothing succeeds like—for "success" write "Kiss and Tell." For many years before he wrote his comedy of perplexed adolescence—now taxing the capacities of Chicago's Harris, New York's Biltmore, and Boston's Plymouth theaters—F. Hugh Herbert was just another Hollywood scenario writer. Three days before "Kiss and Tell" opened on Broadway, he sold a complete shooting script, "The Guy Can Change," to Republic for $3,500, the studio intending to use it for a modest "B" film. After "Kiss and Tell" clicked, Republic turned down resale bids from other studios for 10 times the amount paid, and now proposes to use the script for an "A" picture starring John Wayne. In addition, both Columbia studios and David O. Selznick are bidding for Herbert's services. Columbia wants him to do the scenario for the next Irene Dunne picture; Selznick offers him the screen version of "Kiss and Tell" as a Shirley Temple vehicle, providing Selznick wins the picture rights to the stage hit.

The first of a number of new faces soon to appear in the cast of "Good Night, Ladies" preparatory to its Broadway invasion is Sheila Bromley, who now plays the role of Skeets Gallagher's wife in the Blackstone theater's record breaking farce. Miss Bromley's last appearance here was with Alan Dinehart in "Thanks for My Wife."

Minnie Galatzer, director of "Guest in the House," which enters its 11th week at Kimball hall, has trained six new actors for the cast with the intention not only of giving the original incumbents of the various roles a rest, but also with the purpose of creating a versatile acting ensemble. Irene King, Robert Van Brunt, Vera Conroy, Richard Thorne, and Kay Rawlins replace Shirley Linder, Jerry Miller, Lillian Schmit, and Ray Fry. Lorraine Greenband and Shirley Gerstein will alternate in the role of the 8 year old child, replacing Bobby Lou Leibs.

CHICAGO PLAYBILLS

CONTINUING:

"Good Night, Ladies," farce by Cyrus Wood, with Stuart Erwin and Skeets Gallagher; Blackstone theater; 75th week.

"Maid in the Ozarks," mountain comedy by Claire Parrish; Great Northern theater; 53d week.

"The Doughgirls," farce by Joseph Fields, with Taylor Holmes and Lenore Ulric; Selwyn theater; 28th week.

"Kiss and Tell," comedy by F. Hugh Herbert, with Katherine Warren, Clay Clement and Patricia Kirkland; Harris theater; 19th week.

"Guest in the House," drama by Dale Eunson and Hagar Wilde; amateur group directed by Minnie Galatzer; Kimball hall; 11th week.

"Jane Eyre," Helen Jerome's dramatization of the novel by Charlotte Brontë, with Sylvia Sidney and Luther Adler; 6th and final week.

COMING:

"Dark Eyes," comedy by Elena Miramova and Eugenie Leontovich, with Miss Miramova and Tamara Geva; opens at Selwyn theater, Sept. 27.

"Oklahoma," musical play with book and lyrics by Oscar Hammerstein II., music by Richard Rodgers, choreography by Agnes de Mille, based on Lynn Rigg's play, "Green Grow the Lilacs"; with Evelyn Wyckoff, Harry Stockwell and Walter Donahue; opens at Erlanger theater, Nov. 15.

THE LITERARY SPOTLIGHT

by Fanny Butcher

PUBLICATION of J. B. Priestley's "Daylight on Saturday" reminds me of the first time I ever met Mr. Priestley. . . . Now he is almost ambi-national. . . . Years in Hollywood and his tremendous American success have made him so. . . . Then he was a Yorkshire man, and you could take it or leave it. . . . Maybe you still can, because not long ago he wrote in a short autobiographical sketch: "Often considered too blunt, brusque or downright 'difficult,' but actually am amiable and rather shy." . . . He was neither the first time I met him, on his first trip to America after the fabulous success of "The Good Companions."

It was at the home of his publisher, Cass Canfield, president of the honorable old house of Harper & Brothers, which last year celebrated its 125th anniversary of publishing. . . . Mr. Priestley, a squarish young man [he's 49 now; that was in 1930], as sturdy as a monolith and giving the impression of one—unbudgeable—was guest of honor at a small party. . . . I edged him into a corner and put a leading question to him: "What's happening to English literature these days that I ought to tell my readers about?" . . . Without a moment's hesitation, and with complete earnestness, he answered: "I'm happening." . . . Then I was the one who was edged into the corner and for a half hour I was told the simple truth about what "The Good Companions" had done and would do to English literature. . . . And what he said was the honest, if bizarre, fact, for "The Good Companions" really did bring back to English literature the long picaresque novel published four years before "Anthony Adverse." . . . Its length caused lots of people to call Priestley the modern Dickens, but he never was, either ni intent or in fulfillment. . . . He was himself, and a good thing, too.

Three Plays at a Time.

Three years after the success of "The Good Companions" [and his next novel, "Angel Pavement," wowed 'em, too] he branched out into playwrighting with "Dangerous Corner" [it has since played all over the world] and into the producing of plays. . . . In one season, five years ago, he had three plays running at once in London. . . . He even tried acting. . . . In 1938, at less than 24 hours' notice, he took over the leading part in his own comedy, "When We Are Married." . . . Quite a guy, this stocky, self-assured, 200 pound Yorkshireman who is probably as well known to both American and British readers as any English writer today.

Mr. Priestley says in his brief autobiography: "I have been much influenced by the new theories of time in J. W. Dunne's 'Experiment with Time' and 'Serial Universe'." . . . A fact which I mention in today's review of "Daylight on Saturday." . . . Both he and the late Alexander Woollcott played the lead in plays by or about themselves. . . . They did it for a gag, every one thought. . . . It was from Alec Woollcott that some of us in Chicago first heard about the Dunne theory of time.

It was at a lecture which Alec gave at the University of Chicago. He was very serious about it, and very dull. . . . And being dull on the lecture platform was hard for that gentleman, who could turn a phrase about something [a book, for instance] so deftly that every one rushed for the exits to be the first customer. . . . His most spectacular boosting was of "Goodbye, Mr. Chips." . . . He is said to have thus started James Hilton on his popular career.

A Scientific Fact?

Well, the afternoon that Mr. W. talked about the Dunne theory to his slightly dazed audience he told a story about Rebecca West, who, he said, had had a dream which, Mr. W. thought, proved the validity of the Dunne theory. . . . She dreamed that she had been submerged in the most horrible filth of a London sewer, and suddenly she heard a voice say, "I will save your face," and the next day she had a request from Elizabeth Arden to write a testimonial in exchange for a lavish beauty course. . . . He told it as a scientific fact.

Knowing Rebecca West, I couldn't imagine her ever having to worry about having her face saved. . . . She was one of the loveliest looking creatures that ever put pen to paper. . . . Writing somehow doesn't seem to attract many real beauties; they're too busy saving their faces. . . . But Miss West could hold her own against any Hollywood glamor girl.

Rebecca West is, you may have forgotten, the name of the heroine of Ibsen's "Rosmersholm." . . . The living Rebecca West will be better known in the annals of literature than the famous character from whom she took her pseudonym. . . . She was Cecily Isabel Fairfield, and she was born in County Kerry, Ireland. . . . Her Irish father died when she was 10. . . . Then her Scotch mother moved to Edinburgh, where her child became a good Scotswoman.

Cecily was on the stage for a short while in the Ibsen boom days. . . . Hence the pseudonym which she chose when she started writing for the magazine, Freewoman. . . . She was only 19 then. . . . She became a great, tho not prolific, novelist, and one of the best literary critics in the world. . . . She edited an English edition of Carl Sandburg's poems in 1926, thus introducing him to a large English audience.

Disappearing Blindness.

I took off my glasses at this moment and—such is the way of minds—I was reminded of an oculist I once went to: the late Dr. J. Wendell Clark, who was a writer of novels in his spare time. . . . He was also the man who took care of Carl Sandburg's eyes. . . . He told me about an inscription that Carl wrote in a copy of "Chicago Poems."

Dr. Clark said that the first time Carl consulted him the great poet said: "I think I am going blind. It gets harder and harder for me all the time to see print." . . . Dr. Clark examined Carl's eyes, and saw no evidence of blindness whatever. . . . Then he got out his lens apparatus and started to try lenses. . . . Little by little Carl's blindness disappeared. . . . "When did you get these glasses?" he asked his patient. . . . "Last year," was the reply. . . . "Good heavens, man, who gave you glasses like this?" . . . Carl named a well known optical firm. . . . "I can't believe it," Dr. Clark said. "Whoever there prescribed these lenses for you?" . . . "Nobody. I broke my glasses and I just had them replaced." . . . "But who gave you the prescription? It's criminal malpractice." . . . "O, an old fellow in Galesburg when I was fourteen," replied the dreamer.

The inscription in the book read: "To J. Wendell Clark, who did what God forgot to do."

What Aerial Warfare Means to Men Who Do the Warring

"SKYWAYS TO BERLIN," by Maj. John M. Redding and Capt. Harold Leyshon. [Bobbs-Merrill, $2.75.]

Reviewed by William Shinnick.

Nothing having to do with the war has so caught the fancy of the American people as the valorous deeds of their own aviators. The capture of imagination has been so great that there is scarcely a war book published nowadays that does not deal with the exploits of some air arm. "Skyways to Berlin" is another that makes American combat flyers its main theme; like many of its predecessors it describes their lives and deaths and victories and defeats. And, like some of them and better than most, it draws a palpably correct picture of what war in the air means to the men who fight it.

This is not just another book. It is the story of the 8th air force, which began operating in and out of the British Isles a little more than a year ago and is now playing a magnificent part in the round the clock bombing of Germany. No one doubts its efficacy now; against great odds its not too numerous First Wing proved, with its Flying Fortresses and Liberators, that skeptics, British and American alike, were wrong in contending that daylight precision bombing was impossible in Europe without exorbitant losses.

How did these planes do it? Well, they were marvelous. They could take terrible punishment. They carried heavy armament and could stand off any ordinary attack by German fighter planes with fire power. Often they limped home literally shot to pieces. But—and this is what makes "Skyways to Berlin" the splendid recital it is—the men who flew in them were better than the ships. Tomorrow will be better planes. No one can improve on the crews.

The Suzy Q., the Bad Penny, the Sweet Pea, the Memphis Belle, and Hell's Angels—these were the names of some of the great ships that plastered Fortress Europe. It wasn't easy. The best of the German fighting planes and men—and your top ranking squarehead pilots are good and brave and determined—tried to stop them; the authors make it clear that the First Wing would have been stopped, too, if the calculated determination and the terrific heroism of the men aboard the huge planes had not been superior to that of the foe.

In the beginning there were too few planes and too few crews. But they went out on their bombing missions whenever the weather permitted; some crews made 20 or more invasions of enemy territory and didn't quiver as they made their bombing runs, those runs of 40 seconds each during which the great ships flew straight and steadily thru clouds of flak while flocks of enemy fighters swarmed about them.

The wonder of it all is that so many of these men came back to fight again. Discipline and good training, it seems, had something to do with it; some inward quality, exemplified by Sgt. Maynard H. Smith [who will do as the No. 1 hero of the war until you show his crew mates a better claimant], had more. Sgt. Smith wears the Congressional Medal of Honor for conduct "far above and beyond the call of duty," but an official report of his actions in an incredible fight testified that he survived "by the will of God alone."

The book's authors are not flyers. They are air force press relations officers and ex-newspaper men [many Chicagoans will remember Jack Redding as a reporter]. In their narrative they have incorporated a wealth of detail about the lives of their heroes. For example, their diet; if a crew eats certain foods before flying up into the substratosphere every tummy aboard swells up like a balloon.

The flying bomber men, their emotions, their approach to religion, their antics at play, the strain under which they work, their loyalty to each other and their jobs, and the successes with which they are softening the German reich—all these are in the stirring recital that makes "Skyways to Berlin" a good and timely history of the air offensive in western Europe.

Unjust Trial Is Subject of Dramatic Tale

"THE CASE FOR MRS. SURRATT," by Helen Jones Campbell. [Putnam, $3.]

Reviewed by Walter Havighurst.

During the last days of April, 1865, a flag draped funeral train bore the remains of Abraham Lincoln from Washington to Springfield, Ill. Grief for Lincoln was nation-wide, and with it grew a surge of hate for those who had plotted his murder. Astride that tide of grief and hate rode Secretary Stanton, high-handed, ambitious, grasping at an opportunity for power and prestige. Within 24 hours of the assassination he had proclaimed the solution of the murder and he promised that eight persons suspected of complicity in the plot would be executed before the body of the President was in the ground.

While the funeral train made its slow progress across the land, John Wilkes Booth lay hidden in the swamps, burning with fever, hunted by an army of soldiers and police. And during the same days the eight suspects lay imprisoned in the old capitol annex. Among them was one woman, Mrs. Mary Eugenia Surratt, who within a few weeks was to be hanged.

Mrs. Surratt, a southern sympathizer and keeper of an obscure Washington boarding house, had been awakened after midnight of April 14 and charged with complicity in Lincoln's death. The evidence against her was circumstantial; her son was a friend of the moody and brilliant young actor, and under her roof Booth had met the men who served as accomplices in his plot. As a result of the military trial three of the seven men were sentenced to death, and the remainder to life imprisonment. Mrs. Surratt was given the death sentence because Secretary Stanton was determined that she should be made an object lesson to southern sympathizers.

It is a tense, grim, dramatic story, and a difficult story not to believe. Tho here it is written in fictional form, the account is carefully documented. It leaves a reader with conviction and regret that in that dark hour of our history democracy failed to find justice for a helpless woman caught in a net of tragic circumstance. Yet the author feels that Mrs. Surratt's soul went marching on to cloud the life of Andrew Johnson and to trouble the mind of Stanton till his death. She also feels that some tardy justice was done to Mrs. Surratt when a civil court exonerated her two years after her execution, and when the Supreme court ruled the trial of civilians by military commissions unconstitutional.

What About Germany's Fate? Strong Measures Suggested

"THE HIDDEN ENEMY," by Heinz Pol. [Messner, $3.]

Reviewed by Paul Engle.

This is a book about the one question which may prove more difficult than the war itself—what to do with Germany. The war will no sooner be won than a difficulty of staggering scope, of humiliating similarity to 1918, and of an unfortunate vagueness, will arise. And it can be anticipated that, great as have been the divergences of ideas about how best to win the war, they will be far less great than the differences of opinion as how to win the peace.

For there is one unassailable fact — after the war, as before it, Germany will still be in the dead center of Europe, touching more frontiers than any other country, intercepting communications north-south and east-west, unmovable, and populated with the vast majority of the people who occupied it before the war.

Heinz Pol tries to explain why Germany has three times in 70 years shattered the peace of Europe. He was former assistant editor of the Berlin daily Vossische Zeitung and an active opponent of the Nazis. The night of the Reichstag fire he was arrested; he later fled to Czecho-Slovakia, then Paris, then America. His books were burned by Goebbels.

"The Hidden Enemy" regards Hitler as not an historical accident, nor yet the full expression of "the German people," but rather the final and most horrible consummator of the hopes and plans of a line of Pan-Germans. Because this is true, he holds that neither destroying the Nazis and their army, nor exterminating the entire German people, is a solution.

We must, he asserts, get at the Nazis who have always existed in Germany, the imperialists, the heavy industrialists who demand a constant, huge, standing army because their munitions may profitably equip it, the professional officer cliques, the Junkers monopolizing the land and maintaining their position by feeding their younger sons into the army, their hereditary profession, and raising hopelessly expensive wheat by government subsidy. These groups, plus the post-1933 judiciary and education staffs, must be pushed out of control.

He also believes the key industries [iron, steel, coal, chemicals] must be nationalized, the estates of big landowners be taken from them, and all intellectuals removed who supported violently nationalistic ideas before 1933, or Hitler afterward.

In justification of these extreme measures, Pol argues: "This does not necessarily mean that Germany is bound to become a sort of socialistic state. I do not think that democracy and individual freedom on the one hand, and government control over economy on the other hand, are incompatible. But even if something like Socialism should be the final outcome of the revolutionary purge, I still think: Better a Germany economically 'socialized,' but without any trace of Pan-Germanism and imperialism, than a Germany preparing with the help of 'private initiative' for another revenge."

It is an interesting and informing book, especially when the author traces the growth of Pan-German ideas, activities of the notorious army officer Bernhardi, and the natural climate of industry-army-Junker-imperialist which favored the carrion eating plant of national socialism. I do not know if Pol's solution is the single correct one, altho there will be many who will back him. But I can agree with his final observation that if, as many have suggested, there is a "cooling off" period between the armistice and the peace, it may well prove a very hot period in Germany.

"American Empire in Asia" plans a new Asia. It has the best purpose in the world: to make righteousness and the will of God prevail among all peoples. It is global in its strategy of peace—a cosmic New Deal. And America, so the book argues, cannot refrain from taking up its share of this moral burden.

"First, the era of European imperialism must be ended and Asia must be granted self-determination. Whenever the state of native society makes immediate and complete independence impractical, mandatory administrations must be created to modernize the social structures rapidly and dynamically.

"Second, America's most vital interests demand that it assume a leading role in the establishment of a democratic, self-governing Asia."

Like the authors of some other New Deals, this author pays little attention to the merely material question of cost. Still less does he think that, by transferring the administration of the East Indies and Malaya from The Netherlands and Great Britain to America, there might be some bitterness. Above all, what assurance is there that in its administration America would be more disinterested and successful?

Story of a Girl: She Finally Got What She Wanted

"LILLIAN HARLEY," by Marian Cockrell. [Harper, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Arthur Frederic Otis.

This second novel by the author of "Yesterday's Madness" will warm the cockles of your heart. It is not literature. It will probably never be designated "a great human document." But it is a thoroly delightful story about right now, concerning a swell girl who went thru a considerable amount of turmoil and tough going to get what she wanted, and then wasn't so sure she wanted it.

Lillian Harley wasn't one of the people who counted, in Kirkland, and Martin Payne was. Acutely conscious of the social shortcomings of her home and the aunt and uncle who brought her up, she vowed to do whatever must be done to attain the necessary cultural level.

Escaping from Martin and Kirkland to New York, Lillian gets a job as model in a dress shop, studies to improve posture and speech, sets up an apartment with three other girls—all in due course of time and with attendant worries over money matters.

She meets and poses for Regan Whittaker, and eventually falls in love with him—but the shadow of her infatuation for Martin Payne is always with her. There is well done suspense up to the last chapter, and you'll be content with the answer.

This is good writing that gets better as the story moves along. Giles, Lillian's brother, and Jake, and Mme. Langlois and Luther are acquaintances to be treasured. Luther is a Great Dane who drools. He's worth the price of the book!

Rare Imagery in New Novel of Town Life

"NO LONGER FUGITIVE," by Ann Chidester. [Scribners, $2.75.]
"WHITE SHORE OF OLINDA," by Sylvia Leao. [Vanguard, $2.50.]
"GOLDEN GRAIN," by Elizabeth Corbett. [Appleton-Century, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Kenneth Horan.

Interest in the common man is not confined to the realists. Romantic and idealistic writers have built up a convention about the characteristic village and its first families ever since the 1800s. There have been—to name a few—Mrs. Gaskell's Cranford, Sinclair Lewis' Main Street, Mrs. Deland's Old Chester, Zona Gale's Frindship Village, Sherwood Anderson's Winesburg, Ohio, and Booth Tarkington's Indiana towns.

Ann Chidester describes a city in Minnesota with such crystal clearness—the big, run-down house on the hill, home of the town patriarch, and of his enormous brood; the highway with the hot dog stand, the drug store, the meat market — that she recreates them and the reader thinks he lives there himself.

She is an honest pessimist, and her beautiful words, which drop like jewels from her Remington-Rand, hold no village metaphor. Instead she builds a mise en scene that makes the hero, Liam Moore, pack his bag and his clarinet and set forth for new worlds in which to lose himself. He is built into the fabric of the town, but he cannot stay. He gets in his old jalopy, just like all the rest of the 20th century Rover Boys — "Grapes of Wrath" included—and fights his way thru various name-bands to freedom.

The surroundings and the people are brilliantly pictured in this story. The rich young wife of the oldest son, who wears such lovely clothes; the oldest son himself who is lost in the Pacific, and returns after 15 days on a rubber raft; the patriarch Moore, who founded the town; the Nobel prize winner who comes there for "copy" and is lonesome for his first wife, and dozens of other village characters are all as macabre as a Dali painting.

All this vivid Americana is written with the preciousness of a 15th century missal: not a word out of place, not a scene unadorned. From it emerges, however, the frustration of the individual by the community, and an indictment of the whole social group. The war and only the war solves the riddle.

A good distance from all this beautifully conceived confusion, with its dynamic and concise and revealing descriptions, is "White Shore of Olinda." This book is a spiritual experience that emerges from the Brazilian sands and rises to join the white clouds that chase across the blue sky and disappear in ocean mists. It is about the girl Marilia, the lace maker, and her love for a fisherman. More poetry than prose, it is fragile as the lace which made its heroine famous.

"Golden Grain," on the other hand, comes down to earth in its account of the lovely widow who owned Faye's Folly, which we have met in other romantic accounts of West Syracuse in the 1880s. As the wife of burly Jim Warner, Sheba was busy managing her house and her step-children, but after his death, life took a turn for the worse, and she put in some hard days at Faye's Folly. A realistic story, by the woman who has made old Mrs. Meigs a by-word, this is matter-of-fact and prosaic and homey stuff.

A Little About the Movies on City's Screens

"Someone to Remember." A stirring story centering in and about a boys' dormitory on a small campus. Mrs. Freeman [Mabel Paige], who lives in the building and becomes a second mother to the boys, lives for the day when her runaway son will return. Others in the cast are John Craven and Dorothy Morris. Oriental.

• • •

"Mr. Lucky." A big time gambler, Cary Grant, invents a new racket and finds it not so easy, especially with lovely Laraine Day, who falls in love with him and spoils well laid plans. Others in the cast are Alan Carney and Gladys Cooper. Palace and Grand.

• • •

"Presenting Lily Mars." Judy Garland, Van Heflin, Richard Carlson, and Fay Bainter play the leads. Judy is an ambitious girl shooting her star at musical comedy fame. However, the producers cannot see her possibilities, and have to be shown the hard way. United Artists.

"Bataan." Starring Robert Taylor, Thomas Mitchell, and Lloyd Nolan, it is the vivid and descriptive story of the evacuation of the American doughboys from Bataan. Roosevelt.

"The Falcon in Danger." See review in this section. Grand and Palace.

"For Whom the Bell Tolls." Based on the novel by Ernest Hemingway, it tells the story of the civil war in Spain, its meaning, its loves, its hardships. The cast is headed by Gary Cooper and Ingrid Bergman, with Katina Paxinou and Akim Tamiroff. State-Lake.

"Stormy Weather." A cavalcade of music with old songs, new songs, blues songs, and jumpin' solid jive. Lena Horne and Bill Robinson lead the cast with Cab Calloway and his band. Apollo.

"First Comes Courage." Adapted from the story "The Commandos" by Elliot Arnold, the plot centers around the people of Norway and their underground activities. Merle Oberon and Brian Aherne are the leading players, with Carl Esmond in the supporting cast. McVickers, Varsity [Evanston].

"Let's Face It." Based on a musical comedy by Cole Porter, the humorous antics of Soldier Bob Hope, his three pals, and Betty Hutton fill the plot. Most of the story is centered about army routine. Zasu Pitts and Dave Willock are in the supporting cast. Chicago.

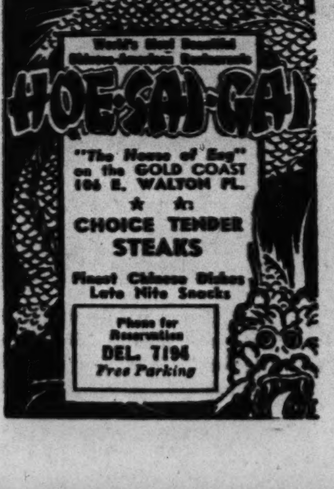
"What's Buzzin' Cousin." Freddy Martin and his orchestra stay all night in a ghost town. The next day Ann Miller and three lovelies arrive to run the hotel. The boys stay to help Ann make it a success, and throw in some fancy music. Rochester and Leslie Brooks also are in the cast. Woods.

• • •

"The Human Comedy." Based on the novel by William Saroyan, it is a story concerning the lives of the Macauley family, representing the American way of life. Mickey Rooney, Frank Morgan, and Fay Bainter are the leading characters.



IN "LET'S FACE IT"

Those beloved merrymakers, Betty Hutton and Bob Hope, are host and hostess on the Chicago's screen this week in "Let's Face It." "It" has no terrors for the twain, judging from this picture.

"They Got Me Covered." Bob Hope, a newspaper reporter, stumbles onto the trail of some saboteurs and attempts to run them down with the aid of Dorothy Lamour. Avalon, Southtown, Riviera.

• • •

"The Youngest Profession." Starring Virginia Weidler, Edward Arnold, and John Carroll with guest stars, the "Guiding Stars, Ltd.," teen age fan club, sets out to collect the autographs of well known stars. Cosmo, Shore, Frolic, Symphony, Biograph, Byrd, N. Center[Davis, Embassy, Irving.

• • •

"My Friend Flicka." A show for all horse lovers, taken from the novel by Mary O'Hara. Stars Roddy McDowall, Preston Foster, and Rita Johnson. Grove, Highland, Buckingham, Lake, Michigan, Windsor, Commercial, American, Broadway-Strand.

Vaudeville

Oriental theater—Russ Morgan heads the bill with his musical ensemble, featuring Meri Osborne, Walter Link, Jana, the lightning sketch artist, and the Music Masters. In addition to his trombone playing, song composing, singing, and playing on the piano, vibraphone, saxophone, guitar, celeste, and marimba, Russ is currently perfecting himself on the organ and harp. Paul Garrits and Ruthie Barnes are added stage attractions.

• • •

Chicago theater—Ted Lewis, with his silk hat and orchestra, fills his 17th engagement over the span of a score of years. Besides Lewis, the stage revue presents June Edwards, Geraldine Du Bois, and Bebe Fox, specialty dancers, the three Reed sisters, harmony trio, Audrey Zimm, Paul White, and Lewis' two dancing comedians, Teddy McDaniels and Charles [Snowball] Whittier, who have been with Lewis since he originated his "Peanut Vendor" number.

Ted Lewis.

"LILY MARS"

"Presenting Lily Mars"—adapted from Booth Tarkington's novel—has Judy Garland and Van Heflin as co-stars. Judy looks like this a large part of the time. (United Artists.)

This Town Called Hollywood

By Philip Scheuer

James M. Cain and Raymond Chandler each have a hand in the writing of "Double Idemnity," which Paramount will start shooting this month. Cain wrote the novel and Chandler the script. Both happen to be my favorite novelists in the hard-boiled crime field. So as a kind of double indemnity of my own, I talked with them both.

The interesting thing about the picture, which Billy Wilder will direct and Joe Sistrom produce, is that it will present Fred MacMurray and Barbara Stanwyck as killers—the Walter Huff and Phyllis Nirdlinger of the yarn. Eddie Robinson will portray Keyes, the dogged insurance investigator who uncovers the flaw in their "perfect crime."

Both Cain and Chandler are agreed [altho they met but once, at lunch] that the yarn should be treated psychologically; and in his script Chandler tips off the audience to what MacMurray is thinking. It is MacMurray who dictates the story, or confession, at the beginning, the events then being told in flashback dissolves and overlapping narration. The idea is to make Huff, or MacMurray, an understandable murderer and even [if the Hays office will please look the other way] sympathetic to a degree.

The film will be unique—but so are the two men who are conceiving it.

A director once observed that James M. Cain looks like an ex-sheriff of San Bernardino. A big, shaggy figure of a man with beetling brows and hair that is close-cropped yet somehow manages to curl [possibly at some of the thoughts going on just below], Cain might be described as grizzly but not grisly. He is 51, divorced, and, unlike many of the lurid characters in his novels—"The Postman Always Rings Twice," "Serenade," "Mildred Pierce," "Love's Lovely Counterfeit," and "Three of a Kind" [which contains "Double Indemnity"]—he hasn't taken a drink for nearly three months.

The whole time he talked to me in his apartment he paced the floor. In two hours he plodded thru a whole range of subjects, from 18th century Spanish history to labor unions,

Barbara Stanwyck.

Fred MacMurray.

in the saltiest language imaginable. It was funny to hear him interspersing an erudite discourse on Thornton Wilder and "The Bridge of San Luis Rey" with cuss words, "aint's" and dropped g's. I don't know why he did it, but if he wants to, that's O. K. by me. After all, Cain has already complained in a preface that he is "probably the most misread, misreviewed, and misunderstood novelist now writing."

I was surprised to learn that Cain has been knocking around Hollywood for the last 10 or 12 years. Besides working earlier at everything from coal mining to insurance selling, he has written and reported for such papers as the Baltimore Sun and the New York World [seven years] and was in on "The End of the World." He credits Vincent Lawrence, the playwright, with making him technique-conscious. Altho at least two of his published novels have been filmed [as "Wife, Husband, and Friend" and "Money and the Woman"] the most acceptable movie from his works was "When Tomorrow Comes," adapted partly from his "A Modern Cinderella," which the magazines rejected. As a technique-conscious writer, he has only become seriously interested in cinema during the past year.

Cain is plotting two novels, one about a woman employed in a newspaper "morgue" and another about a kid in a box car whom he introduced briefly in a short story, "Dead Man."

Raymond Chandler isn't as famous—or notorious—as Cain, perhaps because his style is more lit'ry. But his mysteries are equally unputdownable, as followers of his "The Big Sleep," "Farewell My Lovely," and "The High Window" need scarcely be reminded.

Fiftyish also, soft-spoken, with tortoise shell glasses, graying hair and a wryly humorous mouth, Chandler is more the "typical author." Like Cain [and unlike Philip Marlowe, his private dick hero] he doesn't drink; also like Cain, he always writes about and around Los Angeles, where he has lived since 1919. He came here from Canada after the last war; and altho he was born in Chicago, the department of justice "insists I'm a British subject." He spent the years from the age of 9 to 23 in England doing journalistic stints for "Lord Alfred Douglas' paper," the Westminster Gazette and others. "I also worked on the Los Angeles Daily Express," he smiled, "but was fired after six weeks for incompetence."

Authors Speak Their Pieces, and Then Subside for Awhile

By Harry Hansen.

New York.

NEW YORK is usually a hotbed of political discussion, and authors and poets are in the thick of it. But just now there are a lull and a void that cannot be described as aching. The editor of the Saturday Review, Norman Cousins, wrote a few weeks ago that he detected a falling off in the high spirits that were abroad the first months of the war, and it depressed him. But I see no reason for being down-hearted, for we are facing the serious post-war issues with an earnestness that is reflected in the attitude of our authors.

When certain authors became public figures because of their political views, you would find them everywhere—presiding at money-raising luncheons, leading forums, appearing at massmeetings, preaching on the air. It was not wholly their own fault that they were ubiquitous; managers usually reach for the headliners of the hour and press them into service. This lasts about six months; then the speakers subside, sometimes because they are tired and sometimes because they have nothing more to say. Herbert Agar, of Freedom House, author of "A Time for Greatness," went into the navy. Hendrik van Loon took time out for a rest in Connecticut. Dr. Frank Kingdon wrote his autobiography. Other men came, presided, exhorted, and went back to their vegetable gardens.

New Book by Dr. Beard.

During all this time nobody heard much about Charles A. Beard. He was still respected as a seer, but his readings in the portents of American civilization were not welcome to those internationally minded. Dr. Beard was well known as the man who distrusted imperialism, the rush for new markets abroad, and idealism not anchored to facts. He did not believe in global reconstruction by American humanitarians. He was not a nationalist, but he did not believe that the word "nationalist" should be a term of abuse. He thought it meant making the most of your home resources first and satisfying yourself that you have met the needs and demands of your own people in your own way, without importing political programs from abroad. He wrote "The American Spirit" as late as last year; it was published in November. But did you hear of it?

Within a month or so Viking Press will publish his new book, "The Republic: Conversations on Fundamentals." It is a dialog, in which Dr. Beard discusses the basic aims and convictions of America. It is his reiteration of the substance of American civilization. All men may be brothers, but all nations are not alike. Dr. Beard does not believe that people are the creatures of conditions solely; he believes in the creative intelligence that helps guide the destiny of a nation. On the subject of the American future, he is an optimist of the deepest dye. I think this book will come opportunely, when many of us are trying to get a clear idea of fundamentals and necessary change. It will be interesting to see how the country responds.

Casualties Among the Reprints.

Reports reach me that some of the invaluable volumes in the American Guide Series are being allowed to go out of print. This is bad news indeed, and the worst is that one of the major volumes, the "Illinois," is not being reprinted. Other casualties are the books on Philadelphia, Idaho, the Dakotas, and the New York City volume that is a companion piece to "New York Panorama." Many of the books dealing with specific localities will not be reprinted.

It is inconceivable that the government, which supported the Federal Writers' projects as a work relief measure, did not make provision for keeping the books in print. The editorial expense must have been enormous. The thoroness with which they were edited makes them superior to anything Baedeker ever did for Europe.

Too Valuable to Scrap.

I consider the books of the American Guide Series a wonderful way of getting acquainted with the United States, and I have learned from them a tremendous amount about places remote and near. There are books for every state and for many cities and localities; the Washington, D. C., book has been done twice [the first was more of a case history than a guide]. Several years ago writers were working on a book about Chicago as a federal project, but I have never seen it. Even if the project has been liquidated, the manuscript must be available and ought to be completed, by private means if necessary. It is too valuable to scrap.

The Day He Died.

Since I don't fall for telepathy or the occult, I don't attach any significance to the fact that a group of us were discussing the stories of W. W. Jacobs at lunch the day he died. We had not mentioned him for years; so believers in mind waves can make the most of that. Everybody had favorites among the many yarns, about mariners along London's waterfront, that came from Jacobs' prolific pen, but it turned out that his famous horror story, "The Monkey's Paw," was unknown to several, including myself. I must have missed it because I do not read horror stories unless duty demands it.

When I was attending the University of Chicago one of the Chicago newspapers—I forget which—used to print some of Jacobs' amusing yarns on its back page and I would clip them and paste them up. But the scrapbook has long since disappeared.

Jacobs had been writing so long that we all had the idea he was dead, tho none of us knew positively. Roland Young, the actor, was present, and since he is an Englishman we asked him. He replied that he had no doubt Jacobs was dead. Well, he was at that moment, but not yet under ground; if he had listened he would have been pleased to hear us agree that nobody was writing such good tales now.

Sidelights.

One of the oddest books I have read is Ganna Walska's autobiography, "Always Room at the Top," which is packed with intimate sidelights on Chicago personalities. This is one book that might well have been left unwritten. . . . Richard Llewellyn's latest, "None But the Lonely Heart," has no romantic nostalgia in it this time; its publication date has been advanced to Sept. 27. . . . Padraic Colum writes me that his newest, "The Frenzied Prince," is so handsomely illustrated that readers may think it a juvenile, but it's for adults, too.

THE VOICE OF THE READER

[Letters regarding books and reviews are welcomed. Please keep them brief. Address: Editor, Sunday Book Section, Chicago Tribune.]

FOURTH GENERATION.

New York, Aug. 31.—Editor, Sunday Book Section: Naturally, I was tremendously interested in your story concerning various third and fourth generations in the book publishing business.

Andy McNally of Rand McNally must be the third or fourth generation, isn't he? I had an idea he was the fourth and, since that is a Chicago house, it might make a good story. I believe that at Wiley's there is one person representing the fourth generation, altho the company itself is not entirely controled by the Wiley family.

As you will see from the inclosed snapshot, the fourth generation here at Crowell's is getting ready to take over. In this case he is feeding chickens. In twenty years he'll be feeding authors.

ROBERT L. CROWELL,

LITERARY CELEBRITIES.

New York, Aug. 20.—Editor, Sunday Book Section: We were quite pleased with the notice you gave our company in your recent columns.

The list of prize winners in our "stables" which you mentioned is, I presume, a list of current writers. The list of authors published by our company in the last 100 years includes many names celebrated in literary history. We would have liked to have seen Joseph C. Lincoln included among the current authors.

Thank you for your interest.

British Errors with Air Power

"THE USE OF AIR POWER," by Flight Lt. V. E. R. Blunt, R .A. F. [Military Service Publishing company, $1.]

Reviewed by Walter Simmons.

Publication of this 162 page bible of air power strategy, filled with unorthodox but persuasive views, cost its author his commission in the R. A. F. One does not have to read far to find the reason. Blunt is extremely critical of the British air ministry's errors, which he catalogs mercilessly from 1917 to 1943.

Of the recent North Africa invasion, for example, he says:

"The use of airborne forces in the invasion was a farce, amateurish in conception, inadequate in force, futile in execution, and tragic to three-quarters of those brave Britishers and Americans who according to one unconfirmed report had Tunis at their mercy had they been supplied with food and arms."

He has a flattering opinion of American air organization, citing its success as a towering argument against the independent air force. He wounds British feelings again by praising the American air power victories of Midway and the Coral sea, at the same time expressing doubt that a British admiral would have had the imagination to attack the Japs in such a way.

Lt. Blunt believes a cross-channel invasion of Europe can and will be accomplished from England by dropping whole divisions of heavily armed troops behind the Nazi coastal defenses. His ideas are provocative and make exciting reading in a war time year when air power concepts are in a state of constant flux.

Fine Insight Into Spanish Civil Strife

"THE SPANISH LABYRINTH," by Gerald Brenan. [Macmillan, $3.50.]

Reviewed by Dr. Melchior Palyi.

Without exaggerating, this is one of the most brilliant political and social studies in many years. It is not a history, still less a "story" of personal experiences, altho it is written by an Englishman who lived —as a farmer—a decade in that labyrinth of unbridled economic and political conflicts, and who combines shrewd observation of the present with penetrating research of the past.

Mr. Brenan offers an unbiased analysis of vast erudition and unusual insight, presented in a masterly fashion. What made the Spaniards kill each other for over a century and live a system which impresses the westerner as a pathetic combination of Quixotic idealism and barbaric backwardness?

This excitingly realistic study traces each individual force, every relevant factor, from geographic conditions to traditional, institutional, and psychological elements at play. The social mind of the Spanish people becomes an open book, readable to every one. No other nation has been subjected to a similarly profound and revealing approach. We need more books of this type to understand the world—and more readers to study them.

Frenchman's Thrilling Story of Escape from Nazi Camp

"THEY SHALL NOT HAVE ME," by Jean Hélion. [Dutton, $3.]

Reviewed by Paul Engle.

You have to read this book to the end. Once you follow the author as far as his capture by the Germans, you can't quit, because you know, from the fact of the book being written at all, that he escaped, and you must learn how. More than that, it is by far the most detailed and believable account of how the Nazis handle prisoners that I have seen.

The author is by profession a painter, and it may be that which has made him so accurate an observer. There are a great many descriptions of men and women of all kinds, prisoners, guards, and civilians. Whether they are integral to the story or merely appear casually for a few minutes, they leave a deep conviction of their reality in your mind.

The author, altho French by birth, had been living in America before the war, so that he writes not simply from the viewpoint of a Frenchman, but of a man who can take an objective look at both sides. Among war books of the moment, it is remarkable for not concerning itself with politics and the generalities of war, but with the exact facts of the life of an intelligent man who is taken prisoner.

The book begins with the curiously aimless wandering south, always away from the fighting, of an infantry platoon in the French army. They were not consciously retreating, nor trying in any way to evade battle. They simply drifted in the massive flow of refugees and soldiers out of the fighting zone of the north.

Finally, they are overtaken by the mechanized army of the invaders, captured, and marched north: "They arrived in armored cars, roaring so that the trees shook. Moving slowly behind their shields, the machine guns covered the woods. Two observation planes circled above, very low. They did not need to be afraid. The sad show was over—for us. Out of the woods came my comrades. One by one they went slowly towards the enemy, their arms uplifted. . . . For five nightmarish days our famished column dragged itself along, without a scrap of food, prodded constantly by the brutish guards. The country passed like a dim moving picture. Men fell, one by one. One cannot mistake a man falling dead from exhaustion. His body drops like clothes from a hanger, and arranges itself gently on the ground. . . ."

The balance of the book is a very full narration of the trip to Germany in hideously crowded trains, a period of work on a large estate in eastern Germany, and finally a long stay aboard an old banana boat anchored in Stettin harbor.

His chapters on how morale was sustained, how prisoners were punished by a court of their own countrymen for too much collaboration, and finally the elaborate and exciting details of his escape, are very finely written. Unlike so many books related to the war, the writing does not seem dull alongside the material. The author remarks that "on a wall crowned by a soft molding a sinuous crack had the nervous quality of a child's scribble across a book." There is much that is as fine as that.

Touching Study of Psychiatrist Who Fled Nazis

"SURVIVAL," by Phyllis Bottome. [Little, Brown, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Edith Weigle.

One of the most important of Phyllis Bottome's novels and the most arresting since "Private Worlds" is this touching and beautiful study of a man without a country, a Viennese physician and psychiatrist who seeks refuge in England from Hitler and his hordes.

"Rudi" von Ritterhaus is half Jew and because of this his wife has left him, taking their small son. Bereft, barely escaping with his life, the young doctor reaches the home, in Oxford, of James and Eunice Wendover, former clients who had become his devoted friends, and here he stays for a while with them and their little daughter. Behind everything they do and say is the looming shadow of the Nazi menace, until the fateful day England declares war.

The doctor is invited to go to the estate of his friend's older brother, Lord Wendover. There he prescribes for this fabulously wealthy Britisher's wife, a woman who is undoubtedly ill, but not from any organic trouble.

The author shows you each member of the complicated household thru the eyes of the psychiatrist, and in revealing his insight into their weaknesses and problems she portrays a man with an infinitely kind and understanding heart, interested in the mind as much as the body. Miss Bottome studied for years with the late Alfred Adler and is an able interpreter of his teachings. She makes the point that without a warm love of humanity neither physician nor psychiatrist fulfills his calling. Skill is not enough.

There is, of course, a romance in this novel, but it does not play a major role. The author is too occupied in showing the many facets of each personality, which she does with such vividness that the reader is engrossed to the very end. "Survival" is a remarkable study of the reactions of the mind to the stress of war and to those secret conflicts which occur in peace days, as well.

BOOKMAN'S HOLIDAY

By Charles Collins.

W. W. JACOBS, the veteran English humorist who died recently, was not the kind of author that frequents writers' conferences and publishers' cocktail parties. He was a shy and silent little fellow who avoided autograph seekers and interviewers. His face, even in white-haired old age, is said to have been extraordinarily youthful, and his habitual expression has been described as "wistful, almost sad." Sailors on shore were his material, and he hunted them on walking tours along the English coast, with his illustrator as companion. Whenever a salty character was found, drinks were bought for the ancient mariner, who then did most of the talking while Jacobs listened and remembered. The only Jacobs book published within the last 17 years, except his omnibus called "Snug Harbor," was "Sea Whispers."

His full name was William Wymark Jacobs. His humor was in the Dickens tradition, but dry and quiet. His vein may be outmoded now, but his memory will be kept green by his classic tale of horror, "The Monkey's Paw," which is a favorite among the compilers of anthologies.

A reporter at the Quebec conference observed and recorded a curious mannerism of Winston Churchill's: When engrossed in conversation he moves a ring from one hand to another. The question arose: Did any novelist ever endow a fictitious character with such a habit? Margaret S. Lotz of Chicago calls attention to Thomas Wolfe's Esther, who figures in "The Web and the Rock" and "You Can't Go Home Again." She was a chronic ring-twister and ring-remover.

The first book in the Japanese language to be published in this country since Pearl Harbor is former Ambassador Joseph C. Grew's "Report from Tokyo" [Simon & Schuster] in translation. It has been issued under the auspices of the Japanese-American Committee for Democracy. This may sound like a given-away propaganda publication, but it is on sale. If any one wants to study Japanese by the "pony" method, here is the opportunity.

Ales Hrdlicka, whose name figured in last week's obituary news, contributed numerous books to the literature of anthropology. To mention a few of his less formidable titles: "Ancient Man in North America," "Ancient Man in South America," and "Old Americans." The best authority on the pronunciation of his name is "Who's Who," which gives it as "Hur-dlich-ka," with the accent on the first syllable. The Britannica says "Hurd-lits-ka," with the accent on the second syllable.

Lewis E. Meyers, collaborator with Henry Ericsson on a valuable work of Chicagoana called "Sixty Years a Builder" [A. Kroch & Son, 1942], writes apropos of F. Marion Crawford, the novelist who wrote copiously on Italian subjects:

"Chicago does not know that he was one of her important benefactors. In powerful circles an almost disastrous aversion had been promoted against the World's Fair of 1893 on the basis of its architecture. It remained for F. Marion Crawford, upon one of his infrequent visits to his country, in an address in New York, to silence the criticism and to turn envy and hostility into that appreciation and admiration which soon became universal. This nephew of Julia Ward Howe deserves ever to be remembered by Chicagoans."

Mr. Meyers also supplies this information about Crawford's grave in Italy:

"If any of our men are among the aviators now bombing Sorrento, it is to be hoped that no bomb will fall upon the angel that stands over his tomb there—an angel from the chisel of his father. The father was no less a genius with chisel than the son with the pen."

Harry Hansen, this section's New York correspondent, will be a personality of the September title pages. He translated Hans Habe's "Kathrine," which was written in German. The Viking Press schedules this book for publication on Sept. 27. Habe's "A Thousand Shall Fall" was a best seller of two years ago and was serialized in THE TRIBUNE.

'The Falcon' Is Here with a New Thriller

"THE FALCON IN DANGER."
An RKO-Radio Picture.
Directed by Fred Fleck.
Presented at the Grand Theater.

THE CAST.

Falcon	Tom Conway
Iris	Jean Brooks
Nancy	Elaine Shepard
Bonnie	Amelita Ward
Donovan	Cliff Clark
Bates	Ed Gargan
Palmer	Clarence Kolb
Morley	Felix Basch
Ken	Richard Davies
Georgie	Richard Martin
Evan	Erford Gage
Grimes	Eddie Dunn

By Mae Tinee.

Good Morning!

Two smart and good looking young actresses, Jean Brooks and Amelita Ward, get their first real breaks in this new thriller built on the most recent exploits of "The Falcon"—a character created by Michael Arlen.

"The Falcon" who once had operated without the law, now comes to the assistance of the police in cases which they find closed books to them. In this movie they, as usual, feel called upon to lean on his strong detective arm—the while putting up showy camouflage that they are just letting him horn in to amuse himself. [The pictures will be a lot better when the script writer stops making the cops such boorish and illiterate pests. They clutter up the action and keep you annoyed.]

The story: An air liner makes a crash landing. There is nobody aboard. Mysteriously missing are the pilot and a couple of men whose names make news. The passengers are Fairchild, head of a defense plant and his aid, Palmer. Palmer's daughter and Fairchild's niece each receive a ransom note which they bring to the Falcon. He agrees to look into the case. Of course he outwits both crooks and police.

After this, as is customary in the series, he plans to retire. When—up to him rushes another pretty girl with woe in her eye—and you know the susceptible sleuth is off again.

• • •

Tom Conway is smooth in the role played for some time by his brother, George Sanders. And you'll find Miss Brooks and Miss Ward refreshingly "different." The latter plays a spoiled Southern spitfire, and is she cute! The former proves herself an emotional actress of ability. Other roles are well managed and the director handled things with a nice touch.

"The Falcon in Danger" is on a par with other films of the series.

See you tomorrow.

Hiring of Unqualified Rural Teachers Condemned

Conference at U. of Chicago Raps Practice

By the Rev. John Evans.

When John and Mary trudge down the road to the country school this fall, the chances are fairly great they will find their teachers largely unqualified.

This situation, declared to be "undermining" the rural schools, was discussed at a rural education conference at the University of Chicago. A resolution against promiscuous licensing of unqualified teachers was adopted at the meeting.

"The licensing of unqualified persons to teach in rural schools is undermining the quality of education in these schools," the resolution stated. "One-half the children of the nation attend rural schools. In Kentucky, for instance, during the 1942-'43 school year, more than 2,500 emergency teaching permits—14 per cent of the total number of teachers in the state—were issued by the state department of education to persons unable to meet the minimum requirements for certification. Officials of the state department predict that 5,000 such permits—28 per cent—will be issued in the state during the 1943-'44 school year."

The resolution was prepared by a subcommittee, of which Dr. Maurice F. Seay, director of the bureau of school service of the University of Kentucky, was chairman.

Roscoe Pulliam, president of the Southern Illinois Normal university, Carbondale, declared that, while the Kentucky situation may be considered typical of the United States as a whole, there are many states where the situation is much worse.

"These unqualified teachers," Mr. Pulliam said, "are being hired in great numbers in the schools which can least afford to have them. In certain rural areas, where the ratio of children to adults is highest and where the resources available to support education are least, the percentages of teachers holding emergency permits are greatest. In some rural systems more than 50 per cent of the teachers hold such permits."

To meet the problem, the conference recommended that "teacher education institutions should consider the education of the teachers on the job to be one of their most important functions. The war has greatly increased the number of inadequately educated teachers in rural schools. And the war, by decreasing the usual programs for the education of teachers, has made it possible for teacher educational institutions to have greater assistance in programs of education for teachers on the job."

Dr. Howard Egan, director of war training courses at De Paul university, announced this week that registration for the seventh series of these free classes at De Paul will begin tomorrow and continue during the week.

Dr. Egan explained that these courses, which De Paul university offers in coöperation with the federal government thru the United States office of education, are absolutely tuition free. He added that 7,130 men and women have been trained in production supervision and management, chemistry, and radio technician work.

Mrs. Helen V. Porterfield has been appointed assistant director of women's dormitories at Northwestern university and will be the new director of the Pembridge, Evanston hotel building, which recently was purchased by the university at a reported cost of $120,000. Mrs. Porterfield was social director of Lucy A. Sloan hall, Central Michigan college of education, Mount Pleasant, Mich., for 10 years. She will assume her duties at Pembridge at the opening of the fall quarter.

If It's Unusual, the Movies Will Go for It

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. (AP).—If it's odd, unusual, or incongruous, the movies will go for it! In "Hostages," Director Frank Tuttle cast players of 13 different nationalities, but for weeks couldn't find an actor who was a Czech. When he did, the Czech, Steven Geray, wasn't signed to play a Czech, but a German Gestapo agent because Tuttle thought he looked more like a Nazi than the German originally selected for that role. And whom did they get to play the Czech? A Mexican, Arturo de Cordova.

5. ELEPHANTS IN AFRICA, by Frank Melland. An intimate study of the elephant, the most interesting and intelligent of animals. Wild elephants and domesticated, hostile and friendly, young and old, are all dealt with. A book for all animal lovers of any age.
186 pages. Illus.............WAS $3.75. NOW 98c

6. FREMONT, Pathmarker of the West, by Allan Nevins. John Charles Fremont, above all others, opened up the Great West to prairie schooners and permanent settlement. He charted more of the West than any other, helped win California from Mexico, won and lost the $10,000,000 Mariposa mines, was first Republican candidate for President, and commanded two departments in the Civil war.
649 pages. Illus...........WAS $5.00. NOW $1.79

7. FLOWER PORTRAITS, by Blanche Henrey. The pattern of flowers has inspired artists from the earliest times. Miss Henrey has for long specialized in their portraiture, and now for the first time gives us a book of sixty beautiful flowers and flowering shrubs.
127 pages. Illus.............WAS $3.00. NOW 98c

8. LILIES, Their Culture and Management, by H. Drysdale Woodcock and J. Coutts. Designed for the use both of the specialist and of the amateur, to the raising, planting, cultivation, hybridizing and exhibiting of lilies and garden plants.
242 pages. Illus..........WAS $6.00. NOW $1.69

9. THE WONDER OF LIFE, by J. Arthur Thomson. Illustrates the ever-growing wonder of nature, with a special reference to animal life. Perhaps everything that lives would be equally wonderful if we knew enough about it—the leaf of grass, the egg of the wren, the tree-toad, etc.
332 illustrations...........WAS $5.00. NOW $1.39

10. HARDY BULBS FOR AMATEURS, by Rev. Joseph Jacob. This little book about growing bulbs in gardens or in the open air and the hints given on the selection of the best species or varieties is invaluable.

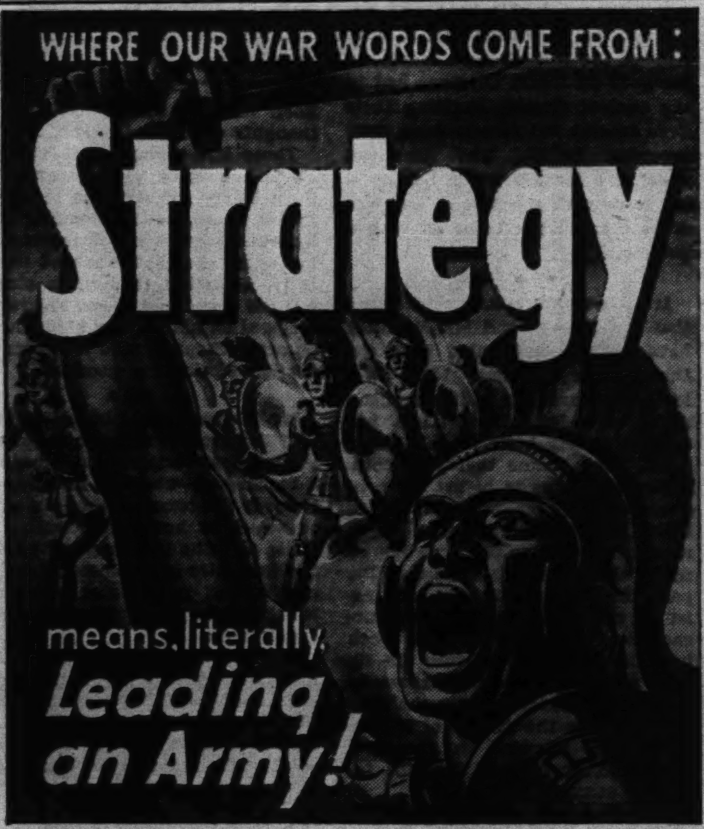
Yankee Prince.

Ward Morehouse, New York drama critic, has delivered to the J. B. Lippincott company the manuscript of "Yankee Prince: the Life of George M. Cohan." It is scheduled for publication Nov. 3.



STRATEGY, the science and art of employing a nation's armed forces for victory, comes from the Greek verb stratēgein, "to be leader of an army," from stratēgos, "a general," which in turn comes from the two words, stratos, "army," and agein, "to lead." The English strategem has the same origin. But modern strategy is the direction of the whole war theater, rather than personal leadership of troops or ships, which is included in tactics, the actual disposing and maneuvering of troops or ships in battle. Tactics comes from Greek taktika, from tattein, "to put in order."

Strategy and tactics are often confused and misused. Knowledge of the origins and acquired meanings of words will enable you to use them more accurately. Both you and your children will enjoy and benefit from the thousands of fascinating etymologies (word origins) in WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY, Second Edition.

These colorful word histories are only one feature of this greatest of all knowledge books. Its completeness makes it truly the foundation book for home education! The more questions you and your children bring to it, the more you will be amazed at the range and scope of the information furnished by its hundreds of encyclopedic articles, the work of over 200 outstanding authorities. It seems almost unbelievable that such a vast fund of knowledge could be packed into one book—a book that tells you everything you want to know about words, 600,000 of them, 122,000 more than in any other dictionary.

Two Stories Appealing to Distaff Side

"YOU CAN'T ESCAPE," by Faith Baldwin. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.]
"WHEN HEARTS ARE LIGHT AGAIN," by Emilie Loring. [Little, Brown, $2.]

Reviewed by Maureen Daly.

You can't escape Faith Baldwin at her wordy and womanly best. Here is the story of Linda Wheaton, a bright-eyed, small town lovely who was completely and happily secure in her life until she was jilted by handsome Rix Anderson. Linda's small but happy world was shattered.

In an effort to heal her hurt and gain new self-sufficiency she set out for New York. There, amid the glitter of a career, complete with penthouses and Connecticut week-ends, Linda tried to become brittle, to inure herself against men.

But when she saw her best friend, Tony Dennison, about to be duped by his wealthy fiancee who was holding hands in dark corners with philandering Rix Anderson, who had again raised his far-from-ugly head, Linda's true nature comes to the fore. Before her righteous anger has subsided, she has again learned to face life and to know the real meaning of love and happiness. And all the characters, each to his just deserts, are filled with a vast and final contentment. And the reader, tho still uninspired and unstirred, is satisfied.

"When Hearts Are Light Again" is an up-to-the-minute love story complete with war plants, army-navy E's, production schedules and sabotage and all the bright-eyed, engagement ring, you-name-the-day bliss that marks any love story.

Gail Trevor is the girl. Or at least the girl who finally marries Capt. Gregory Hunt, recalled from active service to do undercover work for his uncle's war factory, when his original fiancee, Lila Tenny, leaves him flat on his wedding day. All this is quite a surprise to Gail, tho the reader knew it was going to happen all the time because that nasty, snobbish Lila just couldn't be the heroine in any book. Rushed into a marriage that finds her emotionally unprepared, Gail carries on with her job and plays wife to save Hunt's face like a good trouper till real love comes along.

It is a story of high romance and adventure—a story that only a woman would write—and only women will read.

BOOKS ALIVE

by Vincent Starrett

WHAT a delightful character in Thackeray's best manner is evoked by the following description of an old lady once resident in New Rochelle, N. Y.:

"She was, to say the least, peculiar—rather overdressed for her age and that community, excessively garrulous even with strangers, and full of interminable reminiscences of her past. To her grandnieces and grandnephews she seemed at times to be lightheaded. Indeed she was once found by one of them watering his pet green, red-crested parrot from a large pitcher, and when he remonstrated with her she testily told him not to be impertinent—that it was a red geranium which needed sprinkling badly."

However, Thackeray, altho he would have loved her, had nothing to do with her; she does not exist in any of his novels. Barring the episode of the parrot, nearly everybody knows the fantastic old creature, I suppose; she still lives in a thousand towns and villages and is known by a thousand different names, all beginning with "Aunty." I can think of three or four of her at this minute, all with wonderful stories to tell about a painted past—the adjective is historically, not personally, descriptive—and with nobody to listen. Do we really appreciate our little old ladies?

Old Diary Found in Attic.

In the present instance, she was known in the '70s of the last century as "Aunty" Webster, and one of her grandnieces has said that, as a child, it never occurred to her that Daniel Webster was not a humorous character because of his relationship to such an irresponsible person as "Aunty." She was his second wife, Caroline Le Roy, as obscure a figure as you will find on the rolls of fame, yet but for an accident of fate she would be remembered as one of the liveliest mistresses of the White House. The quoted words are from the introduction, by Claude M. Fuess, to "Mr. W. and I" [Ives Washburn], the diary of her activities on a European journey, with "Mr. W.," something over 100 years ago. Slight as is the historical importance of the old document—found, properly enough, in a garret—it is a charming chronicle of foreign travel and social trivialities a century ago. Nothing is more human than the idle, intimate prattle of such a journal.

"Aunty" Webster looked a little like Elizabeth Barrett Browning, it appears, and that is as it should be, too; all little old ladies should look like Elizabeth Barrett Browning or, alternatively, George Eliot. "The children regarded her with amused toleration," says Mr. Fuess of her old age, "unaware that . . . she had once moved securely among the great and the near great, at the courts of queens and kings. She must have been a pathetic figure in those days as she wandered about in a world of her own memories . . . of which the people around her knew little or nothing."

What a novel might be written around such a figure—the story of a vanished epoch revealed thru her memories, the indifference of grandnieces and grandnephews a satirical comment on the whole drama of life, and we should probably call the novel great. Or has somebody already written it?

Incredible Story of Crane's Wife.

Biographies of Stephen Crane will have to be revised. The incredible story of Cora Taylor, mumbled behind screening hands for years, and ignored by Thomas Beer in his presumably authoritative account of the writer's life, is out in the open. She was the owner of a brothel in Jacksonville, Fla.; she fell in love with Crane and followed him to Europe, where they were married. Later, their home in England was a hospitable hostelry visited by some of the most celebrated figures of modern letters; among their friends and visitors were Henry James and Joseph Conrad and H. G. Wells. In all things, she was a devoted wife, and when at last the genius died, leaving her without funds, she returned to Jacksonville and her old profession. Those are the high spots in one of the most extraordinary episodes in the history of literature. De Maupassant never imagined a more arresting story.

It is curious that it should have emerged in the latest volume of Farrar & Rinehart's Rivers of America series—"The St. Johns," by Branch Cabell and A. J. Hanna—and it would appear from an "epilogue" at the close of that volume that it got in largely at Mr. Cabell's insistence. But it is undoubtedly part of the ana of Florida and the St. Johns, and it is as well that the story should have been told at last. Cabell's recital of the episode is not unsympathetic, in spite of an occasional snigger.

Best of River Series.

This is a remarkable book on all counts, indeed; probably it is one of the most entertaining and satirical volumes of history ever penned. There is enough of Voltaire in Cabell to make his reading of any historical phenomena mischievous, and the lush retrospect of Florida offers him unusual opportunities. Either as history or Cabell it is fascinating; the book is without qualification the best written in the series. With all respect to Messrs. Canby, Hansen, Carmer, Burt, Coffin, Masters, et al, who have contributed admirable volumes, this department suggests that Mr. Cabell be asked to collaborate on all future chronicles of American rivers—or perhaps he will do us a history of the whole American people? Incidentally, the illustrations to "The St. Johns," by Doris Lee, are delishamous.

Brilliant Fragment in New Book.

Speaking of Stephen Crane, collectors of that fine American writer—the most startling figure in our literature after Poe—will want to acquire Ben Ames Williams' excellent symposium, "Amateurs at War" [Houghton Mifflin], a collection of personal narratives showing the American soldier in action from pre-Revolutionary days to recent operations in the Solomons. Crane's contribution, "The Santiago Campaign," printed here for the first time in covers, I think, is one of his most brilliant pieces of writing.

Humorous Story Turns Out to Be Dud on Stage

Situations Are Uninteresting and Unfunny

By John Chapman.

NEW YORK—[Special].—Being theater-struck is an affliction of the mind which often unsettles reason in the very department in which reason should be most acute. Various people have been crazy to do "The Snark Was a Boojum," and now that the play has arrived it is clear that those who finally got it on must have been a little bit nuts to have done it at all.

Owen Davis.

"The Snark Was a Boojum" appeared a couple of years ago as a humorous novel by one Richard Shattuck—Richard Shattuck being a lady teacher who signed her husband's name to her attack of whimsy. I didn't read the book but it must have been pretty good, for immediately there arose talk of making it into a play. Lorenz Hart, the lyric writer, took a whack at it. Then it was offered to John Cecil Holm, an established expert in comedy matters.

Holm was taken with the idea after he read the first chapter, for the first chapter introduced a widow who carried the ashes of her husband, Henry, around with her in a black handbag and kept talking to same. This was a fine screwy touch and Holm galloped thru the book looking for more. He tells me he didn't find enough more of the kind of thing he likes to do, so he withdrew as a possible dramatist.

"The Snark Was a Boojum" eventually came to the desk of Owen Davis, and Mr. Davis adapted it for the stage. According to the count of Ward Morehouse, a careful historian of such matters, this was Mr. Davis' 278th play. None of the other 277 could have been much worse.

"The Snark, Etc.," takes its title from Lewis Carroll's nonsense verse, "The Hunting of the Snark." The title has nothing at all to do with the play, but it brings up a point: Many persons think that if they go around quoting W. S. Gilbert, Charles Carryl, and Lewis Carroll, who were masters of whimsy, it makes the quoters funny and whimsical people, too. Well, it doesn't, very often. To be funny you've got to create humor, not quote it.

Those who hoped to make a play out of "The Snark, Etc." expected it to be a fast, rough farce involving a group of endearing goons, three of whom have arrived at the Shilly house in New England to have babies. The reason for the baby Derby is that the late Uncle Mortimer has willed all his money to the first Shilly baby to be born in the Shilly house. So the curtain goes up on three actresses who are draped to look in an interesting condition, and they are surrounded by husbands, an eerie old aunt, a heroine who quotes Lewis Carroll, a lady who carries her Henry around in a handbag and coos to him, a Peck's bad boy, a lawyer, and a veterinarian.

There has been so much pregnancy in the theater of late that the condition is becoming less interesting. For a change, some one might try writing a comedy about a case of dandruff. As Playwright Davis and Director Alexander Kirkland try to stir their people into one mad whirlpool, seven doors open and shut rapidly and repeatedly, the phone wire is cut, the radio says a maniacal killer is on a tear, and, with all the snow, it ain't a fit night out for man or beast. So the veterinarian, who has come to deliver some dogs in the basement, has to assist in the arrival of one of the Shilly babies. This event is accomplished offstage in about 10 minutes and in a few more minutes the mother is back on the stage arguing with her relatives, not noticeably the worse for wear.

But nothing jells. The play tries to be a combination of "You Can't Take It With You," "Star Spangled," "Three Men on a Horse," and "The Tavern," but it winds up as nothing at all. It is agonizingly unfunny, even tho the players include such expert and willing folk as Ben Lackland, Ann Dere, Catherine Willard, Frank Lovejoy, Florence MacMichael, and Fleming Ward.

There is no worse torture for one who likes the stage than to see a bad play, because you feel so sorry and so embarrassed for those involved. You say to yourself, "Why, O why, do they do it? Didn't they KNOW before they ever started that it wouldn't do? They MUST have known it. Anybody would. Why pour work and money and hope down the drain like that?"

The professional showman, both here and in Hollywood, snorts grimly at an argument like the foregoing. His answer is always the same. Says he:

"If you can tell whether or not a play or a picture is going to be a hit, just from reading it, I will pay you one million dollars."

Well, all right. It must be admitted that nobody, over a period of years, has ever been able to pick sure winners. Wonder boys come and go. The best playwrights and ablest managers have their ups and downs, and films by the greatest stars and most costly scenarists lay hideous big eggs. A cinch hit cannot be identified in advance.

But I should like to stick out my neck and argue that a cinch flop CAN be picked in advance—certainly by the time a few rehearsals have been held. Not every failure, mind you, but the certain ones—the ones that smell. Bad stage writing is quickly identifiable.

Burns Mantle, looking back on his 45 years of showgoing, told an interviewer that the theater's batting average seems always to be about the same; out of every 100 plays, 80 will fail and 20 will succeed.

A great many of the 80 which fail at the box office will nevertheless have been worth doing; they will have had good ideas, good writing and good acting. Some of them, indeed, will have been superb. There is no way of ruling such plays as these off the boards before they get a hearing, and any attempt to do so would be criminally shortsighted.

But, out of the 80, there probably will have been 20 complete stinkers; plays that are shoddy, cheap, phony, amateurish, stupid; plays that have won a production because some unscrupulous sharp-shooter who has no taste or brains has found a sucker with some money; plays that have won a production because some sucker with money is interested in a lady who wants to become a star.

These 20 complete stinkers, I maintain, can be identified well in advance of their Broadway first nights. I wish some one in the theater profession would tell me why they are not.

A sailor knocked out of active service by a back injury a few days before Pearl Harbor, Danny O'Neil has made the best of his enforced idleness by becoming a singing sensation who is starred in the new Palmer House show featuring Griff Williams' music.

Notes of Music and Musicians

By Albert Goldberg

Unless nosed out by a dark horse booking, the honor of opening Chicago's 1943-'44 musical season will fall to Sigmund Romberg, noted composer of light operas, who will bring an orchestra and a quartet of soloists to Orchestra hall for three concerts on Friday evening, Sept. 24, and Saturday afternoon and evening, Sept. 25. Selections from Romberg's most famous operettas, "The Student Prince," "Desert Song," "Blossom Time," and "New Moon," will form the main body of the programs, interspersed with compositions of Johann Strauss, Lehar, and Kalman, and a promise of what the press agent calls "semi-classics"—music by Schubert, Chopin, and Tschaikowsky. These events will mark Romberg's Chicago debut as an orchestra conductor. Soloists in the troupe will be Marthe Errolle, soprano, who has just completed a starring season at the St. Louis Municipal opera; Esther Borja, Brazilian singer; Mary Beck, violinist, and Eric Mattson, tenor.

The Cultural Arts Concert committee announces a series of five concerts to be given at the Abraham Lincoln center on Sundays at 4. Season tickets sell for $1.01, with single admission at 55 cents. Events will include Thaddeus Kozuch, pianist, and Benniemore Arnold, soprano, Nov. 14; Beatrice Betts, dancer, and Fred Hoeppner, cellist, Dec. 12; Norma Zuzanek, pianist, and Goldie Rhodes, soprano, Jan. 16; Charlotte Chambers, violinist, and Magga Worthington Johnson, coloratura soprano, Feb. 20; Bobby Bloch, violinist, and Northwest Boys' choir, March 19.

The final free outdoor choral concerts sponsored by the office of civilian defense will be given this week. The Echo Women's chorus will sing on Tuesday in Columbus park, the Bryn Mawr Community church high school chorus will appear in Jackson park on Wednesday, and the People's church choir will be heard in Lincoln park on Friday. All concerts begin at 8:30.

Kirsten Flagstad has not been singing in Germany, contrary to recently circulated reports. According to a letter from her received by her former accompanist, Edwin McArthur, sent from Malmö, Sweden, last March, she had appeared there in an orchestral concert, singing six Wagnerian excerpts. "Schneevoigt conducted," she wrote. "This is the third time I have sung in two years, the first and second being Zurich and Stockholm. It is not much, but I practice quite a lot. I am supposed to go to Zurich for 'Alceste,' 'Tristan' and 'Walküre' in June, but visas thru Germany were not granted."

José Echaniz, who has appeared here as piano soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra and guest conductor with the Illinois Symphony orchestra, will conduct the Havana Philharmonic orchestra during October and November. At the conclusion of his orchestra season, Mr. Echaniz will give a piano recital before the Pro-Arte Musical society of Havana to commemorate the 15th anniversary of the opening of the organization's auditorium, which was dedicated with a recital by Mr. Echaniz.

Sir Adrian Boult recently conducted the BBC orchestra in a concert of American compositions at a London Promenade concert. The program consisted of a first performance of Hugo Weisgall's "American Comedy 1943," conducted by the composer, a member of the American army in England, Gershwin's piano concerto in F, Copland's "A Lincoln Portrait," with Lt. Burgess Meredith reading the text, and William Schuman's third symphony.

PHILO M. BUCK JR. REVIEWS TWO BOOKS ON THE WAR IN THE ORIENT

How to Win War, Peace in Far East

"HIGHWAY TO TOKYO," by Joseph Rosenfarb. [Little, Brown, $1.25.]
"AMERICAN EMPIRE IN ASIA?" by Albert Viton. [John Day, $3.]

Reviewed by Philo M. Buck Jr.

These two books might have a common title, "How to Win the War and Then the Peace in Asia." The first is splendidly convincing; unfortunately, the second leaves one with anxious questionings.

The first analyzes the four routes to Tokio—via the Aleutian Islands; thru China or Siberia; directly across the Pacific from Hawaii; from a base in Australia thru Rabaul, the Philippines, and Truk.

The first route is unfeasible on account of prevailing fogs and storms, and does not cut off Japan from her island empire. The second, even if Japan is thrown out of China, leaves the problem of the defeat of Japan where it was. "Japan would still be in possession of her island empire." The third leaves us without land-based air protection. "Logic," therefore, "and the cause of events assigned the allied offensive route to Japan from Australia and the South Pacific generally."

"Highway to Tokyo" is well written. It can be described as a defense of the strategy now employed by our combined operations in the Solomons and New Guinea. It makes isolated actions of this year and last stand out in relief as part of a larger panorama. Above all, it puts into a beautifully articulated design the relative values of the various campaigns now in the making—the one in Burma, the several in China, the activity in the Aleutians, and what seem haphazard raids like the one on Marcus Island.

But how can we secure an abiding peace in Asia after Japan has been defeated? Much has been said and written on this alluring subject. The distinction of Mr. Viton's book is that it is written by a moral revolutionist obsessed by the backwardness of the peoples in Asia, which in general he charges to imperial European exploitation. The poverty in India and Malaya, the quarrels between majorities and minorities, the head hunters in Borneo and New Guinea—all these evils, and many more, are due to the fact that English, Dutch, French imperialisms have failed to think and plan for the moral and economic welfare of the lands that they have unjustly acquired.

This war and the peace that will

AMONG THE AUTHORS

By Frederic Babcock.

WHEN you set foot in the ancient Boston book publishing houses of Houghton Mifflin and Little, Brown you may think you're going to be greeted by tottering greybeards who haven't had a new idea since they got started in the business. . . . In that case, you'll be wrong. . . . The two companies are run by smart youngsters who know all the angles of one of the most highly competitive industries of America. . . . At least, that's the way it seemed to me when I journeyed down Boston-way the other day.

I was all set to be taken aback by some such opening remarks as: "So you're from the middle west, are you? Well, can you prove you're a direct descendant of Priscilla and John Alden? Do you know any of the Lowells or the Cabots? If not, I'm afraid we'll have to let you talk only to the office boy. I am sure he can handle whatever matter it is you might wish to take up with us." . . . Somewhat appalled by this prospect, but armed with three or four snappy comebacks committed to memory, I strolled across the splendid greenery of the Common and invaded the sacred precincts. . . . The reception given me was not what I had anticipated. . . . It was, in fact, quite the opposite.

My first call was at Houghton Mifflin. . . . There I encountered Paul Brooks, the editor, who looked as if he had just stepped out of Harvard [and he had, not so long ago]; Lovell Thompson, advertising manager, who didn't look much older, and Dale Warren, publicity expert, who [as somebody has remarked] is the image of Vincent Sheean, but whose greater claim to fame lies in his authorship of what is [in my opinion] the best of all books on the subject: "The Care and Feeding of a Place in the Country." . . . From there it was short jaunt over to Little, Brown. . . . There I met C. Raymond Everitt, the editor, a keen minded Yankee if there ever was one, and Anne Ford, publicity director, the glamor girl of the publishing business. . . . From these five personages I learned something about the two big houses still operating in the one-time center of American culture.

It was back in 1832 that William D. Ticknor took charge of the Old Corner Book store in Boston. . . . The firm of Ticknor & Fields, predecessor of Houghton Mifflin, followed soon afterwards. . . . That was in the days when New England was contributing such literary lights as Thoreau, Whittier, Emerson, and Hawthorne. . . . H. O. Houghton and George H. Mifflin entered the corporate picture in 1864, after several other reorganizations and combinations had taken place. . . . Among the company's current authors are John Dos Passos, Lloyd C. Douglas, Ben Ames Williams, Dorothy Thompson, Archibald MacLeish, Stuart Cloete, Vera Caspary, Jerre Mangione, James Norman Hall, Elsie Singmaster, Henry Seidel Canby, Donald Culross Peattie, Carleton Beals, Ira Wolfert, and Vanya Oakes. . Most of the Houghtons and Mifflins are now out of the company, but the founder is still represented. . . . His grandson, Benjamin H. Ticknor, is sales manager.

• • •

Like its Boston rival's, the history of Little, Brown goes back more than a century. . . . In 1821 Charles Coffin Little landed a job with the Carter, Hilliard book store. . . . He became a member of the firm six years later, and still later formed a partnership with James Brown. . . . It has been called by its present name ever since 1847. . . . And, like its rival, it has published the works of some of the greatest authors. . . . On its present day list are such luminaries as Winston Churchill, John P. Marquand, James Truslow Adams, Herbert Agar, Martha Albrand, Walter Lippmann, Thomas Bell, Max Werner, James Hilton, Ngaio Marsh, Ellery Queen, Emilie Loring, Phyllis Bottome, William Henry Chamberlin, Allan Nevins, Henry Steele Commager, Ogden Nash, Ethel Vance, Anna Seghers, C. S. Forester, James Aldridge, Evelyn Waugh, Carey McWilliams, and Rose C. Feld. . . . What ever became of the descendants of Messrs. Little and Brown? . . . I forgot to ask.

Exciting Stories of English Subs

"UP PERISCOPE," by David Masters. [Dial, $2.50.]

This is the first book to deal with the operations of British submarines in this war, it is said. David Masters, author of several books on the sea, tells 21 exciting stories of how England is meeting the U-boat peril with subsurface fighting craft of her own. The narratives are authentic, being taken from the records of the British admiralty. "Up Periscope" is an inspiring anthology of undersea heroism.

Priestley and Nathan Use War as Backdrop for New Novels

"DAYLIGHT ON SATURDAY," by J. B. Priestley. Harpers, $2.50.]
"BUT GENTLY DAY," by Robert Nathan. [Knopf, $2.]

Reviewed by Fanny Butcher.

One of America's and one of England's best known novelists last week published books which are backgrounded by the war but are not really about the war.

The action in the English novel takes place in a great war time plane factory in the Midlands, but it is concerned not with the actual work of the shop, but with the workers. Except for a few hours when the director has to face the news that his son who is in the coastal command has not returned to his base, and when the wife and child of one of the workers die in an air raid in a town remote from the factory, relationship of the war to the characters is something akin to the relationship the gods on Mount Olympus had to the ancient Greeks, shuffling their lives around, but remote from their everyday doings. The American novel is a fantasy which has nothing to do with this war or any war other than that it takes off with a plane crash.

It is an interesting coincidence that Mr. Nathan and Mr. Priestley have both experimented with the Dunne theory of time. Mr. Priestley has discarded it in this realistic novel of today. Mr. Nathan has used it as the basis for his latest work. The Dunne theory is nothing so simple as to be set down in a sentence by an amateur, but a brief [tho highly inadequate] statement of part of its principle can be made thus: time is timeless; the past, the present, the future all exist at the same time. Man's subconscious is capable of going back into the past, forward into the future, and does thus travel timelessly in time, hence his dreams may go back into the reality of a hundred, two hundred, a thousand years ago, or forward into the future or eternity.

In 1927 J. W. Dunne published a very learned book called "Experiment with Time," which has had a marked influence on both English and American literature. . . . John Balderston's play, "Berkeley Square," you'll remember, and J. B. Priestley's "Time and the Conways," and lots of others. [Incidentally I found that J. W. Dunne is the man who designed and built the first British military airplane [1906-'07], according to the British Who's Who.]

"But Gently Day" is, like many of Mr. Nathan's previous books, a delicate fantasy, in the novella rather than the novel form, a book to be read at a sitting, but with more depth and scope than the long short story.

Like the whole genre of books and plays which have used the Dunne theory of time, it leaps the confines of traditional past and present. It thrusts its hero, a young soldier of today, back into the post-Civil war period. It opens with a plane wreck in November, 1942, and closes with the discovery of the body of a soldier who "went quick and sudden when he went. It must have got him before he knew it. . . . Looks like his last thoughts were good ones."

Those last thoughts are the real story, the story of the return of Corp. Henry Arkbester to his home, to find there, not his familiar family, but his great-grandparents, talking about the Civil war and its futility, adjusting themselves simply to their world and peace. The young corporal on his journey home meets an army chaplain who is a personification of timeless goodness.

Mr. Nathan writes beautiful, stylized American prose, sometimes a shade ultra-precious, sometimes just a touch over—unusual, as when he rewords the common simile, a voice as sweet as honey into such fantasies as "She leaned closer to him and her voice grew slow and sweet, and full of relish, like molasses," which comes pretty close to being unpalatable.

In "But Gently Day" he tells a tale which some of his admirers will undoubtedly feel is purely beautiful and symbolic, while some of them will wish that he had made the point of the tale a little clearer. My guess as to its interpretation is that Mr. Nathan feels that in the troubled times before us it will give the world comfort to know that troubled times have been lived thru before, that life has gone on and that men and women have loved and been happy. One sentence gives me a clue to that interpretation when Henry says, "I guess I thought that things were simpler in the old days, and people were better. I figured God was closer then, but now I don't think so."

There is no fantasy whatever about Mr. Priestley's "Daylight on Saturday." It is a completely realistic book about some 40-odd men and women who work 11 hours a day, every day of the week except Saturday, in a blacked out airplane factory, lighted by artificial daylight, and see the real daylight only on Saturday—hence the title. What happens to those persons—typical of the thousands "we do not know, altho we share their life and time"—fills 280 pages [new war time small type] of Mr Priestley's typical storytelling. His technique is as simple as a round-the-rosy game. Whenever one character comes upon another at the factory, the story is shifted from the first to the second character's point of view, and in the end the weaving of all of the life stories makes the pattern.

That Mr. Priestley has succeeded in giving the reader a sketched picture of the work as well as the "morale" of such a factory without ever describing in anything but the most general terms what actually happens there, so far as the work itself is concerned, is a sleight-of-hand trick that only a fictional magician could turn.

To me, "Daylight on Saturday" sounds a little as if its author were hurried in his mind. Perhaps the years which he spent in Hollywood speeded up his tale-telling from the pleasant and almost ostentatious leisureliness of "The Good Companions" to clipped briskness. Or perhaps it's just the tempo of life in the Elmdown Aircraft Company, Ltd., translated into story-telling prose.

J. B. Priestley, whose latest novel, "Daylight on Saturday" (Harper), is reviewed by Fanny Butcher on this page.

State Federation of Women's Clubs Charts Course at Meeting This Week

By Irene Steyskal.

With the meeting here this week of the board of directors of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, all of the new and stimulating ideas which have been emanating from every part of the state, as clubwomen prepare for a season of war service, will be drawn together like so many threads of myriad colors, measured, classified, and set to the loom in definite pattern.

The conference sessions, centered at federation headquarters, 30 West Washington street, will continue thru Wednesday and Thursday, with Mrs. Walter M. Rennie presiding. For Mrs. Rennie, the directors' fall meeting will climax a strenuous round of conferences with south and central region clubs upon which she set out last Friday, and which she will resume next week.

Mrs. Rennie has taken over administration of the state federation, the directing and coördinating agency for more than 75,000 Illinois women, with some firm convictions on the potential force and the responsibilities of the women's club.

Reminding her colleagues that they have come a long way from the tea party, embroidery circle, and poetry reading stages, she views the club movement as the most far reaching program in adult education in the United States. She misses no opporunity to urge them to assume leadership in their communities, emphatically asserting that they have been better fitted for it than most by their study classes and forums on subjects ranging from the local school board to international relations, by their varied departmental interests and by scientific welfare work.

Addressing a message to Illinois clubwomen thru the federation organ on the eve of the fall board meeting, Mrs. Rennie focuses attention upon several major home front problems growing out of the war, and calls for vigorous and coördinated action this year in their solution.

"Only as we recognize our national and our social problems, and accept responsibilities as citizens to the point where we are willing to exert ourselves to the fullest," she says, "will we prevent the regimentation we do not want.

"Public opinion," Mrs. Rennie points out, "has much to do with winning both the war and the peace. Club women can develop the right kind of public opinion, but first they must study and discuss problems at hand."

She urges clubwomen to hold forums at every meeting, to have discussion groups in their homes instead of bridge parties, to "think about peace, talk about peace, develop convictions and be ready to make them known."

• • •

The war service department of the federation will be headed this season by Mrs. Charles W. Stigman, who will bring before the board a program calling for: Coöperation with the General federation on its "Buy a Bomber" campaign ("We want the name of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs painted on the noses of several bombers," she states); more scholarships for nurses; the organization of more Victory clubs selling a minimum of $1,000 in war bonds each month; at least 1,000 scrapbooks of cartoons and jokes to be placed, at the request of the admiral of the Atlantic fleet, in the sick bays of battleships; enrollment of every club woman in a Red Cross home nursing course; increased effort to combat juvenile delinquency; more active participation in recruiting women for industry, and more members working in Braille with the view toward helping in the rehabilitation of disabled soldiers.

Tribune Color Camera Takes American Fashions Photos

By Rita Fitzpatrick.

The scene is the swank New York home of Mrs. Sarah Kelly, prominent interior decorator. A battery of lights pours over a beautiful, French, marble fireplace and draws out the delicate flush of pink chrysanthemums arched in a frail, china vase. Before the fireplace stands a lovely, golden-haired mannequin in a regal dinner gown. A smile touches her lips. There is confidence and dignity in every line of her gown and pose.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's famous one-shot color camera is at work.

With such careful artistry are the winning ensembles in THE TRIBUNE's fourth annual American Fashions contest selected under the supervision of Mrs. Grace Pickering, noted fashions authority, now being photographed in color, preparatory to publication in Sunday editions beginning Oct. 3. It is a task requiring time, patience, and unerring skill. The perfect matching of the glowing color of the gown on the mannequin and that in the picture is no accident.

Eight of the 26 charming ensembles which will make up the American Fashions collections and will be shown to the public at the climax of the competition Sept. 30 and Oct. 1, are already photographed in true tones. The dreams of the designers have taken on warmth and reality.

Under the direction of Edward H. Johnson, head of THE TRIBUNE's color studio, the gowns and costumes are being photographed, one by one, as soon as they are finished by the nation's finest dressmakers and tailors. Each frock receives as much attention as if it were the only one to be shown at the American Fashions review. Who knows, it might be the grand prize winning design which will receive nation-wide acclaim and a $1,000 award?

Household Forum

by LOUISE BARGELT

[Have you some household help that lightens labor or conserves on materials? Is there some comfort you could enjoy? We'll be glad to pass on your ideas to our readers. Address Louise Bargelt, The Chicago Tribune.]

Mrs. Aggie S., Rochester, N. Y.: I have thought for some time it would be a big comfort for a boy or girl who sleeps in the upper bunk of a double decker bunk if double decker night tables were manufactured, so those on the top deck would have a place to park small articles.

Dorothy F., Chicago: I do quite a bit of unraveling of old knitted garments and knitting yarn over again for family needs. I wind the unraveled yarn on a wire cake rack when I steam it. Then, after I'm thru with steaming process, it is easy to hang up rack with a clothes pin until the yarn has dried thoroly.

• • •

Mrs. Hannah D., Des Moines, Ia.: I do a lot of sewing and cutting for my very sizable family. And many is the time I have kept my fingers and hands from getting sore by wrapping scissors handles with adhesive tape.

Nora H., Kalamazoo, Mich.: Here's a tip to young housekeepers who are canning this year for the first time. Don't ever substitute a wet dishcloth for a holder when you are canning. Steam from a hot jar comes thru a wet cloth—with devastating results.

Mrs. Francis N., Sandusky, O.: I have made my own quart measuring jars for quite some time. I take an ordinary quart jar and paste some adhesive tape on the outside—vertically, of course. Then I mark this tape for quart, pint, and half pint measures.

Mrs. K. J. T., South Bend, Ind.: I have a 10 pound flour sack I keep just for the purpose of using when I iron my criscross ruffled curtains that are fastened together. I place one of these curtains into the flour sack after I have thoroly dampened the sack. Then I pin sack to my ironing board and let it hang while I'm ironing other half of curtains.

Fall Descends on Alleghenies Sending Vacationers Back to Winter Homes

By Cousin Eve.

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (Special).—The heat of summer has gone from the Alleghenies and the serene silences of early autumn are upon us. Birds no longer sing and tree toads at night raise their melancholy chant. Great sprays of goldenrod rise like feathers in the florist shop and many a maple tree waves a scarlet feather. Numbers of people have already left for the cities. We remember them for an hour, then others take their places. At the Homestead nobody has time to miss anybody, the pace is too rapid, this season's crowd too great.

It was amusing to see the departure of the Egyptian minister, Hassan Bey, with his charming family. In a small town car they left for Washington, the minister at the wheel, madame in white with a tiny little hat glued somehow to her glossy raven hair. The children, nurse, and luggage were tucked in anywhere, while the new baby, red cheeked and blue eyed, with her bonnet somewhat awry, had a nest at the back and seemed as avid for adventure as her family.

The Hassans make a long, leisurely stay every year at Hot Springs and add a cosmopolitan note. Hassan Bey has served his country as minister in Germany, France, and Sweden. His radiantly pretty wife is a member of the royal family of Egypt.

The Labor day week-end at Hot Springs is one of the high moments of the year. Golfers flock from near and far for the Fairacres tournament which has been a feature of life here for 19 years. The tournament this year, however, was planned on a greatly restricted scale, with no golf dinner on Saturday night, and no dance at the Casino. Instead of the golf dinner, followed by the usual auction of the top players, there was a tremendous concourse of golfers in the Empire room. Every seat was taken when Hicks Kerr took his place at the mike as auctioneer and Fay Ingalls addressed the multitude. Tickets at $2 are sold for this event and the stubs placed in a big silver bowl. Nominated by Mr. Ingalls to draw a number from the bowl was a list of 16 persons prominent in the summer colony. Thus Michael Arlen, who was No. 1 on the list, drew Mrs. LeRay Berdeau's number, and they chanced to be friends of the good old Riviera days. Audrey Berdeau has uncanny luck at picking winners. Last season she bid in George Payton at the auction, having drawn his number from the silver bowl. And Payton won the championship. These golfers have brought a tremendous influx of new life to the Homestead. They bring their wives, they dance, they poured into the bingo game Tuesday night in such numbers that Robert J. Dunham of Chicago, who won the big prize of the evening, could hardly get the roll of bills into his pocket. Michael Arlen, by the way, says he means to weave a novel round the Homestead and its romantic entourage.

On Sunday night there was the last of the outdoors dinners. It was the end of a perfect day, with a young slip of a moon in the sky, riding over the mountain. The air was soft and warm, and we passed a garden full of fall flowers on our way to the feast. I was sitting with a quartet of Palm Beachites, the LeRoy Berdeaus and Kitten and Chester Williams, who have one of the most fanciful small houses in that city of fanciful dwellings. We were sitting under a fragrant young fir tree and happily counting over all our blessings, which included the moon, roast beef for supper, and other things, too many to mention.

Audrey's frock had a gala Hollywood air (she's just back from Beverly). It was a dark violet, polka dotted in leaf green sequins that glittered under the moon. Hat, handbag, and slippers were glittery, too, in green and violet. The Berdeaus have some interesting new neighbors at Palm Beach. Sumner Welles has bought the house next door in Via Bellaria which was built by the late Arthur S. Roche, an eminent architect, and belonged to him. The Welleses, it seems, are making extensive changes and improvements, with a view to occupying it next winter. The outstanding figures of the last week-end here were French, the latest arrivals being Maj. Gen. Andre Bethouart, of the French

Annual Dahlia Conclave to Be Held in City

Chicagoland dahlia fanciers will be hosts to the Central States Dahlia society on Saturday and Sunday at the Garfield park conservatory, when the 12th annual dahlia show will be in progress. An innovation this year will be war garden vegetable exhibits in addition to those of prize blooms from dahlia growers' gardens.

After the judging of the flowers, which will take most of Saturday forenoon, the exhibits will be open to the public, free of charge, with the coöperation of the conservatory staff. The show climaxes a year's horticultural efforts of several hundred men and women who make of dahlia growing a stimulating, competitive enterprise.

Among the coveted awards for which members of the society are to compete are the Dunham award, presented by Robert J. Dunham, president of the Chicago park board; the August Koch award, one of the society's sweepstakes prizes in recognition of the lifelong service to horticulture on the part of Mr. Koch, and the Rose Schampel Memorial award, presented to the Central States Dahlia society in memory of Mrs. Schampel.

Other flower lovers will gather tomorrow in the Woman's club building in Winnetka for the last summer meeting of the Garden Club of Illinois. Members will bring iris and peony plants to the session, and these are to be planted on the grounds of the Great Lakes Naval Training station. The garden department of the Winnetka Woman's club will be hostess at the meeting, at which B. B. Clark, state conservationist with the United States department of agriculture, will give an illustrated talk on Illinois' work to combat soil erosion.

The hostess club will serve coffee for the box lunches which members will bring with them. Before the program, the board of directors of the state garden club will meet.

Fall Bringing New Guests to Virginia Spa

mission, Mme. Bethouart and Mlle. Monique. You hear the soft sibilant sounds of French. There are French maids and valets, French chauffeurs, delightful French manners and courtesy once more. Another family from Paris are Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Dudensing and their young daughter. Mr. Dudensing is a distinguished collector of modern French paintings. They have also one of the snappiest French poodles that ever skipped along on American soil. This animal is barbered to look like a sheep and has a strange wistful little face. Mr. Dudensing not only bubbles with knowledge and delight over the French moderns, but for his own pleasure has brought here a collection of some of his smaller paintings by Degas, Renoir, Matisse and other masters.

You would hardly call Charles Munroe a Frenchman, yet for long years he lived a carefree life at Monaco. He figures happily at Hot Springs this fall. Another who calls Paris "home" is the Baronne de Villiers-Terrage, a sister of Mrs. J. Griswold Flagg of Philadelphia, here with a young daughter, Mrs. Flagg Biddle. Mrs. Griswold Flagg is far and away the smartest woman of the Philadelphia colony; tall and dark with a brilliant smile and lovely natural manners, she is greatly admired.

As to the Chicago colony, it is vanishing slowly but surely. Mrs. Harold A. Howard left for Chicago on Wednesday on the same train with the Frank Hibbards. Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman took her leave on Thursday and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Keith entrained last night. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph M. Shaw left yesterday and the Robert Dunhams took their departure earliest of all, just after Labor day.

The only reception committee to greet Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine on her arrival here with Mrs. Vernon Booth on Wednesday from Southhampton will be Mr. and Mrs. George Ranney, who are leaving that very midnight for Chicago. Naturally such a breaking up had to be properly celebrated, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hibbard sent out invitations for a farewell cocktail party in the Pilgrim room on Friday evening. This is a pretty little upstairs annex of the club, a cottage bar with tables and quaint old time furnishings. Mrs. Hibbard's crepe frock was a dream of alternate pale pink and opalescent blue bands belted with jewels. The guest of honor that night was Robert Sweetser, who married, years ago, Ruth Gregory, daughter of Mrs. Robert Gregory and a niece of Mr. Hibbard. The Sweetsers have lived for many years in Switzerland, at Geneva, where they were a leading unit in the intellectual groups formed round the now defunct league of nations. Ruth Sweetser has become an accomplished linguist in her life abroad, and is perfectly at home in four languages.

Another farewell cocktail party was given Saturday night by the Robert Dunhams on the veranda of their apartment. Huge red dahlias, masses of goldenrod and the early twilight were all reminders that summer has had its day. Mrs. Dunham wore a simple frock of black crepe—one of those deceptive little numbers which a girl might stitch for herself in a spare moment, but which without a doubt came from the atelier of some great purveyor of fig leaves. I don't remember that Natalie wore any jewels, but certainly she looked charming, and is a gracious hostess. Besides Chicagoans at this party were Mrs. J. Griswold Flagg and Mrs. Flagg Biddle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lockridge of bridge fame, and Miss Georgia Elliott of St. Louis, one of the most popular women, here this year; Irving Carey of New York, and Mrs. Harold Richardson.

A rather bizarre but interesting cocktail party of the week was one where nobody could be prevailed upon to drink anything alcoholic. The party foregathered in the club in fine fettle, and the genial host provided champagne cocktails for all. But nobody drank them.

Two very pretty young subdebs here this year are Herman Armour Nichols' girls, Lolita and Lucille. They play tennis daily with the professional and look delightful in their white linen tennis slacks. Unluckily for the tennis fans, there will be no tournament here this year for a variety of reasons, the chief one being that too many of the good players of old are in the army and navy.

The Wilbur Smiths of Lake Forest came posting down from Illinois for the tournament, and were somewhat set back by the cancellation of the yearly event. They are playing themselves, however, and have had a warm welcome from Wilbur's aunt, Mrs. Harold Fitzgerald of New York, who, like other Bar Harborites, comes here now.

The Ballard Moores have been so busy farming this season that they have played very little tennis. They have been too busy cutting the hay on their 1,000 acre farm, 20 miles away in the mountains. The family goes back to Chicago this week, wondering like all of us where the summer has gone, it has flitted so stealthily away.

George Ranney has provided daily entertainment on the tennis lawn in the absence of good tennis, by the backgammon games he stages every day, morning and afternoon. The Ranney doubles, sixes or less, are famous thruout this bailiwick, and many a gammoner, who is highly pleased with his own game, goes down to bite the greensward after playing against Mr. Ranney. His opponents during the season have been Harold McGraw, the New York publisher, LeRay Berdeau of Palm Beach, Col. Wade Carpenter, also a Palm Beach resident, George Richards and George Crump of Richmond. Maybe I have forgotten a few, but the circle of kibitzers never grows less.

Looking out over the mountain I see an inspiring sight, one to take away into the fogs and sleets of winter. The day is supremely beautiful and dazzling, yet mellowed by a breeze that rustles the leaves till they sigh on their branches, and carries the American flag on the flag pole to its fullest length.

A tall figures strides across the lawn and along the road circling the mountain. Straight as an arrow, staff in hand, he walks swiftly on. It is Mr. Justice James McReynolds of Washington, a bachelor of four score years and then some, a beau of the national capital for the last half century. To be asked to lunch on a Sunday with Justice McReynolds is supposed to establish one's vogue for charm, or wit.

The venerable justice typifies, for the moment, American manhood—and the outflown flag on the autumn breeze our hopes as Americans for our country and the men who are giving life itself.

ENGAGED TO WED ENSIGN

Miss Lorraine Vandevere Gibney's engagement to Ensign Harry A. Swagart Jr. of the coast guard has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Paul Gibney of Farwell avenue. Miss Gibney was graduated from Chevy Chase Junior college. Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Swagart of Forest Hills, Washington, D. C., received his degree from Georgetown university.

England's War Fashions Go on Exhibit Here

By Judith Cass.

The exhibit of "Clothing in War Time England," which opens next Friday at the Chicago Historical society with a preview for members of the English Speaking Union and the Historical society, tells the story of how Britain dealt with an important phase of civilian morale while making a tremendous contribution to the furtherance of the war.

This utility clothing of England moved half a million workers from the clothes industry into war plant jobs; it has freed 500,000 tons of shipping space and has made available an estimated 65,000,000 square feet of factory space for the production of war materials. In addition, enough money has been saved to make possible the construction of an entire navy.

Feminine attractiveness is not suffering from drastic clothes rationing, however, for the government commissioned top flight dress designers—Worth, Hartnell, Digby, Morton, Molyneaux, and others—who formed themselves into the Incorporated Society of London Fashion Designers to handle the job. The results of their efforts, under the leadership of Capt. Molyneaux, is unfolded in this traveling exhibit in life size models, photographs, diagrams, and actual swatches of material now in use in England.

For the first time the fashions created by designers who formerly catered only to the wealthy were made available at moderate prices to the average citizen with the cash and coupons to purchase them. The clothes appear neither limited nor regimented, tho they are fashioned with simplicity and the minimum of material. This autumn a British woman may choose a beige and brown herringbone tweed suit with a single breasted wrist length jacket having two inset pockets, or a brilliant red fleece coat in fitted self-fabric belted style, or an aqua blue wool dress, softly tailored with shirring and decorative pockets on the front.

Samples of lisle and seamless rayon stockings are included in the exhibit. Also shown are red calf shoes with wooden soles, a woman's jacket re-created from a man's old sports coat and dresses made from old stage costumes or elaborate evening gowns. From Chicago the exhibit will return to New York for a showing at Madison Square Garden.

Women in War Work

By Kate Massee

Lamda chapter of Kappa Delta sorority, both active members and alumnae, will be present at 4 o'clock this afternoon at dedication ceremonies during which the chapter will give to the American Red Cross a station wagon to be used in connection with the blood donor mobile unit. Members and guests will gather in front of the sorority house in the west quadrangle of Northwestern university in Evanston.

Miss Mary Lou Sauer, member of the active chapter, will be mistress of ceremonies. Miss Ruth Kilgour will open the program by singing the national anthem, and Mrs. Walter Warrick [Lamar Sheridan Warrick, alumna of Lambda chapter and author of the novel, "Yesterday's Children"] will present the vehicle to an official of the Red Cross.

Dr. and Mrs. Franklin Bliss Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fagg, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Wells have been invited to attend as special guests. Dr. Snyder is president of the university.

Plans for the dedication event are in the hands of Mrs. George Paddock, Mrs. Edwin Anderson, Mrs. Herbert E. Mueller, Mrs. Floyd Grover, and Miss Eleanore Kilgour, all alumnae.

The gift of the station wagon is the result of activity on the part of both active members and alumnae, and of the sorority's mother's club, the president of which is Mrs. Frank F. Thompson. In this project Mrs. Thompson had the coöperation of presidents of the various alumnae groups thruout Chicagoland.

Lambda chapter also has been participating in the national sorority's various war projects, which include supplying musical instruments and games for the recreation of service men, serving at U. S. O. centers, and in canteens, making bandages, furnishing recreation rooms at camps, collecting salvage, selling and buying war bonds, and contributing to war relief of the nation's allies. Lambda chapter girls collected 300 volumes of fiction reading, sent to libraries of military camps in the Chicago area.

September brings renewed appeals to housewives to remember the importance of salvage. Salvage directors, working continuously to collect scrap metal, waste paper, tin cans, and waste fats, point out that, altho there has been no recent publicity campaign regarding the constant need for salvage, that need exists.

This week the general salvage division of the war production board is launching a new campaign for the collection of scrap metal, Lt. Gov. Hugh W. Cross of Illinois, chairman of the conservation committee, has announced. At least 20 per cent of the scrap must come from general sources, which points the admonitory finger directly at householders.

Housewives who have been lagging behind in their preparation of tin cans for processing in detinning plants are being urged to take the few seconds required to de-end and wash, and step upon the cans in the approved manner. Salvage collectors report that too many cans are being tossed out without being properly prepared, resulting in great loss of tin for reclaiming.

An example of the thousands of military uses to which reclaimed tin from cans is put is the syrette, a miniature hypodermic syringe to relieve the pain of wounded fighters. A new development in military medicine, the syrette is made of pure tin and resembles a tiny toothpaste tube. It contains one dose of a sedative which the wounded man can administer to himself until medical help reaches him.

"The pure tin salvaged from only 25 cans is enough to supply a single syrette," Lt. Gov. Cross says. "Millions of these first aid tubes are being distributed and large quantities of tin are needed."

Plans are being formulated at the present time for increased collections of waste fats, which are needed for the manufacture of glycerine to go into munitions. Meat rationing has cut down the average household's supply of waste fats, but at least four ounces of waste cooking fats per week per home is the goal of the salvage directors.

The housewife comes into the paper salvage picture, too, perhaps to a greater degree than any other patriotic citizen. It is up to her, Lt. Gov. Cross says, to stack up the family's castoff newspapers, magazines, and stationery and see that they are collected. Long fiber brown paper, paperboard, and corrugated paper are especially scarce for salvage and especially important for military uses.

Tennis Contest on Cape Aids the Red Cross

CAPE COD, MASS. Labor day week-end at the Oyster Harbors club featured a tennis tournament to benefit the Red Cross and mixed doubles matches on the five courts. Play began Saturday afternoon with about 40 contestants entered. The semi-finals took place Sunday morning and the finals on the following day.

All entry fees went to the Red Cross in entirety and a collection was taken from the large gallery to swell the funds. The lifting of the pleasure driving ban increased both the number of players and attendance, but, as on previous occasions, boat, bicycle, and buggy were popular means of transportation.

Howard D. Whitehouse of Chicago, an enthusiastic tennis fan who makes use of the club courts often, was entered in the tournament. Other Chicagoans in the net play were Mrs. James H. Tatman and her attractive daughter, Ariel.

Week-end activities at the club also included a beach luncheon, informal dancing during the cocktail hour Saturday, and the regular weekly dance Saturday night. There was considerable entertaining, both at the club and in private residences of the colony. Mrs. Charles Goodspeed, who comes to Osterville each season from her winter home in Chicago, was guest of honor at a party given by a group of friends.

The Osterville Servicemen's recreational center committee has sent a message of gratitude to the club and all who generausly assisted with the Tom Scott concert. The center is richer by $207.80, every penny of it to be spent on the boys.

The annual rummage sale for the benefit of "Osterville activities," was held Thursday in Horticultural hall with Mrs. Goodspeed serving as a member of Mrs. J. Mott Hollowell's committee. Contributions of all kinds, especially clothing, are solicited each year among summer residents of Osterville, Wianno and Oyster Harbors, and the sale attracts hundreds of patrons.

Biggest event at the Wianno club last week-end was the Labor day party Saturday night. In former years it has been a costume ball with all colonists vying in beauty and uniqueness of dress, but this year Mrs. Tatman, chairman of the house committee, announced that there would be no fancy dress ball because of the war. Instead, residents and colonists attended in informal attire and from the remarks which were heard late that evening, everyone had a grand time.

However much fun colonists are having on the Cape this year, they are making plans to return before October. The Henry A. Gardners, who summer at Hyannisport, are planning to return Thursday to Winnetka. Miss Evelyn Gardner, who has been with her parents this summer, will return with them. A recent guest in the Gardner home was Miss Carolyn Sutter of Winnetka.

Late-stayers on the Cape will be Mrs. John K. Graves and her family, who will enjoy the Cape's beautiful early fall weather until October. They summer at Bass river. Alix and Ann Graves, 16 year old daughters of Mrs. John K. Graves II, are getting ready to return to school. Alix will return to Rosemary Hall in Greenwich, Conn., and Ann will continue her studies at the Wheeler school in Providence, R. I.

Bass River, where so many Chicagoans spend their summers, will be left behind in the middle of September by the Earle Foxes, who will return to Highland Park after another summer at their cottage. Mr. Fox, who has been a member of the coast guard special reserve on the cape this summer, will continue his duties until his return. The Ballard Higbees will also return to Chicago after spending the summer at Bass River. Bille, Sarah and Joyce Fox were seen at the Bass River Yacht club last week watching the annual Labor day races. A recent young guest of the children was Donna Osborne of Highland Park. Other Bass River summer residents are Miss Helen Gunsaulus and Miss Helen MacKenzie of the Art institute of Chicago. However, this year, they will not return to Chicago, as they are planning to make Bass River their permanent home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Crossett will not open their Chicago home until late October, as they have found that the fall season on the cape is the best time of year in eastern Massachusetts. Miss Carolyn Crossett will continue to commute between Boston, where she is employed, and Wianno, to make the most of the sunny week-ends for sailing, swimming and other activities. Lt. and Mrs. Edward S. French, son-in-law and daughter of the Crossetts, are in Williamstown visiting Lt. French's parents, and following this visit, they will return to Miami, where the Crossett's son-in-law is stationed. Harrison Hart of Chicago has joined his wife at their summer cottage in East Dennis where Mrs. Hart has been all this summer.

The last service at St. Peter's Episcopal church in Wianno was conducted last Sunday by the Rev. Duncan H. Browne, rector of St. James Episcopal church in Chicago. Mr. Browne will remain on the cape until the middle of September.

Mrs. George Campbell of Highland Park has announced that the number of children and adults availing themselves of the facilities of the West Beach club at Hyannisport, was the highest this summer that it has ever been since the club was opened. Mrs. Campbell is cochairman of the Beach club committee.

When the motion picture "This Is the Army" had its premiere performance in Hyannis, Olivia Hollett of Evergreen, Ill., a private in the WACs at Camp Edwards, was among the young women who served as ushers. A committee working under the direction of Maj. Samuel T. Stewart, U. S. A., retired, sold every available seat in the theater and was able to turn over a substantial sum to army emergency relief as a result.

The Hyannisport Yacht club has announced that its annual meeting and election of officers, usually held at this time of the year, will be omitted. Lt. Joseph G. Horne, present commodore, is serving in the naval reserve. All races conducted by the club this summer were informal contests, for which no awards will be made.

WINNETKA GIRL MARRIED

Mrs. Robert Thaddeus Hunter, who is the former Dorothy Gibbons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Gibbons of Winnetka. Her marriage to Lt. Hunter, son of Mrs. Ralph T. Hunter of Harrisburg, Pa., took place in SS. Faith, Hope and Charity church. Lt. Hunter and his bride have gone to Maine.

Y. W. C. A. to Launch Its Fall Season

The Loop center Y. W. C. A., 59 East Monroe street, will launch its autumn season of events tomorrow at 5 o'clock with the first of four open house evenings. The center will be open from 5 to 8 thru Thursday evening, with the purpose of acquainting Chicago residents and visitors alike with the clubs and classes offered by the Y. W. C. A.

A special program to climax the open house series is scheduled for Thursday, when the drama club will present a play; arts and crafts studio will give a demonstration of puppet art, with Mrs. Ernest E. Hill and Miss Ruth Hill manipulating the little figures; the health education department will present Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hartman in an exhibit of precision roller skating, and Miss Marjorie Parkin will demonstrate the modern dance.

Puppets will figure in subsequent events on the Loop center's calendar as well in programs presented by the arts and crafts studio under the direction of Mrs. Agnes Hoffmann, recognized as one of the leading puppeteers in the United States.

Announcing this new addition to the schedule of the studio, Miss Dorothy Bowie, director, states that the studio will continue its informal instruction in drawing and painting, modeling, block printing, accessory making, wood carving and weaving, with classes on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday evenings. The studio is part of the Loop center's education workshop, whose season will begin Sept. 20 under a new director, Miss Dorothy Middleton, formerly a member of the staff of the Toledo, O., Y. W. C. A.

The education workshop program list includes classes in contract bridge and "Understanding Russia." Musical courses, both solo and choral singing and music appreciation, also are scheduled. Classes in English and Spanish likewise are in the curriculum, as are courses designed for the business girl, such as sewing, interior decorating, and millinery.

Launch Drive to Aid College Building Fund

Supplementing a recent drive conducted in Rockford, alumnae of Rockford college in the Chicago area will launch a two-week campaign to raise money for the college at a dinner Wednesday in the Piccadilly, 410 South Michigan avenue. The Rockford drive yielded close to $184,000. No goal has been indicated for the Chicago area campaign. The money is primarily for a new science building at the college.

President Mary Ashby Cheek, George E. Frazer of Winnetka, former president of the board of trustees, and Karl Williams of Rockford, vice chairman of the board, will be speakers at the dinner.

Catharine Waugh McCulloch of Evanston, attorney, veteran suffragist, and one of the college's best known alumnae, has been named honorary chairman of the Chicago drive. Coöperating trustees of this area include Mrs. Andrew MacLeish of Glencoe, one time president of Rockford; Mrs. John Quincy Adams of Winnetka, and Mrs. Hugh C. Courtright of Chicago.

Serving as area chairmen are: Mrs. W. A. Giffen, Winnetka, north shore; Miss Margaret Williams, 10456 Seeley avenue, south side; Miss Doris Tonk, 150 East Superior street, north side; and Miss May Kinney, Oak Park, west side. Captains assisting the chairmen include Miss Janet Hall, 5730 Dorchester avenue; Mrs. Robert Hill, Mrs. Irene Bailey Nelson, and Miss Florence Warneke, Oak Park; Mrs. Gordon Wallace, Elgin, and Mrs. J. King Ewing, Hammond.

When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, Sept. 8, 1895.

Dear Julia: I wonder if you'll be meeting the duke of Marlborough soon in Newport.

I saw in a dispatch from London, in one of our morning papers that he is about to sail for America, and will tour the United States, being entertained in Newport and New York and returning to England with a bride. According to this article, the right young lady to take the role of his duchess has been found, no less a person than Consuelo Vanderbilt, daughter of the W. K. Vanderbilts. I know you have often spoken of her as handsome and intelligent. Will her Spanish type appeal to the British, whose women are ruddy blondes?

Consuelo Vanderbilt.
[Bfismang Photo.]

If the young duke marries an American girl he will be the third of the Churchill family to choose a bride on this side of the water. I'm referring, of course, to his uncle, Lord Randolph Churchill, having married Jennie Jerome of New York, and his own father, the late duke, having taken as his second spouse the wealthy Mrs. Lily Price Hamersley, after he was divorced by his first wife. Both these brothers lived exceptionally happy lives with American women and the duke seems to feel they set an example he'd like to follow. Of course, the money which will be settled on him from the huge Vanderbilt fortune will make life easy for him and he should be well satisfied with his bargain. Yet I should also think he'd have the uncomfortable sensation of being bought and paid for. An American man would be despised if he married so obviously for money. I suppose we must allow for the British viewpoint, tho.

The Churchill men, says this article, have always been self-willed, from the first duke to the present time. The late duke [father of the present young holder of the title] is said to have hated his first wife and to have been glad when she divorced him. But he adored his second wife, [nee Mrs. Hamersley]. She must have been very agreeable, for the young duke, her stepson, is devoted to her and spends much time with her, staying very seldom in his own mother's home. She, in turn, is fond of him and has been most generous with him. Her own fortune is entailed to the young son of a nephew in New York, I believe, so she can give him only from her income. Even tho she has remarried and is now Lady William Beresford, her influence over "her boy," as she calls him, is great and he has given up cigarets and drink at her behest. Well, we shall see whether the young lady chosen is a Vanderbilt or some other heiress. She's certain to be an American, I believe.

Today, I have been inspecting the new building recently erected on Michigan avenue near Peck court for the Young Women's Christian association, to house girls coming to the city to seek their fortunes. Simple and attractive in design, it seems to be large enough to accommodate all who will be likely to seek its shelter. I found it provided with parlors, a library, a gymnasium, and class rooms, besides the bedrooms, many of which overlook the lake. The prices are within the reach of the small salaried. The residents pay from $3 to $6 a week for room and board. Many of our best known ladies are contributing to the furnishing of these rooms and Will made me happy by handing me a check for $50 to be sent in in my own name.

Among those interested in this new project are Mrs. Edward B. Butler, Mrs. William G. Hibbard, Mrs. C. P. Libby, Mrs. H. H. Kohlsaat, Dr. Sarah Hackett Stevenson, and most of the evangelical churches. It is a fine work. Ever with love, MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

FOOTNOTES.

Consuelo, duchess of Marlborough, after a long period of estrangement from her husband, was divorced from him in 1920. He married another rich American, Miss Gladys Deacon of Boston. Consuelo married M. Jacques Balsan. The present duke of Marlborough is the son of the first duchess of Marlborough. Pictures of him show a likeness to Winston Churchill. . . . The Y. W. C. A. building, 830 South Michigan avenue, is no longer used as a residence for girls, but is leased as a hotel.

Beg Your Pardon.

In a recent letter in this column, Aug. 14 was mentioned as the birthday of Mrs. Sanger, mother of Mrs. George M. Pullman, this being the date when the Pullman family gathered at Castle Rest in the Thousand Islands. Instead, it was the birthday of the mother of Mr. Pullman, who gave the summer home to her, and always spent her birthday with her there.

Netherwood Hall.

Several replies to a query as to the location of this building have been received. They differ, but the true location seems to have been the southwest corner of Taylor street and Marshfield avenue. David Saul Klafter, county architect, in giving this information, says: "One of my first jobs as an architect was to remodel this building for the then owner, Joseph M. Browarsky." Others who recall this building are Mrs. Nelson J. Ludington and John A. Leoni.

Breaking Home Ties.

W. M. Smith of Chicago recalls hearing some one in a crowd about this picture interpret it thus: "See how brokenhearted the mother is because her son has turned out a thief; the officers are carrying out the stolen plunder; grandmother rocks in her chair utterly disgusted; little sister is crying, while the other sister is quite overcome by the disgrace he has caused." And yet one would say this famous picture told its story—a boy leaving home—at a glance.

Two other readers who have a warm spot in their hearts for the Hovenden picture are Col. W. G. Edens of Chicago and E. R. Amick of Springfield, Ill.

Saving Electricity.

Several million kilowatt hours of electric energy per month are being salvaged thru the increasing use of an electric generator as a load on an airplane engine while under test runs in the factory.

Fashion Show to Aid Jewish Hospital Work

In support of the National Jewish hospital at Denver, Colo., pioneer institution in the field of tuberculosis operating on a philanthropic and nonsectarian basis, the Chicago women's division will give a large benefit autumn fashion show, preceded by luncheon, Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 22, at the Standard club, 320 Plymouth court.

Mrs. Jack A. Diamond [Koehne photo.]

Twenty-eight leading department stores and shops are providing the costumes, which will be modeled in the revue by a corps of 53 professional mannequins. Mrs. Jack A. Diamond president of the sponsoring group, and her staff of officers, are sparing no effort to mount the show in a handsome staging, and particular attention is being given the military finale in which appear today's "best dressed" women—the women in uniform.

The Chicago Women's division, organized several years ago, is recognized as one of the most active and successful auxiliaries of the internationally known medical center.

Not since B'nai B'rith opened the National Jewish hospital in 1899 has the work of the center loomed so large as it does in this war period, when again an increase in the tuberculosis rate threatens.

From an emergency standpoint, the center is significant today to the government, for in the building up of a rehabilitation program along with therapy, the hospital has trained its patients in many specialized skills and is proving an unexpected reservoir of supply in the man power shortage.

Requests from both the federal and Colorado state governments have moved the staff to expand the retraining program for inclusion of patients and former patients of other tuberculosis hospitals in the region, and many are learning blueprint reading, draftsmanship, precision instrument work, and similar skills.

Almost 1,000 patients are hospitalized at the institution annually, men and women of all faiths and from every part of the country. Sixty per cent of the adult patients are able, thru the retraining program, to step into jobs upon their discharge from the hospital. Thru affiliation with the University of Colorado school of medicine and under its own program, the hospital trains many physicians and nurses. The work of its research department is widely recognized.

Actively assisting Mrs. Diamond in planning the forthcoming benefit are Mrs. A. Morris Krensky, Mrs. Irving Klein, and Mrs. Milton Brunhild, vice presidents of the auxiliary, and Mrs. David Semco, Mrs. Fred Manaster, and Mrs. Arthur Field, who also are on the executive staff.

Jewish Congress Business Women to Meet Tuesday

Fall activities will be resumed by the Business and Professional chapter, Chicago women's division of the American Jewish congress, with an evening meeting at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday in the Standard club. Miss Adele Rabino will preside.

ican Fashions ensembles were photographed in the beautifully appointed home of Mrs. Kelly and on the classic pillared roof of the Biltmore hotel in New York. Three days of preparation were spent in choosing the exact backgrounds against which the mannequins were posed. Screens and flats were especially painted in startling whites and glowing contrasts. Truckloads of equipment, lights, reflectors, and stands were transported. The market was culled for delicate, Louis XV furniture, for classic urns, vases, and stands, for expensive hot house flowers, and shimmering draperies.

The group of top-flight beauties, to whose measurements the ensembles were executed and who will walk the runway Sept. 30 and Oct. 1, were recruited for hours of their time. Lighting was important. The exact pose was necessary. There was no compromise with perfection.

The technical skill of the entire Tribune color studio staff is put to work in developing each photograph, superimposing three negatives, yellow, blue, and red, one upon the other with exactitude, and drawing out the true tones of the subjects. As each is completed, it represents an expenditure of many hundreds of dollars in talent, time, and equipment.

These photographs, artistic enough to grace the finest salons, will be published in editions of The Chicago Sunday Tribune beginning Oct. 3, the Sunday following the American Fashions show at which the three grand prize winning designs will be selected by the public. All of them will have been finished before the curtains pull back on the final showing of the gowns in W-G-N's spacious studio theater.

The photographs will be published so that all Tribune readers may share in the beauty of the American Fashions show. Only a small portion of Tribune readers will be able to witness the showing the evening of Sept. 30 and the afternoon and evening of Oct. 1. Tickets are being sold now by mail for the three performances and persons wishing to view the outstanding American Fashions collection first hand are urged to apply for seats immediately.

Tickets for the two evening performances will be $2 and for the matinee $1. Make checks payable to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and mail to Fashion Show Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, 435 North Michigan avenue, Chicago.

Dorothy Carpenter to Wed W. M. Armitage

At a luncheon yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Edmund M. Carpenter of Wauwatosa, Wis., formerly of Chicago, announced the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Lee, to Walter M. Armitage, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Armitage of Lawrence, Mass. Miss Carpenter attended Milwaukee-Downer college. Her fiance, who has been making his home in Milwaukee, received his engineering degree from the University of Maine. The wedding is set for Dec. 26.

Old Woodcut Masterpiece of the Month

By Eleanor Jewett.

The masterpiece of the month for September at the Art institute is the crude and terrifying "Te Atua" ["The Gods"] by Gauguin, from the William McCallin McKee memorial collection. The woodcut is one of a series of 10 which the artist executed about 1894 after he had returned to Paris from his first trip to Tahiti. The "Te Atua" is presented in triplicate. To the left of the one which has been selected as the masterpiece is another impression of the same work from the Joseph Brooks Fair collection, and, to the right, is a Fourth State, Roy Edition, from the duplicate print fund. In all, three savage Buddhist deities confront the spectator. The conception is not particularly impressive nor pleasing, but of interest because it is different, and the theme is presented from three slightly diverging angles, technically.

The school of the Goodman theater, Art institute, is opening its fall term Sept. 22 with a full and complete schedule of classes in acting, radio, directing, and design. The opening play, "Three Cornered Moon," a comedy by Gertrude Tonkonogy, will go into rehearsal shortly.

The school of the Art institute will open Sept. 20; registration opens tomorrow and continues thru Saturday. Several new instructors have been appointed. In the day school, Edgar Rupprecht will teach the costume figure class and Salcia Bahnc will teach drawing and composition. One wonders what effect Miss Bahnc's passion for Rubenslike nudes will have on the institute pupils. Salcia Bahnc is one of Chicago's veteran painters and has spent a number of years in Paris. A story that still clings to her from her Tree Studio days as a young artist is that dismayed at the ease with which she produced paintings slightly off color, she spent a whole evening reading the Bible and willing herself to paint "something nice," and the next morning, after a sweet and refreshing sleep, she got off one of the most torrid conceptions of her career.

Edward Chassaing, another well known Chicago artist, a sculptor, will teach figure and head sculpture in the evening school. A new class in the evening school is one in illustration with emphasis on commercial techniques. Ben Stahl will be the instructor.

Due to the generosity of Paul Schulze, a new illustrated catalog of the Walter H. Schulze Gallery of American Paintings has just been published. These pictures, installed in gallery 26 of the Art institute, are now fully described and illustrated. The gallery contains 17 important canvases, two of the best loved are "Himself" and "Herself," by Robert Henri. One of the pictures, "Mother and Child," by Gari Melchers, was given to the museum by James Deering; the other 16 were presented by Paul Schulze in memory of his son after whom the gallery is named.

This is perhaps the least busy time in the art year and so one has to find exhibitions where one can. The Chicago Historical society at the south end of Lincoln park is an intriguing spot for the hunt. One of its most interesting features is its large collection of prints which, contrary to most exhibition methods, are not necessarily displayed in collections. They are rather utilized as a background for the period of which each particular room is representative.

Among the many views in the museum are the lithographic engravings of Currier and Ives. These have been popular since they were first printed, about 1835, and chiefly because they treat of every and any commonplace incident and make of it an event. Christmas dinners, a sleigh ride, a steamboat, views of towns, fires, fire engines, a horse race, ladies in fine feathers, little girls skipping rope—there is hardly an hour out of the 24 from which these hardy pioneers in lithography have not distilled the essence. Early American lies spread out before us as we go from print to print.

The Charles B. Pike collection of American city prints are arranged in groups representative of certain sections of the country. There are rooms devoted to New England, the midwest, the south and the far west. The principal cities of each geographical territory have been selected for the exhibit. Cities now that are little more than names but were once thriving communities are shown, giving historical value as well as artistic merit to the collection. There are two particularly fine lithographs of Detroit and Indianapolis, both important centers today and both important back in those days when a modern city was not dreamed of.

To interest those who have visited Buffalo and Niagara Falls, there is an exceptionally beautiful set of six aquatints published by Ackermann of London in 1857 showing the falls. Many are the prints illustrating early Illinois. There are scenes from the historic sites of New Salem to the Mormon-occupied Nauvoo, [of which the contemporary painter, Lane K. Newberry, has given us delightful pictures], and from the peaceful Kaskaskia settlement to the turbulence of a wild river in the flood season.

"GEORGIA COTTON."

Macena Barton contributed this nostalgic canvas to the Association of Chicago Painters and Sculptors' exhibition at the Chicago Galleries, 215 North Michigan avenue. We shall probably all be wishing we had a buggy parked near our curb in the near future. King Richard will not be alone in declaring: "My kingdom for a horse!"

Lady of the House

Knight of the Little Roads.

"Lady, would you give a hungry man a bite to eat?" The sun beat down on the saucer-big bald spot as the old man fingered his hat and looked up hopefully.

It was many a long moon since I had met a similar request, and lunch was over, but I managed an adequate tray which Joe Pete took out to him, suggesting the old lawn chair as a comfortable spot in which to rest and eat . . .

I wondered if once, in happier days, he might have been a peddler with a pack full of all sorts of fascinating wares. I wondered what he sees along the little roads he travels now. Does he linger where cobwebs lace their silver threads over the pumpkins' lately minted gold? Does he pause to hear the soft thump of apples on old orchard grass? Does he see the first little tongue of flame in the maple? Does he know the proud goldenrod was once the humble crooked stick [legend of the goldenrod] that helped the old woman over the stream? When he hears the cricket and the little shivery owl at night, does he have a care for the coming winter, or will he follow the summer with the white throats and the goldfinches?

He brushed the crumbs from his knees, tidied the tray and brought it to the door. Thanking me with old fashioned courtesy he added, "That tasted good!" Then with a little hitch in his walk he started off and I am wondering what befalls him.

To Teach a Child to Read.

[A tribute to the teachers, who this year, more than ever before, find themselves mother as well as instructor to America's young.]

It is a high and holy thing
To teach a child to read;
To open up the cardboard doors
Of books, and then to lead
Him thru the cave, mysterious,
Of Alice and the Hare,
Or pilot him thru foreign lands,
So sunny and so fair;
Pile books for him to mount upon
Old Pegasus, the steed!
Oh! 'Tis a glad and glorious thing
To teach a child to read!

A Cup o' Tea.

[Provoked by Mrs. Pennington's talk on tea [?] as reported in The Tribune.]

I love to have a cup o' tea,
No sticks or leaves for me.
But herbs that grow in distant lands
Are shipped across the sea.

There's English Breakfast, tell me now
Could mint or mullein leaf
Or pennyroal or sassafrass
Bring nerves such sweet relief?

Gunpowder and Oolong are fine
Black, green, Young Hyson too,
And all the lovely scented ones
Which jaded spirits woo.

There's tea, real tea, for every taste;
Not weeds nor leaf nor root.
And if I can't have that's tea,
Don't give me a substitute.

Florence Denison.

Electric Range.

Its streamlined surface lovely
In its spotless shining white—
Its clean round units glowing
Like live coals in the night;
A modern miracle, complete
Fulfilment of designer's prayer—
But I miss my mother's kitchen
And the black stove reigning there.

I miss the radiating warmth,
The kettle's never-ceasing song—
With my enameled splendor,
The atmosphere is wrong.
My kitchen lacks the magic
And the homey feeling, which
Can never more be captured
By the flinging of a switch!

When in Doubt, Don't.

That's still a good motto—but I wasn't in doubt at all. The thing just wasn't poison ivy—color, leaf, habit or growth. Besides how could it possibly have tucked itself in right next to the bridal wreath [or does that mean something?] in our own front yard after all these years? No, it wasn't poison ivy. Definitely not.

But it was. But definitely.

Now I am learning, the well known hard way, that the vile weed is a wily thing. It resorts to camouflage. It sneaks up on you in unsuspected form and garb, and smites you down. Or should I say burns you up? And the chairside manner of the harassed man of healing smacks not too much of sympathy as he reminds me that "it has three leaves," and shoots in the poison oak.

Harbor Springs Colony Enjoys Benefit Picnic

By Ruth Dickinson.

HARBOR SPRINGS MICH.

There's a friendliness, a charm, and a spirit of comradeship in small towns that there isn't time for in cities. There's an adventure in just walking downtown and in the good morning greeting that is so cordially called out from the butcher, the baker, and the candlestick maker. Everyone is a friend, anxious to share in the everyday problems, sorrows, and pleasures. Cities may have their cocktail parties, teas, and dinners, but for sheer fun there's nothing to equal a town's picnic, where everyone turns out, young and old, and enters into the spirit of the day. And the food served on those picnics is something to dream about: Homemade pies and cakes and ice cream, potato salad, fried chicken and jelly and mustard pickles, all point free, the best that the housewives can produce.

There's a "Buck a Month Club" here in Harbor Springs that puts on the Labor day picnic. It was held in the city park, and all the proceeds went to the Harbor Springs boys in service. In fact, that's the idea of the buck a month club. Each member is taxed one dollar, which provides the local paper, cigarettes, and so forth, to each of the 258 boys now in service, regardless of where he may be stationed. Thru the paper the boys write letters and are able to keep in touch with one another.

It's a splendid idea, and so the Labor day picnic was held with various contests, potato sack races, climbing the greased pole, a three legged race for both boys and girls and a flour race in which young Robin McIntyre did just as well as any of the local youngsters, even if his grandmother has been scraping flour off of him and out of his clothes and pockets ever since. The race is to see who can dig the most pennies, nickels, and dimes out of a flour barrel.

There have been quite a few informal parties this week at the point. On Tuesday night the Robert Hymans had a grandparents' and children's picnic out on the terrace of their home. Low, almost on the horizon was the curving silvery crescent of the new moon for all the children and oldsters to wish on. To come back next summer, was the universal wish of everyone. There were the Howard Vincent O'Briens and their granddaughter, Tony Hamilton, the William Wallers and Billy IV., Gail Harris, the granddaughter of the Hymans, and her mother, Mrs. Lincoln S. Harris, Mrs. Robert Wheeler and her grandson, Robin McIntyre and Mrs. Richard Ensign, Mrs. Wheeler's and Mrs. Waller's niece.

Another informal picnic supper was held Saturday night down on the beach at Mrs. Robert Wheeler's cottage on the Point. She hasn't opened her Point cottage this season but is living in the Springs. Lowell Chapin, formerly of Chicago, had some clams and lobsters sent on from Boston for the party, which was a real clam bake and with lobsters broiled over a charcoal fire. The typical New England refreshments were served on the terrace. Mrs. Wheeler left on Thursday to return to Chicago for a week for a visit with her son, Lt. Robert T. Wheeler, and his wife and two children, Robert and Mahlon. Lt. Wheeler is en route to Denver where he will be stationed. Mrs. Wheeler plans to return to the Springs after the visit to spend the remainder of the month here.

Missouri Spa Rediscovered by Chicagoans

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, MO.

This quaint and picturesque resort community, its traditions steeped in more than 60 years of mineral water culture and its legends of the notorious Jesse James gang of desperadoes, has been rediscovered by Chicagoans and other Illinois residents.

Here, where the Armours, the Swifts, the Sinclairs, and other Chicago notables brought remoance and glamor in the late 80s, a new heritage of the present day Chicago is marking the renaissance of Excelsior Springs as the popular rendezvous of vacation seekers.

Excelsior Springs is not without its romantic tinge at the present time. Prominent promenaders of recent weeks were Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Baker, who came here after their marriage in Chicago recently. Both express reluctance to leave, despite the lure of a new home in the Chicago suburbs.

"It's just like city life with a rugged country twist, this life in Excelsior Springs," exclaimed Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Haslam of Chicago, who have traveled about but always find time to return here for the mineral waters. The Haslams are a patriotic family with the mailman almost daily carrying out messages to their two sons in the service.

• • •

You wouldn't know the Jay H. Emersons, Chicago's golfing duo, were here if it were not for their daily assaults against par at the rolling Excelsior Springs Golf club. They disappear from the Elms hotel lobby almost before the dew is off the grass to tackle the beautiful course built and developed by Maj. W. A. J. Bell, an Englishman who now is serving as an air raid warden at Pendell Court, England.

The thorobreds of the Excelsior Springs stables nicker for the Frank Berings, so familiar and regular are their daily treks thru the verdant bridal paths circling the rim of the hills around the springs. Pretty Mrs. Bering has her favorite mount, Buddy, who nuzzles her smartly tailored habit.

There's a veritable traffic jam at the architecturally beautiful Hall of Waters daily as the tallyho brings Elms hotel guests there for the mineral water drinking baptism of a new day.

Paying court to tennis were Florence and Helen Santa of Lake Shore drive. Their spirited but friendly competition has a "will o' the wisp" tinge as their flashing racquets give emphasis to the background of morning glories shrouding the courts.

THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE

Log of Lazy Cruise Down Mississippi

By Mildred Peterson.

Up goes the gang plank with a resounding clang, which serves due notice that the hurly-burly of modern city life is to be forgotten for a week and that the vacationers at the rails of the old packet Golden Eagle may now slip back into the days of Mark Twain, when he wrote about "Life on the Mississippi."

[Mississippi river cruises are scheduled thru September and October. The last three trips of the season start from St. Louis Sept. 25, Oct. 9, and Oct. 23.]

At an 8 to 10 mile an hour speed, the voyagers make their way from St. Louis down the Father of Waters. There is a constant change of scenery as Capt. Buck [William H. Leyhe] steers his stern-wheeler 'round one bend after another just as he has been doing for many years.

Time was when stops would be made for loading and unloading freight at the various towns along the Mississippi, Ohio, and Tennessee rivers, the course being followed on this trip, but now only passengers are carried. Stops are still made, however, so vacationers may view the old river towns and historic spots, which have been immortalized in song and fiction.

We pass Cape Girardeau, Mo., founded in 1793 by Don Louis Lorimier as a trading post, and named after Ensign Girardot, an early trader, who operated for a time at Cape Rock, now within the city's limits.

Surrounded by the flood walls, Cairo reminds one of a walled city, protecting itself against invaders as was done in the days of the stockades, which helped keep the Indians at a safe distance. Not far from here the Ohio merges with the Mississippi and our steamer starts up stream under huge bridges, "locking up the river" to Paducah, Ky., home of Irvin S. Cobb, which was named after Chief Paduke.

When the call goes forth for meals, no one hesitates and the food, smacking of pre-war days, including jambalaya, southern fried chicken and sweet potatoes, hot breads and biscuits with cherry jam, fritters, omelet with chicken livers, deep dish apple pie, and ice cream, is served on the breeze-swept decks.

In the evening when the last faint glow of sunset disappears and the trees along the river banks are silhouetted against the moonlit sky, the decks are cleared for bingo, stunt night, or other cruise activities, which are presided over by "Horty," the hostess, who is a member of Capt. Buck's family.

Among the especially interesting experiences is that of going thru the locks, when the Golden Eagle is raised or lowered some 75 feet. Again, one realizes that we are at war as the coast guardsmen come aboard and watch closely that no photographs are taken [cameras are "parked" with the purser whenever a bridge or dam is nigh].

At the farthest point on the trip, Sheffield, Ala., many sightseers take advantage of the opportunity of visiting the famous Wilson dam at Muscle Shoals, after which the boat about faces and starts her homeward journey to St. Louis, from where she makes her periodic summer cruises.

On the return we are again locked thru Pickwick, the largest lock in the world with nearby manmade Pickwick lake, before arrival at old Pittsburg Landing, scene of the battle of Shiloh. Here, in the administration building of the Shiloh National Military park, which was established in 1894, an instructive talk is given covering the various phases of the battle and its effect on the outcome of the Civil war.

Other old historic spots along "Old Man River" are Kaskaskia, the oldest city in Illinois, and Ste. Genevieve, the old French settlement. A variation of this cruise is made on some trips by following the Cumberland river to Nashville, Tenn., instead of taking the Tennessee river to Muscle Shoals.

Make up your mind not to expect private baths with hot and cold running water in your cabins and palatial ocean liner accommodations. These were not in vogue 40 to 50 years ago when the river packets were built. However, passengers got along very well in those days and you will, too—and come back for seconds, as do hundreds of vacationers every year.

Fall Foliage Attracts Many to Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, Pa. — September ushers in the autumn round of activities at Pennsylvania's resort hotels preliminary to the perod of colorful autumn foliage that appeals to so many persons. This year the season is expected to be an exceptionally colorful one, according to reports from the mountainous districts. Late summer and autumn bring the best days for hiking, riding, golfing, and other sports in the Pennsylvania hills. At nearly all the resorts horses are available for riding and there are miles of trails over which persons may hike thru the scarlet and yellow maze of foliage.

State Leaders to Meet Music Club Officers

En route to Minneapolis to attend the fall board meeting of the National Federation of Music clubs, three of the executive staff, Mrs. Guy Patterson Gannett of Portland, Me., Mrs. Ada Holding Miller of Providence, R. I., and Miss Helen Havener of New York, national president, war service chairman and director of publicity, respectively, will stop in Chicago Wednesday to discuss war work with Illinois federation leaders.

Mrs. Guy P. Gannett.

Mrs. James Allen Young, state war service chairman, is arranging for a dinner that evening in the Cordon, at which the visitors will give the Illinois women detailed information on a new phase of the federation's war program. Music clubs are concentrating on the purchase of thousands of recordings, music, and musical instruments for men in overseas service and those in training at army camps and navy stations at home. Music has proved of prime importance in maintaining a high morale among service men, and the federation has been highly commended by officials of the war department for its service.

A recent development in the project has been the supplying of musical instruments for shipboard, and Mrs. Miller personally has been supervising the procuring of instruments for ships sailing from the port of her city. Large numbers of recordings and many instruments also have been sent in recent weeks to Alaska, the Aleutians, and Iceland.

Mrs. Royden J. Keith, president of the Illinois federation, will accompany Mrs. Gannett, Mrs. Miller, and Miss Havener to Minneapolis. The board meeting and concurrent council of state and district presidents opens Thursday to continue thru next Sunday.

Local D. A. R. to Hold First Fall Meeting

Chicago chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, largest unit of the society in this state, will gather for its fall opening meeting Thursday afternoon in Curtiss hall of the Fine Arts building. The assembly is timed to Constitution day, which falls on Friday, to emphasize the patriotic aspect of the program of activities planned for the season.

Special interest focuses upon the chapter and its activities this season, for one of its past regents, Mrs. J. De Forest Richards, has been elevated to the regency of the state society. Mrs. Richards is the second member of the chapter in a period of 40 years to become Illinois regent.

Mrs. Arthur J. O'Neill, chapter regent, will preside at the meeting and at a reception later in compliment to Mrs. Richards.

In addition to Mrs. Richards, several other members of Chicago chapter will be active this season in the state and national D. A. R. Mrs. Charles Cleveland Thoms heads the state society's American Indians committee and Mrs. Alonzo Newton Benn is state chairman of the correct use of the flag committee, and Miss Florence Deneen, past regent, is president of the Illinois State Officers club. Miss Deneen also is serving as vice chairman of two national committees, good citizenship pilgrimage and Americanism.

Week's Plans of Chicagoland Club Women

Fall activities will open for the first district, Illinois Federation of Women's clubs, on the keynote of war service. A benefit theater party to help finance nursing scholarships and other special war projects is planned for Wednesday night, Sept. 22, at the Uptown Players' new center, 1219 North La Salle street. Billed for that night by J. Bradley-Griffin's local company is "Letters to Lucerne."

Mrs. David C. Slagle. [Allied News photo.]

Mrs. David C. Slagle, the new district president, is in active charge of the benefit, with Mrs. Arthur L. Ellers, the special chairman, and Mrs. William Bryan.

Last season the first district raised one of the largest contributions for the state federation's ambulance fund, and its monthly sales of stamps and bonds ranged from $50,000 to $60,000.

The series of forums on interracial problems which the Woman's City club has been holding this summer will continue Wednesday night with a discussion meeting at which the guest speaker will be A. L. Foster, nationally known Negro leader and executive secretary of the Chicago Urban league. Other groups and individuals who attended earlier meetings have received invitations to join the members at Wednesday's forum. Some of the questions submitted for discussion deal with property values in Negro communities, jobs and industries from which Negroes are barred, policies and practices governing Negroes in the army, navy, and government services, and attitudes toward the Negro race in other countries. Mrs. Harry M. Mulberry will preside.

A board of managers meeting is scheduled for 10:30 o'clock tomorrow. Mrs. Bradley S. Carr, vice president in charge of membership, has sent invitations to all members to attend and to submit to the board the names of all prospective members. It is the final call in the summer membership drive.

An early start in planning for their annual bazar will be made by the Illinois society of the Daughters of the British Empire at their first fall meeting, called for 10 o'clock Tuesday in room 1909 in the Republic building. Mrs. Percy Mather will preside.

• • •

Mrs. Jerry Gregor, past president of the Bohemian Women's Civic club, will open her home at 5219 North Pulaski road next Sunday to the junior group at its first fall meeting.

• • •

The Lyric ensemble will be presented in a program of Slavic music at 11:30 o'clock Wednesday morning in Zeisler hall of the Chicago Woman's club. Comprising the group are Ella Furholmen, pianist; Irene Weller, violinist; Valborg Goddard, cellist, and Inez Hubbard Hicks, soprano. The program is one in the summer series arranged by Mrs. Samuel Verner Robuck. The customary luncheon and card party for members and guests are included on the day's schedule, with Mrs. Ernest W. Sundell taking over hostess duties.

• • •

Matrix club members will assemble at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night in their rooms at 75 East Wacker drive for a session of manuscript reading. Miss Mildred Bruder will preside.

Fashions as I See Them - - - - - - By Judith Cass

Seemingly by mutual consent, women refrain from wearing evening clothes at public gatherings, but, unable to resist too long "dressing up" if an occasion is provided, many a small dinner party has turned out to be just that occasion. Back in Chicago after a two months' visit with her parents in Wisconsin, and deeply tanned, Mrs. Jere Patterson cut a figure that would have been stunning in any large assemblage at a quiet dinner party one night recently. Her deep color was accentuated by her smoothly upswept creamy blonde hair, and by her dinner gown, which was of matching cream color, completely unadorned. The skirt was full and sweeping, the neckline cut out in a deep square, and the long sleeves were full and gathered at the wrist. On entirely different lines was the dress Mrs. Frederick L. Spencer wore at the gathering. Of brilliant green print on a white ground, her dinner dress was cut on pencil slim lines, slightly drawn about the hips, and with a knee high slit in the front of the skirt, without which she certainly could not have walked. Mrs. Spencer has taken to wearing her hair up, too, a perfect streamline coiffure for the dress she was wearing that night. Another guest, Mrs. Jarvis Hunt Jr., was wearing the wildest and gayest gypsy plaid frock imaginable. Its deep decolletage was hidden under a three cornered scarf of the same vivid red plaid, which tied about her neck. Mrs. Paul G. Ware's party going dress was of black net with delicate white lace appliqued in a pattern over the skirt.

Mrs. Alexander M. Charlton, whose husband, an admiral, is stationed here, always makes a smart appearance, whether at her job in the Red Cross home service, which so desperately needs more volunteer help, or on the few occasions when she takes time off from looking after the families of service men, which the home service handles. At a luncheon at the Woman's Athletic club the other day she was in a black and white print dress and a calot of multicolored flowers swathed in tulle veiling. At her ears were pairs of silver hands, matching the masses of silver bracelets that dangled at her wrists, a collection from countries in which Adm. Charlton has been stationed. At the same luncheon table was Mrs. Phelps B. Hoyt, another distinguished looking woman. She was wearing a black crepe dress printed in white fishes. There were touches of crimson at her throat and wrists. A small black hat trimmed in red roses and bouvardia was on her head. Mrs. Frank Whiting, another luncheon guest, was wearing a greige gabardine dress, tan calf shoes and belt, a sable scarf, and a tiny lacquer red hat laden with strawberries. In the same group was Mrs. Wilfred H. Gallienne, whose dress was of brown crepe with embroidered yarn pockets studded with sequins. Her hat was of beige felt, cut to look like a chrysanthemum.

Shopping downtown on a sultry day was Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson, wearing a pastel print dress under a black faille coat. Instead of a hat she tucked two little pink feather thistles in her blond bob. Seen dancing at the Grand hotel in Mackinac was Miss Betty Peabody. Her pretty, short frock was of pale blue crepe, printed all over in pink flowers. The rather full skirt was gathered by a pink raffia belt, and the low square neckline was outlined by a ruffle of the print. Looking every inch a debutante was Miss Connie Wallace at the country tea her parents, the Luther T. Wallaces, gave for her at home in Winnetka recently. Her dress was of white and combined a full, net skirt with a lace top. She carried yellow roses to go with the many yellow flowers that were used thruout the house. Mrs. Wallace received in a long skirted dress of coral color. Her flowers were camellias and celosia. Celebrating her 12th anniversary last Sunday was Mrs. Franklin Motch, wearing a giant fuchsia orchid that Lt. Comdr. Motch had given her. Her dress was of coral linen, with short sleeves, which buttoned all the way down the front. Also at the Saddle was Mrs. Tharp S. Roberts Jr., in a cool looking dress of pale green and white print that fastened at one side with a large bow of the same material. Also in green and wihte was Mrs. E. Cummings Parker, whose two piece dress combined a white skirt and jacket of green linen, which was trimmed with white linen insertions. Wearing a reddish coral long sleeved, high necked linen dress was Mrs. Daggett Harvey.

• A. Vivid Chinese vermilion fine wool suit. The companion blouse is of clear blue with appliqued squares of the vermilion wool on the China blue of the crepe. The skirt is slim and uncompromisingly straight. • B. Lavish embroidery combined with shimmering bronze sequins highlight the chest panels of this fitted short jacket worn with a brown chiffon scarf tied at the throat. • C. A suit of blue wool with the velveteen waistcoat of rose damask color. • D. Intricate detail of fine folds and tucks ending in vertical simulated hip pockets, plus the flattering lemon leaf green color of the fine wool add up to flawless distinction in this three piece suit costume. (For information call Rea Seeger, Superior 0200).

Beads, Sequins, Color, Accent 1943 Clothes

Rea Seeger.

Definitely different and daringly short and slim for dress parade and party clothes, the newest dinner clothes and the fascinating suit costumes are effectively decorated with shimmering beads and embroidered with sequins or combines of beads, silk and sequins. It's the most exciting news garnered from the first dramatic parades of the mannequins showing the first fall and winter fashions of the season 1943.

This is the year you'll see beautiful woolens and even tweeds twinkling with beads and flashing with sequins, and fabrics of fine wool made into suits to dramatize color and contrasting colors, as well as the revival of the fine art of beadwork plus embroidery. Much time and artistry is expended on these breath takingly dramatic suits, some with jackets considerably shorter in silhouette and inches than ever before.

Brilliant colors are here, and the super super daring combines of color using wool with wool, with satin, with velvet, with silk crepe, with brocade and with chiffon. Most of these suits are of the two-piece combines with the casual knot of a matching chiffon scarf doubling for ascot, blouse top and to contrast with the jackets.

The 1943 jackets will unquestionably go down in fashion history as the shortest ever cut, and the most revealing in silhouette and the most lavishly decorative with beads and glitters. Skirts are just as skimpy and streamlined, with clever action plaits where they are the most needed. The linings of jackets are as important as the outsides, for very nearly all interior decorations are repetitions of the color combines used on the fabrics of the jacket.

Waistcoats, frankly fake blouse fronts, gilets or dickeys, the inevitable ascot muffler, or the newer soft large bow ties, transform an otherwise rather plain suit.

Linings again play a double role, that of luscious colors for the jacket and for turn-over lapels and front facings as well as for cuffs and collar. But it is the brilliant colors, the subtle neutrals, and the strong contrasting dashes that make these dress parade suits so sensational and so excitingly new. Chinese vermillion, burnished copper, real French cerise, French blue and violet, all the ambers, cinnamons and that fascinating greige tone, lime, sage, and chartruese green, the palest of yellows, and gold tones are a few of the colors used for these stunning dinner, and theater suits. The lavish handwork of sequins, steel, bronze, copper, gold, and silver beads, combined with lustrous silk floss for the embroidery are exquisite accents for high colored and neutral colors.

Sketched from one outstanding collection are four brilliant examples of dress parade suits in flattering color. They are part of one of the most exciting collections in Chicago.

Patterns by Clotilde

By Clotilde.

Girls in classes, women doing volunteer work, career gals, and busy women generally will appreciate the figure flattery and the utter comfort offered by simple, tailored clothes, such as these two designs.

One of the frocks is a soft version of the skirtmaker, with long, full sleeves captured into snug cuffs, with a simple rever collar line, and with a button panel from neck line to just below the hips. The skirt has moderate fullness. This is a dress which is as attractive in plain colors as it is in plaids, and fabric choices are many.

The other model is the time honored, never failing jumper, with a companion shirtwaist. This one does new things with buttons and "fake" pockets.

Style No. 3616 is designed for sizes 10 to 20. Size 16 requires, for jumper, 2 yards of 54 inch material with 2¼ yards of 39 inch fabric for blouse.

Style No. 3620 is designed for sizes 10 to 20. Size 16 requires 2⅜ yards of 54 inch material.

Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing.

Panama Canal.

The Panama canal was officially declared completed on July 12, 1920, and open to world traffic by President Woodrow Wilson.

Plan to Can Late Summer Garden Crops

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1943: By The Chicago Tribune.]

War gardens are yielding their last crops for the year. The fresh fruit and vegetable supplies from areas surrounding Chicago are thinning out.

Peaches, cantaloupes, pears, plums, apples, grapes, and tomatoes still may be made into pickles, jams, and relishes.

Spiced Peaches.

4 quarts whole peaches
1 pint cider vinegar
4 cups sugar
2 sticks cinnamon
Whole cloves

Dip peaches in boiling water, leave for a few seconds, then dip into cold water and slip off skins. Meanwhile, boil vinegar, sugar, and cinnamon together for five minutes. Press three or four whole cloves into each peach [if peaches are large ones, cut in halves]. Drop peaches, a few at a time, into the pickling sirup and simmer until barely tender. Do not overcook. Pack into sterilized jars, cover with boiling sirup, and seal. Cinnamon should be removed from sirup before canning peaches. The sticks may be used again. Do not throw them out as there'll be much good flavor left in them, and cinnamon now is difficult to get.

Cantaloupe Butter.

Use ripe fruit; cut in halves; remove rind. Cut into pieces and place in kettle with just enough water to keep them from scorching. Cover and cook until tender. Press thru a colander and measure pulp. To each quart of pulp add 1 cup sugar, the juice of ⅓ lemon, and ¼ teaspoon cinnamon. Cook until butter is thick enough to spread. Stir frequently to prevent scorching. Butter may be cooked in the oven. Spread it on a tray or in a pan and stir frequently as the moisture evaporates. Use 350 degree temperature.

Peach and Cantaloupe Conserve.

1 quart diced peaches
1 quart diced cantaloupe
6 cups sugar
4 lemons, juice, and grated rind
1½ cups English walnuts, blanched and chopped

Combine fruit with sugar and lemon juice. Cook in open kettle until thick and clear, stirring frequently. Be careful not to scorch or over-cook. Add nuts, pour into clean, hot jars, and seal.

Apple Chutney.

4 cup chopped green peppers
1 cup chopped red peppers
1 cup chopped onions
2 cups chopped tart apples
1 cup chopped green tomatoes
1 cup sugar
1 cup cider vinegar
2 teaspoons salt

Combine ingredients and cook for 30 minutes. Pack hot in sterile jars. Recipe may be doubled or tripled. As it is, it produces about 1½ pints of chutney.

Pickled Crab Apples.

Crab apples
1 quart cider vinegar
4 cups sugar
1 tablespoon whole cloves
1 tablespoon whole allspice
1 stick cinnamon
1 tablespoon blade mace

Use firm apples of even size. Wash them well and remove blossom ends, but leave stems. Boil vinegar with sugar and spices until sirup will coat a spoon. [Spices can be best handled by tying them loosely in a cheesecloth bag.] Add apples to sirup, not too many at a time, and reheat mixture slowly in order to prevent apple skins from bursting. Simmer gently until apples are tender. Pack them in clean, hot jars and cover with boiling sirup. Seal. Use same bag of spices with another batch of vinegar and sugar if you need more sirup.

Concord Grape Jelly.

Wash grapes and remove stems. Place in kettle with just enough water to keep them from scorching, 1 or 2 cups. Cover and heat until bubbling. Turn heat low and cook until grapes are soft. Place in a jelly bag and let drain overnight. Measure juice and into separate pan measure ¾ cup sugar for every cup of juice. Do not try to cook more than 2 quarts grape juice and sugar at one time, or there may be difficulty about obtaining the jelly test.

Heat grape juice to the boiling point, add sugar and boil until two drops of the sirup will run together on the side of a spoon and drop off in a "sheet." Be careful not to cook jelly beyond this point or it will be too heavy, and not tender in texture. It is a help to place a little of the sirup on a cold plate at intervals during boiling. When the drops begin to hold up, the jelly point probably has been reached.

A candy thermometer can also help to ascertain the jelly point, altho this is not a completely accurate test. When the jelly point has been reached the sirup will register 220 degrees in most cases.

Haym Salomon Auxiliary Meeting to Open Season

Members of Haym Salomon auxiliary of the B'nai B'rith lodge will meet at 8 o'clock Wednesday night in the Hamilton club. The meeting, opening the fall season, will be presided over by Mrs. Paul Wilk. Square dancing will be principal feature of the evening's entertainment, arranged by Mrs. Eve Lieb, program chairman.

Thru the Looking Glass

By Eleanor Nangle

Take it easy with those manicuring implements! Don't bear down with file, emery board or scissors. Shape the nails with light strokes; use persuasion rather than force on the cuticle, and never, never file the nails down close at the sides.

Faulty manicuring is responsible for more nail ills than the women of this world dream of. The good manicurist is a treasure, but like so many jewels in the crown of our civilian structure she is becoming something of a scarcity.

Don't be surprised and, above all, don't be infuriated if your beauty shop tells you that a manicure appointment is out of the question. Chances are that your vanished favorite is manicuring airplane wings or polishing shell cases, or, if she's still at the some old stand, that the tremendous increase in beauty shop business makes it impossible to fill all appointments.

There is no substitute for the good professional manicure, but in a pinch every woman with two hands and patience can take excellent care of her own nails. There is one fundamental that must be kept in mind. Don't be rough! Use every implement lightly, deftly. Don't prod or push or pick hard. Nails and their surrounding tissue are extremely delicate and the bruises acquired in helter-skelter manicuring can do more harm to the nails, over a period of time, than honest hard work ever did.

Use mild polish removers. File your nails when they are dry, never after soaking. Use an emery board rather than a file whenever you can. File lightly and don't file down too close at the sides. Let the nail grow up there and shape only the tip. This is the best secret of developing nail health that we know.

Soak the fingers after the shaping, using warm water. Then push the cuticle back. Cut as little as you can possibly get away with, operating on the theory that persuasion will accomplish much more than force. Use a cuticle remover, plus gentle scraping. Never use a pointed instrument either at the base or beneath the nail tip. A little tear in the flesh beneath the nail tip can be an irritant that wages war on your nerves and grooming for months on end.

If you have broad nails you can help them look slimmer by applying dark polish over the whole nail with just a hairline at the tip. Apply your polish ever so carefully so you don't have to "mop up" afterwards with remover.

The light touch, in every step of the manicure, is the secret of successful guardianship of the health of your nails. The good manicurist, homegrown or professional, is the one who handles her tools with a light hand.

According to Culbertson

By Ely Culbertson.

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

The success of many a contract is due solely to the fact that a defender, forced to choose between two evils, selects the greater rather than the lesser. That was the case in the following deal:

South, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ K 10 7 4 3 2
♥ Q 10 8 5
♦ Q 2
♣ K

WEST
♥ A K J 9 6
♦ K 10 9 7
♣ A Q 10 2

EAST
♥ 7 4 3 2
♦ 6 5 4 3
♣ 9 8 7 5 3

SOUTH
♠ A Q J 9 8 6 5
♦ A J 8
♣ J 6 4

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	2 spades	4 spades	Pass
Pass	4 no trump	Pass	5 clubs
5 spades	6 clubs	6 spades	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

No one can say that the bidding all around the table [except by poor East, who was pretty much out of it] lacked vigor! For one thing, North might well have turned from his offensive course to double West's six club bid. Had he done so, East would have found himself in quite a contract. However, North was probably well pleased with the result of his bidding, inasmuch as his own slam contract was fulfilled. The fact that it could not have been fulfilled except for West's coöperation was probably of no consequence to either North or South.

West opened the heart king and declarer ruffed. The astonishing holding of 13 trumps in the combined hands made trump drawing unnecessary, not to say redundant, hence at the second trick declarer led a low club toward the singleton king. West, of course, went up with the ace, but his exit play did not come so easily. After a protracted but unfortunately fruitless "huddle" West returned his lowest club. Obviously, he felt that this was the safest play; that if East held the club jack, the play could do no harm, and that even if South had that card, he would ruff the trick in dummy because he would fear that otherwise East might produce the club queen.

The declarer, however, was not to be put off so easily. He had recognized from the start that his slam contract was probably doomed, because, in addition to conceding the club ace, it was almost a certainty that he would also have to concede the diamond king—the bidding had made it all too plain that he could not depend on a diamond finesse. That being so, when West, after taking the club ace, returned a low club, declarer saw that he was being given the only real opportunity he was apt to have thruout the play. Therefore, instead of ruffing West's club return in dummy, he boldly discarded the diamond deuce and, to his great satisfaction, he was able to win the trick with the club jack. After that, of course, he could lay the hand down.

Admitting that West was in something of a dilemma at the third trick, it still is obvious that he selected one of the two worst ways out. Since South was marked with the diamond ace it was unthinkable that West should return a diamond, but the club return was almost equally illogical. East's five club bid had been anything but voluntary and therefore did not imply that he held the club jack. Declarer might very well have that card. If he did, he would welcome the chance to win with it, coincidentally getting rid of a diamond in dummy.

Apparently, because declarer had ruffed the opening heart lead, West gave no thought to continuing with hearts and allowing his ace to be ruffed away, but that is precisely what he should have done! This, of course, would have established one heart trick in dummy upon which South could discard, but [as West so easily should have recognized] what good would it do declarer to discard one diamond or one club from his own hand? The crucial point for West was to guard against dummy's discard of a diamond.

The Stamp Collector

By Richard McP. Cabeen

Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps, but not value. The column in this page contains offers to buy and sell. Include a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

France is the next in the list of "overrun countries" to be honored by a stamp and the seventh of the series will bear the flag of that country and will be placed on sale at the Washington, D. C., postoffice on Sept. 28, 1943.

Collectors who desire first day postmarks on covers bearing this stamp may send not to exceed 10 addressed envelopes, together with a cash or postal money order remittance to cover the exact cost of the stamps to be affixed, to Postmaster, Washington 13, D. C. Other stamps and personal checks are not accepted in payment. Each cover should bear a pencil notation stating how many stamps are to be affixed to the cover and the inclosing wrapper should be indorsed, "First day cover service, France stamp."

Collectors are cautioned not to combine orders for covers bearing different stamps, as this may result in a double order of the first variety issued. The postmaster at Washington cannot fill orders for unused stamps, and collectors who desire stamps in selected mint condition should order from the Philatelic agency, postoffice department, Washington 25, D. C., where they will be placed on sale on Sept. 28, also. The Philatelic agency will not service first day covers.

Tunisia has commemorated the ousting of the axis forces by issuing a stamp bearing the heads of English, American and French sodliers, and the inscription "Liberation de la Tunisie." This stamp is a semi-postal issue and sells for 10 francs, of which 1f 50c represents the postage and the remainder is assigned to some charitable undertaking. The stamp is printed in dull red.

Turkey has recently released an issue containing 20 values from 25k to 200k. The designs are pictorial or portrait and show Ataturk and President Ismet Inonu, as well as principal scenes of the country.

Each year thousands of timid young women, who never have been told certain facts, enter marriage completely uninformed. In this dilemma, what is the young wife to do? Because of natural shyness or lack of confidence in the knowledge of friends, she hesitates to seek the advice of others. Too often she either places her dependence on weak, ineffective "home-made" mixtures; or resorts to over-strong solutions of acids for the douche which can actually burn, scar and even desensitize delicate tissue.

Today such risks are needless. Science has given womankind a safe—yet amazingly powerful liquid for the douche, Zonite. So powerful is Zonite, that it kills immediately all germs and bacteria with which it comes in contact. Deodorizes—by actually destroying odors, leaving no tell-tale odor of its own. Protects personal daintiness. Yet! Zonite is non-caustic, non-poisonous, safe for delicate tissues. Over 20,000,000 bottles already bought. For modern hygienic protection you may never have known before, get Zonite at your druggist today.

• Now, at home, you can quickly and easily tint telltale streaks of gray to natural-appearing shades—from lightest blonde to darkest black. Brownatone and a small brush does it—or your money back. Used for 30 years by thousands of women (men, too)—Brownatone is guaranteed harmless. No skin test needed, active coloring agent is purely vegetable. Cannot affect waving of hair. Lasting—does not wash out. Just brush or comb it in. One application imparts desired color. Simply retouch as new gray appears. Easy to prove by tinting a test lock of your hair. 60c and $1.65 (5 times as much) at drug or toilet counters on a money-back guarantee. Ask for BROWNATONE. Get it today.

Have a Fairer Complexion with the Aid of Mercolized Wax Cream

A LIGHTER, lovelier complexion is obscured by the dull, drab, faded outer layer of your skin. Flake off this unsightly cuticle in tiny, invisible particles by using Mercolized Wax Cream, the Skin Bleach and Beautifier, according to directions.

Mercolized Wax Cream, a famous cosmetic for nearly thirty years, has helped thousands of women to realize the beauty possibilities of their complexions. Get a jar now. Start using it tonight to impart a fresher, fairer skin appearance.

USE SAXOLITE ASTRINGENT—for Skin Freshness. As a quick freshener between a hectic day and a gala evening, try tingling Saxolite Astringent. Your skin will feel cooler, fresher, daintier. Saxolite reduces excess surface oil, tightens skin tissue by temporary contraction, and leaves the skin feeling delightfully refreshed. Just dissolve one ounce Saxolite in a half pint witch hazel and use daily.

PHELACTINE DEPILATORY—Takes Hair Off Face. Embarrassing facial hair can be removed quickly and easily with Phelactine Depilatory. Apply it in a few seconds then flick it off and see the hair come out from beneath the surface. Not a cream or powder. Has no offensive odor. Try Phelactine today.

Fashions . . . . By Angela

Now that the juniors are accounted for, it is time to consider the wardrobes of the small fry. Warm winter coats are the most important item on their bill of fare.

The little toddler miss from 1 to 4 marches forth in a bright red wool coat, sketched top, with matching leggings. The coat has a fly front buttoning but is trimmed with three bright green wings across the front. The high round collar has three rows of stitching to match the wings. A matching red felt hat is sold separately.

An ideal coat for the boy from 2 to 6, who wants a coat "like daddy's," is of blue wool with a deep fleecy pile, sketched second. It has a regulation man tailored fly front, slash pockets, a durable suede-like lining and matching helmet. The leggings are a story in themselves. They have no zipper but a deep, closed inverted plait keeps out all snow and slush, and is reinforced with leather fastenings for the closing. These are interlined and have adjustable suspenders.

Chesterfields invade the field of coats for girls from 3 to 6½. Bright red wool shetland is contrasted with navy blue velvet on the collar and the buttons. The matching leggings are interlined. The red felt hat with a delectable feather matches the coat but is sold separately.

• • •

A boy's winter coat of the sports type created of a rich herringbone tweed is lined with vivid plaid. Matching leggings and cap complete the ensemble. The coat is double breasted and is fastened with four wooden buttons. It is available in sizes from 2 to 6, and in shades of brown, green and blue gray.

A good looking officer's coat is a popular choice for the girls of 3 to 6½. It is a double breasted dress coat of warm wool fleece, having a sturdy interlining and good looking lining. The leggings are lined and fasten securely. The red felt derby is sold separately but matches exactly the color of the coat.

A nice kit which contains all you need to mend a broken piece of china is available for repair work of vases, cups, and dishes. . . . In this kit you not only have the filler to hold pieces together, but a waterproof glaze to apply when the work is done, and keep filler secure. . . . If this piece to be mended is of particular value, but some some part is missing, the same filler can be used to fill in empty cavity. . . . In case china is not white the mended spot can be blended to match the whole by use of a paint, watercolor or oil.

Gay Dutch Girl Doll

By Jean Macdonald

Needlework is the field of ingenuity and this pretty homemade Dutch girl is an outstanding example. Created from a pair of discarded socks and scraps from the rag bag, there emerges a lovable little girl, a companion piece to the little Dutch boy, No. 880. The pattern includes instructions for making the body of the doll and the clothes.

For the pattern of the Dutch girl, No. 881, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Understanding Parent Usually Good Teacher

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

I often have a young visitor or two whom I enjoy very much, and I am reminded the world is full of interest for them. Kittens, baby birds, the soap shaker in our kitchen, shopping in the village, holding the puppy's leash, putting my little sewing box in order, and dozens of other details of every day absorb them.

I'm still surprised whenever I hear mothers talk of being bothered by their small children—of not being able to keep them amused and happily occupied. I don't know anything easier in the world to do than to keep a little runabout child contented. Their world of interest lies within such a small compass, and the littlest thing is an adventure or a novelty to them.

Of course you can't plank them down in a room by themselves and expect them to play in solitary felicity while you go about your affairs finding [I half suspect] more interest in your housework or whatever else it may be than in your little son or daughter.

No small child likes that—and it is natural that he shouldn't. He needs companionship; he needs intest; he needs the small things of his world explained, interpreted, and talked about. He wants to share his experiences; he needs "give and take."

For example, the baby boy comes staggering thru the grass. Catbirds and bluejays flutter in the cherry trees; they stab at the cherries. The chipmunk slips smoothly across the grass and runs up the trunk to reap his own harvest and pack his little cheeks full. The small chap sees all that well enough with his eyes.

But let his mother join him, talk about the red cherries, hold her hands cupped while he gathers them delicately one by one, imitating her in his way. Let her look up with him at the branches rustling with the eager feasting birds, and talk about them, and it all gains in significance to him.

Sharing all this, discussing it, gives it all more meaning, and surely makes him keener in observation and more aware of the lovely natural world of the moment. The small child really cannot meet the world alone. He needs its objects and his experiences actually named, as well as shared, translated and interpreted.

This doesn't mean that your child can't or shouldn't ever play contentedly alone. Far from it. In fact, paradoxical as it may seem, the little boy or girl who has no interest and companionship shown him is the very one who is always crying or "tagging" his mother every moment of the day, while the child who feels the security that comes with interest and a sense of his mother's enjoying him is the one who can play alone in deep absorption for long stretches of time, not needing, you see, to struggle for attention.

I don't know just how to give the clue to those mothers who tell me in a dozen ways how annoyed they constantly are with their small children. But perhaps the clue is, after all, a simple but a fundamental one: The one of feeling.

If you feel the right way toward your little into-everything son or daughter you'll act pretty nearly right and these other difficulties won't overwhelm you.

Crocheted Accessories

By Ellen Bruce

A crocheted sweater and cap is an easily fashioned outfit for the miss from 2 to 4. The sweater is a slip-on type and the cap is crocheted in a shell stitch, trimmed with tassels, and a scalloped edging.

For instructions in crocheting the sweater and cap, No. 876, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Pioneer Women's Club Plans to Hold All-Day Meeting

An all-day conference next Sunday in the Morrison hotel will open the fall season for the Pioneer Women's organization, a society to aid the working women of Palestine. The meeting, convening at 10 o'clock, will be conducted by Mrs. Miriam Gingold, who also will give an over-all report on five major projects to which the organization gives financial support.

Committee chairmen reporting at the morning session will be Mrs. Anna Siegel, United States war activities; Mrs. Rubin Rubell, child rescue fund; Mrs. Israel Marcus, Jewish national fund; Mrs. Sam Diamond, Moatzoth Hapoaloth; Mrs. Leon Lucatsky, Geverkshafien' campaign, and Mrs. S. Rosen, finance.

In the afternoon Mrs. Barney Spear will discuss organizational problems, Mrs. Ben Weissman will report on the cultural work sponsored in previous years and plans for the season, and Mrs. Jack Jacklin will present a budget.

Mollie Clark Engaged to Dr. P. H. Pleiss

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Clark of 2310 West Arthur avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Mollie, to Dr. Phillip H. Pleiss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anton F. Pleiss of Park Ridge. Miss Clark was graduated from the Marywood School for Girls and St. Mary's of the Woods college. Dr. Pleiss, a graduate of the Loyola university school of medicine, is completing his internship at St. Francis hospital in Evanston.

Alice Bergstrom to Wed Lt. Hugh Ramsay Moore

At a recent luncheon at the North Shore Country club in Neenah, Wis., Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Bergstrom of Neenah announced the engagement of their daughter, Alice Perry, to Lt. Hugh Ramsay Moore, U. S. M. C., son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Moore of Oshkosh, Wis.

Home Owners' Queries

Oshkosh, Wis.—[To The Home Owners' Editor]—The bricks in my fireplace are a hopelessly uninteresting red. Or perhaps we are just tired of them. What can we do?

K. M.

Answer: Why don't you take a nice flat paint and paint them white or ivory, to match your woodwork? It might be possible that black would go with your color scheme. You will know best about that.

• • •

Chicago—[To the Home Owners' Editor]—Just how can tar be removed from a pair of slacks of washable material? Mrs. D.

Answer: Take some lard and rub on the spot. Scrape off when it begins to get discolored and apply more. Continue until lard is no longer colored by tar. Then use heavy suds to launder spot.

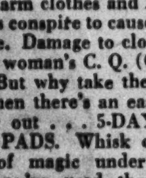
BUY-LINES • by Nancy Sasser

A Weekly Sponsored Column of Things Advertised and Interesting.

New York, Sept. 12th. Last Sunday, this column celebrated its second birthday : . . after two years of bringing news of nationally advertised products to newspaper pages from coast to coast. Many of you took the trouble to sit down and write friendly little notes . . . telling your experiences with products featured in BUY-LINES and requesting information on other subjects. I won't try to thank you for this . . . rather, I'll ask you a question. Have you ever recommended some product, a recipe, a treasured beauty secret to a friend . . . and then enjoyed the reward from her pleasure in sharing it? Then you already know how much I appreciate hearing from you! And now to a report on new BUY-LINES . . . and on brand new uses for old favorites!

The essential beauty of Sterling Silver has made it a bride's first dream! So—if you're a bride-to-be—DON'T let shortage talk frighten you into believing you'll have to wait until later for this "very first" permanent and precious possession in your post-war home! Even in war time there are the seven most-used pieces in 12 lovely TOWLE Sterling patterns from which to choose YOURS! . . . they're the BASIC pieces to start your sterling set with essential place settings. For completing your set quickly in peace time—ask your Jeweler for the specially designed War Bond Plan envelope which bears a Priority Number so you won't have to wait too long for your precious TOWLE Sterling. Keep your War Bonds there "earmarked" for your chosen TOWLE pattern after the war. Ask your Jeweler about this marvelous TOWLE Bond Plan . . . and see the beautiful TOWLE-Sterling patterns while you're there. Craft traditions of TOWLE Sterling, you know, go back to the master silversmith of 1690 . . . and the high standards of quality maintained through the years mean a lot to you and to your OWN TOWLE Sterling!

Yes, this lady DOES look forlorn . . . and no wonder, for she's known as the Ugly Duckling in her set! Why? . . . there may be many a good reason—but one bet is that she's not TOO particular about personal fastidiousness! That's bad, any time . . . but in the Fall it's AWFUL. Warm clothes and Indian summer days conspire to cause plenty of damage. Damage to clothes—damage to a woman's C. Q. (Charm Quotient). But why take these undue risks when there's an easy, delightful way out . . . 5-DAY UNDER ARM PADS. Whisk one of these bits of magic under your arms and you've used the most effective means known for the prevention of under-arm perspiration and odor. Try 5-DAY UNDER ARM PADS. I know you'll like them. The cost is just 55c a jar at any department or drug store. Get into the "5-DAY" habit TODAY . . . and gain new confidence!



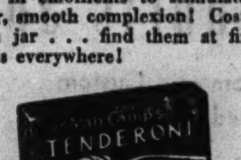
How about making a smoking checkup? Get a package of VICEROYS and notice how the unique filter tip keeps crumbs of tobacco out of the mouth. Also, the outer tipping keeps the cigarette firm and dry . . . doesn't spoil your lip make-up. Now put the cigarette out, tear open the filter tip, and examine the minute folds of paper which are stained brownish with the irritants that have been filtered out of the mild, clean smoke you've just enjoyed! That's why fastidious women prefer VICEROY . . . relaxing, stimulating, fragrant and enjoyable . . . blended from fine quality tobaccos that appeal to you and the man in the family. Ask your Tobacconist for VICEROYS and be thankful this smart cigarette is popular priced!

When ONE RUB does the work of THREE . . . why spend this extra time and effort on cleaning silver? SILVO Silver Polish can cut silver cleaning time down one-third . . . and take the messiness right out of this chore, too! That's because SILVO is a LIQUID Silver Polish . . . as tender to your lovely hands as it is to lustrous silver! Contains no acids, mercury or harsh abrasives . . . and because it is a LIQUID, it gets right down into the tiniest crevices of the most intricate chasing and silver filigree work. Washing after cleaning is unnecessary—for SILVO leaves behind no ugly chalky deposits. Even the odor of SILVO is pleasing. Extremely low priced for 25c at Department stores. Ask for it . . . safe, easy to use and won't scratch or stain either your hands or precious silver!

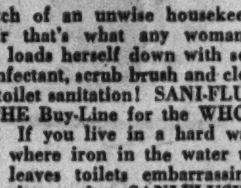
BUY-LINES' readers are all clamoring for the SECOND Swan Baby Picture! You can have it too! Just write your name and address on a penny postal and mail to Nancy Sasser, Box 59, New York, N. Y. . . . and a FULL COLOR 12x15 reproduction of the painting will be sent you FREE by the makers of SWAN SOAP. This ready-bordered print for nursery, bedroom, bath or kitchen wall is even more adorable than the first SWAN picture. Done in pastel blues, greens, pinks and yellows, it shows Mama Swan sudsing one baby while the rest of her 26 chubby tots tumble in and around their big, blue, baby-shoe-house! It's Mama Swan's happy version of "The Old Woman Who Lived in the Shoe." You'll love this FREE gift for yourself or to give to some child you want to make happy. Send for it TODAY!

A Yardley Complexion...

This expression is a compliment unto itself! Clear, fine-textured, smoothly finished in the best "thoroughbred" manner! So try the helps toward it! English Complexion Cream, pure as country cream and as soothing soft, is just right for keeping young and normal skins scrupulously clean. For dry skins that have a tendency to tired, drawn lines, YARDLEY Dry Skin Cleansing Cream is best because it is compounded to soften, lubricate and coax dry complexions back to dewy freshness. Use YARDLEY Night Cream ALWAYS . . . rich in emollients to stimulate a clear, smooth complexion! Cost is $1 a jar . . . find them at finer shops everywhere!



When you plan your week's meals of vegetables, meat and cheese dishes—let Van Camp's TENDERONI help out in making them go further, save time and give more delicious enjoyment and healthful nourishment to the family! You'll be perfectly amazed at how this UNrationed treat can keep war time meals UP in flavor and DOWN in cost! TENDERONI is processed with egg white—the same ingredient that keeps an angel-food cake white, light and fluffy. That's just what happens in TENDERONI . . . light, white, tender and fluffy walls that cook in only 7 minutes and NEVER become doughy! TENDERONI is as different from ordinary macaroni and spaghetti as an angel-food cake is from a loaf of bread . . . so try it in combination with vegetables, meat and cheese. Remember, NO ration points are required for this different, delicious and easy-to-prepare food!



Sketch of an unwise housekeeper—for that's what any woman is who loads herself down with soap, disinfectant, scrub brush and cloths for toilet sanitation! SANI-FLUSH is THE Buy-Line for the WHOLE job! If you live in a hard water area where iron in the water usually leaves toilets embarrassingly stained . . . then SANI-FLUSH is a MUST! It works chemically to loosen the most recalcitrant stains . . . with no bother of scrubbing! Just shake SANI-FLUSH into toilet bowls twice a week. Remember that it removes the recurring film where toilet germs and a cause of toilet odors lie. Most every shop carries SANI-FLUSH . . . but DON'T confuse it with ordinary cleansers for other purposes. Remember that SANI-FLUSH does an all-in-one toilet sanitation job! Follow the directions . . . you don't even need a disinfectant!

Another reminder of how to make your next letter to a serviceman or woman something special . . . slip in a Fleet's CHAP STICK! Even if you've sent one before—another one may be needed now . . . for this handy guard against sore, chapped, weather-parched lips is used regularly by our armed forces in all sorts of weather, and in all parts of the world! Cost is just 25c at Drug Stores . . . makes a GRAND, thoughtful and needed gift . . . slips right into a letter! Remember YOU and the family need Fleet's CHAP STICK too . . . lip protection against summer heat, dryness and dust!

Yes—here's a shampoo that TINTS hair AS it washes! Think of what this means . . . an easy way to add that dramatic touch of color so necessary to hair that's dull, faded or beginning to show gray! TINTZ SHAMPOO comes in the form of a little soap cake in black, dark, medium or light brown, auburn or blonde. It lathers on like a regular shampoo, should be left on 15 minutes and then rinsed out. Each TINTZ Shampoo helps darken hair to the shade you covet . . . is SAFE to use, for only Government certified colors are used. Cost of TINTZ SHAMPOO is just 50c a cake—at Department Stores—Walgreen's, Liggett's and Stineway's.

For years and years many stage and screen stars have used Angelus Face Poudre from The House of LOUIS PHILIPPE. And you're sure to discover one good reason why they prefer it after you've used this fine powder only once. "Clingability" is my word for it . . . the special quality of giving a lovely, petal-like smoothness and finish to the complexion for hours! You'll like the shades, too . . . seven of them matched to individual complexion types. Cost of the famous face powder from The House of LOUIS PHILIPPE is just 49c . . . comes in pretty red and gold dressing table boxes at your favorite cosmetic counter!

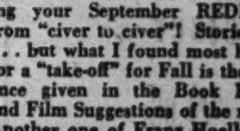
Have you taken my advice about using EDNA WALLACE HOPPER'S White Clay Pack once a week? W-e-l-l . . . wasn't I right? Keep up the good work and see if you don't face Fall with a complexion that seems more blushingly lovely than ever before! Reason is, that HOPPER'S fragrant cream-like pack is active in cleaning away "top-skin" debris and faded cells so that the finer textured, firmer, fresher skin below can claim full rewards for its beauty! Ask for EDNA WALLACE HOPPER'S White Clay Pack at Cosmetic Counters . . . spread on face and throat for quick beauty "pick-ups" and as a regular once-a-week beauty routine for a more alive and radiant skin loveliness!



Just a reminder NOT to miss reading your September REDBOOK from "civer to civer"! Stories, yes, . . . but what I found most helpful for a "take-off" for Fall is the guidance given in the Book Record and Film Suggestions of the month. Another one of Franz Hoellering's accounts of a Nazi soldier (the series that has created so much comment everywhere) appears in this SEPTEMBER REDBOOK . . . don't miss reading it!
